DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Now, I submit that for some delegates this might be an overriding consideration, and I don't think it ought to be. I don't think any of these articles are sacred. I think that any of them can be considered again, as many times as we want todoit, aslongaswewant to stay here; and I don't think that we should beso insecure about some little thing that we've got locked away in some article that we're afraid that this body might open it up and take it out of there. So, I would speak in favor of the motion to delete and take it from there.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Martin.

DELEGATE MARTIN: I speak in favor of Delegate Harper's motion to delete, but for a different reason, and that was the original reason that Delegate Harper talked about. Section 4 says that the people may enact laws by initiative on all matters except appropriations, and then we turn around and have an amendment: "The highway revenue provided for in Article blank, Section 6, shall nevertheless be subject to appropriation by initiative". Do we mean what we said in the first sentence, or are we going to change that? I think we ought to get-delete this and go from there.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of Delegate Harper's motion to delete, and I think that the Constitutional Convention delegates in 1889 stated so simply what we've attempted to state when they said that the people reserve to themselves power to propose laws and to enact or reject the same at the polls, except as to laws relating to appropriations of money. Now, this is what we intended in our Legislative Committee when we considered the initiative and the referendum, and I think this is what was intended by Delegate Etchart's committee, and I think that the intentions of the Finance Committee was-the intention was honorable, and I think it's a matter of semantics and the words "by initiated measure" are the words that are causing us all this difficulty. I remember discussing this on the floor. It didn't seem to create much difficulty then, because the intention was expressed. Perhaps the committee-the Revenue and Finance Committee-could reword this particular phrase, this section, so that we would not have this difficulty. They're not talking about appropriations, and I think that that's clear; if only they could express it in a clear manner, there would be no problem if we follow Delegate Harper's advice and delete this reference in this particular article.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Choate.

DELEGATE CHOATE: Mr. Chairman, it might be worth pointing out that in the rationale on the Revenue Committee's Proposal Number 7, when they come to a discussion of this particular subject, the only thing they refer to there is the diversion of it by the Legislative Assembly. There's no mention made in their rationale as to initiative. It says: "The proposed section permits diversion of earmarked funds to other purposes if each house of the Legislative Assembly, by a three-fifths majority, approves such expenditure." In other words, the primary responsibility for review, assessment and, eventually, allocation of highway funds rests with the Legislature. That body is free to change the earmark. That's all it says. So that the record in this instance, in their report, is not very clear as to the initiative end of it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Rygg.

DELEGATE RYGG: In reference to that, I agree that you're right, but it does say there, and eventually allocation of highway funds rests with the Legislature. So if you take that one, really that would supersede any mention of the initiative, because we do say here that it rests with the Legislature, so while we haven't said it in the words you say, I do believe we say it with that one sentence.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Dahood.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: Mr. Chairman, I think we're all after the same objective. Right now we're stumbling over procedural blocks, and it may well be that I'm going to be ruled out of order, but at this time, I move that the rules be suspended for one purpose and one purpose only: to determine whether or not the words from Revenue and Finance reading "or by initiated measure approved by a majority of the qualified voters" should be deleted. I so move.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, before the Chair rules on your motion, Mr. Dahood, the Chair wants to make a couple of inquiries.

Mr. McDonough, you did some of the drafting in Revenue and Finance. Can you put together language which would-Mr. Rygg and you-Mr. Rygg has explained what the committee meant. Can you put into language that can be put into Section 6 what the committee meant?

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: Yes, sir.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: In other words, you can do that?

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: I think we can, but we'll open up all of subsection 2. But I think it's-we can put in language to the effect that it may be appropriated by the Legislature for other purposes by a three-fifths vote or the people, by initiative, can authorize the Legislature to appropriate money to other purposes, which means, then, that if by initiative-the-if the initiative passes, the Legislature can appropriate money to other purposes, then, by a majority vote. Is that-1 think that's what the intention of the committee was by this language.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz, do you have a comment?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I have a comment, Mr. Chairman. I havedifficulty between the words "require" and "authorize". I think if the people took this action, they would be requiring the Legislature. I would propose that if that-if Mr. Dahood's motion prevails and we do undertake this amendment, that after the word "electorate", we add the words "require the Legislature to appropriate" and then strike "may be appropriated" on-after that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I don't know where you're amending. Are you in General Government or Judiciary?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No, I'm in-No, I'm in Revenue and Finance—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I mean Revenue and Finance. Allright, would you explain that again?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: -in Helena, Montana. After the word "electorate" in that Section 2, add the words "require the Legislature to—"

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: After the word "electors"?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I guess I'm in the original section and not the right one.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I'm using the one you've already corrected for me, Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I know, but I couldn't find that one.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I guess we're both in trouble.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I think after the word "electors"-somebody has it here-all right-Oh, I am in trouble, aren't I? I'd better sign off for a minute.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, I think you'd better. Mr. Dahood, the Chair's problem-I see your problem, and I'm willing to try and work it out here, and I agree with Mr. Habedank that it's-it would be easier to work it out. The Chair is-1 want to be cautious on opening up Section 6, sub. 2, and so the Chair is interested, if possible, in opening it up in the most restrictive way possible. I don't want a 4-hour debate on antidiversion this afternoon if I can help it, so the Chair would defer to Mr. Rygg or Mr. McDonough, if either of them cared to make a motion to suspend the rules for the specific purpose of replacing certain language with other language. Now, when that's been done, if they'll do it, if you want to try and make it wider than that, you can. But, in other words, I would like to take the narrowest version first, and then if others don't like that, they'll have to widen it and they'll have to get a majority to go with them.

Mr. Furlong, for what purpose do you rise?

DELEGATE FURLONG: Mr. Chairman, to ask a question.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, ask it.

DELEGATE FURLONG: If the body has accepted the intent of the Revenue and Finance Committee as it has been expressed here-and apparently they have, at least twice-my question is, cannot Style and Drafting actually then incorporate the intent of Revenue and Finance with. out really making a substantive change?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I think that the thing has gone so far and there's so much question about what the real intent is that we'd better either clear it up by language or agree not to clear it up. The Chair would entertain a motion, to get at this, from the Revenue and Finance Committee, either Mr. Rygg or Mr. McDonough, that would suggest suspension of the rules for the specific purpose of deleting certain language from 6, sub. 2, and putting other language into 6, sub. 2, which language you would state. Now, if that— that's the narrowest I can conceive it. Then, if somebody wants to move to make it broader, why, we maybe can-maybe they can do that.

Mr. McDonough, do you understand me? Mr. McDonough-

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: Mr. President. I'm not sure I can make it at this time, though-to put the specific additional wording in. Well, I move that we suspend the rules for the specific and limited purposes-purpose only of reconsidering subsection 2 of Section 6 of the Revenue and Finance Article; such limited and specific purposes being striking the last 12 words from said subsection 2—

UNIDENTIFIED DELEGATE: Period.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, the Chair won't accept it if he says "period", because then he's changed the meaning of the committee.

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: No, I didn't say "period" yet.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I hear a lot of help. Mr. McDonough has the floor.

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: -and substitute in lieu thereof "or by initiated measure approved by a majority of the qualified electors, require the Legislature to appropriate such revenue-"

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "Or by initiative measure approve by a majority of the electors" require what?

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: "-the Legislature to appropriate such revenue for other purposes." Could I restate the motion?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes.

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: Mr. President, I move that we suspend the rules for the limited and specific purpose only of adding to subsection 2 of Section 6 of the Revenue and Finance Article, after deleting the period, "require the Legislature to appropriate such revenue for other purposes".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, now, the Chair understands the situation to be this. Why don't you listen till we've got it stated; then we'll discuss it. At present, the subsection 2 of Section 6 of Revenue and Finance says: "Such revenue may be appropriated for other purposes by a three-fifths vote of the member of the house of each Legislature or by initiated measure approved by the majority of the qualified voters." Now, the Revenue and Finance Committee proposes to add the words--add a comma and say "to require"--or "requiring the Legislature to appropriate such revenue for other purposes". The purpose of this amendment would be to make clear what the Revenue and Finance Committee meant; namely, that the initiative could require the Legislature to utilize highway funds but that it could not determine how they were to be appropriated or in what amounts. It merely would require the Legislature to go ahead and use the three-the highway funds. In other words, it limits the initiative measure to directing the Legislature to break the nondiversion, but it does not tell the Legislature in what measure or what nature to do that. Is that-have I correctly characterized your amendment? Yes?

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: One more check.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Furlong, I have correctly characterized your amendment? This amendment?

DELEGATE FURLONG: Yes, but in some of your comments, I think perhaps you went a little far when you said that-In other words, let me state it this way. I think the people at any time, under this section, by initiative-if you carry out the intent of the Revenue-would be that they may, in fact, direct the Legislature by the initiative for a specific purpose, because—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: They can direct the breaking of the nondiversion for a purpose, but they can't appropriate—

DELEGATE FURLONG: Right. I agree.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -the money or decide the amounts and so forth, right?

DELEGATE FURLONG: Yes, but I felt

you were limiting it, that they could just tell them "you can now divert" and give them no other direction. I would think that initiative could give a specific direction to the kind of diversion that it had in mind.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. And in this sense, the initiative that the Revenue and Finance Committee proposes is not an appropriation initiative; it's just an initiative directing the Legislature that it can break the nondiversion rule. Now, if everybody understands that, that's the purpose of Mr. McDonough's amendment to clarify the language of the Revenue and Finance Commission's-Committee's meaning on Section 6, sub. 2. Now, for that purpose--and we don't have to do-we don't have to strike the 12 words; we use the 12 words and continue to explain them. For that purpose, the Chair will allow Mr. McDonough's rule to suspend the rules.

I take it, Mr. McDonough, that if you are successful in suspending the rules, someone will have to move to reconsider along the same lines and then we'll have to reconsider and do it. Is that correct?

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: Yes, sir.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Now, then, with that picture in mind, I'll be glad to hear your comments.

Mr. Harbaugh.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Mr. Chairman, is an amendment in order?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: An amendment to what they've done?

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: An amendment-an amendment-the Chair will rule that since they are stating the language-I'm merely allowing them, if possible, to clean up their language-but since they have stated the language, an amendment is not going to be in order on this motion. Now, if you want to make another motion that's broader, you make it, and we'll see whether this body will suspend the rules for your motion. But I'm trying desperately not to open it up unless you can get 51 percent to do it. So, the Chair would rule that the purpose of this suspension is only to add the words that they said and not to add any amendments that they said. It's for that purpose only. It's either going to win or lose. That's the Chair's intent at the moment.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I-The amendment-no amendment, apparently, is in order at this time and therefore I think I would have to vote against the motion that is before us, because I think it's very obvious that we've backed into an alley and we can't turn around and what we need is some elbowroom. And I think we ought to open this section up so that we can work on it, and I'll vote against the motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay. Mr. Champoux, do you have a question?

DELEGATE CHAMPOUX: Yes, sir. You know how I get confused on Saturdays--and I—today is Saturday-and I've been hanging around with Charley Mahoney too much. But, two questions, if I may, sir. One-doesn't previous-do not previous motions take precedence? Don't we have another motion on the floor? I'm questioning the order here. And the second thing is, we're approaching this in terms of-as I see it, in terms of opening up this section that's finally gone through final reading. Is there anything that we could do with the general government thing to reword it to the extent that would show theintent of the Revenue and Finance Committee in terms of this Article 6, subsection 2? Two questions then, sir, if I may.

(Pause in proceedings to talk things out in the Chair)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Champoux has asked two good questions. Now, the Chair would like everybody to understand that all I'm trying to do is approach this carefully. We're suspending the rules, and obviously the rules--or the Revenue and Finance Committee has a position, and obviously others have a ppsition, and we have a problem. And you may do anything, eventually, but we're going to try and do it step by step here. And Mr. Habedank raised an issue. The Chair ruled that motions to suspend the rules were out of order in the middle of the discussion of General Government, and no one challenged him on that. But Mr. Habedank pointed out that that still left us with a very bad problem, and so the Chair has consider-is considering what to do in that regard. And the next thing the Chair did was then ask the Revenue and Finance Committee if they could clarify their language; and when I found out they could, I then asked them if they could state a motion to suspend the rules within only that clarification so that we wouldn't get on three or four other things. Now, that's where we stand. But Mr. Champoux is correct that Mr. Harper's motion to delete is pending, and we've now checked the rules, and this is the way the situation stands: on Committee of the Whole debate-and, for that matter, in the Convention as a whole-a motion to reconsider is in order. Nothing is said one way or the other about the motion to suspend the rules--which, obviously, in this case is for the purpose of reconsidering but is technically not to reconsider-so the Chair could probably go either way and say that a motion to suspend the rules is obviously to reconsider, or it could go the other way and say that it isn't technically a motion to reconsider. Mr. Harper, you came in late. Are you aware of the quandary that we're in? How do you like it? (Laughter)

DELEGATE HARPER: I'd like it just fine if we can do the sensible thing about resolving it, and I'd be glad to tell you what that is, if you ask me. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, the Chair is aware of-it could do two things. It couldletyou withdraw your motion so that the motion to suspend the rules would be in order-except that I would then be faced with Mr. Etchart's motion to move the whole section, and I could probably get him to back off, too-or the Chair could move—could rule that a motion to suspend the rules is in fact a reconsideration in this case and go the other way. Or, third, the Chair could tell you all to wait till you're through discussing General Government and go back and handle this tomorrow.

DELEGATE HARPER: If the Chair would suffer a suggestion from the floor; why don't you just do suggestion Number 2, and then we'll be right going? Just consider this as a motion to reconsider and let us act on this and then we can—or if you want us to back off, I'm willing to back.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, I think maybe your suggestion is just as good.

DELEGATE HARPER: Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Mahoney, do you have any direction for the Chair?

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Mr. Chairman. I would like to see-but I think it would be-look quite funny on the journal to be in the middle of this and then move to reconsider another branch. Now, if we just got the motion to get out of General Government and get over on that, it would be all right, but I'd like to see that we get off from--out of this one, and I think thisis-probably is technical, but I think it does make it easier. It would make it much easier for the Chair to make a ruling, and I think the Chair is being very fair in this ruling, and I think you're really going over-and I mean, I question the right to suspend the rules and a motion is pending would be exactly in order. Now, if Mr. Harper withdraws his motion, then I think the nicest thing would be-to dois just get off from General Government temporarily and ask to go into the other and General Orders, and then you could do it. I mean, I'm just trying to get out of one and into the other and not have two things being cluttering up the journal there; and I might be all wrong, but this is my suggestion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Are you suggesting-are you saying that if I ask Mr. Harper to withdraw and then I ask Mr. Etchart to withdraw so we weren't actually considering Section 4 at the moment, that we could then, without objection, hear a motion to suspend the rules? Is that what you're suggesting, Mr. Mahoney?

DELEGATE MAHONEY: That we suspend the rules to go back on and get this-I'm trying to get you out of General Government back into Revenue and Finance. This is what I'm trying to do-and the record. This is what I'm trying to do, and I think that would be in order.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown, do you have any suggestions?

DELEGATE BROWN: Yes, I'd like to make one, too. (Laughter) I think everybody here is concerned and they know that we're trying to suspend the rules in good faith. What I would like to do is see Delegate Harper stay with his motion, and I assume that it will prevail and that part will be deleted. Then, go ahead and finish General Government, and then, at the propertime, move to suspend the rules to go back into Revenue. If the body would not do that, then we could come back to this section and put the provision back in, but let's move through General Government and trust the body to go back to Revenue and Finance and clean it up later.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. McDonough, do you have a suggestion?

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: No, Mr. President, I just agree with Mr. Brown. That gives the Revenue and Finance a little more time to think about any wording they might want to add or substract to subsection 2, and the Convention can still go about its business.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I'll hear Mrs. Robinson.

DELEGATE ROBINSON: I just have one suggestion; that the next time you appoint a Revenue and Taxation Committee, you ought to consider putting a woman on it. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So we could change our mind more easily? (Laughter) I could get-Mrs. Mansfield might go on it for me. (Laughter)

Mr. Choate, I'll hear you.

DELEGATE CHOATE: All right. I think, Mr. Chairman, I might have the only other pertinent comment that could be added to all of this. It might be that we're at the same point that this fellow was, a long time ago, on an historic occasion, when he said, "Well, outside of that, Mrs. Lincoln, how did you enjoy the play?" (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, having been duly—

Mr. Wilson, would you like to suggest to the Chair?

DELEGATE WILSON: Yes, I would, Mr. President. I think you're on General Government, and I think you should stay there. And I think you should finish the article and then, at the appropriate time, if there is need for consideration of this article on Revenue and Finance, I have faith in this body that they would come back to it and make such adjustment as is necessary.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Dahood, would you like to instruct the Chair?

DELEGATE DAHOOD: No, Mr. Chairman. I moved to suspend the rules. I'm going to withdraw that motion. I think what Delegate Brown suggested might be the best way to take care of it. I withdraw the motion to suspend the rules.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Scanlin, do you want to instruct me?

DELEGATE SCANLIN: No, I was just going to put a question to the Chair; but if we're going to withdraw everything, I'll withdraw my question.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, the Chair has thought about it, and I appreciate-I really do appreciate the patience that the body has shown and the help that I've had from some of the experts in the field. I think I was right in the first place not to break this article up, and I'm going to overrule Mr. Dahood's—or Mr. McDonough's motion that1 asked for-whoever it is-and I'm going to tell Mr. Habedank that I think he's absolutely right, morally, but he fouls me all up parliamentarywise, and I'm going to suggest that we finish the General Government Article and ask, if the Revenue and Finance Committee then want to, they can do what Mr. Aronow and Mr.-whoever it was this morning--wanted to do for the Clerk of Court, and we'll have them all do that all at one time and get that all out of the way. So we're going to go back to-I'm going to move that-I'm going to rule that all of these motions are out of order back to Harper. We're on Harper's motion. You're either going to have to accept it or defeat it, and then we'll clean this up afterwards. So, we're on Harper's motion unless someone wants to challenge the ruling of the Chair.

Mr. Gysler.

DELEGATE GYSLER: Mr. Chairman, I just want to say I've been looking for a long time for something of Delegate Harper's that I could support in extended debate, and I have found it. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: I think you're on the right track now, and I support Mr. Harper's amendment.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Mr. Kamhoot.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Mr. Chairman, I'm really worried at this point, because I fear I must not understand it because I'm going to have to support Delegate Harper. Thank you. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Do you want to change your motion, Mr. Harper? (Laughter)

DELEGATE HARPER: I'm beginning to wonder about this motion. (Laughter-applause) Maybe I didn't think it through enough. You know, there was a little paper that was passed to us the other day-1 don't know from whom—"self-evaluation sheet for Con Con members". Did you see it? The last section—(e)—is on communications. You are supposed, as a Con Con member-it doesn't say Chairman-to check one of these: talks with God-this is on communication-talks with angels; talks to himself; argues with himself; loses arguments with himself. (Laughter) I will check the last and close and leave it to the body.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Babcock.

DELEGATE BABCOCK: I just want to apologize to Mr. Harper for wanting him to build a canoe; and I'll support his motion, too. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Studer, what's this got to do with your motion?

DELEGATE STUDER: I just want to-if he really wants to be worried, I support his motion, too. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, very well, the Chair just having checked "loses argument with himself', I will now put Mr. Harper's motion. All in favor of Mr. Harper's motion, which is to strike the additional language that the committee added here to Section 4, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and that language is deleted. Is there other discussion about Section 4?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, members of this committee, you have before you on your-for your consideration, on the recommendation of Mr. Etchart that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 4 as amended, that we recommend the same be adopted. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Section 4, as amended, is adopted. Will the clerk read Section 5.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 5, subsection 1. The people may approve or reject acts of the Legislature by referendum, except appropriations of money. A referendum may be ordered by the Legislative Assembly or upon petition signed by 5 percent or more of the legal voters in each one-third or more of the legislative representative districts, and the total number of signers must be 5 percent or more of the total legal voters of the state. Referendum petitions must be filed with the Secretary of State no later than 6 months after adjournment of the Legislative Assembly which passed the bill." Mr. Chairman, Section 5, subsection 1.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does rise and report, after having had under consideration General Government Proposal Number 12, Section 5, it recommend the same be adopted.

Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: This section contains the procedure for the two forms of statutory referendum, as agreed upon by the General Government and Legislative Committees. This provision is parallel to the present referendum provisions as contained in Article V, Section 1, of the present Constitution. The only changes are the petition requirements, which the General Government felt should be set at 5 percent of the legal voters. Well, incidentally, this isn't a change now, because this is the way it was. But "one-third or more of the legislative representative districts" are adopted and more of the total legal voters of the state for the petition referendum, so the committee set the petition requirement for requiring suspension of enforcement of a matter to be referred at 15 percent of the whole number of legal voters of a majority of the legislative representative districts of the state, and this provision is the same as is in the present Constitution, so this is quite close to what you have in the present Constitution. It's 5 percent, in line with what we did in initiative. I think that it's been pretty well discussed and should be ready for adoption.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Members of the committee, you have before you for your consideration on the recommendation of Mr. Etchart that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 5, that we recommend it be adopted—subsection 1, only. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Mr. Clerk, read Section 2-subsection 2.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 5, subsection 2. Acts of the Legislature referred to the people are in full force and effect unless suspended by petitions signed by 15 percent of the legal voters of a majority of the whole number of legislative representative districts of the state, in which case the law shall be inoperative until such time as it shall be passed upon at an election and the result has been determined and declared as provided by law." Mr. Chairman, Section 5, subsection 2.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: Mr. Chairman. I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration General Government Article Number 12, subsection 2, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, I covered this in my previous remarks, move for its adoption.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, you've heard Mr. Etchart's motion that we adopt subsection 2. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Read Section 6, please.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 6. Elections. All measures referred to the people shall be voted upon at a regular biennial election unless a special election is ordered by the Legislative Assembly." Mr. Chairman, Section 6.

DELEGATE ETCHART: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration General Government Proposal Number 12, Section 6, it recommend the same be adopted.
Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: This section is self-explanatory and should be noncontroversial. I urge your adoption.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of Section 6?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You have heard Mr. Etchart's motion. All in favor of Section 6, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 7.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 7. Legal voters. The number of legal voters for each legislative representative district and for the state is determined by the votes cast for the office of Governor in the regular election immediately preceding filing of petitions for initiative or referendum measures." Mr. Chairman, Section 7.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration General Government Proposal Number 12, Section 7, it recommend the same be adopted.
Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart

DELEGATE ETCHART: This section is also self-explanatory. The only thing I would like to point out here is that we inserted the language "for the office of Governor" instead of just "for Governor" and-so that there couldn't be any question that the votes cast would be just for the man instead of for the office and this language would cover the votes cast for all of the candidates-or the two candidates running for Governor.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Will the gentleman, Mr. Etchart, yield, please?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart?

DELEGATE ETCHART: Yes.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Etchart, what is the intent of your committee with regard to the term "regular elections"? You mean "general election", or do you mean any regularly held election, or what?

DELEGATE ETCHART: I think this would be a general election.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Would the gentleman yield?

DELEGATE ETCHART: Yes, sir, I yield.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Would you mind if Style and Drafting inserted "general" in there?

DELEGATE ETCHART: We would have no objection.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there other discussion of Section 7?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Members of the committee, you have before you for your consideration, upon the recommendation of Mr. Etchart that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 7, that we recommend it be adopted. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Section 7 is adopted. Section 8.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 8. Gubernatorial veto. The Governor does not have power to veto initiative or referendum measures." Mr. Chairman, Section 8.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: Mr. Chairman. I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration General Government Proposal Number 12, Section 7, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chair. man-Section 8; correction.

Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: This section prohibits the Governor from vetoing an initiative or referendum. The present Constitution also contains such a provision. The committee feels one man should not have the power to overturn a decision made by a majority of the state's electorate. This is the reason for including this section.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. James— Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman, I just want to call to the attention of the body-1 suppose everybody already knows it-that this same matter is already covered in Section 10 of the Executive Committee, which has passed, and I'm in an anomalous position. I remember one time here I insisted that something about the veto power be included in the Executive Article, even though it was in the Legislative, and I don't know if the General Government people are all that touchy or-what's the word?-proud of their work, but at any rate it is covered under Section 10, and I just wondered if they wanted it stated here again, or what's their pleasure?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown.

DELEGATE BROWN: Mr. Chairman, I believe Mr. Joyce is right. We wrote this article prior to the time we voted on yours, and we also took this article out of our constitutional revision, so it is unnecessary. I will now move to delete it-Section 8.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown moves to delete Section 8.

Mr. Mahoney.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Mr. Chairman, might I ask either Mr. Brown or Mr. Joyce what they've said in the other article?

DELEGATE JOYCE: You asking me, Charley? I have it in front of me if you—

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Good.

DELEGATE JOYCE: I did have; where is it, Jim? Section 10 of the Executive Article says that all bills passed by the Legislature except bills proposing amendments to the Montana Constitution, bills ratifying proposed amendments to the United States Constitution, resolutions--and here are the key words-and initiative and referendum measures shall be submitted to the Governor for his signature. All those things-all bills except those shall be submitted to the Governor, and so the point is that he may not veto those.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: That's fine, Mr. Chairman; that's all I wanted. I didn't want him vetoing constitutional amendments.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Joyce, do you have anything further?

DELEGATE JOYCE: No, I don't.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any further discussion of Mr. Brown's motion to delete?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Mr. Brown's motion to delete, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and Section 8 is deleted. Section 9, Mr. Clerk.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 9. Restriction. This article is not applicable to constitutional revision as covered in Article blank of this Constitution." Mr. Chairman, Section 9.

DELEGATE ETCHART: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: I move that when this committee does rise and report, after having under consideration General Government Proposal Number 12, Section 9, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, this section is included to prevent any confusion with the initiative and referendum provisions on constitutional revision that are otherwise created in the Constitution, which was our Number 2 proposal from General Government, and we thought we should have this in there to keep the two separated.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart, the Chair is confused. Explain a little more.

DELEGATE ETCHART: As you know, we provided in our constitutional revision article for amending the Constitution by initiative, and we also have an initiative provision in this article, and we wanted it clear that these provisions do not apply to the constitutional article.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see. Is there discussion of Section 9?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 9, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 10.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 10. Recall. Laws shall be enacted to provide for the recall of all elected officials of the state and of its political subdivisions upon petition of the electors equal in number to 25 percent of the number of persons voting in the last preceding election for the office of Governor in the state or political subdivision of the official sought to be recalled." Mr. Chairman, Section 10.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Vermillion.

DELEGATE VERMILLION: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, having had under consideration Section 10 of the General Government Report Number 12, it consider the same be adopted.
Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Vermillion.

DELEGATE VERMILLION: This section on recall is quite similar to twelve other state constitutions in that there are twelve other states which have, by constitutional provision, provided for recall of elected officials. Now, I mentioned before and I maintain that we have to consider—and I consider-elected officials not the masters of the people but the servants of the people. They are the employees, in a sense, and the people have the right not only to elect these people but if, for whatever reason they deem necessary, they have—they should have the right to recall them. I would point out that this 25-percent requirement for the number of people to sign that petition is very, very high. I recall one of the other delegates, earlier in this Convention, talking about petition signing, and he remarked how tough it was just to get 8 percent to get an initiative passed in the state; and 25 percent is more than three times that number.

Also, I'd like to point out that one of the states that has constitutional provision for recall is California. Now, we've all had this pocketbook, that many of us have been reading, called The Sometimes Government, which rates California the number 1 legislature in the country in terms of efficiency and responsiveness to the people, and it rates Montana number 43. Well, California has a recall provision and it requires only 12 percent for all elected officials to be recalled. We arerequiring 25 percent. I should point out that that 25 percent does not mean that the elected official is, in effect, fired, but that merely means he would stand for election against an opponent or perhaps some other method that the Legislature could provide. Now, there are some who suggest that if the legislators and other elected officials are going to be subject to recall, they are going to be bothered and harassed by people who are going to be bringing petitions to them and these legislators and other elected officials will be under considerable pressure, and I don't think that's true. I think that, as this body has shown, as I think the Legislature would show, that somebody suggesting that they're going to run out and get a petition is not going to threaten a legislator who can stand up [under] that kind of pressure. For the most part, as I point out, 25 percent is a very high number. In fact, I am, in a sense, liable to recall at any time, and I think anybody who is an employee working for somebody else is, in a sense, under recall-can be fired at any time-and you can live with it. There's no great problem there, so I move that we adopt this section on recall. I think it is entirely workable. I think it's something that-it's the people's right. It's not a privilege we're giving them, but a right they should have, and I think we should adopt this section and put it in the Constitution.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to the majority proposal on recall. We had a lengthy discussion yesterday concerning recall and the Local Government Article. We finally resolved the issue by moving to delete this section. I feel the same reasons we gave yesterday are applicable in this case. We had considered recall at some length in our Legislative Committee before we realized that General Government was going to handle this area. Therefore, I firmly feel that we should also delete this recall section in this article.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Loendorf, you have an amendment before the Chair on this. Do you want it read, or not?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: I was of the understanding there was a minority report to delete it. Will that be offered, or not?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well now, let's see, page 16.

Mr. Etchart, is there a minority report going to be made at this time?

DELEGATE ETCHART: Yes, sir, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: As a substitute motion, I would move that when this committee does rise and report, after having had under consideration this article, that it adopt the minority proposal Number 2, on page 16, which is for deletion of the recall provision.

Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: We thought the recall provision was unnecessary and a dangerous harassment that would hinder an elected official in performance of his duties. Such a provision would tend to disrupt the political processes and keep Montana in a continuous state of confusion. The intent of recall is also basically covered under the present electoral system, as elected officials are subject to recall each time their office is up for election, and we submit that this is plenty of recall, that we already have it at our regular elections, and that this section should be deleted.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Loendorf.

DELEGATE LOENDORF: Would the clerk read my motion at this time.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Will the clerk read the motion of Mr. Loendorf.

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. Chairman. I move, as a substitute motion, to amend Section 10, page 5, lines 24 through 30 of the General Government Committee Proposal Number 12, by deleting Section 10 in its entirety and substituting in lieu thereof the following: 'Laws may be enacted to provide for recall of all elected officials of the state and its political subdivisions.' Signed: Loendorf." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Loendorf, the Chair is going to-yours is a substitute motion to the motion to delete; is that it?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: It's a substitute motion, right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I guess that will work all right. Mr. Etchart, you made a motion to delete-right?-in its entirety-so now we have Mr. Etchart's—or Mr. Loendorfs language before us on a motion to substitute his language for the deletion; and the deletion, of course, would strike out the first language. So, I'll allow two substitute motions instead of the other amendment, and so forth. Very well, the issue is on Mr. Loendorfs motion to substitute the language that has been placed before you on your desks-is that right?—

DELEGATE LOENDORF: That's right, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -in place of Mr. Etchart's motion to delete.

DELEGATE LOENDORF: I guess it has not been placed on the desks. I—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It is not on the desks?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: I think I can explain it, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, why don't I-I think they'd better write it down, then, so they know what it is, if they want to-some of them. "Laws may be enacted to provide for the recall of all elected officials of the state and its political subdivisions." That's all there is to it. "Laws may be enacted to provide for the recall of all elected officials of the state and its political subdivisions"-That language being in place of the motion to delete, the motion to delete having stricken-having proposed the striking of Section 10 in its original form on page 5.

Mr. Loendorf.

DELEGATE LOENDORF: Mr. Chairman, my motion was also a motion to delete, the same as Mr. Etchart's, but a substitution. First of all, I would like to say I support Mr. Etchart's motion. I do not believe in constitutionalizing recall. I offer this motion merely to give the delegates a third option. The first-the majority report constitutionalizes recall; Mr. Etchart's motion deletes recall from the Constitution and would make statutory law providing for recall impossible to those offices and the terms of which are created in the Constitution. The motion I propose would not constitutionalize recall but make it completely optional with the Legislature to provide for it. If it is-if recall is adopted, I think this is the best approach to take for these reasons. It seems to me, providing for recall in the Constitution creates great inflexibility. For example, the terms of various offices will be different. I would think the Legislature may not want to provide for recall for offices elected for a very short term-for example, 2 to 4 years--whereas they may want to provide for recall for people elected say, 6 to 10 years. Also, to make recall effective, I think the Legislature would want to provide that a man could not be recalled during, say, the first 6 months or the first year for the term he is elected. Certainly, you don't want to recall a legislator before he's even gone to the legislator-Legislature and begin to make decisions. That would defeat the purpose of it. Finally, putting a percentage in a constitution creates a very inflexible, and perhaps unworkable, situation. Twenty-five percent might be unusually high; might be impossible to get statewide-or virtually impossible. So, for all these reasons, I think we should leave recall up to the Legislature. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Would Mr. Loendorf yield to a question?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: I yield.

DELEGATE REICHERT: I wonder, when you say "all elected officials"-in your discussion, you spoke about certain groups of officials possibly coming under recall because of the length of their terms-could this somehow be considered discriminatory?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: I guess I don't follow you, Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: (Inaudible)— the Legislature states that recall is possible for certain, perhaps judicial officers. Do you think this might be discriminatory as far as some of the other public officers are concerned, not being free from recall?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: No, as long as the Legislature has good reasons for making the distinctions. In fact, certain constitutions do distinguish between various offices. For example, they often provide for recall but exempt the Judiciary; and there are good reasons for that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. President, ladies and gentlemen. I would resist the proposed amendment of Jerry Loendorf. Whether or not the recall provisions of a constitution can constitute harassment or not is a question you may decide, but if it is to be allowed, then I think it is absolutely necessary that the percentage which has been put in here by the committee be retained, as otherwise, you have created a situation where the Legislature in its wisdom may be disenchanted with some particular individual-some particular official, and, through pressure at a given time, make a low percentage and then change it in regard to somebody else. And it was the feeling of the committee-and is my feeling—that if we are to have recall, thepercentageshould be high enough that it cannot constitute harassment and it represents a genuine desire of the people of Montana to take some person out of office. We have some people who serve for 2 years, some for 4 years, some for 6 years, and now, some for 8 years, which are fairly long terms; and for that reason and that reason alone, it may be necessary that the people of Montana have an option to recall. I would call to your attention that in the state of North Dakota, they have had recall for a long time. It has not amounted to harassment over there, and in their situation they have provided in their constitution that the petition must be signed by electors equal in number to 25 percent of those who voted at the preceding general election. The feeling of the majority of the committee was, in response to numerous petitions and people who came to us, that a recall section should be offered to this delegation for their decision, but it was also our feeling that if it is offered, it should carry a definite percentage and it should not be discretionary, as it has been suggested by Mr. Loendorf. I would, however, move to amend-when the time comes, it can be-to correct the word we have eliminated and to help Style and Drafting put "general" election in between the words "preceding" and "election", but I would urge you not to support Jerry Loendorfs recommendation.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Robinson.

DELEGATE ROBINSON:. Mr. President, I rise in support of Mr. Loendorf s amendment for most of the reasons that Mr. Habedank is against it. Most of the states that have dealt with recall have found that a blanket percentage is very—it just doesn't work. I think if you want recall, you should make it so it works. If you don't want recall-for example, Illinois has it, and to get a recall on the ballot you have to have 55 percent of the voters of the state-so, obviously, Illinois doesn't really care about recall. Kansas and California have-both haverecognized that 25 percent straight across the board isn't meaningful either. They have theirs on a sliding scale. You have a 25 percent on the local level, where it's easier to get signatures, and then for at-large elections across the state, they have reduced it to 15 percent; and it's all on a sliding scale according to difficulty in ascertaining signatures on a petition. I agree in theory with recall for the very reason that it first began during the progressive era of the United States-was to try and make the people feel that they had access to their representatives. And if you'll remember, for example, in the last Legislative Session, one of the reasons that the Legislature was able to increase the term of mayor and alderman under the aldermanic form of government was that, at the same time, they instituted recall to these local officials. The notion of recall has helped increase the length of term of certain elected officials; and perhaps since we have increased the term of judges in the State of Montana to 8 years in the Constitution, recall might not be a bad idea. But I think it's very unwise, if we-if the Convention itself believes in recall, to have a blanket 25 percent, because it just has not worked in other states; and if you don't want it to work, then let's delete it completely.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Blend.

DELEGATE BLEND: Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of Mr. Loendorfs amendment. The majority article is incompatible, as I see it, with local government. The administrative problems of determining down to precinct and ward in a local governmental unit would be time-consuming, expensive, and so on; and I think that the amendment would work much better. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Two things, quickly. I think we ought to note. One is that when we dealt with this at length in the Local Government Article, we constantly referred to this which was being proposed in the General Government

Article; and I think almost everybody had in their mind that when they voted against that, they probably were voting against the recall motion all the way through or there wouldn't be much sense in doing what we did on the Local Government Article. Secondly, just so that-1 think we ought to think this thing all the way through-let's take a look at 25 percent. Twenty-five percent of the voters of a single-member district-now, remember, a legislator runs from a single-member district henceforth if this Constitution passes. If, assuming a house of a hundred or a unicameral body of a hundred members, you have something under 7,000 live bodies in each single-member district on the one-man, one-vote theory which-I am not sure of these figures, but let's-most people around here seem to think that would produce about 3,500 voters, perhaps--registered voters-in that single-member district. If you're talking about a particular election, we hardly ever have over about 60 percent involved in elections. You may be talking about 2,000 people. Twenty-five percent of 2,000 is 500 people. Now, getting 500 signatures in one single-member district, say, in a city, is not really a tough thing to do, particularly if you have, say, one large union or one large bloc of anybodies who happen to be politically opposed to this particular person. Now, a case in point: Idaho has this. Idaho just recently, in a matter of a few months ago, recalled, in one district-someone correct me if I'm wrong on this-was it three legislators?

UNIDENTIFIED DELEGATE: Two.

DELEGATE HARPER: Two? What was the reason? These were bad people, immoral, not doing what they were supposed to do? No, they went to the Legislature and they voted to increase their salaries. They did what the Legislature is supposed to do; namely, in Idaho, to vote on the compensation for the Legislature. So, these people disagreed with that and they recalled them. And I could see this-again, I said this when the local government thing came up-as a sort of a club behind the door where a group says, "You know, we have more than 500 signatures we can produce; if you don't vote with our line, then we're going to put you into another election." And I can conceive that, in some districts, people who were not in line with one certain power bloc would just feel that they didn't even want to run under those circumstances, knowing that recall hung over them. Now-and statewide, I can see this in terms of a Governor-the percentage is so large that I don't think we'd have that kind of threat-but with single-member districts, I think we ought to bear this in mind. I think I shall vote against my friend, Mr. Loendorf's, motion and in favor of Mr. Etchart's minority proposal.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Martin.

DELEGATE MARTIN: Mr. Chairman. As the author of the recall proposal, which I hoped would be a safety valve for the protection of the people, I rise to ask you to defeat the Loendorf amendment and bury my proposal. (Laughter) I appeared before the Legislative Committee and got soundly trounced. The Local Government Committee gave me a licking. And I felt the pulse of the Convention, and I think I'm licked.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harlow.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Mr. Chairman, sort of in a little salve for Mr. Martin, he appeared before our committee and we did not soundly trounce him. We brought out a majority report, putting in recall in our committee report, and I'm-well, a little bewildered, like the rest of you delegates in here. We have a feeling here-when this Convention was first conceived and thought of, the thought that was in the mind of many of the people here, as well as many of the voters, was that we have a government that would be responsive to the people; and since the Convention has convened and the various winnowing of ideas and personalities and philosophies has taken place, we have that group that has been winnowed out that are strongly in support of a more responsive government. We have those, of course, who've been winnowed out who feel that our government right now is too responsive; we should make it so that it has even less and less response. Now, we come up here with this article dealing with recall, and I find those-some of those, let me put it, who are supporting responsive government are now opposing methods of making government responsive. Maybe they've been lobbied by somebody, I don't know whom. So I rise in opposition to the Loendorf motion, also in opposition to Mr. Etchart's motion, the minority motion, and in support of the majority. We are also going to longer terms for people. We have very few, if the Constitution is adopted by the people. Legislators-most of them will be elected on a 4-year term. Many of the 2-year terms will have disappeared; and we are talking longer and longer terms for elected officials, so I think the recall is very essential. What is wrong with allowing the people to correct their mistakes at election? Why is it so wrong for the people to do that when it's perfectly all right for us here in this assembly. If we make a mistake, why, we come back and get a recall and bring it back out and correct our mistake. We don't feel that we are harassing ourselves or the article, either one—maybe we're sort of harassing the article by the time we beat it back and forth over the desks and over each other's heads-but I feel that we are here on the crossroads of responsive government; and if you are in support of responsive government and a government that will be for the benefit of the people, let's keep the majority report, the recall, here in the Legislature-in the Constitution. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harrington.

