

MAY 2025 – Seattle TALKING POINTS

Based on Residential only reports

Inventory Growth Continues to Shape the Market

Active inventory at the end of May reached 1,370 homes, the highest month-end level since June 2019.

- This figure is 44% higher than May 2024 (949) and
- 67% higher than just two months ago in March 2025 (821).

While inventory has grown significantly, buyer demand has held relatively steady:

- Pending sales year-to-date through May are up 2%, or 61 homes (2,988 in 2025 vs 2,927 in 2024).
- Closed sales year-to-date are down 4%, or 87 homes (2,245 in 2025 vs 2,332 in 2024).

This indicates that while more homes are for sale, buyer activity is not far off from last year's levels.

Pricing Trends

The median closed sale price in May 2025 was $1,010,650, a 5% increase compared to May 2024 ($965,000).

- For note of long-term appreciation: the median sales price in May 2015 was $559,950 (just less than 200% appreciation over 10 years).

A Balanced Market

With a 2.0 months' supply of inventory, the market is now in a balanced range, offering more choices which can create room to negotiate on price.

One broker summed it up perfectly:

- "It's a beauty contest and a price war—you have to win both to sell your home."
- That same broker noted sellers are faced with three "R" options:
Reduce (price), Relax (and wait), or Release (the listing).

With the change from a seller favored market, sellers, buyers and brokers need to use different strategies:

Recommendations for Sellers & Listing Agents

Show weekly data trends to sellers.

- Use reports like the King RESIDENTIAL Weeks Supply from 04/23/25–06/04/25 to demonstrate current conditions. Use prior period comparisons (e.g., 02/26/25–04/09/25) to highlight how fast inventory has grown.
- Price at the low end of the value range, based on active competition.
- Hold open houses to maximize exposure.
- Don't rush to drop the list price. Evaluate activity from buyers and other listings post-launch first.
- Offer buyer credits (via the BBC) to help cover closing costs and spark excitement.
- Leverage Windermere's brand—the yard sign still matters, especially in a crowded market.
- Tour the active inventory and your listing with your sellers, with buyer's eyes.
- Work with all offers, even low ones—counter until common ground is found.

This market rewards agents and sellers who lead with data, strategy, and experience. Consistent branding, local knowledge, and disciplined pricing are more important than ever.

Recommendations for Buyers and Buyers' Brokers

Today's environment also calls for a different approach on the buy side:

- Fear of missing out has lessened. Continue with a calm, strategic mindset.
- Educate buyers on the nuances of the market (price points, house style, etc.). For example, Condos and townhouses see different demand than single family homes.
- Help buyers prepare for a strategic offer strategy, knowing the competitiveness changes for each home.
  - Understand and help buyers know which contingencies to include when not competing and provide clarity on the inspection process.
- Encourage patience. When the right home appears, write the offer—even if it's below asking.
  - Set clear expectations: Lower offers often mean more negotiation. Be ready to guide clients through multiple counters.

Updated post from March 2025 Seattle Talking Points:

Following past seasonal trends and under current economic strain, we anticipate home prices to soften over the remainder of 2025. With buyer fatigue growing and affordability stretched, a market correction—similar to prior mid-to-late year adjustments—is increasingly likely.
