

Pronouncement

Encourage Each Other

Bride and Groom, may all that you are always be in love. May your connection be as pure on each day you share as it is today, on this day of celebration, and may each day you share be as precious to you both as the day you first fell in love. Our hope is that you're able to look back on your lives when you're old to see that you gave your love and marriage the best that you had, that you were grateful for all of life's experiences, both good and bad, knowing that the toughest times can be our best teachers. May you always see and encourage the best in each other, so that the challenges life brings your way make your marriage even stronger. May you always be each other's best friend and greatest love. You are now as your hearts have always known you to be, husband and wife.

Groom, kiss your beautiful bride!

Ladies and gentlemen please rise as I introduce for the first time ever, Mr. and Mrs. _____!

Acknowledgment of your Vows

Bride and Groom, the vows that you've both just taken to pledge love, mean far more than words ever can. May their spirit and meaning continue to inspire you. For the rest of your lives, when your marriage is on a roll and things are great, reinforce it privately by saying to yourself, "This is just a glimpse of how good it could be all the time." Then outwardly reinforce it by acting in a way that ensures each other that you're loved. May your years together fulfill the beauty and the feelings you've expressed to each other today. May you be happy, healthy and wealthy, and may you always put your vows above the less meaningful things in life, which is just about everything.

You are now as your hearts have always known you to be, husband and wife.

Groom, kiss your beautiful bride!

Ladies and gentlemen please rise as I introduce for the first time ever, Mr. and Mrs. _____!

Community Pronouncement

(red punctuation indicates where I pause for guests to repeat after me)

This is a special moment for Bride and Groom, but it's also a special moment for you who've gathered here with them. It's with you that they've chosen to share their joy in having found one another. You're all here to send them off into the next chapter of their lives so in recognition of this sharing, you and I are going to marry-off Bride and Groom together. I'll say their pronouncement one line at a time and then you all please repeat after me, and then we all get to yell,

"Kiss the bride!" Are you ready? Please repeat after me:

We have gathered, to celebrate your love. May your life be joyful, and blessed with affection.

We now pronounce you husband and wife. Kiss the bride!

Ladies and gentlemen please rise as I introduce for the first time ever, Mr. and Mrs. _____!

Faith-Based

Bride and Groom, you're about to unite as husband and wife and fully commit to each other.

You've shown your love and affection by joining hands and have made promises of faith and devotion to each other. You've also sealed those promises by giving the other a ring. Continue to cherish each other as teammates and as unique individuals. Continue to respect the thoughts, ideas and suggestions of the other. Practice the art of forgiveness. Live each day knowing that you truly have created a home and refuge. Now because you've chosen one another and pledged to love each other for all the days of your lives, before God and before this loving community of your family and friends, it gives me great pleasure to pronounce you husband and wife.

Groom, kiss your beautiful bride!

Ladies and gentlemen please rise as I introduce for the first time ever, Mr. and Mrs. _____!