DELEGATE HARRINGTON: Mr. Chairman, I rise to support the deletion of this section. I believe that it's very important it is deleted. I think that the delegates from Silver Bow County are a perfect example of this, as far as their voting in this Convention is concerned. Now, there are many different power groups that would be located, say, in Silver Bow County and should—because one of the delegates feels he is right in the way that he votes, this group could mass a petition for recall against this person, even though this person only voted because--what he believed was right, and he may have been right, but because of the feelings that run high during a certain period of time, this could not only injure this person-his character-for the rest of his life-this recall-and I think it's a very dangerous thing, and I think we should delete it. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Cross.

DELEGATE CROSS: Mr. Chairman, again, I think we come down to a basic philosophy. This is the 49th day of this Convention. I think I've heard at least 10 times a day for49 days that this is a people's convention. We have dealt with many important items in this body. I feel that if we really believe in people, that we shouldn't be afraid of them. I stand in support of the majority report on recall. If we cannot trust ourselves to run for an office and do what we think people want, then they should have the right to remove us if they so choose.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown.

DELEGATE BROWN: Mr. Chairman. I'm on the minority report, and I support the move to delete recall. They talk about the voice of the people. Actually, this is the voice of a vicious minority. And I might also add that, as Mr. Davis said, on Fridays we don't trust our elected officials, but this is Saturday, when we do, so we should delete recall.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. President, I take no position on Saturdays-just on weekdays. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Wilson.

DELEGATE WILSON: Yes, Mr. President. I wonder what would have happened if this section was in effect at the present time. I seem to recollect that we had several letters-in fact, hundreds of letters- requesting positions that the delegates should take. I wonder, if they had that privilege, maybe they would have exercised it on some of the delegates. I support the motion to delete.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Robinson.

DELEGATE ROBINSON: Mr. Chairman, I would merely like to point out that by having a recall provision and by requiring whatever percentage you do, whether it be 15 or 25 percent, this does not mean that you are automatically recalling the person that's in office. This just means that by getting these-this many signatures, his name will be placed on a ballot on which you will vote to decide whether to keep him in office or to seat [unseat] him. It's not an automatic thing once you've gotten these signatures on a petition.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Gysler.

DELEGATE GYSLER: Mr. Chairman, I've always felt that if you can't stand the heat, you don't want to get in the pans, so maybe we'd keep some people out of politics that shouldn't be there if we keep the-this recall in.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Jacobsen.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Mr. President, fellow delegates, our Local Government had recall in it for local officials. We allowed it to be deleted without too much argument because in our present Constitution there is a recall, and I'm going to go along with the majority on this because I think that it should be there, just as I-for the reason I said the other day-absenteeism in some of our local areas should be reason enough for recall. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: I do not agree with Delegate Jacobsen. We do not have a provision for recall in our present Constitution. There is a recall by statute.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Nutting.

DELEGATE NUTTING: Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Loendorf amendment. Actually, we do have provision for all officials except those expressly mentioned in the Constitution. If they can be-The Legislature can pass recall measures, and the Loendorf amendment merely makes it possible for those that have constitutional status; so therefore I think it equalizes the—all people all over the state.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The question arises on Mr. Loendorf's motion-substitute motion to substitute this language for the motion to delete. Mr. Loendorfs language says: "Laws may be enacted to provide for the recall of all elected officials of the state and its political subdivisions." It has the effect of letting the Legislature enact recall laws. So many as shall be in favor of Mr. Loendorfs motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Chair is in doubt. So many as are in favor, vote Aye; so many as are opposed, vote No. Nonrecorded vote. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Pleasetake the ballot. Well, I don't need to take the ballot. It's 43 for and 41 against, so Mr. Loendorfs motion prevails. It's adopted 43 to 41. Very well, is there other language?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any other discussion or debate of Section 10, as amended?

Mr. Scanlin.

DELEGATE SCANLIN: Mr. Chairman, I think that all that Mr. Loendorf was trying to say was to put a period after "officials" on line 25 and change the "shall" to "may" on line 24, and that would have made it a lot easier for us to understand what we were doing.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I did dictate the language to any of you that cared to write it down.

Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: Mr. Chairman, I would like to renew my motion to delete Mr. Loendorfs substitute motion, if I could.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, Mr. Etchart now moves to delete Mr. Loendorf's motion-Mr. Loendorfs language. That's to delete amended Section 10.

Mr. Etchart, do you want to discuss it further?

DELEGATE ETCHART: I think it has been thoroughly discussed and would leave it to the vote of a body.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Foster.

DELEGATE FOSTER: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates. I made some reference to the question of recall in the Local Government Article, and I think that it's the same-that I referred to then is pertinent here, but I'm-certainly have confidence in the voters, but I'm concerned that we let a minority of voters overrule the majority; if not directly, at least indirectly. And I can see this being used as a club over the head of good officials, but I can also see it being used in the present situation as a club of the Legislature over the head of the Judicial. And I think that this is particularly disturbing, because when the Legislature can pass an act which would allow for example, a petition of 1 percent of the voters, or even a half a percent of the voters, to place a Supreme Court Justice up for a recall election, this is particularly disturbing; and I think that the motion of Delegate Etchart should be supported and we should reject this whole section. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Gysler.

DELEGATE GYSLER: Mr. Chairman, I'd just like to remind this body that today is an even-numbered day, the 18th, and it's on this day that we trust the Legislature, so I hope we defeat the motion to delete.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Vermillion.

DELEGATE VERMILLION: Mr. President, is a substitute motion in order?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: A substitute which substitutes an entirely new paragraph is in order, but not to amend Mr. Loendorfs language. Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: I'd just like to call to Mr. Foster's attention: those same voters he started out saying that he trusts their wisdom are going to be electing those legislators to pass these laws, so I support the motion to leave the recall in, as Mr. Loendorf has very wisely effected a good compromise here.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is on Mr. Etchart's motion to delete Mr. Loendorf' s amended language for Section 10.

UNIDENTIFIED DELEGATE: Roll call.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: A roll call vote is called for. All in favor of deleting the new Loendorf language, vote Aye; all opposed, vote No. Have all the delegates voted?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 32 delegates voting Aye, 52 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 52 having voted No and 32 having voted Aye, the motion to delete fails. Very well, is there other discussion of Section 10, as amended by Mr. Loendorf?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Members of the committee, you have before you, on the recommendation of Mr. Loendorf that when this body arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 10 as amended, that we recommend that Section 10 as amended be adopted. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So ordered. It's adopted as amended.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. Chairman, I move the Committee of the Whole stand in recess until 4 o'clock this day.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Ten minutes to 4:OO; how's that?

DELEGATES: Yes.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: With no objection, would 10 minutes to 4:00 be all right? (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the motion is to recess until 10 minutes to 4:O0. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And so ordered.

(Committee recessed at 3:37 p.m.--reconvened at 3:57 p.m.)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Committee will be in session.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. Chairman. Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Committee will be in session. The Committee will be in session.

Mr. Eskildsen, for what purpose do you rise?

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. Chairman, I rise to let the members of this body note that it is now 2 minutes to 4:00, and had you followed my motion, you would have had plenty of time to have gotten back by 4 o'clock. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Eskildsen, this body knows that, had your motion been 4:00, it would have been 4:10 before we got going. (Laughter) Very well, members of the body, we are ready to go on to Section 11. I have been asked to announce that-the order. There are several amendments on Section 11. We'll take the majority first, then the minority. There are amendments, at the moment, on the desk, from Harper, Leuthold, Kamhoot and Ask. There may be others. Will the clerk please read Section 11.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 11. Gambling. All forms of gambling, lotteries, and gift enterprises are prohibited unless authorized by acts of the Legislature or by the people through initiative or referendum." Mr. Chairman, Section 11.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Chairman. I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration General Government Proposal Number 12, Section 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, this section is designed to replace Article XIX, Section 2, of the present Constitution. The present Constitution prohibits gambling of any kind. The proposed revision would continue this prohibition until the Legislature specifically legalized-legalizes particular forms. The proposed revision would alleviate a good deal of fear among the people that a constitutional change would open the door to all sorts of gambling problems that do not now exist in the state. The committee revised the specific and inflexible prohibition in the present Constitution because it feels that the Legislature should make the rules governing gambling. The committee recommends that, if at all possible, the Convention decision on lotteries and gambling-whatever we adopt today-be presented to the people as a separate issue when the Constitution is put to a vote.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Choate.

DELEGATE CHOATE: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does rise and report, after having had under consideration this Section 11, that the minority report be adopted. Section 11 reads: "Gambling. All forms of gambling, lotteries, and gift enterprises are prohibited unless authorized by acts of the Legislature or by the people through initiative or referendum". The minority proposal and the majority proposal would accomplish the same end with regards to gambling. Both would leave the matter to statutory law, where extensive provisions prohibiting gambling already exist. Neither provision would legalize gambling of any nature. However, the majority proposal constitutionally states that situation. The minority feel that to state something is illegal until made legal is superfluous and redundant. If, as is the case, there are laws on the books, the laws will stay in force unless overturned by the Court, prohibited by the Constitution or changed by the Legislature. Discussion of any court action is speculative, and neither proposal prohibits the Legislature from acting on the present statutory laws. The minority does not feel it's necessary to list a specific instance in which the Legislature or people may act, when they have been given the general power to so do. Basically, the majority proposal is identical to the minority proposal. The minority feels that the majority provision also could be somewhat confusing to the voters, whereas no mention of gambling would save the confusion resulting from the redundant majority article--redundant. The minority would also like to point out that the majority proposal-if adopted, gambling would join treason as a constitutional crime, while such crimes as murder, rape and assault are statutory crimes. In this light, the minority wonders if gambling is really a basic and constitutional issue. Now, as my learned constituent, Breck Shampoo, said the other day-now, I want to stop here and say something. (Laughter) A great deal has been said and much more will doubtless be said on the issue of gambling and lotteries. From all this, it will become clear that the people of Montana, who are, of course, our paramount consideration, do want some moderation in our present constitutional prohibition against all forms of gambling. We do not propose, nor do the people of this state want, Nevada-type open gambling. Virtually all segments of our society do want to be able to legally play bingo. Possibly a state-operated lottery might have some merit; perhaps some beneficial revenue to Montana might result from it. Maybe other forms of moderate gambling, probably by a mandate of the people. But to constitutionalize bingo--really, I don't think it has constitutional status, and I think that this might be something to consider. We've heard about the great silent majority who will rise up and oppose anything that will change our present prohibition against gambling, and I think this is a myth. Here are petitions, numbering about 4,100 signatures, that have been voluntarily submitted to our committee or mailed to me, and I have about--oh, a total of about 4,900 signatures that have been put on, and this basically says that they want the Constitution to legalize gambling. We have no intention of doing that, of course. We had quite a few people who came to our committee and reported in-or testified in support of some form of relaxation of these restrictions, and we didn't have any witness who appeared in opposition to it. Many letters did come. Many have been written to me, and I'm sure most of you people have had at least some regarding this, in support of it. And, of course, there have been some written in opposition to it; but I have seen very few of those compared to the number of those who have felt in the affirmative. On our statewide radio-telephone program, we had 48 phone calls, 40 of which were in support of our basic proposal and only 8 in opposition to it.

We had a telephone conference call with a high school class at Columbus. There were 60 students there. One of the questions that we asked them was whether they favored deletion of Section 2 of Article XIX from the Constitution. They took a vote on it and unanimously said yes, they did want it. From all of this above data, it's eminently clear that we do have a mandate from the people to delete this section. The present statutes are likewise eminently clear and all-inclusive in their prohibition of all forms of gambling. I can well recall discussing this issue with my father when he was commissioned by the Legislature to do the code revision in 1947, which I know they are still the codes that are being used today in this Convention, and he assured me that under these statutes, all forms of gambling are illegal. Until the Legislature changes these laws, they are still in full force and effect. Presently, they can't do that anyway by-except by constitutional amendment. There are 32 laws on the books-statutes from 94.2401 to 94-2432—fourteen pages. They enumerate every game you've ever heard of. These are the statutes on gambling. Then 94-1421 prohibits betting on elections; 94-3001 to 3011 deal with lotteries. There are 10 statutes there-or 11. In the minority, we don't really see much reason to make any reference to gambling in the new Constitution. I don't feel it really is necessary for it to be a side issue on the ballot. However, if this be our choice, it would be simpler to put it as a side issue; our present Section 2 could be a side issue on the ballot for people to vote on if they want to sustain what we presently have. Otherwise, make no reference to it, because if we do refer to it in the main document, then it will be confusing to have—make-to reference to it. But I feel it will help sell the ballot-or the document-I really do-if we simply delete it. The majority of the voters want it that way, I feel, and it may be worthy to note that both in Idaho and Maryland-in their new proposed constitutions had antigambling provisions. Both of these were rejected. Of 19 states that have written new constitutions since 1945, Michigan, I understand, is the only state that asked for and ratified an antigambling provision. I think Montana is ready to reject the one that we've had since 1889. The Legislature, in their wisdom, can surely provide Montana with the sort of gambling legislation they want. After all, they are the voice of the people, and we shouldn't legislate any further up here. I urge you, fellow delegates, to support the minority position and delete Section 2 of Article XIX. If nothing else, it would ease the burden on our Committee on Style. Those guys over there, they-I'm always concerned when Jack gets up and says, "Well, nothing changed here--nothing substantive-simply language, that's all"-then you look at it, and you find he's emasculated it. Well, it's pretty hard-it's not a very mind-boggling job to style a deletion. I think they could handle that pretty good. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the Chair understands that the majority section, which is on page 6, would authorize all forms of gambling, et cetera--would not--would prohibit them unless authorized by the Legislature or the people on initiative and referendum; that the minority has proposed that this section be deleted.

Now, Mr. Harper is next.

DELEGATE HARPER: Mr. Chairman, will you have the clerk read my substitute motion for what is before us-the motion to amend Section 11, page 6.

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. Chairman. I move, as a substitute motion, to amend Section 11, page 6, lines 1 through 4, of the General Government Committee proposal by striking it in its entirety and inserting in lieu thereof the following words: 'The Legislature shall have no power to authorize lotteries or gift enterprises for any purpose, and shall maintain laws prohibiting the sale of lottery or gift enterprise tickets in the state.' Signed: Harper." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper, I'm going to amend that so it says, "I move, as a substitute to Mr. Choate's motion"-the point is exactly as it was awhile ago on the other one. I won't let you amend a deletion, but I'll let you put an absolutely new paragraph in in place of it. Now, I understand your motion is on the desks before the body, is that right?

DELEGATE HARPER: No, but you will find it in the old Constitution. Instead of saying "Legislative Assembly", it says "the Legislature", and it is what is in the present Constitution.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, maybe I'd better read it to them. Some may want to write it down. "The Legislature shall have no power to authorize lotteries or gift enterprises for any purpose, and shall maintain laws prohibiting the sale of lottery or gift enterprise tickets in the state." So the situation is that the majority report has been deleted by-is proposed to be deleted by Mr. Choate's minority report and Mr. Harper's language is substituted for the minority report's deletion.

Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. Some of you guys haven't been in church in a long time, and you're getting ready to get a sermon. So relax-that's the way the congregation does. The other day, on Education, Mr. Champoux moved a pulpit in and set it on his desk; and in spite of the length of it, I applauded his idea, because I think the pulpit should be in the public forum and that every one of us, in a sense, has to be a minister to the others of us. I think we're really getting down to basic ideas about government when we are talking about gambling. Now, some implication is that-some have implied that this is not true; but, you know, unless your head is in the sand, one of the crucial issues of our time, right now, is how long we are going to countenance the sub rosa of government of criminals and gambling elements that is growing apace in many states and all across this nation and, indeed, around the world today. And in writing a Constitution, it's true that we write guidelines for law and organization, but also-and don't forget this-we help to establish the character of our state; and we set many prohibitions into our Constitution already. There are some things that we do not want our state government to do and there are some things that we tell them we do want them to do, and we are moving in a perfectly sound and sensible manner in the way of writing constitutions when we consider writing into our new Constitution what we have in our present Constitution-that one thing we want to prohibit in this state is gambling. We don't want to leave it to the Legislature so that every time this Legislature meets-and believe me, it will be every time this Legislature meets-that we have the gambling interests coming-knock on the door to get this legalized, that legalized, step by step, to get the whole business. The Legislators are going to have enough pressures upon them without having this constantly upon them, too. Now, there are so many things against legalized gambling that a person who takes his citizenship seriously just wonders where to start, really. It's certain that a state's greatness is measured only in terms of the character of its people. At times our state or local government or any agency, such as a church or civic club, gets pretty hungry for money; but any time an agency gets so hungry for money that it has to finance itself out of the weaknesses of its own people, it sows the seeds of its own destruction. No group is ever stronger than the ideals or standards of its people. Now, can anybody make a case for gambling on the basis that it's helpful in personal character-building, or in creating a strong society? If I may mix two metaphors, any way you cut the deck, it's "heads I win, and tails you lose" when it comes to gambling. The only arguments backed by proponents of legalized gambling are these: One, it goes on anyway so we may as well make it legal; two, it's an easy way to make money-the suggestion has been that the state may want, in the future, to avail itself of this easy opportunity to make money-and, thirdly, that, actually, legalized gambling operators won't act like illegal gambling operators; and all three of these arguments are not only false but shallow. If you want to take this "something that goes on anyway, we might as well make it legal", where will you stop? Allow drug traffic, prostitution, graft in government? An easy way for the state to make money? Well, not if you look at the facts. It's an easy way for gamblers to make money-ten to twenty billion dollars a year-but not for the state. If you want an example, we have one. You can look at Nevada-a crime rate twice the national average, and, of course, gambling isn't a crime anyone can be booked on in Nevada. Forcible rape, robbery-also double the national average. Add a liquor consumption two and six-tenths times the national average and, naturally, Nevada's motor vehicle death rate is three times the national average. But, you say, vast sums go into the state coffers from legalized gambling? Well, where it goes from there is a mystery. Nevada's health and welfare services rank below every other state in the Union. Educational systems and facilities are very poor. It has the highest suicide rate in the nation. Where does the money go? Two ways. One is so many added expenses of controlling the extra crime that Las Vegas and Reno have to have police forces two or three times as large as other United States cities of their size. Welfareexpenses will go crazy, and the rest of the money goes to feed the corruption that accompanies gambling everywhere. Now, as to the third argument, that legalized gambling people are far different from illegal gambling people, all of the crime commissions—remember the Kefauver Commission?-other federal and state and local commissions in late years-always come to the same conclusion; that gambling in America is a crooked business, run by crooks who-most often, who have no intention of giving the sucker a chance; and I don't even want to go into the detailed volumes that have been produced on this subject. It's enough to say that thinking citizens of Montana don't want any permissive legislation that may damage persons, and gambling damages persons on many counts. Gambling is psychologically damaging. It chokes a person's achievement and fulfillment; and for a person who is neurotic, gambling actually can become addictive. But for every person, ourselves included, the philosophy of getting something for nothing is always psychologically damaging, By social and ethical rules of American conduct, gambling is an immoral business, and it taints those who operate it. Now, when it's kept illegal and occasionally swept under the rug in upheavals of moral reform, gambling has slight opportunity to work its colors into the permanent pattern of American life, but when given a base of legality, as has happened so spectacularly in Nevada, the morals and ethics of gamblers become a part of the accepted pattern of life. And that's not sermonizing; that's just repeating a fact. And here's another fact: gambling is economically damaging. In the first place, the gambling industry is nonproductive. It never creates any new wealth; it never performs any useful service. It drains the salaries, savings, and investments of individuals and families. It serves no human need. Almost invariably, the people who benefit from the gambling profit are connected with the destructive vices of our society; so in Wisconsin, Senator Wiley, several years ago, said that every one dollar that states raise from gambling revenue cause at least five dollars to be paid out in higher police costs, higher court costs, higher penitentiary costs, higher welfare costs. Where does gambling money come from-this easy money? Gambling profits always show up as deficits somewhere else, and that means-and I say it always means-the shoestore, the grocery store, the clothing store, the furniture store. Every dollar comes out of one pocket or another. Gambling has always been and always will be a parasite on the legitimate business community. Our state can't stand the social loss of gambling either. Gambling increases crimes like embezzlement. All studies show that the single biggest cause of embezzlement of funds is gambling. The same is true in terms of it adding to broken marriages, neglected children, poverty, even suicide. Now, I maintain, in closing, we just can't afford these losses, particularly-now, note this-when what we lose always goes into the treasure chest to keep crime syndicates running. Certainly, nobody in his right mind would want the hoodlum empire controlling most of the United States gambling to become any kind of a dominant factor in Montana society and politics, and yet we would be like the proverbial ostrich who sticks his head in the sand to think that we can allow legalized gambling in the future that will not be tied into these nationwide syndicates. The last comment: a lot of people have been writing in to say they wanted legalized gambling, and the implication has been made that if a lot of people had been against it, they would have been writing in, too. We've heard a lot about the issues the people will speak on. I speak now as a churchman. I know something about the church structure and various church groups across this state. And make no mistake about it, there are thousands of Montana people who are going about their normal lives now with no fear of the gambling blight; but their heads will come up out of the sand when this issue comes to light; and any constitution removing the protection against organized gambling is going, probably, to be stuck permanently in the sand of a negative vote.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper, you have one more minute under the IO-minute rule.

DELEGATE HARPER: I don't need it. I'm done, Mr. Chairman, with the final comment that these flowers you see sitting around here, making it look somewhat like a cemetery, are going to be very appropriate, I'm afraid, for the burial of a constitution that takes this article out of the Constitution without any chance, at least, for a popular vote on it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Champoux, I think you were up next.

DELEGATE CHAMPOUX: Well, I'd like to direct a question at Mr. Choate here, if he'd yield.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Choate?

DELEGATE CHOATE: I yield.

DELEGATE CHAMPOUX: Mr. Choate, to allay any suspicions in my mind, or any others in this assembly, that there has been a notorious group pushing this-namely, Don Scandal, King Kong Kelleher, Ima Bleedingheart, Lyman Pure, Breck Shampoo, Pistol Pete Lorello, or Rod Dahood, or that notorious individual, Coffee Cup Kuglin-I'll vote for the measure.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Champoux, if you're through, I won't interrupt you. (Laughter)

DELEGATE CHOATE: If that's a question—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, Mr. Dahood.

DELEGATE CHOATE: (Inaudible)-saw one of them once downtown, but I don't recall for sure.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, Mr. Dahood.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: Mr. Chairman, I'm satisfied that I respect Delegate Harper as much as I respect any delegate in this Constitutional Convention, and in speaking on the issue, I'm not really opposed to the general premises that he has put forth today. His argument and his brief, however, are filed in the wrong state. We are not here to legalize gambling in the relative terms which he has painted; and with respect to the immorality of gambling, the type of gambling that we're going to be talking about here, which I will come to later on in my remarks-there is no immorality about it. Acts of human conduct fall within two groups: malum prohibitum, because they are prohibited by legislative act, by the law of man, or malum in se, because they are prohibited by the law of God or the natural law. Several years back, I had the occasion to have a world-famous theologian visit in Anaconda-he occupies a very high position in Rome-and I put the question to him, and he stated that gambling, as such, was not immoral; it was not contrary to the law of God provided it did not bring any type of suffering, chaos, turmoil with the people who participate in that activity or upon the family of the individual who does participate. We are not here talking about the legalized gambling that brings crime, that brings syndication, that brings undesirable elements to the State of Montana; we're talking about removing a law that is unenforceable. I do not imbibe in alcoholic beverage. I would like to see prohibition back again, because, in my practice of law, I have seen that particular element that's manufactured by man cause more heartache, more heartbreak, more family disunity, more domestic strife than anything else I can point to, and I don't think it serves any good purpose. I don't think it serves any useful purpose, and if somebody would move here now that we reenact prohibition, I will vote for it. And as my Vice Chairman, Chet Blaylock, said, "God forbid," (Laughter) But what do we have in Montana? We have a situation that makes criminals out of a large segment of our society every day. Every time someone plays a football card or a baseball pool, goes to a bingo game, or has a friendly bet at a football game or a basketball tournament, they are actually violating the law of the State of Montana; and let me assure you, it's only a matter of degree, but they have committed a criminal act. Now, what we're talking about is the present unenforceable constitutional prohibition of the State of Montana that is not reasonable, that is not accepted by the population, and thatcannot be just, because the majority of citizens in Montana will not honor it. And what is good and what is just for a particular people has to be measured by the manner in which it's implemented by the actions and conduct of those people in this state whom we consider to be law-abiding citizens that contribute to their communities. What we're talking about is removing a prohibition and placing it on the ballot, letting the people decide whether or not their Legislature, their representatives, ought to have the right to permit bingo, to permit, perhaps, some type of school lottery in the future—that's the type of thing that I'm talking about. I don't want Nevada-type gambling in the State of Montana: and I don't think any good, sound-thinking citizen does; and I think that if we brought that to Montana, allowed it to come here, it would be a disaster for the state, for its economy and for its people; and then we would have all the arguments that Delegate Harper has presented, living arguments that would be a sad lesson for all of us. But we have situations where people have lonely lives, and if this particular activity, which is not morally wrong-for example, going to a church bingo party or going to a bingo affair that's conducted by the American Legion-allow some of the lonely retired people to have something to do, something wherethey can visit, where it's not going to cause them any particular harm, there can be nothing wrong with it. I was in the County Attorney's office in Deer Lodge County for several years; I've been in that area for 20 years, since my release from the service. I've watched that particular activity; and I know that, technically speaking, it violates the law; but I have not seen any of that activity that I talk about cause any particular social problems for anyone in the community; and I submit that we've got to face the issue precisely in its proper, fair focus. I don't think it's fair to stand up here and try and relate this particular situation to the legalized gambling that we have in Nevada, to the legalized gambling that's written in the journals and the magazines, because that's not what we're talking about at all.

And the people of the State of Montana have been upset about this situation over the decades, and they ought to have the right to look at it on the ballot and decide whether or not they want to legalize these particular things that I have specified so that everyone in the State of Montana shall have the law fairly and evenly applied with respect to them. At the moment, in the State of Montana, in one county, we have strict enforcement of that particular situation; in another, we have laxity with respect to enforcement. We have a case of total imbalance. We have consternation about the law enforcement officers-they don't know what to do. They know they're unpopular if they do something like that, yet there are certain segments of law enforcement that insist it be done. And some will say, "Continue to enforce an unpopular law; you'll bring about its revision or its abolition." I submit it's time to exercise good judgment and common sense. Let's put it on the ballot, let the people decide it, because all that we have in mind are the type of things that I have specified and not the type of gambling that was pictured for us by Delegate Harper. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harbaugh.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Mr. Chairman, I assume that at this point, we're debating the-generally, the three mattters-three motions that have been set before us. Is that correct? General debate is directed to all three of these?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, general debate can be directed toward all three. I think that the debate at this point demonstrates that we don't want either one of the alternatives that have been set before us so far. I couldn't, in good conscience, I don't think, vote for Mr. Harper's amendment-or substitute motion. Neither could I vote for a motion which would remove this matter from the Constitution, as both the majority and the minority report do. I think that what Mr. Dahood has just said is very true. Rut I think that if we don't want the kind of hardcore gambling that he referred to in this state, then we had better do something here in this Constitution, and I don't believe that putting this issue on the ballot is the proper way to go about this. The majority and the minority proposal pointed out the fact that we have many, many statutes on the books at this point regulating gambling. Why do we have those statutes on the books? We have those statutes on the books precisely because we have a constitutional statement on this issue. Without that constitutional statement, we could very likely have wide-open gambling in this state and could have had it for years, and I don't think any of us wants that. If we want our state to be besieged, our Legislature to be besieged and harassed by gambling interests, then all we have to do is to take this out of the Constitution. And I speak from some background of experience. I spent 3 years in Wyoming and was closely associated there with a group of citizens who, year after year, went before the Legislature of the State of Wyoming to try to prevent the passage of legalized gambling bills in that Legislature; and we found ourselves powerless before these people who came in and who pushed gambling bills through one house-the Senate or through the House--and an interesting thing would happen. Just when it seemed that everything else had failed, as far as we were concerned, almost miraculously, the gambling issue was turned off. And how was it turned off? It was turned off by the Nevada people, because they didn't want the competition. And I submit to you that if gambling interests have this kind of power that they can manipulate and control alegislative body in this manner, that we don't want to leave the door open one crack for those people to come in and to influence our legislative bodies, and the only way to do this, therefore, is to write something in the Constitution which specifically prohibits certain types of gambling. Now, on the other side of the issue, we don't want to lock up the door and, as Mr. Dahood suggested, make criminals out of everyone who wants to play bingo; and I'm afraid that this is what's going back to the old constitutional statement, which Mr. Harper is proposing that we do, would do. So we need a compromise, and the compromise we need is one that is something like the one suggested by Mr. Kamhoot, which is on your desk and which we haven't come to, at this point, yet. Gambling is a constitutional issue. It's one of the fundamental principles of governmental structure that a constitution should include-things which protect the ethical and the moral rights of people. One more point along this line: the law enforcement people throughout this state, I believe, would welcome some type of clear constitutional statement on this issue. No one, from the Attorney General down to the lowliest Deputy Sheriff, in this state wants legalized gambling; but I think that we could do these people a great service if we could put something into the Constitution in the form of a compromise which would clarify this issue. I know that the proponents of these things always argue that they're going to solve the state's financial crises. They used a very interesting argument in Wyoming when they came in there. They said, "We're going to solve the educational problems of this state; we're going to give 3 percent of the take to education." And in the same breath, those same people turned around and said, "There really isn't very much money involved here." How contradictory can you get? There are tremendous sums of money involved when we open this up. So I urge that we defeat all of these proposals that are before us and that we go on and pass a suitable compromise, which I think Mr. Kamhoot's article is. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Scanlin.

DELEGATE SCANLIN: Mr. Chairman. I think I can agree 100 percent with what Delegate Harper has said, with one exception. I stand for the removal of the image of hypocrisy from the Constitution of the State of Montana. I was one of the first, I think, to appear before the General Government Committee-one of the preliminary hearings on both the Choate and the Belcher proposals. 1 testified, and I still sustain the deletion proposal. My reasoning was well stated in an article in the Great Falls Tribune, which is now a matter of record. If there is any chance to fight any form of commercialized gambling in the State of Montana, I will be the first to volunteer; but I object to it being a constitutional article. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Toole.

DELEGATE TOOLE: Mr. Chairman. I've been sitting here, shaking in my boots, preparing to answer the onslaught of Reverend Harper. Fortunately, you chose to recognize Delegate Dahood, who expressed my feelings precisely, is-in a much more eloquent way. I really do not react favorably to writing such words as "bingo" or "raffles" into the Constitution of the State of Montana. Thirty-five years ago, the game of bingo was unknown; and 35 years hence, it may be in limbo. I support Mr. Choate's minority proposal. I do not think it will turn Montana into another Nevada. I have been contacted by many people about this, and they're not gamblers; and I don't gamble, and gambling doesn't mean nothing to me. I think it's statutory. I told my constituents that it would probably be one of the first things that was taken out of our Constitution. It obviously has no place in a constitution. Therefore, Mr. Chairman, I sincerely hope that the minority proposal of Mr. Choate will be adopted.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown.

DELEGATE BROWN: Mr. Chairman. I rise in support of the majority report, and I'd like to discuss, briefly, why I think it's a better plan. I have been a County Attorney and an attorney, and I've been involved in this gambling thing. And we do have laws now on the books prohibiting gambling; but if you read them closely, it says, except cigar stores, et cetera, may have card tables and games of chance as long as they give you trade chips; and I've seen how that's abused. Several years ago the Legislature passed a law allowing nonprofit church-or clubs to have slot machines; so immediately every bar in the state formed a nonprofit corporation--we had slot machines all over the state. They have finally declared that statute unconstitutional due to this present prohibition we have. So, any gambling law you write has to be very carefully done, and I think you'd have to have investigation like you do on liquor licenses to make sure that places that do have bingo-which I agree with Mr. Dahood's statements-and that form of gambling, if you'd call it such, must be investigated and licensed or make sure they aren't a fictitious club or a fictitious church. So, I would like the minority not adopted, because if the Legislature isn't careful and if they don't properly define these things, you could have wide-open gambling without knowing it, and it would happen fast. If you adopt these other amendments that are going to come in and describe bingo, then you're going to describe various gambling games that can be done under a constitutional provision. Now, if you've ever been to Las Vegas, they have what they call "Keno", and it's one of their biggest games there. And if you start to say in our Constitution that you can have bingo or raffles by nonprofit clubs and you get a liberal interpretation of what a nonprofit club is by the Legislature or the Supreme Court or we miss something in here trying to legislate, then you're going to lock in gambling into this Constitution such as you never, maybe, had dreamed about when we passed these provisions, so I think the only safe provision-this is an emotional issue-is to retain the language of the majority report, which continues to prohibit all forms of gambling until such as the Legislature specifically approves. That'11 keep a tight rein on it, and it'll be legislative action after they can deliberate on it and not try and write something into the Constitution. And I agree with Mr. Dahood's arguments that we aren't trying to do what Delegate Harper said. We are trying to provide what I think a great many of the people want. Now, if they don't want it-we say we represent the people and we want to give them a voice in our government-then they'll defeat it; but why can't we give them the right to vote on it as a separate issue? And if we take the majority and they vote Yes, gambling will still be prohibited-in fact, we made it broader than the present Constitution-until the Legislature can deliberate and tell us what kind of gambling they want. So I respectfully submit, seriously consider these-and I've had experience with this trying to define a gambling device-and adopt the majority report and any abuses can then be corrected by the Legislature as they arise. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Melvin.

DELEGATE MELVIN: Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the remarks of Delegate Brown. I was a sheriff at the time of the fiasco when they had the nonprofit clubs and allowed the slot machines, and I have to take issue with Delegate Harbaugh. I think if we write a lot of definitions into this Constitution, that we're going to find ourselves in deep trouble. And, very simply put, I think it should be "there shall be no gambling" or "there shall be gambling", because any time we start adding conditions, we're going to find that we have nothing but court trouble; and I speak this as a former law enforcement officer. The Hickey Gambling Law, which is on the statutes right at the present time-in one section, it says that the game of Twenty-one is forbidden to be played; in the next section, it says that Blackjack can be played. I'm not too familiar with more than Whist, but from what I understand, Blackjack and Twenty-one are pretty much the same; and this is the sort of thing that we run into. I would suggest that everybody in here believes in majority rule or you wouldn't be here, and I would submit that the wisest thing this Convention could do would be to submit this on the ballot as an alternative, where the voters can decide whether to leave it to the Legislature or whether they decide that they want to have the present provision in the Constitution. Already we have provided putting the death penalty on there; I see nothing the matter with putting a section on having to do with suicide. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. President, I have restrained myself all day. I'd like to say "Amen" to my brothers Harper and Harbaugh and Brown and all of them. I think this conversation is really excellent. I think it really points up the problem you have on this gambling. Of course, we all know that it's not the churches that are—really want to get the gambling. I'm pretty-I'm sure we could be pretty well unanimous on that. I mean, the churches aren't advocating legalized gambling. And, of course, the service clubs that each year-that have those gambling games in the back of the room, like the Elks, and then at the end of the year, at graduation, they give a good-citizenship award for the kid that's the best student in government-with the money they made off of the gambling down there at the bingo and stuff, see? And no one sees anything wrong with that, as long as they'reusingitto good purpose. So I suppose what this-we put this on the ballot, then we can say, "Now, we picked a hundred people to come from all over the State of Montana, but we don't-they didn't know whether gambling's really good or bad; we're going to leave that up to you people. But we know about antidiversion and education; but that gambling, you know, that's really too fundamental for us to determine, so we're going to let you people determine whether gambling is really what we call reform-better government." Now, we're going to let the people say-if you think this is going to make a better state and better government, well, let them vote on gambling. You've got a problem leaving it with the Legislature. The Legislature has met this issue headon—1940—1969, House Bill 400 was passed, was presented in the Forty-first Legislature, legalized gambling; Senate Bill 39 didn't pass, '69, legalized gambling; '67, House Bill 463—let's make a state lottery for the University System and finance education that way-didn't pass; 1965, House Bill 245, legalized gambling; 1965, House Bill 135, legalized gambling; 1963, House Bill 238, legalized bingo; and there you go. You know, this Legislature that, as we get near the end of this session, that we've spoken so highly of on Tuesdays and so poorly of on Wednesdays, you know, they stood right up and be counted. They've had a chance to put that on the ballot every time, but those poor legislators, they didn't think that was very good law to put out on the books of Montana, so they just said, "Let's"-"We'll just take the blame; we'll just take the roasting right here"-and they stood up and they were counted, and they didn't put it out on amendment; they put out other things that they thought were more important. And I would say that whatever issue you take here, let's take 'er standing up and let's take 'er right on the chin. Now, I think we can take a muster here, and we've got a lot of eloquent voices and I hate to follow three ministers and a bishop-and Wade's a bishop--I mean, he's higher when it comes to eloquence than any of them-(Laughter)-to follow those fellows on any of the-on any of these reform things-but after doing 20 years in a County Attorney's office, law enforcement, and you have all the people come by and say, "Let's gamble during rodeo-a civic organization-it's a good thing for the community, you know, and it'll be good-we can put up street signs, and that's going to be good." It's a good civic project, and, of course, we don't want the guy next door-now, if a civic organization can do this, the guy next door to him, he's in competition with, can't do it-so, you know, they talk about this thing called "free enterprise"--we used to talk about years ago-and they say, "That doesn't hardly seem fair for us fellows to be running a joint here and paying tax and buying state liquor and the guy next door at the Elks Club, he can gamble and run us out of business, so we've got all those little problems-the law enforcement people." Now, I stood that for 20 years in my little town as the County Attorney; and on Wednesdays, I was a pretty good County Attorney, and on Tuesdays he got weak again and they'd say, "Well, we're going to give a $50 scholarship to the best fellow, so they're going to have a little bingo down at the Elks on Friday, but the money is going to go to a good cause." And then the church-they would have a little bingo. Let's not do it that way; let's decide here and now exactly whether this is good government, good reform. If you folks really think that this is really the kind of issue that you-there's a doubt in your mind-1 mean, if there's a doubt in your mind that this is one of the real big issues in our society and our government, you know-1 had an experience that way. I invaded four houses of ill fame in my community on the same day one time, and that was the worst thing that happened. The A-bomb didn't shake up the town near as much as this. The grocer about went out of business, the drug stores, the hairdressers, everybody in town-the guy-carpenter had his tools locked up, the appliance guy had stuff they're selling on time, and right on down the line. It was the worst economic shock you could get-(Laughter) Juke boxes and pay phones and everything else were locked up. (Laughter) Boy, now those are the kind of issues that really are fundamental in our society. (Laughter) And so, let's not pass it any place else. Let's just have the fun all right here ourselves and decide how you want to be counted here. This is going to be great. Let's see if this is one of the big issues of our day in 1972 or not. And shall we send it back to the folks back home and say, "That was too much for us, folks; you decide that 'cause-it might be reform, but it might not be-but we don't want to call it." Thank you. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Johnson.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman. Now, the boys down there in the Little Big Horn in the Powder River country don't understand this raffle business. You don't hear them-you know, raffling my horse against your $40 blanket, or something of this kind or this-They have a saying down there, "ad pune val ad mute"-that means, in that vernacular, the cowboys say, "put up or shut up". (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Ask, would you like to be next?

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Chairman, I hate to follow that. (Laughter) I have a motion that's way down at the end of the list here, and I don't know if it solves the problem or not, but I agree with Delegate Harper on gambling. I think gambling-legalizing it-you're-it's just a license to steal. But Mr. Dahood has said it very well: it's a real practical problem to Montana, and I think we are going to have to decide here today how we're going to handle it. I think-Mr. Davis—I can see his idea how we're going to handle it. Well, I think we have to look at this at a-from a practical viewpoint of what's going to happen. Let's just stop and think. Mr. Choate said he had 4,300 names on a-petitions over there; and I would submit that we could probably get a thousand names on a petition tonight, a Saturday night in Helena; but I would venture to say that Reverend Harper could get 2,000 names tomorrow morning, Sunday. (Laughter) The people that sign petitions are out activating things all the time, It's the silent majority that we're not listening to here, and I think Delegate Harper is right. He said if we take gambling section out of our Constitution—the new one that we're going to submit--we're going to lose a lot of support from the silent majority. They're going to come out here and vote against everything good that we've done, just because we took out gambling. Now, the majority report has it in here that gambling is prohibited unless authorized by the Legislature of the people. This is not going to satisfy this group of people, I don't think. And, to me, we don't have too many side issues, and I think we should submit this as a side issue. It's an emotional issue to the people; and it's not a constitutional issue, it's a moral issue, I guess; and my proposal-I don't know if I should discuss it, but maybe, briefly. What I have done is to submit this to the voter as an alternative. I've taken the majority report here, and they can vote for that, and then I have taken the first half a sentence of the majority that all forms of gambling are prohibited. Now we've got the issue, whether they want the Legislature to legalize it or if they want it prohibited absolutely. Now, we're going to get the people that are against gambling to come out and vote for our Constitution, and then they have a chance to vote against gambling here, absolutely; and also the people that are kind of on the fence here-they don't want wide-open gambling like Nevada, but they'll say, "Well, I like this one here, where it's prohibited unless the Legislature authorizes it." And I think we can talk all afternoon, but I think a solution like this to the people is going to solve our problem. And I don't submit it's a good constitutional argument; I'm just saying this is a practical approach and it's the one that we should take here. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Arness.

