Spot the Spots! Treating Persistent Cardiovascular Risk to Optimize Vascular Protection

Speaker: Dr. Nate Moulson MD, FRCPC

Clinical Assistant Professor of Cardiology, UBC

Medical Director, CardioRisk
Clinic, VGH

Assoc. Medical Director, Sports
Cardiology, BC

Learning Objectives:

Describe recent research showing that despite optimal LDL- C lowering in patients with ASCVD and those with diabetes and additional CV risk factors, persistent cardiovascular risk can remain

Identify patients in your practice whose triglyceride levels indicate that they have persistent CV risk despite optimal LDL-C lowering with statin therapy.

Apply updated Canadian Cardiovascular Society guideline recommendations on the use of non-LDL-lowering therapies for vascular protection in these patients.