DELEGATE ARNESS: Mr. Chairman, I wasn't going to talk on this, but I can't resist, because the loggers have the same saying as the cowboys, and I thought that I should observe that to the body. Also, the-1 would like to support my friend, Mr. Davis. I think his analysis is the correct one; and the other day, he observed that after 90 days he became a lieutenant--and I think it must have been in the Marines. I like the attack that he wants to make, and I'd like to join his outfit. Carl, let's go get these guys. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Campbell.

DELEGATE CAMPBELL: Mr. Chairman. Being from Missoula, we don't have the problems that Delegate Johnson has in the Powder River country or Delegate Davis has in the Dillon area. We have a more sophisticated type of sin in our area. I was chairman of the Law Day program about a year and a half ago, and I went to a great number of groups to give talks, and I told them that you have to respect the law and it depends on the individual and the individual should start in his own lives respecting the law, and they were very much impressed-business groups, businesswomen, things like this. And then, at the end, they'd say, "We'd like to thank you very much for being here today, and as part of being our guest and everything, we're going to let you draw the winning lottery ticket on who collects the pot today." (Laughter) And this sort of dubious honor, you know, sort of made me feel that maybe we're missing our point on this thing. I don't think it's a thing that should be placed on a side issue on the ballot at all; I think that we can decide it here. I think the majority is basically correct, or we could delete it altogether. But I could spend many hours going to respond to Reverend Harper, but I would like to close just with this one poem-it's called "Ode to Reverend George": Your ideals are great for the best in our state, your solution most commendable; but as you follow your star, accept us as we are, and don't make sin unconstitutional. Thank you. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Leuthold.

DELEGATE LEUTHOLD: Mr. President. Would it be proper to submit another proposal at this time, or did you want to take a vote on one of the others?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You're next up. Let me see here a minute. You want to amend the majority proposal, and the majority proposal isn't before us yet. We have to either support or-the Chair might-you've heard enough, now-the Chair might outline for you what the situation is. We have the majority proposal, which would say that gambling is prohibited unless authorized by the Legislature or a referendum or initiative. Then you have the minority to delete the language, which really would allow the same thing but not foul up the Constitution with the language. Then you have Mr. Harper's motion to say that-which is-in effect, reenacts the present Constitutional prohibition against gambling. Now, Mr. Leuthold has an amendment, if we ever get to it, which would allow the-which would amend the majority report by deleting the words "acts of the Legislature", so that the Legislature couldn't authorize gambling, but the people could, through initiative or referendum. Then, Mr. Kamhoot has an amendment which would be in lieu of the first-in lieu of the majority proposal-and--"The Legislative Assembly shall have no power except as herein provided to authorize lotteries", et cetera, "and shall pass"-"to authorize lotteries or gift enterprises for any purpose and shall pass laws to prohibit the sale of lotteries", and so forth, "provided the games of chance commonly known as bingo and raffles shall be lawful if conducted by bona fide religious, charitable, civic, fraternal and veterans organizations", and that the Legislative Assembly should enact legislation authorizing the playing-lawful playing of bingo and raffles—so, he would allow some gambling under the Legislative control. And then Mr. Ask has the proposal he described, which says to put on the ballot two issues: one, Section 11 as it is, that the legislator—Legislature or the people can now authorize gambling, but otherwise it's illegal; and, two, to make gambling illegal, period-in other words, the people should choose whether to make it illegal or whether to make it illegal only under the Legislature. And then, Mr. Johnson-No, I take it back—that's on-that's a new section. Then, Mrs. Reichert has one here, the upshot of which would be to place on the ballot a slightly different thing than Mr. Ask's: "The Legislature shall have no power to authorize lotteries or gift enterprises of any purpose and shall enact laws to prohibit the sale of lotteries and gift tickets"-similar to Mr. Harper's, except that goes on the ballot, Yes/No. Now, that's what's in the bag of tricks up here. And Mr. Leuthold, I don't mind putting yours, but yours doesn't apply to Harper's, whose is up next; so it would seem to me that you can describeit and then go ahead.

DELEGATE LEUTHOLD: I would like to call attention to the delegates—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Hold it a little closer.

DELEGATE LEUTHOLD: I'd like to call attention to the delegates that, in the discussion here, why, I feel that my proposal will offer somewhat of a compromise between the two extremes. I-in my proposal, I've merely deleted "the Legislature". Now, the-it would have to be submitted to the people, either in a referendum or the people would present an initiative to the Legislature; so the Legislature will be involved, but the final decision would be made by the people. Now, in all our other articles, the Bill of Rights and so forth, we've given power to the people to make decisions, and I think this is one place-it's a serious business, it's been presented as a serious business on the floor—and I couldn't preach a sermon like Reverend Harper, but like Delegate Davis, I'd like to say "Amen" to what he has said-but I think we have to give a little bit and yet not be too restrictive. In the proposal I am presenting, it will still be in the Constitution, but it can be submitted to the people; and I hope that you keep that compromise in mind as you do your voting.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Romney.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman, since 1889 we've had no gambling in Montana (Laughter) and I don't think now is the time for us to start it. I don't battle a bit with Delegate Harper's views about some of the woes that result from gambling. We all know that what he said is largely true, but there are other sides to the coin. I don't think that the Constitution of the State of Montana or other-any other state or any of our acts of the Legislature are-should be filled with sumptuary legislation, and that's what this is. We've seen the ghastly failure of Prohibition. We know that the idea was splendid. I think the late President Hoover called it "the noble experiment", but it failed. We recall the laws of the Puritans; you weren't allowed to kiss your wife in public, things of that character-didn't work. We've had this antigambling thing in the Constitution since the Constitution was promulgated in 1889, and every one of us knows that's ever been around the state of Montana at all that it has been outrageously flouted by a large section of the people. And that section of the people were the ones who were the victimized, largely by their refusal to heed the tenets of the law; the people who responded to the law and heeded it were largely uninjured by the gambling. So I think we've got into a position where we've got to do something about it. I don't like to see a constitutional provision which is flouted, ignored, contemptuously treated. I think that we should have something in our Constitution that we can abide with. So I think that perhaps it should be placed upon the ballot, as the delegate from Roundup suggests and as other people has suggested. I think it should be first exterpated from the Constitution in any form whatsoever and placed on the ballot, and the people that want to restrict gambling can-if they have the votes, they can see to it that the rest of the people who want to gamble can't do it, just like they haven't been able to do it since 1889; and the people who are in-desirous of gambling can do so, and they-ones that-who do not wish, if the gamblers prevail, can still refuse to gamble. So that way, everybody would have their cup of tea. But I don't think it's wise to continue the way we have been going since 1889. I think we should face it, as distasteful as the choice may be. It's no worse to place gambling proposition before the voters than it is to place the public lynch law on the ballot, and we've done that. So, I think that we'd better go ahead and follow the delegate from Roundup—take the matter out of the Constitution, let the people decide it, and then go from there.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I find, in these late weeks, that I'm usually very frequently agreeing with both Mr. Harper and with the distinguished gentleman from Ravalli, but now I don't have-1 can't agree with both of them, but I must say I agree with-1 couldn't agree more than I do with Mr. Harper. We're stating a document of principle here, one that's going to govern the State of Montana in all the foreseeable future, and I think we have to stand on a principle, and that is a principle that denies the institution of gambling. And I don't approve of any left-handed way of avoiding that principle by submitting it to the people, and I assume that's what Mr. Davis was saying, but I wasn't altogether sure. Now, in addition to that, Mr. Harper's proposal has an extremely practical effect. We can adopt that proposal in about 5 minutes and do away with about 3 hours more of debate on all the other proposals that I can see coming up. And I think he's eminently right, besides that. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Kamhoot.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Mr. Chairman, these last two speakers have kind of inspired me here. I'm wondering if I'm going to get a chance to introduce this proposal; so I would like to ask you, at this time, would it be in order?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Leuthold, I would skip over you simply because yours amends a specific one and I'm not trying to go out of order, but yours does amend a specific one that's not before us. If-in order to get your issue before us, Mr. Kamhoot, if you want to make a substitute motion to Mr. Harper's motion, we'll place yours before the body for awhile. May the clerk read it?

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Yes. I would like to do that, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Clerk, will you read Mr. Kamhoot's?

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. Chairman. I move, as a substitute motion to Mr. Harper's substitute motion to amend Section 11, page 6, of the General Government Number 12 committee proposal, line 1 through 4, in its entirety and inserting in lieu thereof the following language: 'The Legislative Assembly shall have no power, except as herein provided, to authorize lotteriesorgift enterprises for any purpose and shall pass laws to prohibit the sale of lottery or gift enterprise tickets in this state, provided that games of chance commonly known as bingo and raffles shall be lawful if conducted by bona fide religious, charitable, civic, fraternal, or veteran organizations; and further provided that the Legislative Assembly shall enact legislation authorizing and regulating the lawful playing of bingo and the conducting of raffles so as to carry the provisions of this section into effect.' Signed: Kamhoot." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Kamhoot, has your provision been placed before the delegates?

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Mr. Chairman, it has.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Allright, just a moment, now.

Mr. Blaylock, for what purpose do you rise?

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: To a point of order.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, what's your point?

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: To see if I'm right. I thought-as I understand it, the majority moved the proposal on gambling—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: -then they moved as a substitute the minority proposal—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: -then Mr. Harper moved his as a substitute to those two, so we have two substitutes before the body, and in the past you have only allowed two substitute proposals at a time.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Mr. Blaylock, you're partially right. I've, in the past, allowed three matters at a time, depending on how they were styled. I don't think I've allowed a substitute motion to a substitute motion before. It does seem to me that we have seven possibilities on gambling; I merely want to get all of them before the body. If I would style Kamhoot's an amendment to Harper's, then I would be authorized to do it under the old rule. It doesn't seem tomeitmakes much difference. Do you want to-do you object to my putting both of these before the body and letting them debate them all at once?

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Yes, I do. I think-because in the past, you've said-you've always said, "Let's clear some of these out, then if we get back to it-"

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, we've got three more to clear out later. All right, I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll strike the fact that it's a substitute motion. Mr. Kamhoot, I'll allow you to amend Mr. Harper's motion by striking the language thereof and inserting therein your language, which is of a similar nature but with a different aspect to it, and I'll call it an amendment instead of a substitute motion. I'm sorry, Mr. Blaylock. Just a moment.

Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: May I simply point out-and I'm just trying to help you a little bit here-that, really, Mr. Kamhoot's is an amendment to mine in that it has exactly the same wording and then instead of-he just adds an additional—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right. That's right. He adds additional language. He calls it—

DELEGATE HARPER: You saw that, I'm sure.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: He called it—actually, he claimed in his written material before you that it was [an] amendment to the majority proposal, but what he's really doing is adding a sentence to Mr. Harper's Now, before you start, Mr. Kamhoot, I'd like to set the stage again, so that everyone keeps this in mind. The majority says, no gambling except the Legislature or the people can authorize it. The minority says, delete the entire section, because then we'll have the Legislature and the people able to authorize it. Mr. Harper says, "I'd like the old Constitution to say; namely, really, no gambling." Mr. Leuthold has an amendment to the majority which hasn't come up here which-yet, which would simply eliminate the Legislature and say we'd have no gambling unless the people allowed it. We have now got Mr. Kamhoot's before us, which says, no gambling except regulated bingo, et cetera, et cetera, can be authorized to certain people. And then, if we get through these, we have two ballot proposals--one by Mr. Ask to put Section 11 on the ballot and pair it with a no-gambling provision and let the people choose, and one by Mrs. Reichert which says, "Shall we put the old Constitution in-Yes or No?" Now, that's what's before us.

And, Mr. Kamhoot, if you'd like to discuss your proposal to add to Mr.-to add language to Mr. Harper's, you may do so now.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I thought it imperative, perhaps, that we get this one out here so we could discuss it before everyone ran down talking about the others and talking about this one before it had been presented. Delegate Dahaod is not in the room; I wish that he were. I believe that he gave all of the exact reasons why my amendment should be accepted here today, except that he wanted to go to the trouble of putting it on the ballot. So I certainly thank Wade for that. I think Delegate Brown, perhaps, said about the same thing-that the Legislature could very well control this. That is exactly what my amendment says: that the Legislature can control whatever evil may crop up in this. Delegate Romney and Delegate Schiltz, back here, have really inspired me, though, because they want to get it done with right quick and give it up to the people and let them get to thinking about it. I think Delegate Davis-Delegate Johnson said it properly: that we ought to settle it right here; and I think this is the place. I'm going to read my opening statement. There are reasons for that, and I'm sure that many of you will think about as we go along. I would hope that, if the press is here, that they pick this up exactly as I read it. This is a subject that I have thought about a good deal in the last several years. I have never been convinced that open gambling in Montana would be in the best interest of our state. I have no addiction to gambling, as some people do. I could either embrace an open gambling law or not; it wouldn't matter. However, I have had some unpleasant experience as a result of gambling. I'm very interested in removing certain restrictions from our Constitution which prohibit senior citizens from the enjoyment of many hours spent in the excitement of playing bingo for insignificant prizes of minor value. I also know that local service clubs have had difficulties in raising funds for their many community projects, since they cannot hold raffles to raise funds. This is not an interest that has developed since I came to this Convention. In 1969, I followed very closely the progress of Representative Stratton's bill to have an amendment presented to the voters for their consideration. This bill passed each house of our Legislature with a good margin. However, it never got on the ballot due to a Governor's veto. I introduced a delegate proposal in this Convention, which I hoped would accomplish the same thing. This proposal was rejected by the General Government Committeein their deliberations. The proposal was hastily and poorly drawn to accomplish what I really intended, and I agree with the committee's action.

Having given more thought, I decided to ask the highest legal office in our state for some very narrow guidelines within which the integrity of our gambling law could be preserved and still provide for the enjoyment of our senior citizens and, in addition, provide the means whereby civic clubs could again have a way to raise the badly needed funds for their community projects. I also feel it is proper and good judgment to have the confidence and advice of our state legal department. It is this same department that will be living with and enforcing this law if it is adopted heretoday, and I hope that this body, in its wisdom, will adopt my amendment. I thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Choate.

DELEGATE CHOATE: Mr. Chairman. I would resist the substitute motion-or the amended motion-whatever-we'll call it "Mr. Kamhoot's "-on the premise that we did study this problem for about a month in committee and, basically, the majority and minority reports differ very little, the only difference being that in the one instance we have language in the Constitution that makes reference to it and permits legislation to alter it-that--. The minority proposal differs only in that we feel that the wordage is redundant and unnecessary, because the statutes are clear and very definite and all-inclusive. So, a few things are emerging here that appear evident. It seems like we are generally agreed that the proposition, if put to the people, should allow them a choice either way-to retain the present prohibition that we have or to allow the Legislature to act. I think the Legislature does have the ability to write a good article-or a good statute, I should say-that would permit the kind of gambling that they know the people would prefer. I am sure they're not going to open it to any wide-open situation at all, and I think rather than for us to try to draw something hastily here and decide in an hour or two's time that it's a well-drawn statute, I think that we'd be well to accept either the majority or minority position-and preferably, the minority, because in this case, ifit's to be placed as a side issue on the ballot, the document could be written with a deletion of Section 2 of Article XIX and then that be placed-that present Section 2— be placed as a side issue. We would only have one for them to keep from being confused by; and this is the reason, basically, why we in the minority felt that a complete deletion of it on the one hand, with a chance to vote on retention of that section on the other. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Cain

DELEGATE CAIN: Well, I'd like to rise— raise another issue, and this is a matter of discrimination. If you accept Mr. Kamhoot's proposal, you are going against my right. I like a game you have not mentioned, and I want to play it in a place that you have not allowed. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: While you're thinking about that-(Laughter)
Mrs. Erdmann.

DELEGATE ERDMANN: Mr. President, I simply rise on a point of inquiry. Would Delegate Kamhoot yield to a question?

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Yes, I'll yield, Mrs. Erdmann.

DELEGATE ERDMANN: I would like a definition of "raffles". This probably shows how limited my experience is, but legalized raffles— would this be legalized lottery? Thank you.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Mrs. Erdmann, I suppose one of the lawyers should do this. My idea of a raffle is where you sell chances on a— perhaps a radio or a freezer or something like these civic groups are always doing because they're trying to raise money that they can spend in their communities for the projects that they have. And, now, they can-have a very difficult time raising this, so the raffle, in my mind, is the selling of these chances so that they can provide the services for their communities. That's my interpretation of a raffle. If an attorney has a different one, why, I would certainly yield to any of them that would like to give it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Belcher.

DELEGATE BELCHER: Mr. Chairman and delegates. This has been one of the most healthy debates we have had on this floor, on one of the most controversial issues, without any heated arguments or anything. What we are really getting back to now is exactly what General Government Committee, in their weeks of deliberation on this thing, has discussed. We are getting back to the majority-or minority report. They both have the same end, really. The only difference between the majority and the minority report is that the majority report does spell out exactly what the people are voting on: the Legislature can enact it, or it can be done by referendum. Going back to Delegate Harper's remarks--we have our head in the sand. I don't think we do. I don't think any of us have our head in the sand. We know people are gambling in this state. I go to church every Sunday that I'm home, if I can, and I went to his church here one Sunday and he gave a very fine sermon. I'm on the board of trustees of my own church in my hometown, but on a Saturday night, I might go out and play at a tavern for a dance, too. So I don't think I have my head in the sand, and I don't think that the committee did have. I think we should get to deliberating on these issues and get away with these proposals that are coming in and start voting on them and start eliminating them. I'm in favor of the majority report.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Siderius.

DELEGATE SIDERIUS: Just for a point of information. I understand that all these fairs they have parimutuel horseracing. How are they controlled, and how did that get into being?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Gysler, are you volunteering?

DELEGATE GYSLER: I'm volunteering. Parimutuel betting on horseraces was-is authorized by a statute; it is not authorized under the Constitution. The case has never been-come up before the Supreme Court, so just where it stands is anybody's game.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Siderius.

DELEGATE SIDERIUS: Will Mr. Gysler yield to a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Gysler?

DELEGATE GYSLER: Oh, I'll yield, I may have already told you all I know.

DELEGATE SIDERIUS: Is that considered legal-legal gambling?

DELEGATE GYSLER: Mr. Siderius, I don't really know what the term "legal" means. As long as nobody pushes the situation and files the case, I would presume it is going to be legal. I imagine it's legal until declared unlegal. (Laughter)

DELEGATE SIDERIUS: Will Mr.—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Siderius.

DELEGATE SIDERIUS: Will Mr. Loendorf yield to a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Loendorf?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: I yield.

DELEGATE SIDERIUS: What is your interpretation of that?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: Yes, Henry. The difference is this, I think. Gambling is defined as something where you pay some money—consideration; you take a chance and can win a prize. At a horserace you pay money, you exercise skill, and you win a prize. (Laughter) That's the—that's why on-track betting is legal; off-track betting-bookmaking-is not.

DELEGATE SIDERIUS: Will Mr. Loendorf yield to another question?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: I will yield.

DELEGATE SIDERIUS: Who is—who—you--would you be betting on the jockey or the horse, in that case?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: I-when I bet at the races, I'm gambling. (Laughter)

DELEGATE SIDERIUS: That's all.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, Mr. Ward.

DELEGATE WARD: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates. I should state my case. I'm a veterinarian and these horses are part of my livelihood, and I would say that anybody puts a $2 bet on one of those horses, he's gambling, with no question. I don't do too well myself sometimes, and I even treat them, so-I'm forbidden to bet on them myself, according to statutes. I could tell you how this bill was put through in 1965. I helped lobby it a little bit, because I had a selfish interest. This bill was set up to circumvent the Constitution and was passed as a breeding-breeders' bill. It went through the Department of Agriculture, and so there's ways of getting around these things. This has a statute in it that designates every racemeet, that there be a race held for Montana-bred horses. Now, this means that any horse's papers-the owner's address is in Montana, and part of the purse goes back to that owner, no matter whether he's changed hands three or four or five times. It has never met the Supreme Court test, so when this bill went through, they had to repeal all the dogracing laws, which-we raced dogs for awhile in Montana, but nowwedon't-and, ofcourse, this horseracing industry in Montana isn't as big, but I expect that as long as we don't go to the Supreme Court and they rule it out, that it'll get bigger. It brings in some income, and it's still a $2 bet.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown.

DELEGATE BROWN: Mr. Chairman, I think this parimutuel betting brings up a good example, that if we try and get too restrictive and define bingo and raffles and things, we're going to get in trouble. There's no doubt in my mind that parimutuel betting is unconstitutional; the minute they start rocking the boat and taking it up to the Supreme Court. And Mr. Kamhoot's-he says bingo and raffles, they shall provide for it. If it's abused, the Legislature couldn't do anything about it; so I think, go with the majority, then the Legislature-it'll all be prohibited until they make specific exceptions under proper regulations—and put it on the ballot, like Mr. Ask has requested; and I hope we can vote.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Cross.

DELEGATE CROSS: Mr. Chairman. The Legislature has been brought in here a number of times as the logical body to decide this, and I would like to read a letter from Senator Thiessen from District 3, representing McCone and Richland Counties. This might help you make up your mind. "I am convinced that the antigambling clause ought to remain in the Constitution. The reason is that legalized gambling is not in the best interests of the state, and if you leave it up to the Legislature, it brings about a very serious problem when seeking new sources of funding state government. I think the least you can do is to place it on the ballot as an alternate proposal as the North Dakota people did in their final draft. Sincerely, C. R. Thiessen."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Toole.

DELEGATE TOOLE: Mr. Chairman. Webster defines a raffle as follows: "From the French, a dice game; a lottery in which a participant buys a chance to win the prize."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Mr. James.

DELEGATE JAMES: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, I wonder what the odds are on us voting tonight?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: They're pretty good on voting tonight. (Laughter)

Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Fellow delegates, Earlier I wanted to give a loud "Amen" to Mr. Harper, too; and, delegates, I don't know if you've ever heard the explanation of sin-it's what others do, not what I do. And under Mr. Kamhoot's definition here, all we have to do is be a member of the right church or the right organization and then sin would be all right and it's no longer a sin. Also, our senior citizens-I have worked with senior citizens throughout the State of Montana. Senior citizens want the right to do something to be of service to the people; they want to feel needed and wanted. I don't really think they want bingo as full-time employment, but, friends, let me tell you that the one-armed bandit is no more addictive than the bingo tables, and I have seen this many years ago and-in the town of Butte, where, day after day, the same people would be going to the bingo tables. I feel very strongly about keeping this in our Constitution as it now is. If we do not do this, we must give it to the voters for their decision or we will place our Constitution in jeopardy. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, the Chair is going to ask that we start sticking very strictly to the question here. And I think we've all heard quite a bit, and if you have something additional to offer, fine; but otherwise, let's get ready here to vote pretty soon.

Mr. Harbaugh.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I thought maybe you were confusing me with this rose here for a little while. Now, I think that really we have missed the point. There are two things that the people want, as I understand it; and I don't think that any of the proposals before us, other than Mr. Kamhoot's, satisfies what the people want. And it seems to me that the two things that they want are this: number one, they want the assurance that we will not have hard-core gambling in the State of Montana, and the only way we can provide that assurance is by some kind of constitutional statement-now, both the majority and the minority proposals fail at this point; secondly, they do want to be free to hold bingo and raffling games. Now, I fail to see how putting this thing on the ballot gives them the choice for what they want, because if we put this on the ballot in the way that has been proposed, they have to choose, then: one, either to throw the thing to the Legislature, which means opening it up to legalized gambling; or to have no gambling at all, which means that they cannot have the social games that they want to have. And it seems to me that the only reasonable way out of this solution, even though it probably is not the kind of thing that we would like to see in the Constitution, is to vote for Mr. Kamhoot's proposal or one similar to that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harlow.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates. As you know, I get disturbed with words. I would like someone to tell me what bona tide religious organizations are, and then I also would like to bring your attention to the fact that Section 5 of the Bill of Rights, dealing with freedom of religion--no laws are to be passed, sort of, about religion-and here, if this amendment put forth by Mr. Kamhoot passes, you are passing laws either regulating or giving various privileges to religious organizations. So I think we are not on the right track, and with those few short remarks about what is a bona fide religious organization and can we pass laws giving religious organizations certain privileges that we do not give someone else, I don't think we're thinking very clearly. I am opposed to the Kamhoot amendment.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank, you were up, and I don't want to go out of order.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Thank you, Mr. President. In response to what Reverend Harper said, I would say "Amen". In response to what Mr. Dahood said, I would say "So be it". Mr. Davis has said that we should decide this issue here and now. I would point out to Mr. Davis that the people of Montana have never been given an opportunity to vote on this question since the first Constitution was adopted. Until this Constitution is adopted, the people have never had an opportunity to propose a constitutional amendment by initiative. It has always been necessary to secure a vote of two-thirds of both houses of the Legislature to have a constitutional matter referred to the people, and then they've had to consider whether or not it would come within the three-amendment procedure. This will be the first time, if the majority proposal is adopted and if it is given as an alternative, along with Reverend Harper's proposal, for the people to decide for themselves and settle once and for all this issue which we think we are so wise to determine. Reverend Harbaugh's proposal does not meet the situation, nor does Mr. Kamhoot's, because we attempt to do here in a matter of hours what the Legislature can work out in due care and change if they have made a mistake. We have put directions to the Legislature in specifics which are unwise, and I would like to refer to what Bruce Brown said in his remarks about why it is necessary that this go to the people. Bruce Brown, if you know him, is one of the most "nonconstitutional, everything is statutory" people you can meet, and for days and days he argued about "we should have this deleted from the Constitution", and it took a lot of thinking on his part to realize that the people were entitled to the assurance that some ill-conceived law that may remain on the books might open gambling wide and to bring-and to come into line with the majority proposal requiring specific action. I agree with Mr. Ask. First, I want to cover Mr. Leuthold's amendment. He would strike "by acts of the Legislature or", so it would appear that you could do this by the people through initiative or referendum. I would call to Mr. Leuthold's attention that the Legislature-any act of the Legislature can now be referred to the people by them, and if the people do not like it, it only takes a 5-percent vote to refer it; and I think it is much better for the Legislature to have the chance to struggle with these measures than to have them come in directly through initiative and for that reason the majority proposal-by acts of the Legislature-should remain in there. Mr. Ask has pointed out something very real to all of us. I would like to think that the people have something to vote for in connection with this Constitution, not something to vote against. If we accept Reverend Harper's proposal as it is and left that in the Constitution, all of the people who have never had an opportunity to vote on this question and express their will are being denied. By the—accepting the majority proposal, if it goes out as an alternate to the people, you can have the majority or you can have the Constitution as it was. The purists can vote against it and those who want the majority proposal can vote for it, but they still have the protection of the Legislature and initiative and referendum to take care of their positions on how far they want the Legislature to go; and I think, in all fairness, the people are entitled to finally have a chance to vote on this measure; and I think the proposals that they should have a chance to vote on are the Constitution as it is now, Section 2, as put in by Reverend Harper, and the majority proposal, Section 11. And the reason I think Section 11 should be in there, rather than the minority, is that it spells out to the people without any arguing, without any talking. You can say that the minority does this, but you're not sure. We think it does. But under Section 11, the majority proposal, anyone voting on it knows thatifthey do not want to take the purist attitude that Reverend Harper takes and Jack Schiltz takes, that they do know that there will be no gambling which is not authorized by their representatives or by themselves; and I urge you to support the majority proposal and put it on the ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Burkhardt.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: Mr. Chairman. I rise to second, I think, what Otto has spoken of, if I understand him. I didn't get sent here primarily to defend or reject the current section on gambling; I came for a number of interests in our Constitution. And I think when we are challenged to the heroic stand of doing this for the people, we may be ignoring the situation that we actually are in, and that is that in many reforms in government that we have already written in that we don't want to jeopardize, and I think-I've just lost a bet. Arbanas sent me a note a moment ago and said, "I'll bet you talk before I do," and I lost that bet and-but it seems to me that what Otto said gives us a chance to put on the ballot a choice between what we currently have and between the Section 11 which would-then we can come and fight in the Legislature every year and the Mafia can waste its money here in Helena, trying to get this thing through. I think our people are going to know that they don't want to sell out to this kind of extreme form of legalized gambling that Mr. Harper was outlining, but it would give, in the situation we find ourselves in, a strong reason for people to turn out and vote at our constitutional election.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is on Mr. Kamhoot's language to not allow gambling except for bingo and raffles, under control, in the religious, charitable, and so forth, institutions. Now, are there others that must discuss this?

Mr. Wilson.

DELEGATE WILSON: Mr. President, this has been belabored a lot. I would like to point out to this Convention, though-however, that the present statute-article you have in your Constitution has prevented syndicate gambling from entering the State of Montana. If this ever happens that they can get into Montana, it's going to propose a lot of problems for law enforcement; and I think law enforcement all over the state is against having this type of personnel get into the state. I would call for a roll call vote on the question, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: We'll have a roll call vote. Is there any discussion beforeweput Mr. Kamhoot's motion?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is on Mr. Kamhoot's motion that "The Legislative Assembly shall have no power, except as herein provided, to authorize lotteries or gift enterprises for any purpose and shall pass laws to prohibit the sale of lottery or gift enterprise tickets in this state, provided that games of chance commonly known as bingo and raffles"-bingo and raffles-"shall be lawful if conducted by bona fide religious, charitable, civic, fraternal or veterans organizations; and further provided that the Legislative Assembly shall enact legislation authorizing and regulating the lawful playing of bingo and the conducting of raffles so as to carry the provisions of this section into effect."

Mr. Kamhoot.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Mr. Chairman, may I close?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: I will be very brief. In the majority report-it's been mentioned several times that the majority report said that they would put it on the ballot. I don't believe it does say that, only in the remarks. Now, I realize there are probably other amendments that will do that. I would like to point that out, though-that as they have it in Section 11, it does not say they'll put it on the ballot. I have had a good deal of mail and other communication on this subject, and these have averaged at least three to one to not open Montana up to gambling except as this amendment will provide. It has been pointed out to me, and it is true, that gambling does not create any wealth; it only redistributes it. I have no personal interest in opening this up, other than I would certainly love to see some of our senior citizens be able to engage in this exciting and enjoyable thing. I have an amendment here that is very, very closely drawn. The guidelines are very tight. You can talk about it all you want to, but I think you'll find very few reasons-valid reasons-to say that this is not going to control this type of gambling, if we want to call it that. I would rather say that it would take it out of the category of calling it gambling and let a few of these people live out their lives the way they would like to without harming the state by bringing in legalized gambling or submitting the Legislature to a tremendous pressure at every session-one group trying to open up the gambling; another group trying to keep it closed. I thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, so many as shall be in favor of Mr. Kamhoot's proposition, vote Aye; and so many as shall be opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to—

Mr. Leuthold.

DELEGATE LEUTHOLD: When Delegate Kelleher left, he wanted me to inform you that he and Delegate Murray had paired on all gambling votes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Pairs are not allowed, but if they're not here, I guess they're paired. (Laughter) Any other delegate want to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 15 delegates voting Aye, 77 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 77 having voted No and 15 Aye, Mr. Kamhoot's motion is defeated. The issue is now on Mr. Harper's motion, which is the present Constitutional sections on gambling and prohibits gambling.

Mr. Scanlin.

DELEGATE SCANLIN: Mr. Chairman, I think that Delegate Ward has adequately described the term when I used--when I said "hypocrisy in our present Constitution". I wonder if Delegate Cain would yield to a question.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Cain?

DELEGATE CAIN: I yield.

DELEGATE SCANLIN: What is the name of your game? (Laughter)

DELEGATE CAIN: What if I would say "penny ante poker"? (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Mr. Harper, I'll let you close if something else doesn't happen-but I'd like to let the rest of them debate, if they want to, Mr. Harper's proposition, shortly.

Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: I would like to ask a question, not debate, Mr. President. As I understood, Mr. Ask had a motion up there that would place the majority proposal and Harper's proposal on the ballot. Is this correct? And if we vote against Reverend Harper's proposal, what is the result, as far as getting these two issues on the ballot?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: If we vote against Mr. Harper's motion, then I suppose the issue would be open for another substitute motion to put it on the ballot. That would leave the deletion one up. However, I don't see that Mr. Ask's—

(Inaudible remark from floor)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I wouldn't say that.

Mr. Ask.

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Chairman, could I move my motion for all motions now pending-or substitute motion for all motions pending?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You placed me back in the position Mr. Blaylock had me, but I won't be able to get out so easily. In other words, your particular motion doesn't include Mr. Harper's language, and so it's not going to be easy to amend-to say that you're amending Mr. Harper's language. He's already a substitute motion. Mr. Blaylock pointed out that I don't generally allow two substitute motions.

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Chairman, my wording is different, but it's the same basic intent-1 mean, much simpler.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well-but Mrs. Reichert's motion is identical, so, you know, that puts me in a kind of a tough position, doesn't it?

DELEGATE ASK: Well, we can wait, I suppose, on that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I don't like to make a second substitute motion, and yoursreally changes the whole language to a different set of facts.

Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Mr. Chairman, would it help if I made my motion now, since it is identical to Reverend Harper's except I would like the proposition on the ballot? I'd like to point out the difference between mine and Mr. Ask's is that in the amendment I offered, there is a choice for deletion; in the amendment offered by Mr. Ask, there is no choice for deletion-it's either no gambling at all or gambling such as proposed in the majority proposal through the Legislature and initiative. So therefore, if it is in order, I could place my motion now; otherwise, I'll wait.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I suppose I could hold it in order, Mrs. Reichert, but it would put us in the position of deciding a lesser thing—namely, the ballot proposition-before we've decided on the basic thing, and I would prefer that you let Mr. Harper's motion be voted on one way or the other, and then we'll know whether that's the sense of the body. If it's the sense of the body, fine. If it isn't the sense of the body, you will be given an opportunity, and so will Mr. Ask, to make your motions.

Very well, I think we're ready for you, Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Mr. Chairman, I think this is the best process. If my motion is sustained, that will be that. If it's defeated, then these other suggestions can come up-like Mr. Ask's very fine suggestion. While his words are not exactly like those words in the present Constitution, I believe when we examine them, we'll find maybe it makes the issue more clear. I would just like to say, in closing, that I appreciate Mr. Campbell's poetic gesture a moment ago, although I am forced to observe it wasratherpoorpoetry (Laughter) and I'm not so sure but what maybe poor policy. Sometimes-I'll put in parentheses "if not always"-to act on principle is-turns out to be the most practical way to act in life, and it just--I've been called a purist. Maybe it's that way. I suppose my proposition could be put like this: that the only practical way to deal with gambling in a close-knit society like ours is to leave it completely alone. With that, I close.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. The issue, which will be by roll call vote, is on Mr. Harper's substitute motion to put this language: "The Legislature shall have no power to authorize lotteries or gift enterprises for any purpose and shall maintain laws prohibiting the sale of lottery and gift enterprise tickets in the state", which is the present constitutional amendment--or constitutional language. So many as are in favor, vote Aye; so many as are opposed, vote No. Have all the delegates voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 36 delegates voting Aye, 56 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 56 having voted No and 36 having voted Aye, Mr. Harper's motion is defeated. Now, the Chair would like to observe that Mr. Choate's minority to delete is up, and if either of you other two move to amend that, then the other-or move to substitute for that, the other won't be on. It doesn't much matter whether we delete it or whether we leave it alone. Let's defeat or sustain the motion to delete, and then we'll offer two amendments-yours and Mrs. Reichert's—and find out which way we want to do it, if that's what we want to do. Maybe we want to go back and leave it deleted, or maybe we want to go back and leave it the minority report--or the majority report. But let's get back to the basic proposition before we authorize the ballot thing. Otherwise, we're going to get only one ballot proposition before us at a time. Is that agreeable with you, Mr. Ask?

DELEGATE ASK: (Inaudible)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert?

DELEGATE REICHERT: (Inaudible)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, we're on yours, Mr. Choate. Do you care to close?

DELEGATE CHOATE: Yes, Mr. Chairman, I'm ready to close, with the understanding that this proposition would permit the placing of our present Section 2 as a side issue on the ballot, because this has been the understanding of both the majority and minority committees, I believe, that the proposition of the side issue on the ballot could be in either case if this body wishes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, you see, if we adopt yours, we'll have the slate clean and then we're ready to decide what to put on the ballot. If we don't adopt yours, we've got the majority report and somebody can move to amend it and somebody can move to substitute. All right, Mr. Choate has closed; and the proposition, then, ladies and gentlemen, by roll call vote, is on the minority report, which is to delete the majority report from the Constitution and take all references to gambling out of the Constitution. All in favor, vote aye; all opposed, vote No. Have all the delegates voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, close the ballot.

Mr. Chairman	Nay

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 30 delegates voting Aye, 60 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 60 having voted No and 30 Aye, the motion to delete fails, and we're back on Section 11.

Mr. Ask.

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Chairman, could I move my motion as a substitute motion for the majority report and have the clerk read it?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You may. No, we'll go to Mr. Leuthold's if we ever stay on the— Section 11. Let's decide the issue now whether we're going to be on the ballot or not.

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. Chairman. I move that an alternative section to Section 11, page 6, of the General Government Proposal Number 12, be submitted with the new Constitution as a separate issue. The following proposal should be submitted: 'Section 11. Gambling. All forms of gambling, lotteries and gift enterprises are prohibited unless authorized by acts of the Legislature or by people through initiative or referendum. Section 11. Gambling. All forms of gambling, lotteries and gift enterprises are prohibited.' Signed: Ask." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Ask, are— is your proposal on the desks?

DELEGATE ASK: No, it is not. They said printing was closed, so—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, that's right. Well, just-let me just state it. Tosummarize Mr. Ask's proposal, it is-and you may want to take notes on this-that Section 11, as it exists on page 6, be one alternative and that the first line of Section 11, putting a period after "prohibited", be the other alternative. In other words, we're either going to have, under his proposal, gambling-or no gambling except that the Legislature or the people may by-may do it, or we're going to have no gambling.

Now, Mr. Ask, do you want to explain that? And then I'll go to Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE ASK: Yes. Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, this proposal puts the majority report and then the first line of the majority report on the ballot, and I think we've discussed it enough-the pros and cons of whether to put it on the ballot or not-or gambling-and I won't go into that. The only thing I would say-that they mentioned that Mr. Harper and Mrs. Reichert are going to put in the old Section 2, and the reason I used the first line of the present Section 11 is much clearer. If you look at the old Section 2, it says: "The Legislative Assembly shall have no power to authorize lotteries or gift enterprises for any purpose and shall pass laws-and shall pass laws— prohibit all-the sale of lottery or gift enterprise tickets in this state." What I'm saying, in my alternate here, is that all forms of gambling, lotteries and gift enterprises are prohibited-is prohibited. It will be clearer to the voters when they're voting whether they're voting for item Number 1 or item Number 2. They're the exact wording. One says it's prohibited; the other says it's prohibited unless authorized by acts of the Legislature. And some may say, "Well, why don't you just put one alternate on there?" And I don't think that's quite fair either, to just say-just-this is a half-way compromise between the people that think there ought to be some allowance of gambling-in other words, you just say "no gambling" or just leave it up to the Legislature. I mean, it's got to be-this is kind of in between, and I think this should be clear, and if this body does decide to submit it to the voters, I think there certainly would be no misunderstanding that-what the question is. Also, I'd like to refer to page 13 of the majority report. They indicate the committee recommends that, if at all possible, the Convention decision on lotteries and gambling be presented to the voters as a separate issue, and I think that's to the point we are right now. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to Mr. Ask's amendment. I think it is interesting, but I think it would be a much better choice for the voters to simply to able to say Yes or No to gambling. That is what they did in North Dakota. I call attention to your alternate-their alternate proposition Number 4, and it is simply what I have stated-Yes or No. I think that it would make it sound like an echo, but the minority proposal, when it suggested deletion, stated: "The minority proposal and the majority proposal would accomplish the same end with regards to gambling. Both would leave the matter to statutory law, where extensive provisions prohibiting gambling already exist. Neither provision would legalize gambling of any nature." And I contend, by just voting Yes or No on this constitutional provision, we'd accomplish the same thing as we would with Mr. Ask's amendment but the people wouldn't be given two choices they'd have to think about. I think we'd cloud the issue. I think it would be much simpler for the voters to either say Yes or No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert, do you move, as an amendment to Mr. Ask's substitute motion, your language?

DELEGATE REICHERT: Yes. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Will the clerk please read it.

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. Chairman. I move, as a substitute motion, to amend Section 11, page 6, line 1, of the General Government proposal by deleting it-"

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Clerk, we'll just say that she moves to amend Mr. Ask's proposal by saying-go ahead-put an alternative on the ballot that says—

CLERK HANSON: "-that will read in the following manner: 'The Legislature shall have no power to authorize lotteries or gift enterprises for any purpose and shall enact laws to prohibit the sale of lottery or gift enterprise tickets-Yes or No.' Signed: Reichert."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, now, members of the body, you have before you two alternative ways of placing this on the ballot. One is a Yes/No proposition by Mrs. Reichert on the old constitutional language, which has prohibited gambling up till now. The other is stating that we shall have no gambling unless the Legislature allows it, or that we shall have no gambling at all. Those are the two things we're talking about. Now, Mrs.-let's see, you've talked.

Mr. Harrington.

DELEGATE HARRINGTON: Mr. Chairman, I rise to oppose Miss Reichert's amendment. I feel that it would do a disservice to the people here who feel that the majority plank-I think it would be-1 just don't think it would get to the issue, and I think it would-the people would be mixed up on this, and I think it would be a poor way to go on the ballot. I would go along with Mr. Ask's. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: Mr. Chairman. I would oppose Mrs. Reichert's amendment, too, and the majority of the committee would be very happy to accept Mr. Ask's proposal, because this would do exactly what we had in mind. It would allow the voters to have a chance to have their say on whether they want gambling or not, with legislative controls, and it would reassure everyone that gambling would be prohibited until the Legislature actually authorized it by specific action. So the committee would endorse Mr. Ask's proposal, and I would oppose Mrs. Reichert's.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Blend.

DELEGATE BLEND: Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of Mrs. Reichert's amendment. I think this is one of the days that we should consider that the people do have some sense, and I think a clear Yes or a clear No would settle the question. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Kamhoot.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Mr. Chairman, would you read Delegate Ask's proposal without the Reichert amendment to it, please.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Delegate Ask's proposal is, the following proposals would be submitted to the ballot: "Section 11. Gambling. All forms of gambling, lotteries or gift enterprises are prohibited unless authorized by acts of the Legislature or by the people through initiative or referendum." Or, in place of that, "Section 11. Gambling. All forms of gambling, lotteries and gift enterprises are prohibited." In other words, it's Section 11 or Section 11 with a period after the word "prohibited". It has the effect of putting on the ballot whether they want no gambling or whether they want no gambling, but authorized by the Legislature, we can have it. It would have to be an alternative-the ballot would have to be prepared in the alternative somehow.

Mr. Davis, you were up.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. President, fellow delegates. I reluctantly oppose Mrs. Reichert, after we've voted the same for 49 days, but I will have to oppose her on this issue. I think that Mr. Ask has come up, probably, with as good a compromise solution as we can have. If we do have gambling, it's going to be controlled by the Legislature. No one wants Las Vegas or Nevada type gambling in Montana. So, if they put both of them on, they both have to read--and, as Mrs. Blend says, they're going to be intelligent, so they can read, too, and decide which one they want. Then they can still get back to the type that the people want, through their elected representatives. If they want to continue to restrict it to bingo and so forth, they could do it. Under the Yes or No thing, it could be interpreted to open the states wide-open to all kinds of gambling, and for those who are—which I'm not-hut for those who are in favor of a little bit of gambling, which I consider to be just like being a little bit pregnant-but if they-if some do want just a little bit of gambling, well, let's give them a chance to do it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman. I was wondering, is Mr. Ask's amendment now on the floor and Section 11 on the floor that it could be amended?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Section 11 is the original motion. Mr. Ask's is an amendment—Mrs.--or a substitute motion, and Mrs. Reichert's is an amendment. We're going to consider Mrs. Reichert's first, but assuming we ever got to Mr. Ask's or Miss-or the original, and they, of course, could be amended—

DELEGATE BATES: Could I mention—what I would like to do here is have Section 11 amended by leaving out "by acts of the Legislature or-"

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, that's Mr.-

DELEGATE BATES: -so that it would read-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's—Grace, that's Mr. Leuthold's amendment. If we ever get back there, he'll make that amendment. He takes "the Legislature" out but leaves "the people" in.

DELEGATE BATES: That's right, and I would—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, that's Mr. Leuthold's-if we ever get back there.

DELEGATE BATES: Okay. Therefore, I would oppose Arlyne Reichert's amendment and would go for the alternate proposal with the amendment. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Chair wants to observe something. Maybe the two people that are up are going to observe it, but the Chair wants to point out to you that maybe Mr. Ask has proposed a Yes/No proposition, too. I'm sure that Mr. Schiltz, if he's awake back there, will have thought of the fact that the language of Mr. Ask's two proposals is identical down through the word "prohibited", so I presume the Constitution would contain the phrase "All forms of gambling, lotteries and gift enterprises are prohibited." Then the alternative would be, do you want the Legislature and the people by initiative and referendum to have the alternative to change-to allow gambling? Yes/No. I just want to point out that Style and Drafting may have this right back in the same Yes/No box, and you can decide what you want to do, but you ought to understand it.

Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Mr. Chairman, I think we're finally at the end of a long road or maybe coming out of the end of the tunnel. Let me make two observations. One is: Arlyne, I'm surprised at you. (Laughter) Now, I'm often surprised at you, but I mean on your wording. Actually, you say this would make a Yes/No deal and be very different from Mr. Ask's-"The Legislature shall have no power to authorize lotteries", et cetera. You say they can vote Yes on that, and that's substantial. But suppose you vote No? I guess the only thing you vote No to is the word "No", so the opposite would be, "The Legislature shall have power", and it would be put right back to the Legislature. I don't really see the difference between the two. I think Mr. Ask's is more clearly worded and draws the issue. And, now, may I refer back to some things I said earlier in helping to start this ball rolling-and we are concerned about this, and I am very concerned about it-1 think this would give people on-who want to keep the present Constitution as it is-the sense of it as it is-only more clearly stated in Mr. Ask's proposal-or in the majority proposal, I should say. It will give them the chance to vote for this, and they are not having to ratify a constitution that makes gambling legal at all in any phase. They can go that far. And the people who want to leave this, now, to the Legislature to give the kind of more freedom that the majority report is asking for have a chance to vote for it, too. Now, it is true we are not giving people who want wide-open gambling with no restrictions at all a chance, but I sense that this body does not want to even infer that we want that kind of thing here. So, it seems to me that Mr. Ask's proposal, now being accepted by the majority, is really the sensible way to go, and I'm personally quite pleased to see it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper, the Chair feels constrained to comment. I hate to argue with you, but Mrs. Reichert's Yes/No proposition is Yes, to put this language in the Constitution, or No, to leave it out; which means that her alternative is the minority report of deletion. You see-you with me?

DELEGATE HARPER: Yes, I'm with you, but I simply suggest that it still would be up to the Legislature.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. I'm just-1 just think that I-I want everybody to understand what we're doing here.

DELEGATE HARPER: All right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Pemberton.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: Thank you, Mr. President. I would like this delegation to know that, during the campaign-both in the primaries and the general election-I visited Alzada, Montana, and held my meetings in Dempsey Dodd's Bar and Cafe, which is-there aren't very many places in Alzada to meet. (Laughter) And the boys in Alzada, both times, said, "Mrs. Pemberton, how do you feel about gambling?" Well, the first time, I passed it off, and I said, "Well, everyone believes in motherhood and bingo." Well, the next time, they said the same thing-"How do you feel about gambling?" And I said, "You'revery serious," and they said, "Yes, we are." So, on behalf of Alzada, they are not interested in Rem-type or Las Vegas-type gambling, but they would like to see something to this effect in the Constitution. I suggest that it be deleted, but I would also support Mr. Ask. And thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert, would you like to close?

DELEGATE REICHERT: Yes, Mr. Chairman. I'd like to answer Delegate Harper. It'sreally too bad that he hadn't been a delegate to the North Dakota Constitutional Convention, because they came up with the exact same proposition that I mentioned and they have a Yes/No on their ballot. But I think that as far as-when we get right down to it, Mr. Ask's amendment and mine are identical, except he is stating that we could leave it to statutory law; I am stating merely that we could delete it and thereby statutory law would take care of the situation. And with that, I'll close.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the—

UNIDENTIFIED DELEGATES: Roll call.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: We'll have a roll call vote. The issue is on Mrs. Reichert's amendment to put the old constitutional language--or the present constitutional language on the ballot as a Yes/No alternative. Ifthe people voted Yes, we'd leave it in; if the people voted No, we'd have no reference to gambling in the Constitution, and the Legislature, of course, could act in that case. Very well, all those in favor of Mrs. Reichert's proposition, vote Aye; all those opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 22 delegates voting Aye, 70 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 70 having voted No and 22 Aye, Mrs. Reichert's motion does not prevail and is defeated. We're now on Mr. Ask's motion that we have a ballot alternative, which is Section 11 against Section 11 down to the word "prohibited", period.

Mr. Leuthold.

DELEGATE LEUTHOLD: May I make a motion to Mr. Ask's?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You surely may. Do you want us to read it?

DELEGATE LEUTHOLD: I would like to submit my proposal incorporated in Mr. Ask's one section there.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, Mr. -read it as an amendment to Mr. Ask's first alternative, Mr. Clerk.

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. Chairman. I move to amend Mr. Ask's Section 1 l-first Section ll-by deleting the following words: 'acts of the Legislature or by'. Signed: Leuthold." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, now, Mr. Leuthold will amend Section 11-you can find the language on page 6—which is Mr. Ask's first alternative, and he takes out of it the right of the Legislature to act. In other words, he would say there shall be no gambling unless the people through initiative and referendum allow it.

Mr. Leuthold.

DELEGATE LEUTHOLD: Mr. President and delegates. Just briefly, I'd like to explain what I'm trying to do here. I feel that any proposal to the Legislature-they're going to be under terrific pressure, regardless of how the proposal is to be presented; and I feel that it will relieve a lot of their pressure if they, in proposing a gambling measure, can submit it to the people. And I feel that, in the final, the people should make that decision; so what I'm doing is taking the Legislature out. Now, they will still have the right to prepare a referendum to be submitted to the people, but the people will make the final decision.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown.

DELEGATE BROWN: Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to that amendment. Mr. Habedank touched on it. But oftentimes initiatives are very loosely prepared; and this is a serious issue, an emotional one; and if you allow the Legislature to have the power, they'll take the time to investigate it, have hearings and write proper bills. And I would really be worried if we take all that power away from them, so I think we should stay with the majority report.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harrington.

DELEGATE HARRINGTON: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, I rise to oppose Mr. Leuthold's amendment. I agree with Mr. Brown that the Legislature will, in their wisdom, take thetime to do a good job on this, and also, I feel that it's not any more than what we have right now. All we're voting on is to do just exactly-we have now. We have theright, now, through theLegislature, to set up a referendum or initiative; so I don't think it's actually adding anything to it. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Hanson.

DELEGATE ROBERT HANSON: Mr. Chairman, I'd like to rise in support of Mr. Leuthold's amendment. I have spent-1 spent three sessions around here, and I know what they run up against. In 1969, George Johnson from Conrad brought in a bingo bill, and it was killed many times in the House, and they finally got it-he was able to bring it to life-it was killed and brought back in the Senate many times, and it was finally vetoed by the Governor. And at $10,000 a day or more, I think the Legislature has more important things to do; and this way, I think the people could make the choice.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Conover.

DELEGATE CONOVER: I've been sitting here very quietly all afternoon, and I want to thank Tom that he sure-that he didn't put the farmers in there, because we would have been in a bad shape.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, Mr.-someone else was up.

Mr. Romney.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman, I just want to remind my friend from Lake County that the reason the Legislature could not do anything in '69 was because they had a constitutional inhibition.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is—

Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Yes. I support Delegate Leuthold. I feel, however, that we should add another amendment. Would I be in order? It would be the end of this, to state that under thecontrol of the Legislature, should the people by referendum decide.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Mrs. Bates, I don't see how that's physically possible. Now, if you want to prepare some language and send it up here—In other words, if you know the initiative process, it starts by a petition in the field, and after the initiative-Are you suppose—are you saying that the people can direct the Legislature to do this?

DELEGATE BATES: No, but the-if they initiate some type of gambling or lottery, then it should be under the control of the Legislature.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see. I see.

DELEGATE BATES: And therefore I feel there should be an addition-but just exactly how it should be worded, I don't know-but I do feel that if the Legislature is to be strong-armed each year they are in session by the people that are for gambling, it would be a bad situation.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bates, the Chair sees your point-that you want whatever gambling is finally allowed, if it is, to be under the control of the Legislature. Let's wait till we get the final language. If the final language is bad and that's a flaw, then someone surely will make an amendment; but let's not make that amendment now, when we got two or three more to go here.

Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. President. Now, is Mr. Leuthold's to substitute completely for Mr. Ask's, or is he amending part of Mr. Ask's?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, he's merely amending part of Mr. Ask's, at the moment.

DELEGATE DAVIS: I see. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: We're sort of having a test run on him. All right, the issue is on whether or not to amend the first half of Mr. Ask's proposal, to go on the ballot, by taking outthefact that the Legislature would be authorized to do this and leaving in only that the people would be authorized through initiative and referendum. All in favor of Mr. Leuthold's amendment, say-vote Aye; opposed, vote No. Have all the delegates voted? This is a roll call vote. It's the Chair's if there's any question.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Take the ballot, please.

Mr. Romney, for what purpose do you arise?

DELEGATE ROMNEY: (Inaudible) (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Mr. Romney, you may announce that you would have voted No if you'd had a chance. The record will so show. Mr. Romney wants the record to show he would have voted No if his button had registered.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 12 delegates voting Aye, 77 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 77 having voted No, Mr. Leuthold's motion is defeated. We're back on Mr. Ask's proposal to place on the ballot a proposal that would say--an alternative that would give the people a chance to choose between Section 11 as it appears on page 6, and the first clause in Section 11—all forms of gambling and gift enterprises and so forth are prohibited, period. The choice would be between prohibiting gambling and prohibiting gambling unless authorized by the Legislature or the people.

Mr. Anderson.

DELEGATE OSCAR ANDERSON: I— As I said the other night, anything North Dakota can do, we can do better; and I support the Ask proposal to prove it. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is on Mr. Ask's amendment.

Mr. Ask, do you want to close?

DELEGATE ASK: I close.

(No response)

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 83 delegates voting Aye, 8 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 83 having voted Aye and 8 voting No, Mr. Ask's motion prevails. It having prevailed, we don't reach Section 11. It having prevailed, Mr. Leuthold's amendment doesn't reach Section 11. Are there other proposed amendments to Section 11?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: If not, members of the committee, you have before you, on the motion of Mr. Ask that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 11 as amended by his proposal, that we recommend the same be adopted. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted as amended. If you'll all turn to page 15 in your books.

Mr. Belcher, does the minority care to propose its new section?

DELEGATE BELCHER: Mr. Chairman-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: If so, I'll have the clerk read it. Do you want it read?

DELEGATE BELCHER: Yes; if you would, please.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Will the clerk please read the minority proposal on page 15.

CLERK HANSON: "Minority Proposal Number 1. Be it proposed that there be a new constitutional section to read as follows: 'Section 12. Boundaries. The sovereignty and jurisdiction of the State of Montana shall prevail within the area encompassed by the following boundaries: Beginning at the point of intersection of the 104th meridian of west longitude and the 45th parallel of north latitude, thence clockwise west on said parallel to its intersection with the 111th meridian; south on said meridian to the crest of the Rocky Mountains; northwestward on said crest, the Continental Divide, to the summit of Lost Trail Pass, intersecting there with the southeast and the area of the Bitterroot-crest of the Bitterroot Mountains; hencenorthwestward on the crest of the Bitterroot Mountains and Range to the 116th meridian; north on said meridian to the 49th parallel; east on the said parallel to the 104th meridian; and south on the said meridian to the place of beginning'." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Ladies and gentlemen, we do have some other things to finish up. We're nearly through with this article. I know it's late, but I think we'd better try to finish this article, so if you'll all stay with us and listen, we'll get through quickly. These shouldn't be very difficult matters.

Mr. Belcher.

DELEGATE BELCHER: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does rise and report, that the-after having had under consideration General Government Proposal Number 12,

Section 12-I think it is-it recommend the same be adopted.

Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Belcher.

DELEGATE BELCHER: This is a very short article. We did have, in our old Constitution, the boundaries of Montana as defined. They were defined by the Organic Act, too, but a man by the name of Mr. Walter Stamm from Dillon has done a lot of research on this thing, and he has come up with a little better description. If we want a boundary for the State of Montana-I don't think we're going to be taken in by Idaho or North Dakota or Wyoming or Canada or any of those other states—but if you want boundaries listed in it, I propose this boundary that is listed in your General Government Number 12.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. President, there's a gentleman from my community who's been very interested in the boundaries being in the Constitution, and when I came up here I was not very encouraged that we could justify leaving these in. But, I see North Dakota and Hawaii and all the other states left theirs in. He's done a lot of work on this, and when I compare this with that beautiful Preamble that says "the quiet beauty of our state, the grandeur of our mountains, the vastness of our rolling plains", and then you get over here and we talk about the crest of the Rocky Mountains and the Continental Divide, the summit of Lost Trail Pass intersecting with the Bitterroot Mountains, I think it ties in there. I think it's beautiful. I think we should put it in. We've got plenty of other things in that aren't near as poetic as this, and I don't think you should have to go looking through all-get a research analyst to find out where your boundaries are any more, so I would support Mr. Belcher and put it back in our Constitution. I think it would be very nice in there.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Melvin.

DELEGATE MELVIN: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates. I submit that the description here is faulty. Now, I discussed this with the committee, and it doesn't indicate any jog for Yellowstone National Park. Now, Yellowstone National Park was formed a hundred years ago this year. Montana—the State of Montana—came into existence in 1889. More than likely, in the territorial act, this description was correct, but I submit that there's 3 miles' jog and down in the corner, that is still the property of the United States, because when I filled out the complaints before the United States Commissioner, one of the things was under the exclusive jurisdiction of the United States, and I don't think we should try to start a war with the federal government. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harlow.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates, I support these boundaries. In the research committee report, it said "all the waters within the boundaries of Montana", so if we don't have any boundaries, how do we know where we're going to get our water? Now, I do not have the fear that Delegate Melvin has. We have one other national park within the state--within the boundaries listed here-and we do not state in the boundaries that Montana includes all that land within these various boundaries except the Glacier National Park. And I do not think it is necessary or that we are jeopardizing our sovereignty by leaving that little piece of Yellowstone Park in the state of-within these boundaries on the thing. We know that's part of the National Park, the same as Glacier National Park is, and if we start excluding part of the Yellowstone National Park, we'll have a sort of a no-man's land in there that will be difficult to administer by anyone.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown.

DELEGATE BROWN: Mr. Chairman, I'm not going to use this word "delete" after I leave this Convention, ever again. But the reason we deleted it-it's no big thing to debate all night—but our Organic Act had one description in it; our present Constitution has a description that's different from the Organic Act; and this third one-it might be correct; I'm not sure-but like Mr.—Delegate Melvin said, there is some doubt about it-and Walter Stamm is a very fine gentleman, and I appreciate all the work he's done-but I thought if there's going to be any ambiguity or differences in description, we'd be best to leave it out, and we can't change it anyway, and I'm ready to vote. Thank you, sir.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Robinson.

DELEGATE ROBINSON: Mr. Chairman-I'm all in favor of getting the boundaries in. but—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Romney.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: —I think that-if you'll refer to the Article I in the present Constitution, the word "Bitterroot" is spelled two words, and I did that 82 years ago and it stood the test of time until the recent corruption of it by the Forest Service, and I suggest that Style take a good look at it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Belcher-Mr. Habedank, do you want to speak?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Yes. Mr. Brown pointed out his reasons for deleting. The reasons of the majority for putting it in have also been explained, in that we feel that a person should not have to go to ordinances and different items of this kind to find the boundaries. I'd point out to you that if, by some stretch of the imagination, this boundary is incorrect--as it's suggested it might be, in spite of all the research-we're not going to change Montana, because of the Organic Act, anyway. We'll just have what we have, and if we claim more than we've got, Uncle Sam won't give it to us, so we might as well claim all we can. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Belcher, you may close.

DELEGATE BELCHER: This will be very brief. This boundary thing, I think, is something that might help us with our Constitution. There are some sentimental people who would like to see the boundaries of their state defined, and this would do it. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Members of the committee, you have before you for your consideration, when we do rise and report, upon the recommendation of Mr. Belcher that we recommend that the minority proposal Number 1 on boundaries be included and recommended for adoption. All in favor of that motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and it's adopted.

Mr. Jacobsen, you have a motion up here for a new section in General Government. May we read it?

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Please, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Will the clerk please read Mr. Jacobsen's motion.

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. Chairman. I move to amend Article XII, General Government, page 6, on the-of the General Government Committee report, by adding a new section to read as follows: 'Section 13. The Legislature shall provide that the State of Montana shall refrain from engaging in any monopolistic business. Any such existing monopoly must be dissolved by the Legislature in the first assembly after the adoption of this Constitution or by December 31, 1974. This section does not prevent the Legislature from regulating or taxing according to the law.' Signed: Jacobsen and Johnson." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Jacobsen has proposed a new section to the General Government Article which has the effect of taking the State of Montana out of monopolistic businesses. It is similar to the one he had the other day-and I'm sure the purpose is the liquor control business, but I don't want to suggest that it's limited to that-but I'll let him discuss it. But that's the proposal.

Mr. Jacobsen.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: You-Was the last proposal read there-the policing and so on'? The white one I gave you this morning?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, I think that's not on it. Do you want to read the addition?

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: The one that I had-is that-that's the one-the white one I gave you this morning.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I don't—this is the only one you gave us that I know of.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: That's the one, then. As you possibly all know, I brought this up the other day, and the exact thing has happened that Mr. Vermillion told me would happen-that we're here at 6:30 in the evening on the last article on our General Government-so I'm not going to take a lot of time, but you've all been-have the reports of the—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Jacobsen.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Yes?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Would you rather-1 don't want to put you in a bad position-would you rather run the risk of suspending the rules on Monday morning? I'll call on you on Monday morning.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: If-1 know that a lot of delegates would like to get away at this time, and—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I'm going to go through the rest of the things we have on the General Orders, but if you want to take it off now and try again-but you'll have to suspend the rules on Monday morning. I don't want you to feel that we-that you're cramped. If you want to withdraw it, you may then make a motion to suspend the rules Monday morning.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Well, that will fail, I am sure, so I'll go ahead with it right now. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's a Hobson's choice, Mr. Jacobsen.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Yes. As you know, the monopoly liquor business in Montanais a political bureau of our state. It is and has been nothing more than a political football. With each change of political party, the liquor store vendors are changed, and possibly a lot of the sales people, too. If we could be assured of good businessmen or -women as vendors, it wouldn't be so bad, but this bureaucracy monopoly is nothing but political payoff for services rendered to either party. I sincerely believe we must take this opportunity to take politics out of our state government. There is just too much politics in politics. With the state out of the liquor business, we could make one more step towards trust in our elected officials and we would be creating a new industry for the private enterprise people of our state. Private enterprise, as I stated the other day, is the backbone of our nation. We would not lose one red cent by doing this but would gain millions of dollars as private enterprise would be paying taxes on not only new and improved properties, but on the inventory transferred from state stores to private stores—increased income taxes, too. You all have on your desks a paper pointing out the facts about the liquor business and a few of the many irregularities. On the reverse side are other facts and one idea how the Legislature can implement the liquor business to make sure that, the state has control, policing powers, and sets prices and taxes to prevent any loss of revenue. In fact, it could gain considerably through better business practices by private enterprise. Now, look at the actual operating statement of the Montana Liquor Control Board. Just look at the tremendous expense the board pays for a four million, nine hundred and thirty thousand net profit on hard liquor, and this statement clearly shows you that salaries and commissions were, in the year 1969-1970, $1,712,489. These will go up, because the liquor vendors now are under union. The result will be we will be paying extra prices for our liquor. Freight and drayage is another item—$249,999—which is added to the cost of our liquor. There's a double shipment of this. It's shipped into Helena and then reshipped out to the stores about the state, where if private enterprise had it, I'm sure that some of the breweries even could have warehouses and so on about our state to distribute in a better manner. Industrial accident insurance, $30,000; employee benefits, $162,000, which would, of course, be going up; store audit and examiners fees, $59,673; machine rentals, $41,475. This is a total of $2,677,000-plus; and, of course, any ordinary businessman can look at that net profit figure from the Liquor Department of four million nine hundred and thirty-one thousand, and with an expense of over two million, six hundred seventy-seven thousand, this is not good business. We can save, and I was told-as I repeat again-1 was told we could save over two and a half million by taking the state out of this business. Now, the expense sheet is only the start. With the employees of liquor stores unionizing-1 told you that-warehouses, a new warehouse is also planned at the—to the tune of three to four million dollars. The end results, of course, of these things will be just, of course, higher taxes to you. I can refer again to the half gallon of Ancient Age liquor that sells in Denver and Cheyenne, Wyoming, for $8.30. Here we pay eleven fifty-five. Let's, through the very—throw this-turn this very expensive business over to a private enterprise with private taxes, too, and we would help finance this great state. We have added many financial problems to our next legislative body. I want to see our state grow and prosper. It can do just this and keep full control over taxes, licenses, policing and markups. Bureaucracy must be reduced. We have spent a lot of time here considering and reconsidering many articles and sections. Now, consider your vote, as of the other day, by ridding our state of this monster bureau. Just think of the advice given us by John Gardiner and recited the other day. This is our one opportunity. When I was asked to-when I decided to run for this Con Con, one of the things that I thought: "Well, this is my chance to see if I can't go over to Helena and help rid our state of some of the very poor political things that are in this state." Thank you. I think there's a few more people that want to speak on this.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, is there—

Mrs. Robinson.

DELEGATE ROBINSON: Mr. President. I hate to do this, but I feel very strongly that this is the very same thing that Mr. Aronow proposed this morning. I think that if we do this, this really amounts to a reconsideration of a past action, and I think that we should deal with it accordingly. I don't see any difference in this and what Mr. Aronow attempted to do.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Robinson, the Chair has thought about that, and you may be entirely right. The other day, when we discussed it in the other section, we did mention that it was a subject that probably fell much more within the ambit of General Government than the one this morning, but that may be.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: A point of order on this same matter. I would like to refer you to Section 159 of Mason's This is the same substantive matter that was killed here a couple of days ago, and I think the only way we can consider it is by reconsideration.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Holland.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: I submit that this is materially different than the one the other day and we owe these gentlemen the courtesy of the vote on this because this is much broader amendment than his original; although it reaches the same business, it may go well beyond it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Chair can look up the language that we had the other day. Is the language that Mr. Jacobsen has proposed today substantially different than it was before?

Mr. Jacobsen.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: The section that he just read, did that say the Legislature shall provide that by December 31, 1975—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No—

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Is that what the one you read said?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It says, "The Legislature shall provide that the State of Montana shall refrain from engaging in any monopolistic business."

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Well, now, this proposal I handed you this morning, Mr. President, states: "Be it proposed by the Constitutional Convention of the State of Montana: Section 1. There shall be a new constitutional section to provide as follows: 'The Legislature shall provide that by December 31, 1975, the State of Montana shall no longer engage in the business of buying and selling liquor. This section does not prevent the Legislature from regulating-from voting-"'

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, all right-Mr. Jacobsen, first of all, I'm not going to argue with you about whether you gave it to me or not this morning, but I-the one I-you gave me I have, but that's not the one you just read, so will you, first of all, withdraw the one you've made—or the one I have-which is the one we made.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Mr. President, I'd like to withdraw the—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Now, then, having withdrawn that, will you bring to the Chair the one you have in your hand or one-give us a copy of it. We don't have it.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Just send—either send us your copy or-Oh-1 don't know where the others are.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: I gave them to you in your office this morning.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right, and I brought them and gave them to the clerk. And that's what we're reading, so apparently you or we got mixed up and we have your old one instead of your new one.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: That's the monopolizing one.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I understand, but that's-it's a new set that I had this morning, so you and I have gotten mixed up.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Yes. The monopoly business is not in this section I'm proposing. I'm strictly talking about the liquor business.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, Mr. Aasheim-Mr. Jacobsen, you do make your new one here?

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Yes, I propose this; and if-you'll see it has policing and control powers with the Legislature.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Mr. Aasheim, he has proposed a considerably different amendment here, limited to the liquor business-"The Legislature shall provide that by December 31, 1975, the State of Montana shall no longer engage in the business of buying and selling liquor. This section does not prevent the Legislature from regulating or taxing the retail or wholesale sale of liquor--regulating, controlling, policing or taxing the retail and wholesale sale of liquor." That is certainly a different matter than we discussed the other day and does seem to the Chair to fall within the ambit of General Government.

Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I would just like to read what the-what Mason's says: "It was an ancient rule that when a bill was once passed or rejected, another of the same substance could not be brought in again during the same session." However, they do have this alternative. They can, by reconsideration, do so-and that would be the order of business-order in which they should do it, I would say.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I can't hold, Mr. Aasheim, that a bill regulating the sale of liquor-or an amendment taking us out of the liquor business is the same as an amendment taking us out of any monopolistic business. That's just not the same thing. The other is much broader, so I've got to rule that this is a different matter and it does fall within General Government. Now, 1'11 allow your amendment Mr.-I'll allow your motion, Mr. Jacobsen, and if anyone wants to challenge me, they can.

Mr. Harlow.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Mr. Chairman, I feel that the motion of Mr. Jacobsen is in order. He appeared before the General Government Committee-he and Mr. Johnson-proposing this same idea two or three different times. The Committee turned it down. They didn't feel that it was part of the Constitution, and I rise in opposition to his motion because, as he said, it has been debated many, many times. And I merely want to state out that, from a survey of all of the states in the United States, of the 18 control states, they drink less whiskey and make moremoney than do the32 licensed states, so I see no reason why we should go out of the controlled liquor business. And I close.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So that the body understands where we are, I think Mr. Aasheim and I, at least have-we did find out that Mr. Jacobsen's first one was the old one and it's out, but his present one deals only with the liquor monopoly and not with any other monopoly and it is allowed, and we are debating it.

Mr. Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of Mr. Jacobsen's motion, and I do this for a very different reason than what has yet been suggested, and that is this: Some time ago-a few days ago, as a matter of fact-1 received a letter from Mr. Toole, asking me to survey what we have done to see where we might find some area where money for the State of Montana has been saved rather than expended by this Convention in the construction of this Constitution. He called my attention to a suggestion of Mr. Garlington's that, perhaps, by the consolidation of Clerks of the Court in remote counties, there was a potential possible saving in excess of $500,000, but except for that one suggestion of Mr. Garlington's, I have been unable, until now, to make any suggestions to assist Mr. Toole in this problem that he raises. And I think it is a problem that all of us will be concerned with in the next 2 months. We will be confronted with the fact that this Constitution, if it is enacted, will be a more expensive form of government than what we have enjoyed before. We will have to demonstrate the benefits that come by the increased costs that we necessarily create. Here, however, is one opportunity for this Convention to say "money has been saved"-not only immediately but throughout the years. Now, I'm not certain of Mr. Jacobsen's figures, but they are significant and they are not only an initial saving of something like $6 million, they are an annual saving of something like $2 million. They also present to the peaceful-the people the possibility of buying liquor at rates comparable to what they are in Wyoming and Colorado, and to that extent, they are a saving to the people. So there is great virtue in this proposal, not just on the proposition that we should get out of the liquor business-the state should get out of it-but on the proposition of assisting in the promotion, if you please, of this Constitution or at least an explanation of it, financially. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: How's it going to look like in the Constitution—read in the Constitution 40 years from now to, say, see this directive that is being proposed? I think the issue is still one of what kind of control the state ought to have. I don't think maybe we heard what Mr. Harlow read a moment ago-and I haven't been able to check out all these facts myself, but I assume this is correct-that 18 control states have a per capita consumption of one and thirty-eight hundredths gallons; 32 license states have a per capita consumption of one point eighty-eight--much higher. Yet, the 18 control states average $14.32 to $11 for the 32 license states in income. Now, I don't quite see a case being made that to be a control state means that you're losing money. This graph seems to be the other way around. There is one thing I can report on. The other day Mr. Jacobsen talked quite a bit about the legislative audit in 1969 finding all the things wrong with the-our public agency, the Liquor Control Board. At the time, I said one good thing about it was the legislative audit at least could audit a public board and make suggestions. He sent me a booklet-in fact, the report of the legislative audit at that time—that listed about 200 different things they thought ought to be changed in the procedure and setup of the Liquor Control Board. Mr. Mahoney and I took that legislative audit report, went down to the Auditor yesterday, said to the Auditor and the Assistant Chief Auditor, "Have any of these things been accomplished?" Their answer was—and you can check with them-that with the help of the managerial services department of our government, all of these corrections have now been made and the Liquor Control Board has asked for a new audit which, as I understand, is beginning this week or next; and they seem to think the situation is being handled in a public way. And I think that kind of responsible handling can be done as long as we have public control; but when it moves into the private sector, we not only raise consumption--which is really the big problem here-we will lower, over the long run, according to this graph, if we repeat what other licensed states have done, our revenue and we will have a monster entirely out of our control.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Cain.

DELEGATE CAIN: There is just one short thing I want to say. I don't see how people who are interested in good government can tolerate the kind of things that have been happening within this liquor control.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Gysler.

DELEGATE GYSLER: Mr. Chairman, somebody can correct me if I'm wrong, but I believe it was in-1969 session of the Legislature that passed a bill to take the state out of the liquor business and the Governor vetoed it for-and as I recall, for one reason only, and that is it would cost the State of Montana too much money that we couldn't afford to lose. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Johnson.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman-just say I don't think the Legislature should allow the Liquor Control Board-because there still would be one, I'm sure-to lose any money on this proposition. They put the stamp tax right on at the distillery and in such a manner and in such an amount that they don't lose any money. Certainly don't want to take them out of the business to the extent where-or in any manner so it loses tax return to the State of Montana-that's certainly not the intention in any way-and my fairly extensive study of the figures would prove to me this would be very easily done. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, Mr. Romney.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman, this same matter came up the other day. At least it has the same thrust. I think that it must be disposed of, but I don't feel that the figures that we have been-that we have had placed at our disposal provide us with any real ground for making the decision whether it is good or bad with respect to the state making a profit or not making a profit and whether or not it would make more otherwise, and I think that this is distinctly statutory. And in this connection, I would like to ask the Chairman if I may direct an inquiry to Delegate Donahue—McDonough, I mean.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. McDonough.

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: (Inaudible)

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. McDonough—

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Would you give us the benefit of your thought on whether or not this is statutory?

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: Yes, it's about a hundred percent. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Mr. Jacobsen, do you want to close?

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Thank you, Mr. President. For Mr. Romney's benefit, every figure that I showed on the paper and these things are actual facts right from the State Liquor Board's own figures. This is a photostat and is taken out of this book (Illustrating), and it's by the Liquor Control Board. Our-this monopoly is something. Now, I don't know but maybe one or two of the people that are working in the liquor business as far as the state control part of it-and I would hope that if we could get the state out of this liquor business, whether it is-should be in the Constitution or not, I don't know and I-maybe it shouldn't, but for the last 15 or 20 years, the Legislature has not acted, and there have been many attempts to do this. Now, there is payoffs and so on in broken-breakage and so on; and the Legislative Auditor, the man that wrote this book that was passed out amongst all of you, this hundred and fifty-seven pages-every page, like Mr. Harper said, has discrepancies and so on-and, of course, when women vendors use liquor store money and take money out of the till and buy their groceries with-for the month, then put their own check in-this is not good business. We have all kinds of this going on and you're first-and we don't want to forget the fact that private enterprise would take over the present liquor stores. They would be licensed; there would be license fees against those. The Legislature would control this operation, and they would police it just as they're doing now. If you read the items that I put before you, it gives facts-and all of those are absolute facts from this book and from the Liquor Control Board's own figures--and in closing, I could say that Torrey and I, of course, were told by General Government that this was a legislative item, and we know that this is a legislative item, but it has not been acted upon by the Legislature. This is our opportunity to clean up this politics within our system-this here political payoff. The thing that we can do here-that is a bureaucracy we should get away from, and if you'll again think of what Mr. Gardiner said the other night, it would help you in making up your mind that we do not need this. Now, Reverend Harper is for character and morals in government, and still he will allow to persist this monster bureaucracy. Liquor monopoly, with all its opportunities for fraud and so forth, should be and can be cleaned up by private enterprise. Take it out of politics except for strict control set up by our Legislature. Think about this. We came over here to clean up our government. Let's clean it up and direct the Legislature, whether it be to the Legislative Council or whether it actually is in the Constitution, but let's direct our Legislative Council to get the state out of this liquor business. Thank you.

UNIDENTIFIED DELEGATES: Roll call.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right. We'll have a roll call. Wait till we vote, Bruce. Very well, the issue is on the motion of Mr. Jacobsen that we add a section to the General Government Article which would say: "Section 1. There shall be a new constitutional section to provide as follows: 'The Legislature shall provide that by December 31, 1975, the State of Montana will no longer engage in the business of buying and selling liquor. This section does not prevent the Legislature from regulating, controlling, policing, or taxing the retail and wholesale sale of liquor.'" So many as shall be in favor of Mr. Jacobsen's motion, vote Aye; so many as shall be opposed, vote No. have all the delegates voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 20 delegates voting Aye, 53 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 53 having voted No and only 20 voting Aye, the motion is defeated. Are there other new sections to be added to the General Government section-Article?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, members of the body, you've completed the consideration, on General Orders, on Committee of the Whole of-report Number 12 of General Government.

Mr. Brown, may I have a motion that this committee rise and report finally on the General Government proposal?

DELEGATE BROWN: I so move.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the motion is to rise and report finally on General Government. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Proceedings reverted from Committee of the Whole to Convention, President Graybill in Chair)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Will the clerk please read the title and signature of the Committee of the Whole report.

CLERK HANSON: "March 18, 1972. Mr. President. We, your Committee of the Whole, having had under consideration report Number 12 of the Committee on General Government, recommend as follows: That the Committee rise and finally report on General Government Article. Signed: Leo Graybill, Chairman."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown, may I have a motion that the committee report may be accepted-and that the-may be adopted -Mr. Brown, may I have a motion that the committee report may be adopted and that the General Government proposal may be sent to Style and Drafting for inclusion in Order of Business Number 5.

DELEGATE BROWN: I so move.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: All in favor of adopting the committee report, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered. Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, that should be referred to Order of Business Number 10, I think.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Right. Right. The Chair will restate the motion. All in favor of accepting the report of the Committee of the Whole and referring it to Order of Business Number-to Style and Drafting for reference back on Order of Business Number 10, please say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I would-If I may, I'd like to announce a Style and Drafting meeting at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Style and Drafting will meet at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Before we adjourn, delegates, I have been asked to read this into the record: "Delegates: We, the pages, would like to thank you for being so kind to us this past week. We've really enjoyed serving you and getting to know each of you. It is our hope that our paths will meet again." Signed by about 13 pages, some of whose names I can't pronounce, but I'll give it to the journal. Now, ladies and gentlemen-

Mr. Brown, would you like to give us a motion for Monday?

DELEGATE BROWN: Mr. President, I move that, pursuant to the general powers vested in the Montana Constitutional Convention and in accordance with the provisions of Section 7(6) of the Enabling Act, the Montana Constitutional Convention shall recess temporarily until 9:00 a.m. on Monday-on March 20, 1972.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to recess the Convention until Monday at 9:00 a.m. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered, and thank you.

(Convention recessed at 7:05 p.m.)

March 20, 1972 Fiftieth Day Convention Hall
9:30 a.m. Helena, Montana

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The convention will be in order. If you'll all stand, John Anderson will lead us in the Pledge of Allegiance this morning.

(Delegate J. Anderson leading pledge, with delegates joining in)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: If you'll remain standing, Rachel1 Mansfield will lead us in the invocation this morning.

DELEGATE MANSFIELD: Let us pray. Blessed are they who are poor in spirit; theirs is the kingdom of God. Blessed are they who are meek and humble; they will inherit the earth. Blessed are they who will mourn in sorrow; they will be comforted. Blessed those in hunger and thirst for justice; they will be satisfied. Blessed are they who show more mercy; they will know mercy, too. Blessed are the hearts that are clean and holy; they will behold the Lord. Blessed are they who bring peace among us; they are the children of God. Blessed those who suffer from persecution; theirs is the kingdom of God. Amen.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: We'll take attendance this morning by voting Aye on the voting machines.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, may Delegates Davis, Murray and Nutting be excused, please?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: They may.

CLERK HANSON: Delegate Arness, Delegate Cain, Delegate Delaney, Delegate Felt.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Read them again.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 94 delegates present; 3 absent, and 3 excused.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the journal may so show.

Before we go on the order of business today, I'd like to make a short explanation. The Voter Education Committee has made arrangements to do some last-minute filming, and so we're going to have some lights again today. Now, we're going to try and have the lights only for some short periods of time, but there will be some time when we are going to have them on. And they'll be off as soon as they stop filming; and it will not be for a half hour like it is with video, since they're filming on tape. I realize this light will make it very difficult for people while it's on, and I have already spoken with the film crew so that they will keep it on as little as possible. But we would rather get your shining faces in the camera than nothing, and it won't last very long; but please be aware of it and put up with it if you can.

Now, Order of Business Number 1, Reports of Standing Committees.

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. President. We, your Committee on Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission, transmit herewith revisions of the Local Government Article, Number 11, for the consideration of the Convention. Signed: Schiltz, Chairman." "Mr. President. We, the Committee on Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission, transmit herewith revisions of General Government Article, report Number 12, for consideration of the Convention. Signed: Schiltz, Chairman." Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, Local Government and General Government are accepted and referred to Order of Business Number 10 from Style and Drafting. Order of Business Number 2, Reports of Select Committees.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 3, Communications.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 4, Introduction.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 5, Final Consideration. There is none until we finish these two that we just got on Order of Business Number 10, so there's none there. -6, Adoption.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: -7, Motions and Resolutions.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President. I move we take Proposal Number 5, Judiciary, from Style and Drafting and place it on General Orders. I do this so that it'll be in the proper order of business when we do discuss it again and if we do reconsider and if we do make a motion to amend the rules.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: For the information of the body, we will at this time move to have Judiciary placed on General Orders and after that we will move to have Revenue and Finance placed on General Orders to take care of the two matters that arose on Saturday. You may do as you please, but that's the purpose of Mr. Eskildsen's motion, and it is to move Judiciary Article on to General Orders from Style and Drafting. All in favor of that motion say—

Mrs. Warden. Are you up?

DELEGATE WARDEN: (Inaudible)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Oh, incidentally, Mr. Arness, your presence will be noted for the journal. Very well. All those in favor of moving the Judiciary Article from Style and Drafting to General Orders, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Chair is in doubt. All those in favor, vote Aye; and all those opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, 65 having voted Aye and 25 having voted No, Judiciary is moved to Order of Business Number 10.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President. I move we take Proposal Number 7, Revenue and Finance, from Style and Drafting and placeit on General Orders, Order of Business Number 10, for the same purpose.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the motion's to move Revenue and Finance proposal from Style and Drafting to General Orders. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and so ordered. So those two are now on Order of Business Number 10. Are there other motions or resolutions?

CLERK HANSON: None, sir.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 8, Unfinished Business.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 9, Special Orders.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 10.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move the Convention resolve itself into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of handling business under General Orders.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to move this Convention into a Committee of the Whole. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Committee of the Whole)

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President. March 20, 1972. The following committee proposals are now on General Orders: Local Government, General Government, Judiciary, Revenue and Finance.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Chair would propose, unless there is objection, to taking up the Judiciary and Revenue and Finance matters first. Very well, the Chair is open to a motion.

Mr. Aronow.

DELEGATE ARONOW: Mr. President, I move that we suspend the rules under the Judiciary Article for the limited and-the purpose only of adding a section dealing with the clerk of the Supreme Court. You've had the sense of the proposal on your desks on Saturday; andifsuccessful in suspending the rules, we will then move to reconsider for the purpose of adding a section providing for the office of the clerk of the Supreme Court and his election. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aronow, do you have any exra copies of that? The Chair and the clerk don't have copies.

DELEGATE ARONOW: Yes, I have one more.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is on Mr. Aronow's motion to suspend the rules to add a section. If you happen to have Mr. Aronow's material before you--we would not add it to the General Government; we crossed that the other day. We would add it to Judiciary, but the sense of his proposal is contained in that material that he gave us last Saturday: "In the Judicial Department there shall be a clerk of the Supreme Court, who shall hold office for a term of 6 years. He shall be elected by the electors at large of the state." Is there discussion of the motion to suspend the rules and discussion of that point only?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, we're ready to vote on it. Does anyone want a roll call vote? Mr. McKeon wants a roll call vote.

Mrs. Pemberton.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: I just wanted to talk.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, you may discuss the motion to suspend the rules.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: At this point, I would like to know exactly where we are in suspending the rules for the clerk of the Supreme Court. Mr. Aronow, would you answer a question for me, please?

DELEGATE ARONOW: I'll yield, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Pemberton.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: Thank you very much. I wrote you a note, but I didn't get it there in time. In suspending the rules for the clerk of the Supreme Court, this was deleted by the vote of the delegation; is that right?

DELEGATE ARONOW: That is correct.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: And it was left out of the Constitution?

DELEGATE ARONOW: That is correct, Mrs. Pemberton.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: In thatvote, when we were discussing the clerk of the Supreme Court and other officers, this was the only one that was left out of the Constitution?

DELEGATE ARONOW: No, there was one other, and that was the State Treasurer.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: Yes, that's right.

DELEGATE ARONOW: But that involves no problem, due to the fact that the State Treasurer may not run to succeed himself. And this is the only office-at that time, I think, we were strongly considering a short ballot; and then we changed our minds and we did leave out the clerk of the court, which seems a discriminatory type of thing.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: I think that's why--would I be out of order in putting in another motion at this time?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, it's got to be another motion to suspend the rules.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: After the consideration to suspend rules, if that should go through?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I don't know the nature of your motion, Mrs. Pemberton.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: Would you like to hear it?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: In other words -Well, Mrs. Pemberton, we have a motion to suspend the rules for the limited purpose of considering the clerk of the Supreme Court. Do you want to enlarge the purpose, is that your—

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: No, it is not to enlarge the purpose; it is to appoint a clerk of the Supreme Court instead of electing him.

CHAIRMANGRAYBILL: Well, the Chair has Mr. Aronow's purpose as to add a section concerning the clerk of the Supreme Court.

Mr. Aronow, I realize you have suggested language, but the chair is about to rule, unless you object-do you want to make it only to elect him, Mr. Aronow?

DELEGATE ARONOW: That's my purpose at this moment, yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, the Chair will take the view that you have to put the narrowest one first, and, therefore, the purpose for which he is opening is suspending the rules. Now, Mrs. Pemberton is to elect-is to put in a section that would require the election of the clerk of the Supreme Court. Now, if you want to amend his motion to suspend the rules, you may. And then we'll put that to the body first; and if that passes, fine; and if not, we'll go to his. Do you want to put in to elect or appoint-I mean, do you want to—

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: I would like very much to put in an amendment to appoint a clerk of the Supreme Court. I have words for that, if you would like to have them.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, I think I know enough. That's your purpose, right?

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: Right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So the body understands the situation, Mr. Aronow made a motion to suspend the rules to add a section concerning the clerk of the Supreme Court by election. Mrs. Pemberton has now made a substitute motion to suspend the rules and add a section concerning the clerk of the Supreme Court by appointment, Does everyone understand the situation? We'll vote on Mrs. Pemberton's first.

Mr. Harbaugh.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Could I ask a question of Mrs. Pemberton?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You may.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Appointment by whom?

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: Appointment by the Supreme Court, sir.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there a roll call desired on Mrs. Pemberton's motion?

Mr. Holland.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: I move for a roll call vote.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, we'll take a roll call vote on Mrs. Pemberton's motion. All those in favor of suspending the rules to add a section concerning the clerk of the Supreme Court by appointment, vote Aye; opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, close the ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Dahood.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: Mr. Chairman. I inadvertently pressed the wrong button; I want to vote Nay on this particular motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, Mr. Dahood, the ballot-the vote not having been announced, Mr. Dahood may be shown as voting Nay.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 35 delegates voting Aye, 58 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 58 having voted No and 35 Aye, Mrs. Pemberton's motion is defeated. We're now on Mr. Aronow's motion to suspend the rules to add a section concerning the clerk of court to be selected by election.

Mr. Harlow.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Mr. Chairman, I would like to expand that motion of Mr. Aronow's a little bit by adding these words--we all realize why we are suddenly desirous of having the Supreme Court office elected, and I think this will solve our dilemma and still give us back to our original thinking-that if I add these words that— after Mr. Aronow's: "The clerk of Supreme Court's office shall be elected only so long as Tom Kearney holds office." (Laughter) "Thereafter the office shall be appointed by the Supreme Court." If you do not wish to be so specific-however, I think it wouldn't hurt to have Tom Kearney's name in the Constitution-take off his and say "so long as the present incumbent holds office".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, I take it to be you want to make a substitute motion to Mr. Aronow, is that right, Mr. Harlow?

DELEGATE HARLOW: Yes, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Pardon?

DELEGATE HARLOW: Yes, Mr. Chairman. I'll move that this be added to—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, I've got it. See if I've stated it right. You want to suspend the rules to add a section concerning the clerk of the court to be elected for the--until the incumbent is no longer elected-or to be elected for the-as long as the incumbent holds office, is that right?

DELEGATE HARLOW: Yes. And from thereon the office shall be appointed by the Supreme court.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And thereafter appointed?

DELEGATE HARLOW: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aronow, would you like to talk to that?

DELEGATE ARONOW: Mr. Chairman, I resist the amendment on the ground that I don't think that the offered amendment is made in good faith. Besides that, it's not good constitutional law; it has no place in the Constitution, and I hope that the delegates will vote against the amendment made by Mr. Harlow.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Champoux.

DELEGATE CHAMPOUX: Mr. President, fellow delegates. You know, if this is really the problem, I think we're wasting time in this Convention. If the real problem is this one gentleman, I'm sure that Style and Drafting can take care of this in the transitional article by providing that present officeholders, until their term expires-this will take care of it. If that's all there is to it, leave it to Style and Drafting. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, we're not going to discuss the substance, but if you want to discuss Mr. Harlow's motion to suspend the rules, okay.

Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: May I ask a question, Mr. Chairman, that would have something to do with how I vote on any of these things and maybe to clear up a point? If we remove an office from the Constitution that's in the present Constitution that now is an elected office like this one, does this mean that automatically there will be no election or does the Legislature still have the choice? For example, could the Treasurer appear on a ballot as long as the Legislature decided that it should be an elective office; or when he is not mentioned in the Constitution, is he automatically-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think your question's substantive, and I don't know who wants to answer it, but I'll take a shot at it. I think we're merely removing it from the Constitution and that the office-but I haven't checked the statutes to see whether the clerk of the court is statutory, but I presume he's also statutory. If anybody knows to the contrary, I wish they'd clear me up.

Mr. Mahoney.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Mr. Chairman, I would have to resist this motion. Now, either we make a decision to elect the clerk of the Supreme Court or we don't. This would be awful; I mean you wouldn't-Mr. Kearney wouldn't know whether he could run or not. I mean, this would be a very touchy thing, and if somebody else come along—now I think we've got to come out here under--and go under the Aronow motion and vote it up or down. This is my thinking, and I would hesitate to see in for one man. This is not in Constitution, Legislature could do it, but—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, are you ready for the vote? A roll call has been demanded.

Mr. Harlow.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Just one remark. Mr. Aronow said that my motion's not made in good faith; it is made in good faith. This was not a facetious motion: and as we know that we are sympathetic to the present incumbent, we're not sympathetic to having the office elective. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Has a roll call been demanded on Mr. Harlow's—? Mr. Studer, you demand one; okay. Very well, so many as are in favor of Mr. Harlow's motion, which is to suspend the rules to add a section on the clerk of court to be elected during the-as long as the present incumbent's there and thereafter be appointed, please vote Aye; and opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 18 voting Aye, 72 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 72 having voted No and only 18 having voted Aye, the motion is defeated. We're back on Mr. Aronow's original motion to suspend the rules to add a section concerning the clerk of the Supreme Court to be elected.

Mr. Choate.

DELEGATE CHOATE: Mr. Chairman, just a point of clarification. Section 9 of our present Article VIII does provide a constitutional position for the clerk of the Supreme Court, to be elected for 6 years.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I-What are you talking about, Section 9 of what?

DELEGATE CHOATE: Section 9 of Article VIII of the present Judicial Article in our present Constitution does provide for that office constitutionally for a 6-year term.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, now you've raised a question which I don't think is correct, Mr. Choate, so the Chair will check it, Oh, the present Constitution; I see-1 thought you meant the one we'd adopted, okay.

Mr. James.

DELEGATE JAMES: Mr. Chairman, would Mr. Aronow yield?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aronow?

DELEGATE ARONOW: I'll yield, Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE JAMES: Cedor, if Tom Kearney is selected, as I assume he will be in the primary, he will run this fall for a (i-year term, is that right?

DELEGATE ARONOW: I don't know whether his term expires at this time or not, but when he does run, he will run for the 6-year term if my motion to suspend the rules carries and if motion to reconsider carries and then you decide here and the new Constitution is adopted. Under the old Constitution, he would run for a 6-year term; that is correct.

DELEGATE JAMES: Will Mr. Aronow yield?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: He may, but the Chair is going to be awfully strict on making it concerning the motion to suspend the rules and not the substance of the matter.

DELEGATE ARONOW: (Inaudible)

DELEGATE JAMES: Okay, I was going to ask something on the substance and not the rules.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yeah, let's try and stay off the substance; everybody understands what the purpose of the motion is.

Mrs. Robinson.

DELEGATE ROBINSON: Mr. President, I'd like to speak in opposition to the motion to reconsider-to suspend the rules, rather. It makes no difference, the Revised Codes of Montana in Title 82, beginning at chapter 5, clearly stipulate that there must be a clerk of the Supreme Court, who must be elected by the electors at large of the state and hold this office for a term of 6 years. Until the Legislature acts at some time in the future, there will continue to be a clerk of the Supreme Court elected by the State of Montana regardless of what we do in the Constitution, since we did not reconsider to make it an appointed office.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. We'll have a roll call vote. So many as are in favor of Mr. Aronow's motion to suspend the rules to add a section concerning the clerk of Supreme Court to be elected, vote Aye; and so many as are opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 44 delegates voting Aye, 49 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 49 delegates having voted No, the motion to suspend the rules is defeated. Very well, the Chair will entertain a motion from Mr. Rygg concerning Revenue and Finance.

DELEGATE RYGG: I believe the clerk has it there; does he want to read it?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well-

DELEGATE RYGG: All right. Mr. Chairman, I move to suspend the rules, and my purpose is to make a motion to reconsider subsection 2 of Section 6 of Revenue and Finance Article for the specific and limited purpose only of striking the last 12 words thereof.

Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Rygg, excuse me. Would you restate your motion; I was interrupted.

DELEGATE RYGG: My motion is to suspend the rules, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: For what purpose?

DELEGATE RYGG: My purpose would then be, if it should carry through reconsideration, to make a motion to reconsider subsection 2 of Section 6 of the Revenue and Finance Article for the specific and limited purposes only of striking the last 12 words thereof.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the Chair understands that you want to make a motion to suspend the rules so that this body can reconsider Revenue and Finance, Section 6, sub. 2, for the specific purpose of striking 12 words. Is that correct?

DELEGATE RYGG: That's correct, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, make your-Do you have some discussion, Mr. Rygg?

DELEGATE RYGG: I'll be very brief. I would like to state the reason for this, though, if I may. Apparently the Revenue and Finance Committee invaded the General Government territory when we put in these last 12 words, and the majority of the committee believes we would be better off by retreating from this General Government domain. Now, we admit that deleting these 12 words will make a substantive change, because having this initiative was an extra safeguard, that's true. On the other hand, I seriously doubt if this initiative would ever be used, because with only a 60-percent majority needed, I honestly feel that the electorate could influence their Legislators enough to get this three-fifths vote and they would not have to go the initiative route. Now the initiative, of course, would still be available under General Government's Article, although it would be a little more difficult under that article, I will admit. But I do believe that, because of the fact that it is only a three-fifths vote and that the people, I think, could get the legislators to do that, I think that in order to avoid confusion and have any ambiguity at all in the two articles, I think we would be better off in sacrificing this small safeguard and correcting the Constitution to that extent. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, I think the body understands that Mr. Rygg wants to suspend the rules for the specific purpose of amending Revenue and Finance 6, sub. 2, to strike 12 words, and that it does make a substantive change. Is there otherdiscussion about themotion to suspend the rules only?

Mr. Loendorf.

DELEGATE LOENDORF: Mr. Chairman, I support the motion to suspend the rules for this purpose. The result of it will remove what I think is a clear conflict between this section and Section 4 of the General Government report Number 12; and I don't think we should let our fear of possibly opening up a whole article keep us from making this correction. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Foster.

DELEGATE FOSTER: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates. I resist the motion as stated. I think that this is a much too narrow a limitation to really consider the subject that we have before us which is, as I understand it, at least twofold; one in stating language which expresses the intent of the original majority position of the committee and the original vote taken by this body. And I would move to amend the motion of Delegate Rygg by stating "deleting or clarifying" the last-what is it-12 words of the section.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: To delete or clarify the last 12 words of Section 6, sub. 2; is that right, Mr. Foster?

DELEGATE FOSTER: Yes, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Foster now has a substitute motion to delete or clarify-to suspend the rules for the purpose of deleting or clarifying the last 12 words of Section 6, sub. 2. Mr. Foster, if you can, discuss that without getting off the suspension of the rules.

DELEGATE FOSTER: Well, I would speak simply to the point that I think there was some confusion expressed in exactly what these words were intended for, and I think the basic intent of Mr. Rygg was to clarify a confusing point. And I think if we limit it to deleting it, that, in fact, we have limited it unnecessarily and that we should be also allowed to consider it before this body, clarifying the words. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Rygg.

DELEGATE RYGG: Mr. Chairman, I would like to resist the substitute motion just for this reason: that we tried several times on Saturday to get language would clarify this and still be in conformity with Section 4 of General Government. We were unable to do so. We did talk to one member of the General Government Committee, and it was his-1 don't think the committee, maybe, but at least it was his-and I don't know about the rest of them-that about the only way we could do would be to delete it so we could be in conformity. So we just feel that there isn't any way we can make it clear, and that is why we have taken this route, so I resist the motion. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. President, I resist the motion to amend. I think the Revenue and Finance Committee have taken the only alternative for clarification. If you'll look at what they have done, they're striking "or by initiated measure approved by a majority of the qualified electors". Under the General Government Article, initiation is possible now to amend the Constitution; and unless you're going to have a hopeless conflict between the two, it is necessary to have this whole phrase stricken. And I think the approach taken by the Revenue and Finance Committee is the only plausible one; otherwise, you'll be trying to write legislation on this floor which is just going to get us into more trouble. And the solution they have made is clear, it's unequivocal, and I think we should support them in this. And further, I think the Local Government Committee was led to believe by a lot of people that this would be taken care of when it reached this point of our convention. Thank you, Mr. President.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Is there other discussion? If not, we'll have a vote; and I presume someone wants a roll call. Mr. Foster does. Is there any other discussion? Very well, the issue is on Mr. Foster's motion to suspend the rules to delete or clarify the last 12 words of Section 6, sub. 2. So many as shall be in favor of that, vote Aye; so many as shall be opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

Mr. Simon-Mr. Studer-excuse me-Mr. Scanlin, for what purpose do you rise?

DELEGATE SCANLIN: For a little more clarification.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You're out of order. You may only rise to explain your vote at this time. I'm sorry.

DELEGATE SCANLIN: Can I cancel my vote out?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, you can't cancel your vote out; I've closed it, but I haven't taken it. Does anybody else want to explain their vote before we take it?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You may cast the ballot, Mr. Clerk. Once I push the button, you can't change it; you can't explain it until we announce it.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 81 delegates voting Aye, 9 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 81 delegates having voted Aye and 9 delegates having voted No, the rules are suspended and we will consider Revenue and Finance, Section 6, sub. 2.

Mr. Rygg.

DELEGATE RYGG: Mr. Chairman. Having voted on the prevailing side, I move to reconsider subsection 2 of Section 6, the Revenue and Finance Article, for the specific and limited purpose only of striking the last 12 words thereof.

Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Rygg moves to reconsider Section 6, sub. 2, of the Revenue and Finance Article for the specific purpose of striking the last 12 words.

Mr. Rygg.

DELEGATE RYGG: I don't believe there's any further explanation needed at this time. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: This motion is on reconsideration only and not on the matter. Is there further discussion?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of reconsidering Section 6, sub. 2, for that purpose, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Mr. Rygg.

DELEGATE RYGG: I move to amend subsection 2 of Section 6, on line 16 of page 2, by inserting a period after the word "Legislature" and eliminating the last 12 words.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Would you give me your page reference again.

DELEGATE RYGG: It's on the final draft, Order of Business Number 5, Final Consideration, Number 7; it's on page 2, line 16.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. If you happen to have that one before you-that's the Order of Business Number 5 on page 2, line 16—put a period after the word "Legislature"; if you have your other books, it's in subsection 2. Put a period after the word "Legislature" and strike "or by initiative measure approved by a majority of the qualified voters". That's the motion: to amend Section 6, sub. 2, by striking the last 12 words, which has the effect of striking the "initiative by the people" language.

Mr. Rygg.

DELEGATE RYGG: Mr. Chairman, I don't believe I should spend much time on this. I think the explanation I gave is the only one I can give; that we were unable to clarify this and the only solution we see is to delete these 12 words, which we admit is a substantive change. But we feel, in the interest of having less ambiguity in the Constitution, it would be in the best interest to let this one small safeguard go. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any other discussion?

Mr. Foster.

DELEGATE FOSTER: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates. I'll try and be as brief as possible on this. My primary objection to this motion is that the strongest argument that was made for having anything at all in this Constitution to give special interest-special consideration to the highway group was that this was something that was needed by the people of Montana; this is something that was popular; this is something that everyone felt was important; this is something that everyone felt we had to have. At the time that this initiative provision was put in, it was the thinking of this body that, at the time when this was no longer needed, the time when this was no longer necessary-as everyone realizes, it will become necessary in the fairly near future-that then the people would have an easy opportunity of removing it. We have just taken that opportunity away from them if we approve this particular provision to take it out again, because, in fact, then we have constitutional&d the advantage, the special interest, the special consideration for the highways, because it will then have the same status as any other provision in the Constitution. In other words, if it is necessary for the people to take it out, they would have to do the same as any other amendment to the Constitution. We have the situation that we've given a supermajority to the special highway interests in the Legislature by giving them a 60-percent voting need to change it, and so as a result we've made it much easier to retain it in the Legislature. And now we're making it more difficult for the people, by popular demand, to remove this provision. I think it's unwise and I think it's not in keeping with the general philosophy of this body when we passed it in the Committee of the Whole, when we passed it in Style and Drafting, and when we passed it on final consideration. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Toole.

DELEGATE TOOLE: Mr. Chairman, I agree with Delegate Foster about this wholeheartedly. I'm very much interested in keeping those last 12 words in there, but I don't want to create an impossible constitutional situation for some future Supreme Court. And I wonder if Mr. McDonough would yield to a question.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. McDonough?

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE TOOLE: Do you foresee an impossible constitutional conflict if we leave the 12 words in there?

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: I foresee a number of lawsuits, possibly on whether or not we need 5 or 10 percent on an initiative petition to change this; possibly whether or not, if it is changed by initiative, how long does it last for the budgetary period or does it last forever; possibly are we only removing the restriction that they can't be used for other purposes or can we also by initiative extend it to say-earmark it for some other purpose other than the general fund. I can see a number of questions being raised by this thing in here as it is, and especially in conflict with the General Government's Article.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Toole.

DELEGATE TOOLE: Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Jacobsen was up next.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Mr. President. May I ask a question of Mr. Rygg?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Rygg, will you yield?

DELEGATE RYGG: (Inaudible)

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Sterling, didn't you say that Article IV-or Section 4 of Article XII does the same thing as these 12 words do?

DELEGATE RYGG: Are you talking about Section 4, General Government?

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Yes, General Government. Doesn't this allow the people to do the same thing on all matters of initiative?

DELEGATE RYGG: Well, not exactly, because, as Mr. McDonough mentioned, or if we take this out, I think it would be 10 percent, or otherwise it could be 5. So, as I stated earlier, they can still do it, but it would be more difficult; that is true. So it isn't just the same as Section 4; it requires more signers.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: More signers in the general—

DELEGATE RYGG: Yes, that's my understanding.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Yeah, thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Scanlin was next.

DELEGATE SCANLIN: Mr. Chairman, this was the area of my confusion. As I understand it, our reason for trying to remove these 12 words was to get the initiative out of the appropriation business. Am I wrong in that? I mean, the people of the State of Montana have no right to appropriate money by themselves except through their duly elected members of the Legislature. I thought that was the area of discussion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Scanlin, your question is interesting, and I think some of the lawyers on the floor intend to answer it.

Mr. Joyce was up first.

DELEGATE JOYCE: It seems to me that Delegate Scanlin is correct. What we're trying to do, as I understand it, by the amendment offered by the Revenue and Finance Committee, is just to delete what inadvertently was inserted, which would give the people, by initiative, the power to appropriate money, which we all concede just can't be so. But I respectfully submit that Delegate Foster is in error in thinking that, by deleting these words, that it therefore requires for all time that the first sentence remain in the Constitution. There are several ways that the people can take this out, because-by simply having the Legislature submit a constitutional referendum to delete it, or the people, by initiative, can propose a constitutional convention-a constitutional amendment that will delete the words-so that it seems to me that it's perfectly proper to delete these words to make it perfectly clear that the people cannot appropriate money by initiative, but at the same time we still leave all the options open for amending the Constitution to delete the first sentence should the time ever arise when it's no longer thought desirable public policy to require that the highway funds be earmarked.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Dahood.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: Mr. Chairman. I certainly agree with the principles that have been established by Delegate Foster, and I think most of us agree with him. What he is overlooking is the fact that we have an absoluteunwieldy budget situation if we leave those 12 words in. It would be like a corporation having two boards of directors deciding on what should be within the budget, what is required by way of appropriation of the corporate funds. And if we leave this situation in, then we're going to interfere with the power of the Legislature to work on a budget and to appropriate money in a sensible, solid fiscal manner. And for that reason, I submit that Chairman Rygg is absolutely correct that these particular words must be removed from that section. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman. As I view this matter, there is an irreconcilableconflict between Section 4 of General Government, subsection 1, which reads: "The people may enact laws by initiative on all matters except appropriations of money." Whereas, the provision in—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Section 6—

DELEGATE BERG: -Section 6 of the article we now are considering is-such revenue may be appropriated for other purposes: (1) by a three-fifths vote of the members of each house, or (2) by initiated measure approved by a majority of the qualified electors. So that in General Government we are saying, by initiative, money may not be appropriated; but if we leave these words in subsection 2 of Section 6, we are saying exactly the opposite-that it may be so appropriated. And in my mind, the inconsistency is one that the court, I am sure, could not resolve. Therefore, for consis-tency's sake, it should be removed from subdivision 2 of Section 6.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Foster.

DELEGATE FOSTER: Mr. Chairman and fellowdelegates. I hate to takeissue with three extremely competent lawyers, but I want to point out several inconsistencies here that they have presented. First of all, Mr. Joyce's indication that, in fact, if we take these words out, would leave it exactly the same are certainly not accurate. It would require a lo-percent petition of the people instead of a 5-percent petition, and I submit that 10 percent is about 10 times as hard to get as 5 percent. You get into a situation there where you have to get people to sign something on a petition, and 10 percent is extremely more difficult to get than 5 percent. Now, in relation to the question that Delegate Dahood and Delegate Berg have raised, there is some lack of clarity in subsection 2, on page 2 of the Revenue and Finance Article, but I submit that it is certainly not clear in the area of a conflict, because in reality the court could very easily rule that, by initiative, the people could allow the Legislature to appropriate, which was the intent in the first place. I submit that that is certainly what was the intent of this body when we passed it and was the intent of the committee when they presented it. Now, thecourtsmightrule that, in fact, the people could appropriate, but I submit, in view of the section as we have presently passed it under General Government, that it's very unlikely that the court would rule in that direction. And this, in fact, was the position taken, in my recollection anyway, by Delegate Dahood on Saturday. And I submit that, even though I had hoped that we could clarify this language in this discussion, that in fact the position, if we leave it as is, is certainly not untenable. It seems to me that the court, in their wisdom, will rule, in fact, under this wording that the people, by initiative, may allow the Legislature to appropriate from this particular fund; and I do not think it is an untenable situation for the courts to rule upon. I think it should be left as it is. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Holland.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates. I hate to see Mr. Foster boxed in by all these fine legal minds. In the first place, in Mr. Berg's argument that it's irreconcilable, I don't agree with Mr. Berg at all. I seldom do, I suppose. The general ruling is when there is a general prohibition and another provision which is specific, the specific will take precedence over the general exception. However, I think the thing-if the committee here really desires to keep the initiative and the referendum in, the solution is not to amend the highway antidiversion act, but go to Section 4 of the initiative act, where there is a prohibition against the people having initiative on all matters except appropriation of money, and put in after that "except as provided elsewhere in this Constitution". Then you have no conflict at all. Now as to what Mr. McDonough has said about the fact that the initiative might be difficult for the court to interpret as to whether or not it applies to one session-as for this budget only or things like that, well, of course, if the initiative is carefully drawn, why, there is no necessity for the court to make such an interpretation. If it is carelessly drawn, I agree with Mr. McDonough entirely, but this is the danger of initiative-very often they are carelessly drawn. But to say we have to knock out this whole thing because Section 4 has some conflict, I do not agree with, because all we've got to do is come back to Section 4-in the first place, I think an interpretation would be the specific takes over the general. That is, the highway referendum, being specific, would take over the general Section 4 of the Government. But if the committee truly desires to keep it in there, all we've got to do is suspend the rules and go back to the General Government initiative and make the exception for "as provided elsewhere in the Constitution".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Rollins.

DELEGATE ROLLINS: Mr. Chairman, I'll make my remarks brief by quoting twice from Shakespeare. Once, I'm willing to go along with this amendment to make "assurance triply sure"-it's already doubly sure: in the Article on General Government and in Section 16 of the Legislative Article-and I'll close with Shakespeare by saying that I want to see this resolved and not spend all day "writing a sonnet to a mistress' eyebrow".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates. I concur with removing these 12 words, not only because of the possible interpretation by the courts later but the principles involved. Going home, I find the people were appalled at this measure and the possibility of involving and taking money from the highway by initiative of the people.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harlow.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates. Will Delegate Rygg yield to a question?

DELEGATE RYGG: I'll yield.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Did not, that is, during your comments about these 12 words, make the comment that this initiative was far the purpose of spurring the Legislature and not for the actual appropriation of the money?

DELEGATE RYGG: Certainly that was our intent, but apparently it could be misconstrued with words. That was our intent; yes, sir.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Yeah. Thank you, Mr. Rygg. Well, then, as I am in support of deleting these words because, as I interpret the work that we have done so far in regard to this line-1 realize I am not the interpretive mind like the legal minds-but there is nothing that would prohibit the people from an ordinary initiative of law to initiate a request to the Legislature encouraging them to make a decision to appropriate some of this money; so I do not feel that by taking out these six words--or nine words-that we are prohibiting the people from using the initiative process to encourage the Legislature to do things that the Legislature may be reticent in doing without a little encouragement. So I think this is a good thing to do, to eliminate all those things, and it has not taken away the intent that the Revenue Committee had in the beginning. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there further discussion?

Mr. Barnard.

DELEGATE BARNARD: Mr. President. I have an amendment here that might straighten the thing out. I haven't got it quite completely written up—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, now, Mr. Barnard, we've got a motion that's to reconsider and a motion to suspend the rules, all of which are limited strictly to striking 12 words. Now—

DELEGATE BARNARD: Just limited to--strictly to striking the 12 words.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -they're still going to be restricted to striking 12 words, your amendment?

DELEGATE BARNARD: No, it would be just to change them just slightly, so I'll— (Inaudible)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, I understand, but that was the whole problem on the touchy nature of the motion to suspend. Now, I don't see how you can make an amendment to striking 12 words that's going to change it; but if you can figure one out, okay. But I think that the Chair is duty-bound now, unless we go back and move to suspend for a broader purpose--now, if you want to try that, that's you know-that's all right. I'm not objecting to that, but I'm saying that we've carefully limited the reason and purpose for which it's open, and I don't see how you can amend it at this stage of the game.

DELEGATE BARNARD: Mr. President, all I had in mind was not to change the amendment more than just to clarify it, so it would clear up the situation we're faced with.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, if you want to write it out and send it up, 1'11 look at it; but the Chair is going to rule that we're within this limited suspension purpose, and until you enlarge the suspension purpose, I'm going to be terribly strict about that. But you can finish it if you want to. Is there other discussion?

Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. President and fellow delegates. For the benefit of those who were not here during the argument on General Government, the initial attempt on the part of General Government to reconcile the conflict between these two articles was to do what Delegate Holland suggested. This was voted down by a very large majority because it was felt it would be improper to allow this type of thing to occur insofar as appropriation is concerned. The only way that I see the court could clarify the situation, if you were to leave this in, is to do what Delegate Harper contended, in opposition to what I suggested, was the question of whether this would be a 10-percent vote or a 5-percent vote; and if you clarify this thing by analogy, the court, to eliminate conflict, would have to hold that the only initiated measure that you could have would be a constitutional amendment. Once that is done, the people would not be appropriating money, but they would probably remove the entire subsection 2 or else remove the earmarking funds. By constitutional amendment, the people can eliminate the earmarking of funds, or if they desire, they can eliminate subsection 2 and eliminate the ability of the Legislature to change the appropriations, Therefore, I think-I again urge you to follow the recommendation of the Revenue and Finance Committee to eliminate this conflict by striking the last 12 words.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Rygg.

DELEGATE RYGG: May I close? I only want to say in closing that, originally, the committee felt they should not reopen this section and change it, but after we discussed it and found out there seemed to be no way of clarifying it, then the majority of the committee decided that this was the route to go. It isn't any attempt on the committee to change anything, except we honestly felt that there was no other way out of it, to keep the ambiguity out of the Constitution. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. I take it we want a roll call vote on this matter. Very well, so many as shall be in favor of Mr. Rygg's proposed amendment to Section 6, sub. 2, to strike the last 12 words, which are "or by initiated measure approved by a majority of the qualified electors", which has the effect of striking that initiative measure out of subsection 2, vote Aye; and so many as are opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 79 delegates voting Aye, 13 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 7'9 having voted Aye and 13 having voted No, Section 6, sub. 2, is amended. Mr. Rygg, would you please move an amendment that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 6, sub. 2, of the Revenue and Finance Committee proposal, as amended, that the same be adopted.

DELEGATE RYGG: Yes, sir, I so move that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Or same be recommended for adoption?

DELEGATE RYGG: As amended, right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Mr. Rygg's motion that we adopt this as amended, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and so ordered.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: I move that the Committee of the Whole rise and report-and finally report.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The motion is that the committee arise and report finally on Judiciary and Revenue and Finance and refer them back to Style and Drafting. All in favor of the motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So ordered.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Chair would like to announce that there is one other matter that some may wish to take up; and after we rise and finally report on thismatter, the Chair will entertain a motion for a 15-minute recess. And would Mr. Aasheim, Mr. Joyce, Mr. Etchart, Mr. McDonough or Mr. Rygg, and Mr. Blaylock please meet in the Rules Committee room on recess. Will the clerk please read the committee report.

CLERK HANSON: "March 20, 1972. Mr. President. We, your Committee of the Whole, having had under consideration business on General Orders, recommend as follows: that the Committee rise and finally report on Judiciary and Revenue and Finance and refer them back to Style and Drafting. Signed: Graybill, Chairman." Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move we adopt the Committee of the Whole report and that Judiciary and Revenue and Finance proposals be placed in Style and Drafting.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: For inclusion in the final document. All in favor of that motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: I take it no one objected to not reading the report in full. Very well, Mr. Eskildsen, let's take a 15-minute recess.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: I move we stand in recess until 5 minutes to 11:00 this day.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to recess until 5 minutes to 1 l:OO; all in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Brief recess)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Chair hesitates to do the next important business until we get some more people here, so I think we better send a page out in the hall and tell them to come to the meeting.

The Convention will come to order. Very well, members of our Convention, just before we recessed, we had finished the problem on Revenue and Finance and the problem on Judiciary. Another problem has now arisen, and the Chair intends to ask for a motion from Mr. Eskildsen to move the Executive proposal to Order of Business Number 10 so that we can consider a matter concerning the legislative post-auditor that has come up. Mr. Joyce will make the motion when we get there, and I'm sure you'll all understand it as soon as he explains it. But to get this matter underway, the Chair would like to ask Mr. Eskildsen if he has a motion to move Executive to Order of Business Number 10.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, without objection, may we be on Order of Business Number 7.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Without objection, we'll be on Order of Business Number 7.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move that we take Executive proposal from Style and Drafting and refer it to Order of Business Number 10.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to refer the Executive proposal, which is in Style and Drafting, to Order of Business Number 10, General Orders, for a Committee of the Whole discussion. All in favor of that motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.
Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman, I move to suspend the rules for the limited purpose only of modifying—

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Now, Mr. Joyce, wait a minute.
Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Without objection, may we be on Order of Business Number 10?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Without objection, we'll be on Order of Business Number 10.
Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: I move the Convention resolve itself into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of handling business under General Orders.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. The motion is to resolve this Convention into a Committee of the Whole. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed? (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Committee of the Whole)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman, I move that this committee suspend the rules for the limited purpose only of reconsidering Section 3, subsection 5, of the final report on the Executive Committee's Report Number 4.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Joyce, it's Section 4, subsection 5.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Section 4, subsection 5, pardon me.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Do you want to explain your limited purpose?

DELEGATE JOYCE: Thelimitedpurpose would be on line 26 of page 2. As adopted, the words now read: "The Legislature may appoint a legislative post-auditor who shall perform such post-auditing duties as may be provided by law." If the motion to reconsider is to suspend the rules and subsequently the motion to reconsider is passed, I would then move that we substitute, in lieu of those words, the following words, that you can write down if you wish: "The Legislature shall establish a legislative post-audit committee which shall perform such post-auditing duties as may be prescribed by law." This question arises at the request of the current Legislative Post-Audit Committee. We met during the recess with the current members of that committee; they pointed out to us that, as the legislative post-auditor is now established, it is established by the rules of the Legislature whereby the Speaker of the House and the President of the Senate appoint this Legislative Post-Audit Committee, which is bipartisan in nature-has exactly the same number of each political party-and that this particular committee then does, in fact, appoint the legislative post-auditor, and he reports to that committee. And that-As we have written it into the Constitution, we are providing that the Legislature shall appoint this legislative post-auditor; and their concern is, if the appointment of a legislative post-auditor is thrown into the Legislature, that it will get involved in the politics of the Houses, depending on which particular party may happen to control the same-that as the system is currently established, it is guaranteed to be bipartisan in nature, and they prefer the language which I have proposed, rather than the language that's in the Constitution as adopted at this time.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Joyce. Okay, I think you've fully explained it. The Chair would like to restate this language so everybody has it if they want it: "The Legislature shall establish a Legislative Post-Audit Committee which shall perform such post-auditing duties as may be provided by law". Mr. Joyce, I changed your word to "provided", since that's what Style and Drafting has done all along and I'm trying to avoid going back to Style and Drafting again. Now, the purpose, then, of the Joyce motion to suspend the rules is to suspend the rules to consider Section 4, sub. 5, of the Executive Article for the purpose of changing the language from letting the Legislature appoint a post-audit to letting the Legislature establish a Post-Audit Committee, which would then have the duties that they now have. Now, is there other discussion on the motion to suspend the rules?

Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Before you put that-the word is "supervise", rather than "perform"—I think because this committee does not do the post-auditing as such.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE JOYCE: They supervise the post-auditor that they appoint.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "Which shall supervise such post-auditing duties as may be provided by law"; I think that is correct.

Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Mr. President, would you want in this motion the proposition that, if adopted, that this sentence be placed in the Legislative Article-I mean, the Style and Drafting Committee be authorized to insert this in the Legislative Article in the proper position; would you want that in the motion?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I've spoken to Mr. Schiltz; is he here? Mr. Schiltz, is there any reason you couldn't move it to Legislative, Style and Drafting?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: There's no reason, Mr. President, except that the Style and Drafting Committee agreed yesterday unanimously that it wasn't germane at that time to the rest of the content of the Legislative Article. And, so we had agreed among ourselves to put it in a group of four or five general provisions, where I submit to you it might stand out better than if it were in the Legislative Article. We'll do whatever the committee wants, and we'd rather find it out now than have it moved the day after tomorrow.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Would Mr. Schiltz yield to another question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: (Inaudible)

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I would move, Mr. Schiltz, to have it in Section 10, sub. 4, which reads now: "The Legislature may establish a Legislative Council and other interim committees." Would it belong here? I'm open to your suggestions. What would you suggest at this time?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I don't know the one you're looking at now, because I have something else before me, but 10, sub. 4, of the-I'd have to look at it. I think as amended, it's now more germane to the Legislative Article; and I think if somebody wanted to make that motion, it would be appropriate.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Well, Mr. President-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aasheim, I would--we haven't done this yet; and before we leave it, I would entertain a motion from you as to put it in the Legislative Article.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: (Inaudible)—time. Would it not be in order now?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see; if we haven't mentioned it, you mean? You want to ask Mr. Joyce to say "and place the language in the Legislative Article"?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Instruct the Style and Drafting Committee to insert it in Section 10, sub. 4, of the article.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman. May I add to my—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: (Inaudible)

DELEGATE JOYCE: -motion to suspend the rules for that limited purpose, the additional words that I would further move later to have the language, if adopted, incorporated into the Legislative Article by the Style and Drafting Committee?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Now, we're ready to debate the motion to suspend the rules, and Mr. Scanlin has been up.

DELEGATE SCANLIN: Mr. Chairman, is a substitute motion in order to suspend the rules in order to delete this sentence?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, I suppose it's in order.

DELEGATE SCANLIN: My reason being that, if it's already being carried out in the statutes, what are we getting so confused about?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You're making-are you making such a motion?

DELEGATE SCANLIN: I so move.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You make a motion to suspend the rules to reconsider Section 4, sub. 5, of the Executive Article to delete the sentence concerning the legislative post-auditor. All right, Mr. Scanlin has made a substitute motion to move to suspend the rules for the purpose of reconsidering Section 4, sub. 5, of the Executive Article, to delete the references therein to the legislative post-auditor.

Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman. I rise in opposition to the motion of Delegate Scanlin to reconsider for that purpose, and I do so because I feel honor-bound to call to the attention of the body that this particular section came in as the result of a floor debate-that was conducted between myself, as the chairman of the Executive Committee, and Mr. Felt, the member of my committee but who had offered this amendment. If the delegates will recall, this entire debate came about over the-amending the Executive Article with reference to the function of the state auditor. And after some debate, it was finally narrowed down to the language which currently appears in the Executive Article; and the rationale as to why we did that was to make it clear, constitutionally, that the Legislature could itself establish a post-auditing system and that it would not be in conflict with the state auditor as provided in the Executive Department. And that was the reason why this Convention took the action it did; and to now delete this matter, when Delegate Felt isn't here to defend his position, which, of course, is not necessarily relevent—but at any rate, if-1 was trying to recall to the convention the action that we did take and the reason that we did do such a thing at the time that this particular subject matter was covered, when the Executive Article was under debate in the Committee of the Whole.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Blaylock.

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Mr. President, I likewise resist the motion to delete this and support the motion of Mr. Joyce to suspend the rules. I was asked by Chairman Schiltz of the Style and Drafting Committee to meet with the Legislative Council members who have been running-or supervising the post-auditing for the state, and one of the reasons, I think that you will remember, that we wanted to put this office into our Constitution was because it had worked so extremely well for the State of Montana. And these men, who are-have been serving in our state Legislature, are concerned about the present language, that we have adopted because they feel that the language we have that the Legislature could appoint this legislative post-auditor and thus throw the whole thing back into politics, which they have so scrupulously tried to keep out of politics and which I think they have. This is why we like this post-auditor so well-is because it has been kept out of politics, and they're very careful about when they put out these reports so that they don't come out at election time to try to hurt somebody running for office or anything like this; and it's done because this committee is balanced between Democrats and Republicans; and they want to keep it that way. They want to keep the authority within the Legislative Post-Audit Committee. And so I definitely support Mr. Joyce, and I hope thecommittee will go along, because I think these men have worked extremely well for the State of Montana.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates. First, Mr. Chairman, I'd like a point of information. Isn't it possible that part of this section could be moved to the Legislative Article by Style and Drafting without reopening this article?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It could be moved to Style and Drafting and, in fact, it has been moved to General Government by them, but that doesn't reach the substantive problem that the Legislative Council people want reached.

DELEGATE BATES: Well, Mr. Chairman, could I speak on this?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You may speak on the motion to suspend the rules.

DELEGATE BATES: I oppose suspending, for the simple reason that if Style and Drafting can remove this last sentence from this section that says: "The Legislature may appoint a legislative post-auditor who shall perform such post-auditing duties as may be provided by law." It's something they can do now. In looking over the minutes of our Legislative Committee meeting, I find that it was the sense of the committee that the Legislative Council be left out of the Constitutional Article-wait a minute,-this-here it is— "it was the sense of the committee that the legislative audit was a good idea and that it should be left to statutory law." And it was our decision that this legislative post-audit was appointed by the Legislature for their protection and for their use.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Mrs. Bates, I think you're now substantively arguing whether or not we should change this. I might point out, for your information, that that's precisely-Mr. Scanlin is trying to do precisely what you want to do-take it out of the Constitution. Now—

DELEGATE BATES: Not to take it out of the Constitution, but to move it into the Legislative Article.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, all right. Now, apparently you don't understand the situation. The situation is that Mr. Joyce moved a motion to suspend the rules, Section 4, sub. 5, to propose changing the substantive language so that we did not give the Legislature the power to appoint a post-auditor; rather, we gave them the power to establish a post-audit committee which would supervise the post-auditor. And the reason is to keep it out of politics. Mr. Scanlin, on the other hand, has made a substitute motion to suspend the rules for the purpose of striking from subsection 5, Section 4, of the Executive Article, all references to the legislative post-auditor. Now that's what Mr. Scanlin's motion is at the present time; that's the motion we're debating-whether or not to allow him to suspend the rules for that purpose.

Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: I realize this. and—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay.

DELEGATE BATES: -but I oppose the motion from Joyce for this reason, and I feel that Style and Drafting can take care of this matter. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Well, that's-you're now arguing the issue, and I'm trying to avoid that. Is there any other discussion of Mr. Scanlin's motion to suspend the rules to delete the legislative post-auditor entirely?

Mrs. Robinson.

DELEGATE ROBINSON: Mr. Chairman. I rise in support of Mr. Scanlin's motion, not so much as I'm in opposition to Mr. Joyce's—because in the event that this does fail, I would support that because I feel we have made a mistake in dealing with that audit. Rut, as Mrs. Bates indicated, in our Legislative Committee we felt that this should be left out of the Constitution. This is one of the institutions of the State of Montana that is working; it is working very well. We could see no reason for writing it into the Constitution. We talked to the people in the Legislative Post-audit Commission downstairs, and they agreed that it shouldn't be written into the Constitution; and that's why the Legislative Committee took that position. I think that it's very clearly dealt with in the statutes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, I don't mind you talking about the motion, but I don't want you to argue the substantive issue.

Mr. Roeder.

DELEGATE ROEDER: At the risk of suffering the slings and arrows of my seatmate, I rise in opposition to Mr. Scanlin's motion. And I think that there's some confusion here, in this respect: I think one of the reasons we mentioned legislative post-audit and other interim committees was to make it clear that we were trying to surmount the effect of a series of Supreme Court decisions in the 1950's that questioned the constitutionality of interim committees; and if we get to the debate stage, I think Mr. Berg ought to clarify that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there other discussion of Mr. Scanlin's motion to suspend the rules?

Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I resist the motion by Mr. Scanlin and support the one by Mr. Joyce.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Martin.

DELEGATE MARTIN: I hesitate to get up in regard to a suspension of the rules, but in this case, I think if we were to delete this section I think it would be one of the most serious things that we could do. We would remove the watchdog that we need so badly.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Scanlin, do you want to close on your idea of suspending the rules?

DELEGATE SCANLIN: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I wish to close simply by saying: if the law is working well now, and the last few words of line 25 says "as are prescribed by law", I see no reason to tamper with it, and consequently, I support my motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there a roll call vote called for?

UNIDENTIFIED DELEGATES: Roll call.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So many as shall be in favor of Mr. Scanlin's motion to suspend the rules for the purpose of taking out of Section 4, subsection 5, any reference to the legislative post-auditor-so many as shall be in favor of that, vote Aye; so many as shall be opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, I'm sorry, Mr. Aasheim-I mean Mr. Schiltz and Mr. Aronow, you've got to sit in your own seats. The voting machine is keyed to your seats, and you've now voted for each other and that's illegal; and I don't want you both going to jail. If there had been a chance to send one, I might have considered it, but-(Laughter) I'm not going to tell you which one. (Laughter) All right, now, has every delegate voted the way he wants to vote, and does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, close the ballot. The problem is you get the machine all fouled up, Cedor.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 15 delegates voting Aye, 77 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 77 voting No and 15, Aye, Mr. Scanlin's motion has failed. Now we're back on Mr. Joyce's motion, which is to suspend the rules so that we can consider the Executive Article, Section 4, sub. 5, for the purpose of changing the legislative post-auditor language and giving-and putting in language to make it appoint-establish a committee which will run the post-audit. Now, is there other discussion on that motion to suspend the rules?

Mrs. Babcock.

DELEGATE BABCOCK: Mr. Chairman, is the whole section open? If it is, it includes the Superintendent of Public Instruction, the Treasurer, the Auditor, and the whole bit; is that all open?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, Mrs. Babcock, I've said that the-subsection 5 is open for the purpose of changing the legislative post-auditor part only. If you're looking at your final, you're right; those other things are in there. But in your Style and Drafting, Style and Drafting put a subsection 6 into 5, and the only part that's open is the last sentence. Now, if you want to enlarge it, you can make another motion, but—

DELEGATE BABCOCK: Mr. Chairman, by all means, I don't want to enlarge it; and I rise in opposition to it. I think once we've voted on these for final vote that they should stay voted on for final vote.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. The only thing that's open, Mrs. Babcock, is the last sentence, which is the sentence concerning the post-auditor. Is there other discussion?

Mr. Furlong.

DELEGATE FURLONG: Mr. Chairman. It seems to me that what we're really trying to do here is constitution&x a procedure, and I would stand opposed to reopening it unless I had some more clear explanation of the purpose.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You may certainly find out; I don't want you to be misled here. You may inquire-or Mr. Joyce or Mr. Blaylock may reexplain to you the purpose. Mr. Joyce, Mr. Furlong would like the purpose reexplained.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman. The purpose of my motion to suspend the rules would be for the limited purpose only ofdeleting, on page 2, line 25, beginning with the word "the", of Executive Report Number 4, by deleting the words "The Legislature may appoint a legislative post-auditor who shall perform such post-auditing duties as may be provided by law". Then substitute in lieu thereof the following language: "The Legislature shall establish a Legislative Post-audit Committee which shall supervise such post-auditing duties as may be provided by law."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And, Mr. Furlong-

DELEGATE FURLONG: And further, to instruct the Style and Drafting Committee to insert the same-the new language, if adopted, in an appropriate section of the Legislative Article.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is that sufficient, Mr. Furlong? Or do you want to know why they want to do that?

DELEGATE FURLONG: Mr. Chairman, it's sufficient. I still maintain that what we're doing is constitutionallyestablishingaprocedure. I don't know why it's really necessary.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I certainly want everybody to understand why, and I understand why. And you may vote either way, but the reason is that we have given the Legislature the power to appoint the post-auditor. The present Legislative Post-audit Committee people feel that we may have thus placed the post-auditor in a political position where a majority in the Legislature would appoint him politically. The present practice is to have a Post-audit Committee which is not appointed by the Legislature but is appointed by the speaker of one house and somebody else. But, in other words, it's a procedure by which a committee is appointed and the committee chooses the post-auditor. They feel that this insulates the post-auditor from the direct control of the entire legislative body and thus takes it out of politics. Now, I don't know whether it will or not, but at least that's what they think-that it would have a better chance of doing than the way it is here. The purpose of the amendment is to address ourselves to that problem, if we do it. Now, whether it's a good idea or not, I'm not prepared to say.

Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Mr. Chairman. Would Mr. Joyce please yield to a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Joyce?

DELEGATE JOYCE: I yield.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Delegate Joyce, when our Legislative Committee prepared its final report, as Delegate Aasheim stated, we have mentioned the Legislature may establish a Legislative Council and other interim committees. I had worked on this legislative post-audit; I was the one who had gone down to see our auditor. And in reporting back, I had discussed the issue with Mr. Felt; and he thought this "other interim committees" would permit exactly what the statement you have just suggested would do. Now, I want to ask you how this proposal now would differ from the statement "The Legislature may establish other interim committees".

DELEGATE JOYCE: Well, in answer to that, I suppose it would differ from it in that it would be more specific than the section that you refer to. And to amplify-as I say, the reason that this was inserted into the Executive Article after extended debate, if you recall, in which Mr. Felt and I were on opposite sides of the debate, and finally it got stripped down to this language on my amendment from further language that he had proposed, and which was ultimately adopted by the Committee of the Whole and the convention itself on final reading of the Executive Article.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr.-

DELEGATE JOYCE: It could do the same thing; maybe it would and maybe it wouldn't. This is more specific.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman. If I may address myself to Mrs. Reichert's question, I think the idea was that the legislative post-audit is an excellent institution and that it-we should make sure somehow that it's retained and, in order to do that, retain it by constitutional provision rather than let the Legislature willy-nilly abandon it at some time.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Just one comment in addition to what Mr. Schiltz just said. There has been a question-the Supreme Court has raised this-whether or not the Legislature has the authority to set up these interim committees. And that is why Mr. Felt made this suggestion, and that is why we have included in the committee-in this Legislative Article. And as Mr. Schiltz said, this makes it very plain and very specific that they can do this.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Skari.

DELEGATE SKARI: Mr. President, would Delegate Joyce yield to a question, please?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Joyce?

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman, I yield.

DELEGATE SKARI: Mr. Joyce, I think I understand now. The idea of this language is to keep the legislative post-auditor out of politics by selecting this person by a smaller committee than the entire legislative body. Still, is there any guarantee here that the Legislative Post-audit Committee will be balanced politically? I understand it has in the past.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Well, in answer to the question, I suppose I'd have to say that there is no guarantee as such, other than that the current members of the committee feel that, as the law is currently established, that it is out of politics, and this would be at least a strong directive to continue the system that they've established to keep it out of politics.

DELEGATE SKARI: Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Mahoney.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Mr. Chairman. I think this is good amendment to put it in here, and I'm sorry to the convention I didn't notice this before, but if you went out here and let the Legislature-and they had just the appointing— or selecting a legislative auditor. At least we're getting it back under a committee; we're getting it back under the Legislature where it should belong. And I think this is there, and we don't want to come out here and create another branch of government, which we-might happen if we had this individual this way. I sure hope that this amendment will prevail.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Now, the amendment is on-or the motion is on a motion to suspend the rules. And I think we now have gotten everybody sufficiently educated so they at least know what they're voting about. So, I'm not going to cut off debate if you want to debate the motion, but I do think you should stick to the subject of suspending the rules if you want to discuss it now. Is there any further discussion?

Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman, I would like to have Delegate Mahoney answer a question.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Mahoney, will you yield?

DELEGATE MAHONEY: I'll try.

DELEGATE BATES: Under the Legislative Article, interim committees are one of the things that's permitted. Why couldn't this be done—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Am I—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, ask your question; but then, before you answer, Mr. Mahoney, the Chair is going to rule.

DELEGATE BATES: Why couldn't this be done under the present-the way it is now?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. That's a substantive question that you can debate if we ever suspend the rules and debate this matter, Mrs. Bates; so I'll rule it out of order. Is there any other question about the motion to suspend the rules?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Do you want a roll call vote? The Chair wants a roll call vote; does he have some seconds?

(Affirmative response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Good. All in favor of suspending the rules so that-on Mr. Joyce's motion so that we can go into Executive Article, Section 4, sub. 5, and change the nature of the legislative post-auditor to a post-audit committee, please vote Aye; and so many as are against that, vote No. Have all the delegates voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, we'll cast the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 80 delegates voting Aye, 10 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 80 voting Aye, 10 voting No, the motion carries.

Mr. Joyce, do you want to make a motion to reconsider for that specific purpose?

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman. Having voted on the prevailing side, I move that this committee reconsider its action in its previous consideration of Section 4, subsection 5, the last sentence thereof, which reads: "The Legislature may appoint a legislative post-auditor who shall perform such post-auditing duties as may be prescribed by law." And my reference is to the Order of Business Number 5, Final Consideration, Style and Drafting Executive Article Number IV, CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of the motion to reconsider, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and it's adopted.

Now, Mr. Joyce, do you want to state your motion?

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, that it recommend that the last sentence of Section 4, subsection 5, of the Executive Report Number 4 from Style and Drafting be amended to delete the following words: "The Legislature may appoint a legislative post-auditor who shall perform such post-auditing duties as may be provided by law." And insert in lieu thereof the following language: "The Legislature shall establish a legislative Post-audit Committee which shall supervise such post-auditing duties as may be provided by law."

Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: I presume that I've already indicated the purpose of the proposed amendment, and I don't see any reason to elaborate any further on it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bates, do you want to ask a question now?

DELEGATE BATES: Yes, Mr. Chairman. Mr. Mahoney, under the present Constitution--or the article as we now have it, with interim committees-why couldn't this be done without this wording?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Mahoney?

DELEGATE MAHONEY: I think it could if you would-without this wording, except I just now-first this body tried to delete that part under the Scanlin motion, and it was defeated. And so I would hesitate to let us get out of here without more--after we've debated, I think we should go ahead with this proposition now and leave it this way.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: In our committee we also discussed this locking in the Constitution a legislative post-audit, for the simple reason that it's a product of the Legislature that would be responsible to the Legislature. If they fail to use it in its proper perspective, it would be useless, and they would have this opportunity to do this anyway. And the way this reads, "the Legislature shall establish", and they would have to regardless whether they used it or not. And so I oppose this.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Burkhardt.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: Mr. Chairman, I wonder if Mr. Joyce would yield to a question.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Joyce?

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman, I yield.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: Mr. Joyce, I'm wondering if, as a body, we wish to name a committee, or if you would react to whether we could simply say "The Legislature shall provide for post-auditing procedures." Could you react to that one?

DELEGATE JOYCE: Well, I could in that the people who asked us to make this reconsideration wanted to spell out that it should be done in the way that it is currently being done.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: It seems to me, Mr. Chairman-I'm not terribly versed in this area, but in constitutional matters, if you simply say "the Legislature shall provide for post-auditing procedures", then they're definitely provided with that. And since we're not saying in the article that the committee must be balanced politically, we'd be accomplishing the same thing. I won't, at this moment, amend the motion, but I would simply put it out there for people to think about. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Warden.

DELEGATE WARDEN: Mr. President. I would just like to stand in support of Mr. Joyce's motion. I think this is one of the most important things that we can do. I think that the spelling out the fact that there shall be a legislative post-audit and that it shall be done in the manner as prescribed here is without a doubt the simplest; it's a working situation. I've checked with a number of people, and in the many-year distant future, I can't see that this would necessarily have to be changed. I think it's something that is working; it's a system that is set up; it's under-someone has said--under statute. Well, so it is; but I think this is an important enough item to be considered in the Constitution; and I would strongly support Mr. Joyce's motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Jacobsen.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Mr. President and fellow delegates. I, too, support Mr. Joyce's motion. I think the legislative auditor is one of the finest things that our Legislature in the past few years has put into effect, and we should have this office and keep it out of politics if we can. Thank YOU.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Mr. Chairman. I join with this. We voted a moment ago not to delete it, so the only question now is how to word it. I think Mr. Joyce's committee proposal is plain and will do the job. I rise to ask this question: How does Mr. Aasheim's suggestion tie in here, or should it be tied in right here? Or do we need to instruct the Style and Drafting Committee to shift this to Article X, Section 4, of the Legislative Article?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well the rules are, Mr. Harper, if that's directed to me—

DELEGATE HARPER: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The rules are suspended for a broad enough purpose that if this passes, the Chair will entertain a motion that the Style and Drafting Committee put it in the Legislative Article.

DELEGATE HARPER: Thank you. I'm not a betting man, as you are aware, but I'll bet this will pass if we'll all let ourselves vote on it right now.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, not yet. Mr. Hanson.

DELEGATE ROD HANSON: Mr. President. I hesitate to even ask a question, George, now. I would like to ask Delegate Joyce a question, if he'd yield.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Joyce?

DELEGATE JOYCE: I yield.

DELEGATE ROD HANSON: Tom, was there strong feelings in the committee about the use of the word "shall" instead of "may"?

DELEGATE JOYCE: Yes, yes.

DELEGATE ROD HANSON: Okay, I support the amendment as suggested by Delegate Joyce, then.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Babcock.

DELEGATE BABCOCK: Mr. Chairman. I'd like to offer a substitute motion that would read: "The Legislature shall direct the state auditor to perform a post-audit as provided by law." And I'll be like Mr. Harper, I'll bet that this'11 fail; and I'm sure that Mr. Roeder will enjoy stomping back on me.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, wait a minute, Mrs. Babcock. Before you'vegot anything to bet on, you've got to go a little slower. "The Legislature shall-"

DELEGATE BABCOCK: "The Legislature shall direct the state auditor to perform a post-audit as provided by law." I believe in the committee that we intended—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Wait a minute, Mrs. Babcock. "-shall direct the state auditor to perform-"

DELEGATE BABCOCK: Don't you take shorthand, Mr. Graybill?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, I don't. "-to perform" what?

DELEGATE BABCOCK: "-to perform a post-audit as provided by law".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "-audit as provided by law."

DELEGATE BABCOCK: As I recall— May I speak?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Babcock, now wait a minute. I'm going to let you have the floor. "-provided by law". Now, I have to state it so the body understands what we're doing. Members of the committee, we now have Mrs. Babcock making a substitute motion to Mr. Joyce's motion, the subject of-the terms of which are that, in place of what he suggested, we put into the Constitution this sentence: "The Legislature shall direct the state auditor to perform a post-audit as provided by law."

Now, Mrs. Babcock.

DELEGATE BABCOCK: Mr. Chairman. I believe, in having the auditor perform this audit, that this will definitely take it out of politics, because he's an elected official. And I believe that in our committee this was the original intent, to strengthen the auditor's office. And I'm almost sure that this won't fail, but I want to have it on the record-(Inaudible)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Martin.

DELEGATE MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, I want to express my thanks to Mrs. Babcock for putting the thing in its proper focus. We had an extensive debate on that issue, which was roundly defeated 62 to 31. I hope that Delegate Babcock's motion doesn't prevail and that Delegate Joyce's does.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Just a point of order that Mrs. Babcock's motion is out of order in that the rules were not opened for that purpose but were opened for the specific purpose of offering the amendment which I suggested.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think you are absolutely right. Mrs. Babcock, your motion is out of order, and I shouldn't have-but I got carried away there, Mrs. Babcock. Mrs. Babcock, if Mr. Joyce's motion doesn't prevail or even it it does, afterwards I'll let you make a motion to suspend the rules for the purpose of this if you want to; but I've already limited the purpose for which we can do this, and so I can't let you make that kind of an amendment. I can let you make a stylistic amendment or something of that nature, but I can't let you make one that changes the substance of what we suspended the rules for.

DELEGATE BABCOCK: Are out of order motions recorded in the journal?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I suppose they're in the transcript.

DELEGATE BABCOCK: All right, thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: My ruling will now be that Mrs. Babcock's motion is out of order. Thank you, Mr. Joyce, for catching me. All right, is there further discussion of Mr. Joyce's motion, which is to delete the last sentence of Section 4, sub. 5, of the Executive Article and put in: "The Legislature shall establish a Legislative Post-audit Committee which shall supervise such post-auditing duties as may be prescribed-as may be provided by law."

Very well, Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman. I would like to make a substitute motion here and say: "The Legislature may provide for the procedure for a legislative post-auditor period".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Your motion is out of order for the same reason as Mrs. Babcock's is. If you-and after we've done this, if you want to make another motion to suspend the rules and go through those steps, I'll be glad to let you; but I can't let you take advantage of the other people's going through the motion-when we voted on the-the point is this: when we voted on the motion to suspend the rules, everybody that voted at that time understood it was for a specific purpose and they knew the language. Now I can't let you make another one without going back and starting over again. Is there further discussion of Mr. Joyce's motion to substitute his language for the language that's presently in there?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there a roll call that's been called for? So many as are in favor of Mr. Joyce's motion to substitute his language about the Legislative Audit Committee for that that's in there, vote Aye; and so many as are opposed, vote No. Have all the delegates voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, close the ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Clerk.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 79 delegates voting Aye, 9 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 79 having voted Aye and 9 voting No, Mr. Joyce's motion is adopted.

Mr. Aasheim, you may make a motion as to where to put it.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I move Mr. Chairman, that this sentence from Section 4, subjection 5, lines 26 and 27, be directed to Style and Drafting to be incorporated into Section 10 of the Legislative Article, both unicameral and bicamera1 sections

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, Mr. Aasheim has made a motion to put this new language into the Legislative Article-Section 10 of the Legislative Article, unicameral and bicameral. Is there any discussion?

Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman. I think, too, this is where it belongs, and I go along with Mr. Aasheim; but is it possible to make an amendment on this sentence-or this section that will be moved?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is it a stylistic or is it a substantive change?

DELEGATE BATES: It would be more or less style, I think; maybe substance.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, if you're going to change "shall" to "may", it's not style.

DELEGATE BATES: Well, I'll read it, and then you tell me.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay.

DELEGATE BATES: "The Legislature may provide for the procedure for a legislative post-audit period".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, as soon as you say "may", it's "no". The point is, ladies and gentlemen, that this body, when Mr. Felt was here originally, put this principle of legislative post-audit into the Constitution. Now, this committee decided, in the motion that Mr. Joyce has made—carefully did not take it out. But when you say "may", then it's up to the Legislature whether it's in or out. Now, I'm going to come back to you, and you can make a motion to suspend the rules and change that, but you can't do it under Mr. Joyce's motion because it's too limited. And that would, you know-would make a major change, if the Legislature could do away with this if it wanted to. What we've said now is the Legislature must have some kind of a legislative post-audit. All right, is there other discussion of Mr. Aasheim's motion about putting it in the Legislative Article, Section 10?

Mr. Foster.

DELEGATE FOSTER: Mr. Chairman. It's just a point of order in that the original language was "may", and since we had to consider the original language as well as the proposed change, I don't see that the wording "may" is out of order.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Foster, the original language in the article is "may"; the original language in the proposal of Mr. Joyce is "shall". Now the Chair is going to rule that the "shall" prescribes it here; but I am going to come back, and we are going to see if Mrs. Bates or Mrs. Babcock or yourself care to change that. I'll be happy to do it, but I can't let the body vote thinking that it's "shall" and then change it to "may" afterwards. That's my point. If you want to challenge me, go ahead.

DELEGATE FOSTER: No, I won't challenge you. I'll just say that since "may" was already in there, I think that we had to consider "may".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, it isn't in there now, Mr. Foster. All right, the issue then, is whether or not to put this new language in Section 10 of the Legislative Article. All in favor of moving it to Section 10 of the Legislative Article, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's adopted. Now, while we have this matter before us—

Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman. I was just going to move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under reconsideration Executive Article Number IV, Section 4, subsection 5, that it recommend the same be adopted as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Just let the Chair think a minute here, now. I think the Chair is going to rule you out of order for the moment, Mr. Joyce. We now have this subsection 4, sub. 5, before the committee, and before we close it up, so that we're not doing vain things, I want to offer an opportunity to others who might want to move to suspend the rules for a different purpose in conjunction with that section.

Mrs. Babcock, do you wish to so move?

DELEGATE BABCOCK: No, Mr. Chairman, but I would like to ask a question. Are all of these changes again placed on Order of Business Number 5 so that we can revote on them?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: They are going to go directly to Order of Business Number 5, right.

DELEGATE BABCOCK: So we can change our vote then if we want to?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes. All right, Mrs. Babcock, you don't want to open it.

Mrs. Bates, do you want to make a motion to suspend the rules?

DELEGATE BATES: Yes, I would do so.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: For what purpose?

DELEGATE BATES: To change the language for just one sentence. "The Legislature may provide for the procedure for a legislative post-audit"—I can't even read my own writing-Just one sentence.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Allright. Now, "The Legislature may provide-"

DELEGATE BATES: And-"for the procedure for a legislative post-audit."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: May I say: "The Legislature may provide procedure"?

DELEGATE BATES: "-for the procedures for a legislative post-audit-or auditor".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Do you want to write it down and send it to the Chair?

DELEGATE BATES: Yes. Mr. Chairman, also, what section does this go into?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, at the moment, it's going to the Legislative, Section 10.

DELEGATE BATES: Section 10. Okay; fine. I'll write it down.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Mrs. Bates makes a motion to suspend the rules for the purpose of making the sentence say: "The Legislature may provide the procedures for a legislative post-audit". Is that correct, Mrs. Bates?

DELEGATE BATES: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "-the procedures for a legislative post-audit." Now, the meat of the matter is that it makes it discretionary; it says: "The Legislature may provide the procedures for a legislative post-audit."

Now, Mrs. Bates, do you want to discuss your motion to suspend the rules?

DELEGATE BATES: Yes, Mr. Chairman. I feel that this would be better than locking into the Constitution "shall" for something that may not be used effectively. And if it is as it is now, and the Legislature wants it, they can do so. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there other discussion of Mrs. Bate's motion?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Shall we have a roll call or not? Yes, roll call. So many as shall be in favor of Mrs. Bates' motion to suspend the rules for the purpose of making the legislative post-audit sentence read, "The Legislature may provide the procedures for a legislative post-audit", vote Aye; and so many as are opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, cast the ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Driscoll. (To clerk) Will you push Mr. Driscoll's point? I didn't hear what you said, Mr.-

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: Driscoll votes NO.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Driscoll voting NO.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, Driscoll votes No; 8 delegates voting Aye, 71 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, 71 having voted No and 8 voting Aye, the motion is defeated.

Mr. Foster, do you want any motions?

DELEGATE FOSTER: (Inaudible)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay. Now, Mr. Joyce, the Chair will entertain a motion from you.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman. I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having under reconsideration Order of Business Number 5, Final Consideration, Style and Drafting Executive Report Number 4, that it recommend the same be adopted as amended and that the Style and Drafting Committee be instructed to insert the same in the appropriate section of the Legislative Article.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So many as shall be in favor of Mr. Joyce's motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So many as shall be opposed, say No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and so ordered.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: I move the Committee of the Whole rise and finally report.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The motion is that the Committee of the Whole rise and finally report on this matter. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So ordered.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Will the clerk please read the committee report.

CLERK HANSON: "March 20, 1972. Mr. President. We, your Committee of the Whole, having had under consideration business on General Orders, recommend as follows: That the committee rise and finally report. Signed: Graybill, Chairman."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does anyone want the committee report read in full?

DELEGATES: No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move the adoption of the Committee of the Whole report.

PRESIDENT.GRAYBILL: The motion is to adopt the Committee of the Whole report. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and it's adopted.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Without objection, may we be on Order of Business Number 7?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Is there any objection to our moving to Order of Business Number 7, Motions and Resolutions?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, without objection, Mr. Eskildsen, we're on Order of Business Number 7.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move we take the Legislative Article from Style and Drafting and place it on Order of Business Number 5.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to take the Legislative Article from Style and Drafting and place it on Order of Business Number 5; the purpose being to adopt into it by final roll call vote, as Mrs. Babcock pointed out, the language we are now moving to it. All in favor of that motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, Legislature is back on Order of Business Number 5.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move we take Revenue and Finance from Style and Drafting and place it on Order of Business Number 5.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. The purpose of this motion is that we failed to put this one on Order of Business Number 5 this morning; and we did amend that section, so we have to readopt that section on final vote in Order of Business Number 5. All in favor of that motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, both Revenue and Finance and Legislative are now on Order of Business Number 5, along with Local Government and General Government.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move we stand in recess this day until 1:30.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to recess this convention until 1:30 p.m. this afternoon. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Just a moment. All opposed, No.
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: We will recess after Mrs. Warden makes an announcement, I take it.

Mrs. Warden.

DELEGATE WARDEN: Could I see all the members of the Public Information Committee in the Rules Committee room, right now. Thank you.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. Public Information, in the Rules Committee room on recess. We are in recess.

(Convention recessed at 12:25 p.m.--reconvened at 1:50 p.m.)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Members of the Committee-of the Convention, when we adjourned, we were on Order of Business Number 7, having moved Legislative and Revenue and Finance into Order of Business Number 5. Now it's come to our attention that we're not quite through with that, and so Mr. Eskildsen has another motion.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move we take the Executive proposal from Style and Drafting and refer it to Order of Business Number 5.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The purpose of this motion is, in order to remove that material from Executive, we want to reenact the section with it removed so there's no question that it's properly done. All in favor of moving Executive from Style and Drafting to Order of Business Number 5, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, now we'll be on--without objection, we'll be on Order of Business Number 5. Now, ladies and gentlemen, if you have your Style and Drafting reports with you, you can follow this, but in any event we'll straighten it up for the record. We're going to take up first the Executive Proposal, Number 4, and we're going to reconsider Section 4 thereof, which appears on-page 2 of the Executive report. And the point of this is that Section 4 has, at the present time, five subdivisions, and the fifth subdivision used to contain the language: "The Legislature may appoint a legislative post-auditor who shall perform such post-auditing duties as may be provided by law." Now, we took that out of that section of Executive this morning, and we left in the language Mrs. Babcock asked about: "The Superintendent of Public Instruction and the auditor shall have such duties as are provided by law." And we want to reenact on final adoption Section 4 of the Executive Article so that we have approved Section 4 with the deleted matter out. Is there anyone has any question about what we are voting on? It's final adoption on Executive Article, Section 4-Duties--with four--with five subsections. The last subsection has been amended this morning in Committee of the Whole and adopted by the Convention. Very well, the issue is on Section 4. So many as shall be in favor of adopting Section 4 of the Executive Article, as amended this morning, please vote Aye on the voting machine. So many as are opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, will the clerk please take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President 73 delegates voting Aye, 5 voting No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: 73 having voted Aye and 5 voting No, Section 4, as amended, is adopted on final adoption. All right, now, ladies and gentlemen, if you'll take your Legislative Style and Drafting Report Number 3-Legislative Style and Drafting Report Number 3—and the amendment there is to Section 10 of the unicameral and Section 10 of the bicameral. We'll vote on these separately, since we did originally. Section 10 of the unicameral is on page 3-page 3—and what we will be doing is adding a subsection 6. Section 10 is on organization and procedure and it has-we'll be adding a subsection 5-I beg your pardon. It has four subsections, the last-the fourth of which is, "The Legislature may establish a Legislative Council and other interim committees." We will now be adding a subsection 5 to state: "The Legislature shall establish a Legislative Post-auditing Committee which shall supervise such post-auditing duties as may be provided by law." Now, the only mistake I made there is, it should say: "Legislative Post-audit Committee". "The Legislature shall establish a Legislative Post-audit Committee which shall supervise such post-auditing duties as may be provided by law." Subsection 5 of Section 10 of theunicameral Legislative Article.

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, just for the purposes of-1 probably was asleep when this amendment-or I was thinking of something else when this amendment went in, but for styling purposes and to be uniform, I would like to work out some way to strike that word "such" and strike "as may be" so it conforms with the rest of the document.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Then it would read: "-which shall supervise post-auditing duties provided by law." Is that what you want it to say?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: (Inaudible)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: All right, on the Style and-what makes you think we can do this here?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I gave you the flag in the first instance. I said I didn't know that we could do it here, but if we could get some tacit agreement, it would save us going back or saving a section that provides-or that reads differently from all the rest of them.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Eskildsen, are you with us? No, no-no, not on the phone. Mr. Eskildsen, the problem is that Style and Drafting would like to strike some unnecessary words. Do we have to go back to 10, then? Yes?

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: No, I don't think so if it can be done without changing the intent of it.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: It doesn't change the intent.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: I think that they can do it in Style and Drafting then.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Well, but can we do it here?

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Yes, we could do it here, if we-you want to make the motions.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: All right, Mr. Schiltz, make your motion again. We'll do it here, for better or for worse.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I don't have the material in front of me, so I move that the word "such" and the words "as may be" be struck, and if anybody on my committee demurs, please raise his hand.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: All right. Now, I've done that on the copy I have here and it now reads: "The Legislature shall establish a Legislative Post-audit Committee which shall supervise post-auditing duties provided by law." We've struck the words-it used to say "which shall supervise such post-auditing duties"-they don't like that word "as may"-and we have struck the "as may"-and just said "as provided by law", so it now says: "-Post-audit Committee which shall supervise post-auditing duties provided by law". So many as shall be in favor of that Style and Drafting change, please say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: All right, that's amended by Style and Drafting. All right, now we're back on Order of Business Number 5, and we're discussing amending Section 10 of the unicameral article by adding a subsection 5 thereto which will say: "The Legislature shall establish a Legislative Post-audit Committee which shall supervise post-auditing duties provided by law." So many as shall be in favor of so amending the unicameral Section 10, vote Aye; and so many as—

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: No, no-on the voting machines this time. And so many as shall be opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, we'll take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 81 delegates voting Aye, 5 voting No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, we've adopted that in the unicameral article. Now, if you will turn on page 2 and 3, behind themanila divider sheet, to the bicameral article, we will put the same amendment to Section 10 of the bicameral article. Now, Section 10 of the bicameral article at this time contains five subdivisions. The new subdivisions will become sub. 5, and if you approve this, sub. 5 will become sub. 6. That's another Style and Drafting change. Let's put it this way: all in favor of making sub. 5—present sub. 5—sub. 6 so that sub. 5 is open, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: There, we've style and drafted it. Now, the motion is-all right, the motion is to put into Section 10 of the bicameral article a subdivision 5 which shall read: "The Legislature shall establish a Legislative Post-audit Committee which shall supervise post-auditing duties provided by law." So many as shall be in favor of the bicameral article with that language inserted as sub. 5 and the other sub. 5, sub. 6, vote Aye on the voting machines; and if you're opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

So many as shall be in favor on the bicameral article-Section 10—to add that language as subsection 5 and make subsection 5 subsection 6, vote Aye on the voting machines. Has every delegate voted?

Mr. President Aye

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 81 delegates voting Aye, 5 voting No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: 81 voting Aye and 5 voting No, that amendment-that section is adopted as amended. Now, Mr. Aasheim has correctly pointed out that Section 15 of the unicameral article contains a reference to a referendum and contains the bicameral article's-Mr. Aasheim, I don't know if you need to make the motion. The point is, if you'll turn to page 6 in your legislative pamphlets--actually page 5 is Section 15—and on page 6, subsection 3(d), contains Section 10 out of the bicameral article, and we need to add thereto the subsection 5 to(d), Section 10, and make subsection 5, Section 6, just like we did before. So, at this time I'll put the question whether or not you wish to readopt Section 15, as amended. The issue, then, is whether to adopt Section 15 of the unicameral article, which contains Section 10 of the bicameral article as sub. 3 sub.(d), and therein add, as a sub. 5, the language: "The Legislature shall establish a Post-audit Committee which shall supervise post-auditing duties provided by law." So many as shall be in favor of Section 15 with that amendment, vote Aye on the voting machines; so many as are opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 78 delegates voting Aye, 6 voting No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: 78 having voted Aye and 6 having voted No, that section is readopted on final reading. Now, ladies and gentlemen, if you'll turn to your Revenue and Finance Style and Drafting Report Number 7—Revenue and Finance-and if you'll turn to page 2 thereof--and on page 2 thereof you'll find Section 6, containing two subdivisions, and the second subdivision contains the 12 words which we struck therefrom this morning upon a motion to suspend the rules. So, at this time, I would like to put to the body for final adoption, Section 6, including two subdivisions, the second of which is amended, of the Revenue and Finance Article, Number X. The amended subdivision now says: "Such revenue may be appropriated for other purposes by a three-fifths vote of the members of each house of the Legislature period." So many as shall be in favor of Section 6, including two subdivisions, as amended, vote Aye on the voting machine. So many as shall be opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 83 delegates voting Aye, 3 voting No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: 83 having voted Aye and 3 voting No, Section 6, as amended, of Revenue and Finance is readopted. Now, if I rnay have your attention, someone has pointed out to me that on the second vote on the bicameral Legislative Article, they say I did not call for a No vote, and that's entirely proper-or possible. However, it was a recorded machine vote, and you could have voted No, and in fact some did. Does anyone want to test-or does anyone challenge that'? Now is the time to challenge it. It was overwhelmingly Aye.

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So, if everybody understood that they could vote No, I guess the record may so show. We'll throw that one away.

All right, Mr. Eskildsen, I think we should-

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Without objection, Mr. President, may we be on Order of Business Number 10?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Well, before we go to Order of Business Number 10, the Chair will reassign Revenue and Finance and Legislative and Executive back to Style and Drafting for inclusion in the final document, as amended. Very well, now, you want to be on Order of Business Number 10?

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, wasn't there one more? Wasn't there four of them? Maybe-let's see, Executive, Legislative, Revenue and Finance-I guess you're right. Pardon me. Mr. President, I move the Convention resolve itself into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of handling business under General Orders.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is that this Convention resolve itself into a Committee of the Whole. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Convention resolved into Committee of the Whole, Graybill, Chairman)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, we're in Committee of the Whole now, and we will take up Report Number 11, Local Government. If you'll turn to page 5 in your Local Government Style and Drafting proposal. You will recall that—

Mr. Gysler, for what purpose do you arise?

DELEGATE GYSLER: Mr. Chairman, we had Number 11 on our desks this morning and the pages came along and took them away, and I haven't received another one yet.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there anyone else doesn't have Number 11? Will the pages get Mr. Gysler and Mr. Johnson Number 11. Look on my desk, Erv.

DELEGATE GYSLER: You're missing, too.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: How about 11? How many don't have 11?

(Various delegates raised their hands)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, can the pages find some Number 1 1s? Check the-you might as well look for Number 12 while you're doing it. Now, those who did not get Number 11, hold up your hands, and the page will give them to you. May the committee be in order. Very well, we're going to take up first Local Government, Number 11 on page-you should turn to page 5. Now, before we do that, Mr. Schiltz, will you make a motion that we suspend the rules--suspend Rule 23, concerning the 48 hours?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I move that we suspend Rule 23, the requirement that Style and Drafting reports be on the desks for 48 hours, or any other committee report, for the purpose of taking the matter up at this time.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the motion is to suspend Rule 23 on Local Government Proposal Number 11 so that we may consider it at this time, it not having lain 48 hours on your desks. All in favor of the motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So ordered. Will the clerk please read the title and Section 1 of the Proposal Number 11.

CLERK HANSON: "Montana Constitutional Convention, 1971-1972, Report of Committee on Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission on Local Government, Number 11. Reported March 20, 1972; John M. Schiltz, Chairman. Be it proposed by the Local Government Committee that there be a new article on local government to read as follows: Article, Local Government. Section 1. Definition." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, if I can make a short statement first, I want the committee to know that I didn't quit with Mr. Woodmansey and that I'm up here because there's some filming being done, and then if I lapse into Wilsonesque or Mahoneyesque at some time, it won't be anything but a change in style; all the substance will still be there. Ready?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I move that when this committee does rise and report, after having had under consideration Section 1, Local Government Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, there are no changes in Section 1.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of Section 1?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So many as shall be in favor of Section l-of Mr. Schiltz's motion that we adopt Section 1, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Read Section 2, Mr. Clerk.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 2. Counties." Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 2, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted.
Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Minor style changes. We changed the wording "adoption" to "date of ratification". Otherwise, a couple of singulars. We did change a "shall" to a "may" because there was a negative already in there. Otherwise, all style.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of Section 2?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So many as shall be in favor of Section 2, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Will the clerk please read Section 3.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 3. Forms of government"; containing two subsections. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 3, subsection 1, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, some change in language. You'll note we did put a "such" in here, but it needed it because of a previous reference. Otherwise, minor style changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of Section 3, sub. 1?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, everyone in favor of Mr. Schiltz's motion on Section 3, sub. 1, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 3, sub. 2, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Again, Mr. Chairman, some rearrangement of language without any change in the substance. All style changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, is there any discussion of Section 3, sub. 2?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. All in favor of Section 3, sub. 2, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Will the clerk read Section 3-w 4.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 4. General powers"; containing two subsections. Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 4, subsection 1, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chair. man, once again, we rearranged the language. We deleted the part about "under Sections 5 and 6" for the reason that that's the only way that any self-government powers could be had and we didn't see any necessity for-that's on line 12—any necessity for that language; put the material into subsections. Otherwise, it's all style.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Please note that 4, sub. 1, has (a), (b), and (c)in it now, so that we're talking about lines 11 through 23 on page 6. Is there any discussion?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. So many as shall be in favor of Mr. Schiltz's motion on Section 4, sub. 1, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 4, sub. 2, Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 4, sub. 2, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, we moved what had been a subsection 3 down and gave it the dignity of a subsection all by itself. The same material.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of subsection 2?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. All in favor of Section 4, subsection 2, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Mr. Clerk, read Section 5.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 5. Self-government charters"; containing three subsections. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 5, subsection 1, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, these are style changes. I will raise one flag. And on line 27, we struck out the words "and may set limits" for the reason that if nothing is said on that subject, the Legislature may set limits in any case. We thought the language unnecessary and so deleted it. Otherwise, some substitution of words and style changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of Section 5?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, all in favor of adopting Section 5, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Section 5 is adopted. Section 5, sub. 2, Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 5, subsection 2, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, very few changes. Gave subsection 2 a new number, and that's all.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion of 5, sub. 2?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 5, sub. 2, say Ave.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. — 5, sub. 3.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 5, sub. 3, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, we struck the words, on line 9, "with respect to a local government unit" because this is what, after all, we're talking about, and we didn't think they were necessary.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion of 5, sub. 3?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 5, sub. 3, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 6, Mr. Clerk.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 6. Self-government powers." Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 6, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, these are all rather minor style changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion of Section 6?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 6, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 7, Mr. Clerk.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 7. Intergovernmental corperation." "-cooperation"; sorry. Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 7, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, members of the committee. We completely rewrote Section 7, and if you read the way it was in the first instance and compare it with the way we rewrote it, I think you'll see why. It was one rather long, involved sentence, and we broke it up into possibly one or two sentences-in two sections-but think we made it eminently more readable without involving any substantive changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: On Section 7, sub. l-is there any discussion?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Sub. 1 contains (a), (b) and (c). Very well, all those in favor of Section 7, sub. 1, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 7, sub. 2.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 7, sub. 2, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, this language was in what had been in just one section, and we made a subsection of it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion of Section 7, sub. 2?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 8, Mr. Clerk.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 8. Initiative and referendum." Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 8, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, style changes; nothing substantive altered.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any changes in Section 8 to discuss?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 8, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 9.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 9. Voter review of local government"; containing two subsections. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 9, subsection 1, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, we changed the word "adoption" to "ratification", as a more precise word. You'll notice we substituted "combination of units" instead of-on line 16—instead of using the word "jointly" or "joint unit" on line 17 and 18. We have not changed the substance.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any question or debate about 9, sub. 1?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of 9, sub. 1, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. — 9, sub. 2.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 9, subsection 2, Style and Drafting Report Number 11, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, very minor changes; no change in substance.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any question about 9, sub. 2?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well; all in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -9, sub. 2, is adopted. Now, please do not-we'll set the Local Government book aside, but please do not put it away. We're going to use it again. Now, members of the committee, we're prepared to start on General Government, Number 12, page 5. Mr. Schiltz, may the Chair have a motion that Rule 23, requiring that this be on the desks 48 hours before consideration on Style and Drafting's report, be waived.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move that Rule 23 be waived so that we may consider Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it not having lain on the desks for 48 hours.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of that motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So ordered. Very well, will the clerk read the title and Section 1 of the General Government Article.

CLERK HANSON: "Montana Constitutional Convention, 1971-72, Report of Committee on Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission of General Government, Number 12. Reported March 20, 1972; John M. Schiltz, Chairman. Be it proposed by the General Government and Constitutional Amendment Committee that there be a new article on General Government to read as follows: Article, General Government. Section 1. Separation of powers." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 1, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, on line 11, we took out the word "collection of', before "persons", so it reads "no person or persons", thinking it means exactly the same thing. Otherwise, style changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of General Government Section 1?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All those in favor of Mr. Schiltz's motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So ordered. It's adopted. Section 2, Mr. Clerk.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 2. Continuity of government." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 2, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, we made some of the usual style changes that everybody is used to by now-"Legislature" for "Legislative Assembly"--such laws-no significant changes. We had a little difficulty, just for information, on line 22. We put in the word "they" in our rearrangement. "They" refers to laws, and we couldn't think of a better way to do it and decided that was the best way.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion or debate of Section 2?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 2, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 3, Mr. Clerk.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 3. Oath of office." Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 3, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, we made no changes-very few changes in the oath itself-I-No, we didn't change the oath itself. We made some changes in the preliminary material, but there's nothing that alters substance; we took out the offensive "to-wit"-all style changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion of Section 3?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 3, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 4, sub. 1.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr.-

CLERK HANSON: "Section 4. Initiative"; containing three subsections. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 4, subsection 1, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, we made no changes in subsection 1.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown.

DELEGATE BROWN: Mr. Chairman, I would like to amend subsection 1 on page 2, line 6, by striking "prohibited by this Constitution". We consider this a style change, and I'd like to be heard.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, that would be on-I'm on page 6. What are you on, Mr. Brown?

DELEGATE BROWN: Well, I can go to 6. It would be line 9 on page 6.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Line 9—and you want to say "prohibited by this Constitution"-you want to strike all of that?

DELEGATE BROWN: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And you consider that a style change?

DELEGATE BROWN: That's correct.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, why don't you discuss it, and I'll read it.

DELEGATE BROWN: This provision is taken from our old Constitution, and it prohibits local or special laws as enumerated in the old Constitution. If you go to Article V, Section 26, of the old Constitution, it limits-it sets forth all the local or special laws that cannot be enacted by initiative or by the Legislative Department. We thought that there would be prohibitions in the Constitution against local or special laws; but in reading the Legislative Article, it only refers that the Legislature may not pass special or local laws. This conflict was brought to my attention by Mr. Mahoney, and I met with the committee and I met with Mr. Cromwell and Mr. Schiltz, and it was the sense of the committee that you could not pass special or local laws by initiative and we would provide for the prohibition elsewhere in the Constitution. Since that has not appeared elsewhere, we should strike that language so that it carries out the sense of the committee, and I'm sure the sense of the delegation; so we considered it a style change.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the Chair considers it a style change. Mr. Schiltz, do you care to speak on it?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: The Style and Drafting Committee has no opinion on that. If it's the desire of the body to take out "prohibited by this Constitution", that's fine with us.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It would seem to the Chair that, especially with the conjunctive-we got two conjunctives in there, "or" and "and"-that we had better take out the rest of it or we may really have caused it to be very mixed up. Does anybody else want to discuss it?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, all of those in favor of Mr. Brown's motion to strike the words "prohibited by this Constitution", on line 9 and 10 on page 6, of the General Government Article, Number XIII-XII-so many as are in favor of Mr. Brown's motion to strike that language, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's amended by Mr. Brown's motion.

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 4, subsection 1, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there other discussion of Section 4?

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Romney.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Would you please have the clerk read that as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, I'll read it back. As amended, it says: "Initiative. 1. The people may enact laws by initiative on all matters except appropriations of money and local or special laws." And it struck out the words "prohibited by this Constitution", since there was no such prohibition of all those things in other parts of the Constitution. All right; now, as amended, is there further discussion? You've all heard Mr. Schiltz's motion that this section, as amended, be now adopted. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted as amended.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 4, subsection 2, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, we rearranged this subsection--and considerably-but if you notice the material on lines 17 and 18—we moved that up, to begin the statement with it, so we didn't lose that material, and otherwise rearranged it stylistically.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion of Section 4, sub. 2?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 4, sub. 2, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 4, subsection 3, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, changed the word "once" to "after" for stylistic reason. No other changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Sub. 3; any discussion?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 4, sub. 3, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Will the clerk read Section 5, please.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 5. Referendum"; containing two subsections. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 5, subsection 1, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, these are all style changes. There are quite a few of them. On line 26, we deleted "may" and inserted "shall", which may or may not be a substantive change, but as we understand a referendum, once it's held or had, it's-"shall"is required rather than "may". Otherwise, made some of the usual style changes, like "qualified electors", which was in their first article. Incidentally, before anybody says anything about it, it's a style rule that for numerals or numbers that are less than 10, you spell them out; when they're more than 10, you use the numerals; so we knew what we were doing when we kept the F-I-V-E in there for five.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harbaugh.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: I'd like to ask Mr. Schiltz a question.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I yield.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: On line 30, does the terminology "legislative representative districts" pose any question in your mind as it relates to unicameral or—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, that-1 know what you're talking about. That involved considerable discussion yesterday in the Style and Drafting Committee, and we decided that if we put-if we left "legislative representative districts" in as it was, there could be no doubt about it and if we did it any differently there might be.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Mr. Chairman, my thought is that throughout the unicameral, I believe we've referred to the legislators elected as senators, did we not? And this is-1 don't know what the solution would be, but—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, it's a very difficult solution, and we decided that in both the unicameral and the bicameral articles, there is a representative district that is set up and that this would identify it in each of those articles.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. President, that was the thinking of the General Government Committee. We discussed this at great length, and we felt this was the only one that would cover both sections. However, Mr. President, I would like to, with your permission, go back to the preceding subsection 2 of Section 4 to call attention to the Style and Drafting Committee that in that section we have said: "Each initiative petition must contain the full text of the proposed measure." That is correct. But then, they went on to say "each shall be signed by at least 5 percent or more of the qualified electors". And it's a physical impossibility, of course, to have each petition signed by 5 percent or more; and I feel that the wording of the committee would be more accurate.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: In other words, the wording "initiative petitions shall be signed by at least 5 percent".

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Yes, and then down below—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Indicating the whole petition, rather than each sheet of paper, which would have to get a little long.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: That's correct. And then, down below, "the petition shall be filed". In the interests of—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Where would that be?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: That would be down on line 19. In other words, I think it should read: "Initiative petitions shall be signed by at least 5 percent", and then on line 19, "petitions shall be filed with the Secretary of State", rather than each or just one petition. The way it's worded now, it would indicate one petition containing all of the names must be filed.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, the Chair will allow you and the Style and Drafting people to discuss this, and if we are in agreement on what to do, we'll go back and reconsider it.

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I think Mr. Habedank has a good point, and I wouldn't belabor the point. I would add-1 would strike "each" on line 11—I move to strike "each" on line 11—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, wait a minute. You can't do it yet. Do you think you can do this, though?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, let's have a motion to reconsider Section 4, sub. 2.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: All right, I move that we reconsider Section 4, sub. 2, for style changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of reconsidering Section 4, sub. 2, for style changes, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now it's reconsidered.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move to strike the word "each" on line 11, make it capital "I" out of-on the first letter of initiative, add an "s" to petitions on that same line; on line 19, strike the word "A" and make a capital "P" of petitions, and add an "s".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, on line 12, it'll read: "Initiative petitions"-strike "each"-and go right to "shall"; right? "Initiative petitions shall be signed by at least 5 percent". Then you go down to line 19, and you're going to strike "A" and you're going to start with a capital "P" for petitions-"Petitions shall be filed"; right?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Right. I'm not sure you had the line 11 correct, though. It would read: "Initiative petitions must contain the full text—."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see. And then you want to say: "Initiative petitions shall be signed"-is that right-or are you going to leave that "each" in? I see; you're making a change in a different line.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank, what do you think of his change?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: I would have changed it differently, but I think he's getting to it. I think we need to strike, then, on line 12, the other word "each" again, so it reads: "Initiative petitions must contain the full text of the proposed measure, shall be signed by at least 5 percent." In other words, you need to strike another each.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: All right, I'll make another amendment. On line 12, change the comma-"the measure"-delete the period after "measure" and insert the word "and".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And strike "each", right?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: And strike "each"; right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, if everybody is with us, they've been very careful. All right, now, the Chair thinks that it now reads as follows: Section 4, sub. Z-capital "I"-"Initiative petitions must contain the full text of the proposed measure, and"-strike everything over to the word "shall"-"shall be signed by at least 5 percent of the qualified electors", et cetera. Then you go down to line 19, and it would say: "Petitions shall be filed with the Secretary of State at least 3 months--." Is that what you want, or do you want "the petitions"? Just "petitions". Now, Mr. Habedank, is that agreeable with you?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Yes, except I think in line 21, it should go back to "they", then.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "At least 3 months prior to the election at which they will be voted upon", since we're not talking about many petitions, Mr.-you don't care?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: That isn't good, either. "Prior to the election at which-"

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's all right.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: "-they will be voted upon"? You wouldn't vote upon it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "—the matter"?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: "-the matter"—

DELEGATE HABEDANK: I prefer "the matter"-it would make more sense.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "At which the matter will be voted upon"? On line 21, put in, "the matter"? All right, now Section 4, sub. 2, reads: "Initiative petitions must contain the full text of the proposed measure, and shall be signed by at least 5 percent of the qualified electors in each of at least one-third of the legislative representative districts, and the total number of signers must be at least 5 percent of the total qualified electors of the state. Petitions shall be filed with the Secretary of State at least 3 months prior to the election at which the matter will be voted upon."

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Couldn't we say "measure"? That's the previous word.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "-the measure will be voted upon"?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "-at which the measure-"

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "-will be voted upon".

Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Would you consider, as long as you put the comma after the word "measure", striking the "and"? It would then read: "Initiative petitions must contain the full text of the proposed measure, shall be signed by at least 5 percent of the qualified electors in each of at least one-third of the legislative representative districts"-and then you have your "and"—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay. We have stricken "and" on line 12. Mr. Schiltz, you don't know how happy it makes the rest of us to be involved in Style and Drafting for a change.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: You may all come to the meetings.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Is that all right, Mr. Habedank?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Yes. Thank you very much.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Now, does anyone want that reread?

DELEGATES: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes. Okay. Section 4, sub. 2. "Initiative petitions must contain the full text of the proposed measure, shall be signed by at least 5 percent of the qualified electors in each of at least one-third of the legislative representative districts, and the total number of signers must be at least 5 percent of the total qualified electors of the state. Petitions shall be filed with the Secretary of State at least 3 months prior to the election at which the measure will be voted upon." Is there further discussion?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of the new language, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted as amended.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Is it adopted, or have we just adopted the language?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, we've just adopted the language. Now, move it as amended, Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 4, subsection 2, it recommend the same be-Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of the motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 4, sub. 3, Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I previously moved Section 4, sub. 3, and noted that we'd only changed one word.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see. All right, I guess we were down on Section 5.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No, we haven't passed 4, sub. 3. I just moved it, and then Mr. Habedank wanted—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Okay, I guess we did. Okay; all right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think sub. 3 is adopted, isn't that right?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Okay.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And we're on Section 5, sub. 1, which I think you'd better move again.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 5, subsection 1, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, I guess I did. I talked about the numerals and so on. Okay. Otherwise, no major changes, not even any major style changes. Oh, I did note that we changed "may" to "shall be", and I explained why.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion of Section 5, sub. 1?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 5, sub. 2.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 5, subsection 2, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, the committee will note here that we have made some style changes. We put the word "law" in here-or "act" in for "law", because in Section 1 they had referred to an act and we wanted one word throughout. And then, one other place we changed "bill" to "act"; I guess that was in the previous subsection.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. President, I think we have the same change in subsection 2, line 9, that we had in subsection 2, Section 4. "Petitions" should be filed, not just one petition. In other words, that particular word should read "petitions"-line 9.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see it.
Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No problem. I move that-Mr. Chairman, I move that line-no, let me see-that Section 5, subsection 2, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, line 9, that the word "petition" be made plural by adding an "s".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the motion is to make the word "petition" plural. All in favor, say Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's adopted. Now, you want to remove 5, sub. 2?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 5, sub. 2, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of 5, sub. 2, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted as amended. Section 6.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 6. Elections." Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 6, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, the committee will note that we completely rewrote this, but it's very simple. We put it in the active voice as against the passive voice.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of Section 6?
Mr. Harlow.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Mr. Chairman, I think in your rewriting, you cut out a necessary word. Mr. Schiltz, what do you feel-that, in line 20, after the word "referendum", we put in "measures"-in other words, what are the people voting on? Am I wrong in my assumption?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I don't think it's necessary, but if you want to make a motion, I won't resist it. I think we have used "measures" in the beginning. It wasn't in the original language.

DELEGATE HARLOW: In 6—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, we have all "measures", yes-so I see what you mean.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Yes.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, if you want to make the motion, go ahead.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Well, Mr. Chairman, I move that we amend the Style and Drafting report on General Government in Section 6, line 20, after the word "referendum", by inserting the word "measures".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Mr. Harlow proposes that we add the words "mea sores" so it reads: "The people shall vote on initiative and referendum measures at the general election unless the Legislature orders a special election." All in favor of Mr. Harlow's amendment, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Mr. Schiltz, do you want to put the—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 6, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Further discussion?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Section 6 is adopted as amended. Section 7.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 7. Number of electors." Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 7, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, we completely rewrote this without changing anything substantive, for two reasons. We put it into the active voice as opposed to the passive, and we adopted the language we'd used in another article, and I can't tell you right now exactly what article that was.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. Chairman, I feel that the committee did change it, in line 30, when they left out the words "the office of' following the word "for", and I would move that they be reinstated-"votes cast for the office of Governor".

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I agree to that, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: In other words, you add the votes for both the winner and the loser to get the total number of votes. All right, in line 30, Mr. Habedank has proposed a motion to add the words "the office of' before the word "Governor", so that it reads: "-shall be determined by the number of votes cast for the office of Governor in the preceding general election". So many as shall be in favor of Mr. Habedank's amendment, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The amendment is adopted.
Mr. Schiltz, do you want to put that again?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 7, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there further discussion?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 7 as amended, please say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted as amended. Section 8 on page 8.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 8. Prohibition." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 8, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, we put the Roman numeral XIII in on line 3 because we've now worked out a schedule of where the articles will fall, and so we supplied that. Otherwise, style changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any further discussion of Section 8?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 8, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 9.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 9. Recall." Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 9, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, as we have been doing, we inserted "local government units" instead of "its political subdivisions". Otherwise, no change of any significance.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 9, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Section 10.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 10. Gambling." Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 10, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, you will note here, we have two Section 10s. They'll both be included in the Constitution; there'll be a choice to the voters, as was required by the Committee of the Whole. The adoption schedule, when we finally put it together on the entire Constitution, will provide for the deletion of one of them when the time comes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any question about either Section 10?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. All in favor of the first Section 10, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Second Section 10, Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Both Section 10s are adopted. Section 11.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 11. Boundaries." Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 11, Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, we have a rather major substantive change here on line 25; we made "Bitter Root" into two words. And on that same line, we edited the poet of wherever he's from, by putting a "t" in front of "hence", because there can be no doubt that thence was intended rather than hence.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Section 11, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Chair is not in doubt. (Laughter) You want a division?

UNIDENTIFIED DELEGATE: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. All in favor of Section 11, say Aye; and opposed, No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does every delegate know what they are voting on?

DELEGATES: No-(Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You're voting whether to change Bitter Root to two words or not. All in favor, vote Aye; and opposed, No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Close the ballot. 60 having voted to sustain Mr. Romney and 20 having voted against him, we're going to split Bitter Root. It's not a roll call, John, it's just a division. Very well, Section 11 is adopted.

Mr. McNeil was up first.

DELEGATE MCNEIL: Mr. Chairman, I move to reconsider Section 1 for a style change. Mr. Chairman, if my motion to reconsider Section 1 is passed, I would change the word "among" back to "into". When I first read this, I didn't catch the distinction till we got-after-to the committee comments on page 9. I see the committee comments again use the word "into". They say, "The power of government is one whole which is divided into three parts." The language in our present Constitution, which was the intent of the committee to retain, says the power is divided into three parts, and, of course, our present Constitution reads that way. So, if my motion to reconsider is affirmed, I would move to delete the word "among" and restore the word "into" on line 9, page 5.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper, do you want to speak on the motion to reconsider?

DELEGATE HARPER: It seems to me that you divide power among persons, rather than into them, or among groups—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think that's —you're on the issue, Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: I already sneaked it in.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well. All right, the motion is-Mr. McNeil, did you vote on the prevailing side on Section 1 when it was adopted?

DELEGATE MCNEIL: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: How did that happen? (Laughter)

DELEGATE MCNEIL: I didn't question it until I got to their comments.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, Mr. McNeil has a motion to reconsider Section 1 of the General Government Article. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and it'll be reconsidered.

Mr. McNeil, do you want to stateyourmotion?

DELEGATE MCNEIL: Mr. Chairman, I move to restore the language of the majority committee on line 9, page 5, of Style and Drafting's report by deleting the word "among" and returning it to the word "into".

Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, he wants to change the word on line 9 back into "into" and away from "among". He wants "among" to read "into"--"divided into three distinct branches", rather than "divided among three distinct branches".

Mr. McNeil.

DELEGATE MCNEIL: Mr. Chairman, I don't want there to be any doubt that there was any intention to change our separation of powers doctrine. The change which Delegate Harper referred to refers to English language construction, I guess; however, the language of the present Constitution, which it was the intent of the committee to retain, uses the word "into". That's the way it was passed by the Committee of the Whole, and I note, in explaining that change, Style and Drafting, on page 9, says: "The changes in language make plain that the power of government is one whole which is divided into three parts." For that reason, I would submit that the change would be substantive if it is not restored to the former language.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Anybody else want to discuss this?

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, members of the committee. I think that we are eminently correct on this, and I think Mr. Harper's on target; and I would only observe that so far as the comments are concerned, that we would like you to do what we do and not what we say. I admit that we did say "into" back there, but it seems to me that "among" is grammatically and semantically correct in this case.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: I would support Mr. McNeil on this. I really think the committee wanted the word "into" there instead of "among", and we would like to see you adopt the word "into".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Burkhardt.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: Poor Jack Schiltz has to fight this alone, time after time. The committee wants "among".

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Mr. President, I also support "among". Let's have it grammatically correct.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, the Chair wants to observe that you're all going to be able to tell us which you prefer in about 1 minute, so if you got anything except to tell how you're going to vote, say it.

Mr. Choate.

DELEGATE CHOATE: That's just what1 was going to say. I concur with our Chairman of our committee. We would prefer to have it remain as the majority report.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, the issue is clearcut. It's between "among" and "into".

Mr. McNeil, you may close.

DELEGATE MCNEIL: Mr. Chairman, I submit that there are two committees here-one is Style and Drafting, arguing for a style change; the substantive committee has stated they want the word "into" retained. I submit that if we change that, we are treading in an area where somebody at some future time is going to argue that a substantive change was intended; and for that reason, at this point of our proceedings in style and drafting, where there is some doubt, we ought to maintain or uphold the substantive committee; and I ask for a roll call vote.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. So many as shall be in favor of Mr. McNeil's motion, which is to go back to the word "into" and strike "among", so that it says "is divided into three distinct branches", vote Aye. So many as are opposed, vote No.

UNIDENTIFIED DELEGATE: (Inaudible)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, we've already reconsidered it. This is on the issue. He moved, and the reconsideration was adopted by a voice vote. The ballot is open; and if you want to vote with Style and Drafting, you vote No; and if you want to vote with General Government, you vote Yes. Does anybody want to change their vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, cast the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 55 delegates voting Aye, 28 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 55 having voted Aye and 28 No, we'll go back to the word "into"--"into three distinct branches".

Mr. Schiltz, do you want to move 1 as amended?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No, that's what I was going to say. It would hurt me terribly to move this as amended. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Etchart, would you like to move 1 as amended?

DELEGATE ETCHART: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does rise and report, after having had under consideration Section 1 of Style and Drafting Report Number 12, it recommend the same be adopted as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of that motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted as amended.

Now, Mr. Eskildsen, we'd like to rise and finally report.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. Chairman, I move the committee rise and finally report.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The motion is to rise and report. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed:' (No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Proceedings revert to Convention-President Graybill in Chair)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Will the clerk please read the committee report.

CLERK HANSON: "March 20, 1972. Mr. President. We, your Committee of the Whole, having had under consideration business on General Orders, recommend as follows: that the Committee rise and finally report. Signed: Graybill, Chairman."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Anybody want the committee report read fully?

DELEGATES: No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move the adoption of the Committee of the Whole report.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to adopt the Committee of the Whole report. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Now, without objection, we'll be on Order of Business Number 5.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: I think we should move them to Order of Business Number 5 so we can vote on them—

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: All right.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: I think we should be on Order of Business Number 7.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: All right, you want to move-all right, we'll be on Order of Business Number 7, then.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: I move that we place General Government, Number 12, to Order of Business Number 5 and—

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Local Government Number 11.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: -Local Government Number 11 to Order of Business Number 5.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: All in favor of that motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Without objection, may we be on Order of Business Number 5?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Without objection, we'll be on Order of Business Number 5. On Order of Business Number 5, we'll take up Local Government Number 9 first. Members of the Convention, if you'll take your Style and Drafting report and, instead of turning to page 5, if you'll turn to page 1, it will be easy to follow along on the clean text; and where there are changes, I will call it to your attention. There happen to be no changes at all on the Local Government Article. Very well, we're on Order of Business Number 5, Final Adoption.

Mr. Harbaugh, for what purpose do you rise?

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Well, a question or a point of order. Don't we have to suspend rules to be on final consideration?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: No, final consideration has no time limit, so the matter having been put on it, we can go immediately into it. Ordinarily we would reprint it, but to save us the reprinting and since we have clean copy-well, to save us the reprinting and to get it out of the way so that Style and Drafting can continue now with putting together the whole Constitution, why, we'll go ahead. It's only on Order of Business Number 10 that we have the timelimits. Very well, will the clerk please read the title and Section 1 of the Local Government Article, Number 11.

CLERK HANSON: "Montana Constitutional Convention, 1971-1972; Local Government Number 11. Be it proposed by Local Government Committee that there be a new article on Local Government to read as follows: Article, Local Government. Section l-Definition." Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Now, this time we vote by voting machine. We read you the section only, and then you have to decide. All right, the vote is on Section l-Definition, of the Local Government Article, Article XI-or Proposal Number 11. So many as are in favor of Section 1, vote Aye on the voting machines; opposed, vote No. Have all the delegates voted?

UNIDENTIFIED DELEGATE: No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, take the ballot.

Mr. President Aye

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 73 delegates voting Aye, 9 voting No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: 73 delegates having voted Aye and 9 voting No, Section 9 is adopted and we're finished adopting Local Government, Number 11. Now, if you'll turn to General Government, Number 12, and again turn to page 1; we'll follow through on page 1; and there are some changes, and the Chair will call them to your attention as we go through. Will the clerk please read the title and Section 1 of the General Government Article.

CLERK HANSON: "Montana Constitutional Convention, 1971.1972, General Government Report Number 12. Be it proposed by the General Government Constitutional Amendment Committee that there be a new article on General Government to read as follows: Article, General Government. Section 1. Separation of powers, as amended." Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. So many as shall be in favor of Section 1 of the General Government Article on separation of powers, please vote Aye; so many as are opposed, vote No. Now, Section 1 was amended from "among" to "into"; and if you're following on page 1, you should, on line 9, change the words "divided into three distinct branches"; so have that in mind. All in favor of Section 1, vote Aye; opposed, No. Have all the delegates voted'?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate want to change his vote?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, take the ballot.

Mr. Habedank, for what purpose do you rise?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: I pushed the green button, but it didn't show. I wish to show I would have voted Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: You wish to show you voted Aye?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Yes.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Check Mr. Habedank.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, Mr. Habedank voting Aye.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 87 delegates voting Aye, 2 voting No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, Section 3 is adopted. Now, Section 4, sub. 1, has an amendment. On Section 4, page 2, you want to put a period after the word "laws" on line 6 and strike "prohibited by this Constitution". And then, in subsection 2, you want to strike the word "each" and put a capital "I" on "Initiative" and put an "s" on "petitions", and on line 2, you've got to strike the word-or on line 9, you've got to strike the word "proposal", which is wrong in this text, and it's got to say "of the proposed measure," and then strike everything else over to-strike everything but the "shall"-"proposed measure shall be signed by at least 5 percent of the qualified electors"--and that's all right. Then, down in the bottom, it should-strike the "A" on line 13, and make it a capital "P" for "Petitions", with an "s" on it, and strike the--after the word "which"-"at which the measure"-strike the "it" on line 15. Mr. Schiltz, when I reread this, I wish you'd check your text, because your text was wrong here. It now reads: "Subsection 2. Initiative petitions must contain the full text of the proposed measure, shall be signed by at least 5 percent of the qualified electors in each of at least one-third of the legislative representative districts, and the total number of signers must be at least 5 percent of the total qualified electors of the state. Petitions shall be filed with the Secretary of State at least 3 months prior to the election at which the measure will be voted upon." I think that's correct. Very well, that--and then, subsection 3 has no amendments in it. So we're about to vote finally on Section 4, subs. 1, 2 and 3; and we have made the corrections on page 2 for you, if you followed us. They're the corrections we just voted on in Style and Drafting in the Committee of the Whole. So many as shall be in favor of Section 4 as we read it here with the amendments in it, vote Aye; and so many as are opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 38 voting Aye, 54 voting No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: By your vote of 54 having voted No, you have deleted Section 9, on Recall, from the General Government Article; and that means there is norecallin the—no constitutional recall in the state if we do this, so I guess we've done it. Very well, Section 10.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 10. Gambling." Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Chair feels that Section 10, of which there are two, is really a ballot alternative. And the Chair feels you should vote on both of them at once. Does anyone disagree with the Chair on that? In other words, you can't-we've checked them as to style and drafting. They are inconsistent; and the point is, they're to be put on the ballot as an alternative. I see no point in taking a separate ballot on final adoption except as a ballot alternative. Very well. Everyone understanding that you're voting on the ballot alternative and the nature of it and the language of it, so many as shall be in favor of the two Sections 10 as the ballot alternative, vote Aye; and so many as shall be opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

Mr. President ..... Aye

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 32 delegates voting Aye, 57 voting No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: 57 delegates having voted No and 32 having voted Aye, the boundaries are stricken from the Constitution. Having completed your balloting on Local Government, Article XI and-or Proposal Number 11-and General Government Proposal Number 12, the Chair will refer these to Style and Drafting for inclusion in the final Constitution—

But I'll hear Mr. Habedank first.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. President, I merely desire to ask a question. I assume that Style and Drafting can change "10" to "9" and that we won't end up with a gap because of what we've done.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: It would be the Chair's understanding that they could. There are a number of style changes that they have to make in terms of the final article, in terms of putting numbers on them and things of that nature. The articles are not all numbered, so I'm sure that they could make "IO", "9". Is there any other question?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: We still have to adopt the Constitution as a whole. Very well, the Chair will assign these to Style and Drafting for that purpose. Now, ladies and gentlemen, without objection I think we'll be on Order of Business Number 11, Announcements. First of all, the Chair would like to say that, unless I am misinformed, our work is done, unless we make some changes, until the Style and Drafting Committee makes its ballot proposal, which they tell me will be ready. Then the ballot includes the other two parts, the calendar and the-well, I never can remember that word, but the part where we tell what statutes should be amended, and I understand that will be ready for debate Wednesday morning. It will not be printed and ready for debate tomorrow. However, the Chair feels that something may come up tomorrow; and the Chair does not like to recess you over till Wednesday, because we wouldn't get paid then; and I think something may come up and many of us will be necessary, so the Chair intends, at the moment, to recess until 9:00 tomorrow. At 9:00 tomorrow, we may have a short meeting unless something comes up that someone wants to bring up. Now, the Chair would like you to be apprised that if you have something, please let us know and let's bring it up at 9:00 tomorrow. Let's not bring it up at 5:00 Wednesday afternoon after we've finished the other debate, because at that point, it's going to be too late to make the necessary and appropriate changes. As I think we demonstrated today, it's not always easy to get everything straightened out after we make an amendment in these things, so we will recess in a few minutes till 9 o'clock tomorrow. Secondly, the Chair-I don't know whether the notice has been put on your desks or not, but the Chair understands that there is to be a no-host dinner at the Montana Club on Thursday night-the same arrangement as before, $5, including two drinks, and the drinking will be on a different floor than the dinner this time. I believe it's the intent of the special committee that out-of-town guests-the out-of-town guests thatwe'reinviting, and we are inviting some out-of-town guests to the Friday morning final ceremonies-that they will be invited guests to that meeting, but otherwise it would be delegates. Then you should have in mind that we-1 haven't gotten a final time from Mr. Garlington, but it's my understanding that Friday morning we will have the final ceremony, including signing and so forth, which will doubtless take most of the morning, but we should be done and be able to adjourn some time after that, at the end of that ceremony on Friday, so you'd probably have the afternoon to leave town if you wanted to. Style and Drafting wants to be called into session immediately upon adjournment this afternoon. Now, with those preliminary announcements, are there other announcements from the floor?

Mr. Gysler.

DELEGATE GYSLER: Mr. Chairman, Natural Resources, over here in the corner, right after adjournment, for the purpose of signing each other's committee pictures.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mrs. Warden.

DELEGATE WARDEN: Mr. President, the members of the old Public Information Committee, the one that is being superseded by the Voter Education, will have a no-host dinner tonight at the Colonial at 6:30.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Dinner for Public Information Committee, tonight at 6:30 at the Colonial.

Mr. Blaylock.

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Mr. Chairman, I have an inquiry to make of the Chair in regard to your report on the budget the other day. I think you made the statement-and you correct me if I'm wrong-that we have been paid for two round trips to the Convention and that we would not be paid for the third one.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: I'm glad you mentioned that, not so much to clear it up as to call a meeting of the budget subcommittee, and actually, the whole administration committee should be available on recess tomorow, after our 9 o'clock session. That's right; we've only had two round trips. However, that's all that we've taken-that we've had to take. I'm aware that many of us took a lot more. The Rules Committee met with me on this matter and has recommended to the budget subcommittee and then to the Administration Committee that, because the Enabling Act specifies that we're to get three, that we pay three. Now, that's going to be taken up by the Administration Committee tomorrow, and the Budget Committee; let's say that it's going to berecommended that we pay three, but I don't know what the committee will do. And then the committee will make a report to this body. Very well, I think we're ready to stand in recess until tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move we adjourn until 9:00 a.m., March 21, 1972.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to recess until 9:00 a.m., tomorrow morning. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Convention adjourned at 3:50 p.m.)

March 21. 1972 Fifty-First Day Convention Hall
9:30 a.m. Helena, Montana

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Convention will be in session. The Convention will come to order. I'm sorry that we are a little late this morning, but as usual, we were working on the Convention's business. And if you'll all stand, Reverend Burkhardt will lead us in an invocation this morning.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: Let us pray. We pause, 0 God, toward the end of our work, giving deep thanks for the gift of life itself, for the grandeur and quiet beauty of our beloved Montana. We pray that somehow the work we have done here may offer promise to those who come after us, and that we may always deeply appreciate the part that every person has played in this task. In the spirit of our Lord, Amen.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, we'll take attendance by voting Aye on the voting machines. Those who vote No are not present-at least mentally. (Laughter)

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, may Delegates Campbell and Toole be excused this day?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Campbell and Toole are excused.

CLERK HANSON: Delegate Conover, Delegate Cross, Delegate Dahood, Delegate Davis, Delegate Champoux. Delegate Davis.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, take the attendance.

CLERK HANSON: Delegate Warden.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 96 delegates present, 2 excused, and 2 absent.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the journal may so show. Order of Business Number 1, Reports of Standing Committees.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 2, Reports of Select Committees.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 3, Communications.

CLERK HANSON: "Helena, Montana 59601; March 21, 1972. Honorable Leo Graybill, Jr., President, Montana Constitutional Convention, Capitol, Helena, Montana. Dear Mr. President: In accordance with the provisions of Section 15 (2), Extraordinary Senate Bill No. 6, Chapter EX-1, Laws of Montana 1971, the licenses of the following lobbyists have been suspended, as of March 21, 1972, for failure to file statements of expense within the period specified by law: license No. 3-72, Henry E. Lohr; 28-72, David L. Jackson; 58-72, Roy G. Crosby; 59-72, D. H. Siewert; 79.72, C. S. Robinson. The suspension of Gerald McCurdy, license No. 39-72, reported to you on February 22, 1972, is still in effect. Sincerely yours, Frank Murray, Secretary of State."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Are there other communications?

CLERK HANSON: None, sir.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. Order of Business Number 4, Introduction and Reference of Delegate Proposals.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 5, Final Consideration.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 6, Adoption.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 7, Motions and Resolutions.

CLERK HANSON: "Montana Constitutional Convention, 1971-1972, Resolution Number 16, introduced March 21, 1972: A resolution to the Montana Constitutional Convention describing the presentation of the ballot." Do you want it read?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Yes, read it in its entirety, please.

CLERK HANSON: "Whereas, all articles will be presented separately for a Yes or No vote; Whereas, any alternate proposals will be presented separately for a Yes or No vote; Whereas, in case any article fails to pass the election, then the provision under that department of the 1889 Constitution will be in effect, except as where it may conflict with the intent of any section of the adopted articles of the new Constitution which, thereby, will take precedence over the 1889 Constitutional provision. Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Constitutional Convention, State of Montana: The ballot will be drawn in such manner that all articles will be presented separately for a Yes or No vote; All alternative proposals will be presented separately for a Yes or No vote. Introduced by Torrey Johnson." Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. Mr. Johnson, your resolution is being referred to Style and Drafting, since it deals with their problems. Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Johnson's resolution was taken into consideration last night by Style and Drafting and, by unanimous vote of the committee, rejected. Our minutes reflect the reasons therefor. Sufficient to say that we thought it was unduly confusing, that it came too late for any more serious consideration, and that it would probably be quite expensive.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: It's the understanding of the Chair that the point of Mr. Johnson's resolution was that we consider section by section on the ballot the Constitution--or article by article, not section by section-the new Constitution. In other words, vote on each article, article by article, on the ballot. And apparently Style and Drafting did have access to the resolution and did consider it.

Mr. Johnson, do you care to discuss it at this time, since my reference to that committee obviously is not going to be effective. I'd be happy to let you at least discuss it. If any problem arises, I might have to refer it to Rules, but I certainly want you to have a chance to discuss it.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Thank you, Mr. President. Ladies and gentlemen, it seems like I'm always a day late and a dollar short--maybe two dollars in this case, if it's going to be expensive to handle. But, however,-and I am sorry that I didn't get this in 2, 3 weeks ago. I didn't believe it would be necessary. I thought that the ballot proposition would come up and we'd all have a chance to discuss it; and so, I guess I was a little naive in that department. I believe that if we present this ballot to thevoters of Montana, article by article, that it would stand a much better chance of being passed, and I think they would take more of an interest in it. I've heard this kind of talk ever since last fall, and the people would like to have it article by article. Maybe it isn't quite as efficient as presenting it all in one block, but there's one thing sure: if there's one or two articles in the area that are very controversial throughout the whole state, they might stand to defeat the whole proposition. And I would like to see the voters have a chance to do just exactly this: if they wanted to, vote out one of these particular articles; and if you understood, as it was read, my reasoning is that if one of the articles is defeated, that the old section in our present Constitution would take precedence, and then if there's a conflict overlapping intent--or conflict in meaning with any of the sections in the new articles, which you all are aware there are some repetitious sections, repetitious insertions in separate articles that might overlap in meaning-and so, there my intent is that the adopted new proposal would take precedence over our present Constitution article in the area which we are--now, I suppose I've confused you more-but, in any event, I do not see a great problem with this. I think it could be worked out very handily, and I'd feel a great deal better about the whole situation, myself; I know that. I don't—this is an area where I think that we stand the best chance of putting this new Constitution across, and I hate to see it lose. There is a chance it'll lose, you know. You have to admitthis, andafterall the work that was put on it-there's a little bit of every one of us-or maybe quite a little bit of every one of us in this new proposed Constitution, and I'm sure you all feel as strongly as I do about it-the waste of time and the waste of money--and we want to do something for Montana-and this is a very vital thing and probably-and it is, without any doubt, the most important endeavor made in the several generations for the good of Montana. If there's anybody else that wants to talk on it, I'd sure like to hear them. I think you all understand my position. I'd like to answer any questions, if any come up, that you think I might be able to answer. Thank you very much for your consideration.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Johnson, will you yield to a question from the Chair?

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Yes, sir.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: As we adopted these articles, I'm not sure that we made sure that they fit particularly well with the old Constitution, and I'm concerned, for example, as to where we put the veto power. The veto power is now in our Executive Article and the veto power in the old Constitution is in the Legislative Article, and we might be in a position that the wrong one got adopted and we wouldn't have any veto power or we might have two veto powers. Have you thought about that?

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Well, I think that, Mr. President, that the-if Style and Drafting couldn't take care of it, well, we'd have to leave it up to the Legislature to interpret it or make an amendment to cover it. But I insist that the new—whichever proposal passes would have precedence over the present Constitution article it would have been put in place of had it been defeated.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Well, my point is, if the new Legislative Article passed but the new Executive Article did not, then we wouldn't have any veto power.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Well, yes, it's in the Legislative—

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: No, it's in the Executive in our new one and it's in the Legislative in the old one. Well, all right, I just wanted to call-the problem is that I'm not sure the new Constitution dovetails with the old one so that, section by section, we'd have anything. Mr. Johnson, I think the problem is this. You've presented this resolution; I referred it to Style and Drafting; Style and Drafting has already considered it. It seems to me that you've tried to reach by resolution what you probably can attempt to reach by amendment when Style and Drafting presents its ballot substantive proposal, which I think will probably be this afternoon or tomorrow. Now, when they present their ballot proposal, their ballot will suggest that we vote on the Constitution and these three side issues; and at that time, by amendment to their ballot proposal, you could propose that we do it section by section-or article by article. And at that time, it would seem to me the body could debate whether they wanted to do it your way or the way Style and Drafting has proposed. So I think that's your best shot now. It doesn't do me any good to refer it to Rules, because by the time it got back, nothing would be accomplished.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Well, Mr. President, you're suggesting then that I present it as an amendment or a proposal?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: I'm suggesting that, when the substantive report from Style and Drafting on ballot-on the ballot form-comes before this body for debate that, naturally, you can amend it; and your amendment, I presume from your resolution, would be to have it considered article by article; and at that time we could debate it as a body and we'll either agree with you or we'll agree with them.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Thank you very much, Mr. President; I'll do that.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Mahoney.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Mr. President, it seems to me it's a little irregular to come out and have a committee report before something is referred to them. I think that we should at least have the courtesy shown us by the Style and Drafting Committee, if they made a decision on something that hadn't even got to them, and I'm sure it didn't get to the Chair until just now. Could we have a reason why they did this ahead? Did they—what's the reason? Could we have some answer from the Style and Drafting Committee?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Johnson brought it up to the committee and handed it to us and said, "I present this resolution to you. What is your action on it?"And we took action on it. When it came up this morning, the Chair referred it to the committee. I advised the Chair that we had already taken action and it would be useless to act on it again.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Yes, Mr. Johnson took it, Mr. Mahoney, to the committee.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Mr. President, when Mr. Johnson's resolution is referred to the Chair and like it was done this morning-now, out of courtesy, he probably took it to them; but this was no official action because it hadn't got to them officially. And I think that the Chair should—is—when they go out and you refer it and then they give you a report right then, I think this is a new thing. I've never heard of this, Mr. Chairman. I certainly don't like it.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Well, the Chair did refer it to Style and Drafting, and I'll leave it referred and maybe they will come in with a report, Mr. Mahoney. All right, are there any other motions or resolutions?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, we'll be on Order of Business Number 8, Unfinished Business.

Mr. Champoux.

DELEGATE CHAMPOUX: Pages, sir?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Yes; pages, sir.

DELEGATE CHAMPOUX: Right. It's my pleasure this morning to introduce the new pages this week. Would all the pages come forward at this time. We also have a number of old pages that-shall I use that term, "old"?-former pages that have come back and are donating their services without getting paid. The new pages are Marilyn Haugen of Augusta--would you please stand-Elizabeth Schrader of Great Falls; Peggy Quinn of Helena; Kathy Blake of Kalispell. And the former pages donating their services are Jack McLean of Brady and his twin brother, Jim McLean; Heidi Headapohl of Helena; Susan Leaphart of Helena; Tala Skari of Chester-she's the daughter of Carmen Skari; Carl Rostad of Helena. And Mr. Ray Lohman, at this time-and he hasn't had the opportunity to publicly express his appreciation for all of the pages that worked at this Convention-but he asked me this morning if I would put in the record his appreciation to all the pages that have worked at this Convention. They have been, he says, just great, and I think we all can echo that statement. Thank you very much.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: We want to thank you pages very much for helping us, and we're looking forward to the rest of the week. And your names will appear in the proceedings for today, and we'll see that you get a copy of the proceedings to take with you.

Very well, Order of Business Number 9, Special Orders.

CLERK HANSON: None, sir.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 10, General Orders.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 11, Committee Announcements and Other Announcements. Now, the Chair has a couple of announcements. The Montana Historical Society has asked me to remind the Convention delegates that the library archives there want to preserve the personal records collected during your connection with the Constitutional Convention. One-third of the delegates have expressed an intent to deposit their papers in the archives, and anyone else caring to do so would be most welcome. Records of the commission and the convention will be preserved in the society archives, but they would like your personal papers as well—campaign material, correspondence, notes, or any input that helped you decide on the issues for historical preservation. You can make arrangements for deposit now or in the future by a call or a letter to the Montana Historical Society archives. The number, if you want to write it down, is 442-2694-442-2694-and I was informed that if you want, they'll even send a box to put it in. So, just call them up and they'll help you clean up your desks. Then, as I understand it, there are reservation lists at the-Mr. Toole or my secretary has a reservation list for Thursday night's dinner, and I overheard a conversation yesterday which someone seemed to be implying that maybe we weren't inviting your wives. Of course we're inviting you and your wives. The suggestion was that we may have some out-of-town guests from the Convention and we're not really going to be too strict on in-town guests; but in other words, out-of-town guests and your wives, of course, are invited. Then, committee meetings. I'd like to announce the following committee meetings. I'm sure that Style and Drafting is going to meet immediately upon adjournment. Isn't that right, Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's correct.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: And the Administration Committee, including the budget subcommittee, should meet in the Rules Committee room immediately after-not after adjournment but after the adjournment of the meeting after adjournment, which I'll tell you about in a minute. So, in other words, we are going to meet when we break up here this morning. Mr. Murray, is the Rules room full of equipment, or is it available?

DELEGATE MURRAY: Mr. President, I understood that they were going to do some interviewing in that room for the film, so that it would not be available.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Let's move the Administration Committee meeting up to the Legislative Committee room, whatever that is—428—is that right? What's your room number up there, Mags?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: -434.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: -434. Anyway, the committee room. The Administration Committee meeting will be in the committee room upstairs, then, after adjournment. Now, the select committee on the ceremonies Friday will meet-at 1 o'clock, did we say, Mr. Garlington?—

DELEGATE GARLINGTON: (Inaudible)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: —1 o'clock.

That could meet in my office; there's only five of us. That will be fine. And the Voter Education Committee should meet this afternoon-on adjournment this afternoon, which at this time is not too clear. Now, to explain to you what I think the program for the day will be, Style and Drafting is working on a problem involving the ballot, which may require debate at 2:00 p.m. this afternoon, so we are planning to recess the Convention until 2:00 p.m. this afternoon while Style and Drafting completes their work, and you probably should anticipate a debate on bicameral-unicameral aspects of some nature at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Then, between then-or immediately now, what we would like to do is have our adjournment now until 2:00 p.m., but it has been suggested by a number of you, and especially by some of the members of the Public-of the Voter Education Committee, that it might be well to have a short discussion this morning of some of the aspects of what you're going to be up against in terms of meeting the public or talking about the Constitution when you get back to your home communities. In other words, we want to have a little bull session in which we talk about what we might want to do when we each get home, and we'll discuss what we know now of the voter-or of the kits that we'll give you. So, immediately upon adjournment, those of you who are not involved in the Style and Drafting Committee meeting might wish to remain; and I'm hopeful that the committee chairmen will be willing to discuss very briefly the-what they consider significant about their particular committee's contribution to the new Constitution. In other words, we'll have about 45 minutes or an hour of discussion; and then, by 11 o'clock, we ought to be able to break up. Mr. Harbaugh has sent me a message. The answer, Mr. Harbaugh, would be the same as to Mr. Johnson-that you can take it up at the time the ballot is proposed. Very well, are there other announcements?

Mrs. Warden.

DELEGATE WARDEN: I would like to talk about two things, Mr. President. First, there may be one more issue of the daily clipping sheet. They are printing the Constitution downstairs, and we're going to try to Xerox the copy today. If it works, fine; and if it doesn't, that will be it-the one you got yesterday. The second thing is concerning the pictures that the Highway Department took. Two or three people have been to me, saying that they got two copies of the wrong one and not the one that they ordered. Now, I don't know whether I can solve this problem or not, because they, too, are in a bind because their crews are out on the road taking pictures and such things for the Highway Department; but if any of you have any problems, get them to me right after adjournment so that I can at least call and find out. It may be that they were put in the wrong packages, but I'll try to do what I can, but I don't promise miracles. Thank you.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Dahood.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: Mr. President, I'd like to announce a very brief meeting for the Bill of Rights Committee in the committee room immediately after adjournment.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: You mean after the second adjournment, don't you? You're going to stay and talk with us a few minutes, aren't you? I was counting on calling on you.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: Yes, Mr. President. Immediately after the second adjournment. Thank you.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Thank you.

All right, Mr. Eskildsen, may we have a motion until 2:00?

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move we stand in recess until 2:00 p.m. this day.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to recess till 2:00 p.m. this day. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Convention recessed at 10:04 a.m.—reconvened at 2:10 p.m.)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Woodmansey, would you close the back doors for us, please. The Convention will be in order. Ladies and gentlemen, we will start at Order of Business Number 1 and proceed through, in a moment, without objection, to Order of Business Number 10. You recall that we recessed this morning until this hour in order to take care of the ballot proposal of Style and Drafting. Mr. Clerk, Reports of Standing Committees.

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. President. We, your Committee on Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission, having had referred to it Resolution Number 16 that all articles be presented separately on the ballot for a Yes or No vote; that any alternate proposal will be presented separately for a Yes or No vote; that in the case any article fails to pass the election, then the provision under that department of the 1889 Constitution will be in effect, except as where it may conflict with the intent of any section of the adopted articles of the new Constitution, which thereby will take precedence over the 1889 Constitutional provision, and having considered the same, report as follows: The Committee voted unanimously to reject the resolution for the reasons that the proposed plan for entire, too cumbersome, that it would be unintelligible and confusing to the voters, unduly expensive, and received too late to implement. Signed: John M. Schiltz, Chairman, Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission." Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the Chair will accept the resolution and file it; and, as we discussed this morning with Mr. Johnson, the matter may come up today when we discuss the ballot proposal, by way of amendment. No, I'm not going to adopt or not. I'm going to just accept and file the committee report. Now, Mr. Clerk, what other reports of standing committees?

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. President. We, your Committee on Style, Drafting and Transition herewith submits the proposed ballot for consideration by the Convention. Signed: Schiltz, Chairman." Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the adoption schedule which is now submitted by Style and Drafting is hereby referred to Order of Business Number 10. Without objection, we'll be on Order of Business Number 10. Is there objection'?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: If not, Mr. Eskildsen, do you want to move?

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move the Convention resolve itself into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of handling business under General Orders.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to resolve this Convention into Committee of the Whole. All those in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Committee of the Whole, Graybill, Chairman)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, members of the committee, we have before us on General Orders the adoption schedule which— and the transition schedule and the official ballot in three different versions, all of which are submitted by Style and Drafting. Now, it's my understanding that perhaps the best way to approach this subject is to have the Style and Drafting Committee explain what they have done here; and then, after their initial explanation and before debate, we will start and we will adopt-or we will read and adopt, in the Committee of the Whole, either a ballot or the adoption schedule or the transition schedule. In other words, we'll proceed through and we'll debate it, but after the explanation. So, without objection, we will now turn the meeting over to Mr. Schiltz, who will explain first, and when he's finished his explanation, we'll then consider the matter before you.

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman and delegates. I think, Mr. Chairman, I would like to say that we might not be completely finished with the adoption schedule. We submitted it with the proposed ballot because we were hung-up on the ballot. Now, the adoption schedule and the proposed ballot will come in with our final report tomorrow morning, if we get all these matters resolved, with the complete Constitution in connection with it. But if that develops, I'm not prepared at this moment to do more than discuss the ballot problem, so perhaps we can take whether we finally pass it later.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. You go ahead, and we'll start with the ballot proposition, and then I'm sure that the adoption schedule and the transition schedule can be discussed and dealt with later.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: All right. You all should have now on your desks what we call our "adoption schedule". As I explained to the President, this will be attached to our final report. Now, the thing we're concerned with most are the three ballots that you'll find on the back. First of all, you should be aware that in Report Number 3, at page 48, the Constitution of Montana, Article XIX, Section 8, authorizes the Convention to do three things: revise, alter or amend the Constitution. Now, the Convention--as provided in Article XIX, Section 8: "The Convention's revisions, alterations or amendments should be-shall be submitted to the electors. Unless approved by a majority of the electors voting at the election, no such revision, alteration or amendment shall take effect." Now, Section 17, sub. 9, of the Enabling Act, the act under which we're operating, provides that if a majority of the electors voting at the special election held for the ratification of the Constitution shall vote for the proposals or that those-if they shall vote for the proposals of the Convention, they shall then be adopted. Now, there are six lawyers on the Style and Drafting Committee, and I am confident of the talent and ability of each one of them, and we are agreed that any choices that are put to the electors must prevail by a majority of those voting at the Constitutional Convention ratification election-or the Constitutional ratification election. Now, I want to make that very clear, and I think I'll illustrate that on the blackboard, if I may.

(Delegate Schiltz illustrating on blackboard)

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Now, if you'll look at the blackboard, you'll see I've put up there "Constitution", by which I mean Constitution as a whole, the entire document. If 200,000 people vote on the Constitution, that will determine the number of votes cast at that election. Now, if we had alternate Number 1 which had two choices and there were 96,000 votes cast for the first choice and only 94,000 cast for the second choice, neither one of them would carry. The first-the 96,000 vote--wouldn't carry because, as we interpret the Enabling Act, it would require 100,001 votes in order for that proposition to be adopted as a part of the Constitution. That, in a nutshell, is what our problem is. Now, bear in mind that Style and Drafting received the Legislative Article from the Convention without any preference having been stated for either unicameral or bicameral. Now, if you will refer to the ballot on the back of the final report-the first ballot you come to-you will see that the first issue on the ballot, as much as I have put it up here, is for approval or disapproval of the entire Constitution, which contains both unicameral and bicameral sections, neither one having been adopted by the Convention. Now, the second issue on that ballot is whether the voter favors unicameral or bicameral. Now, if that were put out as that first ballot we drafted and as was more or less dictated by our having the Constitution with both of them in it-if that vote came out that way, then we would have neither unicameral nor bicameral and we'd be back to what we had in 1900-w 1889, or the present Legislative Section-Article. Now, Style and Drafting sees the possibility, as I indicated that neither one of those would pass and we'd be back where we started. Accordingly, Style and Drafting came to the conclusion that one or the other, unicameral or bicameral, should go into the Constitution. In other words, this Convention should adopt one or the other of them, so that that one for sure is in the Constitution, and then submit to the voters which one they want; and if they achieve a sufficient number of votes, the one that's left out would replace the one that's in; but bear in mind that it must, under this example-to overcome the one that is in there, it must achieve 100,001 votes, according to our analysis and interpretation of the Enabling Act. Now, there is one other option that we have and that's the third ballot--would you turn that over, John--where instead of two—yes—now, that revised ballot number 1 is what some of the people are interested in-in other words, they feel that if one goes in, that particular type of legislature has a definite edge in the balloting by the people, and so they would like to have one go in but nevertheless give the people two choices, one or the other. Now, if one of them-in other words, that would put them on an equal basis in the choice department but not on equal basis in what is included in the Constitution itself. Now, the third ballot is one that would put one or the other in and only give the voter one choice: do you want to take it out or do you want to leave it in? Now, before I finish that explanation, and that's the extent of what I have to say, except that so far as the Style and Drafting Committee is concerned, the gambling proposition is on all fours with the legislative proposition. In other words, as we got the material from the floor, we were-and you'll see that subsection 10, or whatever it is in the General Government, provides that both of them are in the Constitution, so that would put them in this same posture. Now, after you dispose of the legislative thing, I would hope that you would also dispose of the gambling proposition. We do conceive that we, as the Style and Drafting Committee, can choose which should go in in both instances, both legislative and gambling, but the legislative was such a vital thing that we chose not to do it but are going to be bound and guided by what you do on the floor. Now, the gambling proposition is not all that vital, in the view of the committee, and we, if you don't act, will select one or the other to put in the ballot or to put in the Constitution, with the alternate to go on the ballot as a one-shot decision. Then you can reverse us if you want, but we'd rather you did both of them. I want to call your attention to one other thing. The committee is unanimous that it does not want any more options put on the ballot. We feel that this is plenty. All your fears were ungrounded. We only have on the ballot what we were directed to put on the ballot-or which-or what we must put on the ballot because we had no other choice. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the Chair understands Mr. Schiltz to have said, on behalf of the Style and Drafting Committee-The Chair understands Mr. Schiltz to have said, on behalf of the Style and Drafting Committee, that they consider there to be a problem in the nature of the ballot. The Chair isn't going to explain this if we are going to sign books, so we're either going to listen or else let's quit signing the books till we've settled this. We have a serious problem here, and maybe I'm only explaining it to sort of clear my own mind, but the Chair understands Mr. Schiltz to have said that the ballot problem is this: what they call "official ballot" has a flaw in it because, assuming we could get 51 percent on the first proposition, for or against the Constitution, if we put the unicameral and the gambling issue as clear-cut alternatives, then each alternative must also get 51 percent-at least one of the two must get 51 percent or we have nothing in the Constitution about unicameral and gambling. It doesn't matter too much on the abolition of the death penalty, since there's nothing in there now and the 51 percent would merely add something, so as I understand the Style and Drafting Committee's position, it doesn't like that proposal, but that's a possibility. The second possibility, which they call "revised ballot number 1", has the effect of putting one proposition in the Constitution. Let's say the bicameral goes in the Constitution and the language down in III about the-the language about gambling goes in the Constitution-namely, "there shall be no gambling"-and then you put on the outside two propositions-(a) unicameral, (b) bicameral-and whichever one wins replaces what's in. Now, if the bicameral won on the outside and was already on the inside, it replaces itself, and so the bicameral wins. If the unicameral wins, it would replace the bicameral; and obviously, we could reverse those and put unicameral in. In other words, we could put into the Constitution the language of one of these two proposals and, in the case of gambling, the language "there shall be no gambling", and then we could substitute by whether either of the two alternatives got 51 percent. The advantage of this kind of ballot is that bicameral and unicameral both appear and people get a choice between two differents, and on the gambling thing, they get a choice between two differents. Then, as I understand it, the third ballot again puts one of these propositions in. It either puts unicameral or bicameral in and, in the case of gambling, it would put in the language "there shall be no gambling"; and then it puts the opposite one on the outside, and if it got 51 percent, it would replace. Now, the disadvantage to that is the one on the outside has, theoretically, a less chance than the one in the body because people may vote for the main proposition and not vote on the lesser one. Then the fourth thing I understand them to have said is that they do not want any more options. Now, I'm not sure how they want us to proceed. There are, of course, other alternatives than have been presented here, and we can discuss these alternatives. The Chair would have preferred to have an alternative and let you amend them, but the Style and Drafting people are concerned and want a discussion--or want our advice on how to do this. The Chair has at least one other idea of his own, and I presume many of you do, too. Mr. Schiltz, is the Style and Drafting Committee prepared to move any one of these ballots as the ballot?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No, your Honor—or Mr. Chairman-(Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You've fixed it so you and I can't go on the court, Mr. Schiltz. Now let's-(Laughter)

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I tried to fix it so we could. But, in any case, we conceive the problem to be this: that if we had chosen one or the other of these, we would have had a debate tomorrow on the up or down of what we chose. So, in the interest of time, which is extremely tight, we asked the leadership if a debate could be scheduled so that we could get the sentiment of this Convention-or this committee before we did it so we'd eliminate that debate on Wednesday or Thursday, anticipating that it might involve some time. So, I don't want to move one or the other unless that would-1 certainly wouldn't move the one that we got hung-up on.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, all right,

I understand that the Style and Drafting Committee doesn't want to move any. I think the Chair will operate on this basis. We'll open the matter for discussion; people may, if they care to, move them; and we'll vote on them and dispose of them or amend them or come back to them as we please. And when we get through, we may or may not have some solution. Very well.

Mrs. Warden.

DELEGATE WARDEN: Mr. President, I would just like to say that I have looked through the first, second and third ballots; and as one who has worked in the polling places for several years, I would say we'd better make it simple or we will have nothing but confusion, because the first one is relatively simple-1 mean, a small amount of wordage. I think that's fine. I would like to see either the bicameral or the unicameral put into the Constitution, and I would prefer the unicameral, but I think we should make the wording on the voting as simple as possible because when you have too many words, people are confused. They don't like forms and they would rather not vote on something if it's too complicated.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Swanberg, you were up.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: I was wondering if we could have the Chair's idea? You indicated you had an idea. Do you care to disclose it at this time, or do you prefer to wait awhile?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, I'll tell you what my idea is. It occurs to me that when people vote on Proposition 1, for or against the Constitution, that if we let people who vote NO then vote on the other propositions, we're giving them a second shot that they maybe don't need. I think we should say that if you vote Yes, you can vote on the others and if you vote No, you can go home. It seems to me-1 understand a lot of people don't like that, but either way you do it, one side gets an extra vote; and I'd like to see the side get the extra vote that's voting for the Constitution. But maybe that's unfair. But, in other words, if you did that-you see, it doesn't make any difference if bicameral gets 51 percent of the votes if the Constitution, in fact, gets 49. Once the Constitution is dead, it doesn't matter what happens down below. So it seems to me that we ought to make it a rule of our election, and I think we have thatright, that you can vote for or against the Constitution, and if you vote for the Constitution, then you may choose what you want on the other ones. But I— Others may not agree, but that's my idea.

Mrs. Bugbee was up next.

DELEGATE BUGBEE: Mr. Chairman, I agree with Mrs. Warden very much. The thing that-this is difficult to understand, but I think weighing difficult words versus difficult ideas is one thing that Style and Drafting and all of us have to take up. Now, I, for instance would like to go on record--I don't even like the word "abolishing". I don't think many people really know what that word means, and when you say "for abolishing", you're talking-"for" is a word for something, and in the same word, you're having a word that is against something. I think that in itself is a confusing idea. And then, I think down--and I'm on the official ballot, the first one, "for allowing" the Legislature or the people to authorize gambling. This is a complex idea to have in a ballot, and I think overly complex, and it's a difficult one to weigh.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bugbee, I think your point is extremely well taken. I don't think, however, that Style and Drafting intends to imply that this is the wording they would suggest. I think-am I wrong, Mr. Schiltz? You're trying to discuss a form and not the words?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's right, at this moment. We welcome those ideas, but I assume they would be changed tomorrow. The thing we're really interested in is which basic form they're interested in. Now, I just explained to Mrs. Warden behind me that certainly we aren't going to write opposite that box on, say, the second revised ballot, either "unicameral" or "bicameral". We're just going to put the Constitution in as it is, and that's only explanatory.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And there's been suggestions made that you use the one house and the two house language, and so forth, so let's presume for the benefit of today's debate that we are going to clean this language up as we've cleaned all the rest of it and we're going to make it just as simple languagewise as possible. But let's not argue whether we should use "against" or "for" or "abolish" or anything; let's argue the form. If we can decide on the form, at least Style and Drafting can go forward.

Mr. Kamhoot.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Mr. Chairman, this probably isn't going to come out this way in every case, but I notice on this first ballot, the leading ones here, which I think have a little advantage when they go into the polling booth—will these be changed with alternate ballots-so many hundred ballots run and then these will be rotated?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's what should be done, Mr. Kamhoot. You're absolutely right. The ballots should not always be in the same form, I think, but that would be a matter for the Rules Committee to see that the Secretary of State did.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Could I put a question to Delegate Schiltz, then?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I yield.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Yes, John. Is this your intent, that these would be rotated every so many hundred ballots?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: We didn't even consider that, and that is a matter, as Mr. Graybill said, for the Rules Committee when they deal with the Secretary of State. I would prefer that it—personally, I would prefer that themostimportant things be at the first and that they stay that way on all ballots. I don't know what thelawis on that. I do know that you must rotate candidates, and I don't-I'm not sure that you rotate constitutional amendment provisions because the one on the bottom usually loses, so I would guess that that's not the law, but I haven't looked it up.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Well, Mr. Chairman, I would suggest here now, on these four proposals, looking down them, of course the first one, for the proposed Constitution, would probably have a little advantage, and this may be fine. I think we should all maybe feel that, but when you go to the next one, you have unicameral legislature first-I would think that the bicameral people would not like this too well; and you go to the third one and you have, "For abolishing the death penalty"—I would suppose the ones that are not for that would not like this. And then, as you go to the bottom one, of course, on the gambling, you have the same situation. And I find myself, outside of the first one, perhaps-I would feel I was in the minority being on the last box there. Thank you, Mr. Chairman

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I think the Chair brought up a very fundamental question here that I think we should resolve before we decide anything farther, and that is the matter of people who vote against the proposed Constitution, whether or not they should have the right to vote on any of the other alternatives. It seems to me that the Chair would be in error there when he said that those who voted against the Constitution should not have the right to vote on the other propositions, because no matter, they will have to live with the Constitution if it is adopted. Consequently, they should have a right to vote on these other alternatives; and, Mr. Chairman, if it is in order, in order to settle this now, I shall so move, if that-if my motion would be in order, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I'm perfectly willing it be in order.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: That anyone who votes against the proposed Constitution should also have the right to vote on any of the other alternate proposals.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Mr. Aasheim has made a motion to the effect that those who oppose the Constitution by vote-that is, those who vote against the Constitution shall be allowed to vote on the other propositions nevertheless. That correctly state your proposition?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, is there discussion?

Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman, I think, too, that we're going to have to permit this, because some people may be more interested in voting on the-one of the alternate proposals, such as gambling or the death penalty, and it just may upset them enough that they wouldn't vote for the Constitution. I was wondering, could I ask Delegate Schiltz a question about another matter on the ballot, or is that out of order now?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, we have a motion on the floor. I think we should stay fairly close to it-if it relates to this motion. Let's settle this matter. The only way we're going to get it settled is to start settling it.

DELEGATE BATES: Okay.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Blend.

DELEGATE BLEND: Mr. Chairman, what documentation do you have for suggesting that we could use a solution such as you have offered? I know Delegate Bates and Aasheim have indicated that they don't think it could be done.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I think that we have to get a majority. I agree with the committee that we have to get a majority on each proposition, but they have demonstrated that there are ways of stating the ballot so that you can-so that if you get a majority on the Constitution at all, you have a majority on some proposition.

DELEGATE BLEND: I understand all of that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, once you have that, my aim-if you want to know my full aim-my first aim is, I would like to adopt the Constitution; therefore, I want to encourage people to vote for the Constitution, and so I want to have the rules that in order to vote on these other funny little things, they have to play the game and vote for the Constitution. Now, that's my purpose or reason. As far as my authority, it matters not, I don't think-it doesn't matter at all ifnothing gets 51 percent down below-if anything gets 50 or 60 or 80 percent down below and we haven't got 51 percent up above, it doesn't make a whoop of difference; and it seems to me that we're talking about what Mr. Holland was talking about the other day-"double-shotting" it. The present time, we have a Constitution that does not allow gambling, so you could vote against the Constitution and then vote No on the gambling and you'd have two shots at not allowing gambling. I don't know, that seems to be somewhat offensive to me. I think they voted against the Constitution, they voted to not allow gambling and they shouldn't be allowed another shot atitin casetherest ofus vote for it. They should have to vote for it in order to vote for the Constitution. Now, I'll grant you that that's a substantive rule of the game that this Convention would have adopted and that even in spite of it, we would have to get 51 percent on all the propositions. But if we got 51 percent on the ballot, then I would be in favor of one of the ballots which allows us, then, automatically to get one of the other propositions in; and I just think it would--we'd have a better chance of passing the Constitution. I'm greedy, I guess.

DELEGATE BLEND: Well, it occurs to me that that would be the case if we knew that we were in the clear and could get a legislature. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, the Chair would like to say one other thing. This has been a question directed to me, and I am not going to try and monopolize this discussion, but I am going to-1 would like to take the view, today, that I might participate in this argument. This seems to me to be a little different matter than the substance; and I'm not going to monopolize it; and everyone else can have their chance to speak, too; but please don't-if anyone is offended by my doing this, why, I'll be glad to relinquish the Chair, but otherwise, I'll just comment if someone asks.

Mr. Romney, you were up.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman, with respect to your proposal, as I understand it, the people would vote on the Constitution itself and those who voted No would not be permitted to vote on the other three proposals. Is that correct'?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's right.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Now, if you had -thank you, sir. Now, if the vote was close and— say a hundred and ten thousand voted for it and ninety thousand voted against it, the ninety thousand would then have no vote.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: On what?

DELEGATE ROMNEY: The hundred and ten thousand would be voting on the other three propositions—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: -and if they broke in the same proportion, what would be the situation with respect getting the 51 percent under the Enabling Act?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I would use a form like ballot number l--revised ballot number l--which, in fact, places something in the Constitution so that when they voted For, they would have automatically voted for something.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: And that would be sufficient, you think?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right. And then it would take 51 percent to take that out of there.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: That would take all--would that take care of any legal hurdles?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, we've got as many lawyers on this as we got opinions and—
Let's see, Mr. Davis, I think you're next.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. President, if I may digress, I am happy that you are participating in this, and I may not have another opportunity, but I want to thank you for your leadership throughout this thing. On this particular issue, I most-1 have a very respectful concern. I, too, have thought for a long time the more issues you put on the ballot, you're inviting a double negative. In other words, a person will say, "I'm against the Constitution": and if something in the Constitution really concerns, they're going to vote against it, perhaps; and then they'll vote against-they'll vote down below. But, on the other hand, when we started out here with the Bill of Rights and people-the right of people to disagree, the right of people to vote, the rights of minorities, this would be a minority that then would be deprived of their right to vote on these other issues just because they didn't prevail on the first. It seems to me, wouldn't we be getting into some sort of inconsistency? In other words, in our desire to pass the document, if we disenfranchise those people who disagree with us-in other words, I should have the right, assuming that—say, I'm against the Constitution, but in the event the majority wants the Constitution, I should still have the right to be for or against the death penalty or unicameral or bicameral. It gives me a great deal of concern-I'm happy there are not more issues than this on the ballot, and I was hopeful there wouldn't be this many, but it seems to me we may be jockeying ourselves into a place where we're preventing whatever the minority it might be, assuming it is a minority, from voting on what, in effect, are constitutional amendments in three instances; if you don't vote for the first one, then you're not able to participate and vote on the type of government you want to live under, even though the majority says, "We want that Constitution," I say "I don't; but if we do have it, I still want gambling in or out, or death penalty in or out, or still want the right to vote on the type of Constitution I live under." I think we've got a fundamental difference ofopinion, and as I said at the outset, I think you've done a wonderful job—which doesn't enter into this-and all of our leadership, and I'd like the record to show that I'm sure that's the consensus of everybody here. On this particular issue, I'm glad you got the ball started, because someone had to, but it seems to me we're getting around to the place where we're-in our desire to pass the document, we may be disenfranchising a lot of people at the end that we were giving a lot of rights at the beginning that we're going to be taking away from them before we get through with the ball game.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper, I think you were next.

DELEGATE HARPER: Thank you. I think I agree with Carl on this. You've done a wonderful job, Mr. Chairman, and we appreciate it; but you might be stupid on this. (Laughter) That was the sense of—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You don't have to get permission to speak by telling me— (Laughter)

DELEGATE HARPER: That reminds me of a good joke I won't tell now. It might-let me embroider on what Carl said. Carl said you might disenfranchise these people. I'm not-I'm inclined to agree more with you on that, that if they have a chance to vote No, then they've made their choice. They're against the new Constitution; therefore they want to express their opinion. But that sounds right-but listen to this. Why are we putting these things on the ballot? So that people will have a chance to vote for something different-on the gambling issue, let's say-or for the same thing, without having to vote for the old Constitution. That's it. So when a person looks at that issue and he says-he sees that you have to vote Yes for the new Constitution and you've got something in here that he doesn't want, on either side of this vital issue, like on gambling or on-say, the bicameral is in there or unicameral is in there and he doesn't want it, he's probably smart enough to know that no way is that alternative going to carry-no way. Let's say the Constitution only carries by 51 percent; that would automatically mean that everybody who votes for the Constitution has to be for the alternative or the alternative couldn't carry because it wouldn't get a majority vote. Therefore, he figures out, "I can't take a chance on voting-allowing the gambling issue to be voted on, or I can't take a chance on allowing bicameral to slip out. You see, I have to vote against the Constitution." Now, I've probably muddied the water, but what I'm trying to get at is, the reason we put these things on the ballot is to give the people who would ordinarily be against the new Constitution a chance to vote No and still a chance to express themselves on these particular issues.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Jacobsen was next.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Mr. President, fellow delegates. I don't know whether the committee has considered the fact that we should have, suggesting your revised ballot Number 1, on-with an explanation at the top of the Constitution, whether we put bicameral or unicameral in it, and a brief explanation. That will be one ballot. Then we have another ballot, explanation on top, for replacing whichever one it is or against that. A third ballot for the gambling-for gambling or against gambling. And the bottom one, the fourth ballot, for abolishing the death penalty or against. Now, in my experience in being a judge and so on in election booths a lot of times, whenever we have the issues and there is a separate ballot for a bond issue or some special improvement district or something like this, the people are given that ballot and they vote those ballots. They vote each one. This way, they would have four ballots to see and consider instead of-then we would be sure that that ballot, for or against the Constitution, would have consideration and each of the others would be considered individually and independently. Very, very seldom did we ever find those special ballots where people did not mark them the way they felt. So I think it would be a way-it would cost a little bit more, maybe, for the printing of these ballots-and really not either. It could all be printed in one and cut in four pieces, or however they do it, but I think that this is something that should be considered.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Driscoll.

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: Mr. Chairman. We were sent here as elected representatives of the people; we were to express the will of the people. We aren't doing it. The Chair has often stated from his position up there that this body can do anything it wishes. I think we should present this Constitution to the people without any alternatives. If unicameral is more strong than bicameral, then we should present it in that manner. If we want the death penalty and-that's the way it should be presented. We should present this thing to the people without any alternatives. We should take our job seriously as elected representatives of the people and do our job as it should be done. Now, how can I move that, Mr. Chairman?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I think you can keep it in mind, but I don't see how it has anything to do with—

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: It has a lot to do with it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I suppose you're with me if you really believe that, because you're going to take all those other things off.

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: --all out. I want everything out. I would be-I'm a bicameralist, but if the sense of this body is for a unicameral legislature, then I'd accept it. We accepted the Revenue and Finance Article. We accepted the Education Article. We accept everything.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Driscoll, we've got a proposition before us; namely, that those who oppose the Constitution should be allowed to vote on other proposals nevertheless. I think we've got to dispose of that. At least, I don't see that your proposition has anything to do with that, Now, I have another one up here to delete one of the proposals, which you might support simply as a step toward your proposal; and as soon as we have gotten rid of this one, I'd entertain a motion and we'd find out whether the body wants to have any alternatives or not. But let's see if we can't solve Mr. Aasheim's motion first, and then we'll-I've written your name down here, and we'll remember you.

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: (Inaudible)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Pardon?

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: May I make that motion when the time comes?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Surely.

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think, Mrs. Bugbee, you're up again next.

DELEGATE BUGBEE: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I am against Mr. Aasheim's motion for now because, taking the unicameral-bicameral argument, it seems to me that if someone votes against the Constitution, they are voting for the old bicameral system; so therefore they really should not have the option to vote either for the new bicameral or the unicameral. That's really giving them-it's a three-way choice, which I don't think is fair.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Well, I rise in support of Delegate Aasheim's motion and against the Chair, I guess, but notwithstanding-for this reason: it seems to me that his point is perfectly valid, but the further point-I don't see how you can practically do this. You destroy the secrecy of the ballot. You come in to vote, you have to announce how you're going to vote-that you're going to vote for the Constitution-before they'll give you any of the other ballots, and it seems to me that would be completely impractical to do and that you just couldn't do it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Erdmann.

DELEGATE ERDMANN: Mr. President, I speak in strong support of Delegate Aasheim's motion. I think we're going to need all the good support we can have from the public, and I think—I understand your position, but I think that you would defeat yourself because it would amount to poor public relations. And we all understand that if the main framework of the Constitution fails, the amendments automatically do, too; but this is a risk we have to take. And it wouldn't be all lost even at that, because it would serve as a very strong hint to future sessions of the legislature just how Montana citizens felt about each of these three ballots; and I think it would still serve a useful purpose, but I don't believe that we could in any way deny the citizens the right to vote on the amendments, pro and con, and also on the main Constitution. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Will Delegate Schiltz yield to a question, please?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I yield.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Thank you. I have a copy of the Illinois ballot, and I notice the last statement in the explanation is: "The voter may vote on any of these propositions regardless of how a vote is cast on the proposed Constitution." Do you know why they did this in Illinois?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No, Mrs. Reichert, but we were-at least, I was--aware of that, having looked at that ballot. This question did come up in the committee. Mr. Holland raised it last night, and we decided that we didn't have enough legal research available to say that we could do that. We don't reject it or accept it, but I was aware that Illinois had that.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: I have some statistics on the Illinois election-the result--and I think the most interesting factor is the one that reported that 57,124 persons voted for one or more alternate proposals but did not vote at the top on the Yes or No issue for the new constitution; and I think that is an interesting factor. Mr. Chairman, there is one other question that I would like to ask Mr. Schiltz related to this ballot suggestions. The idea of the revised ballot number 1 appeals to me greatly because I think that this would give the voters the best choice, the kind of choice I think we've intimated we would give them, a clear-cut choice between unicameral and bicameral; but in looking at this ballot, it looks so complicated. I think that for the case of simplicity, let's just assume that bicameral is in our-1 almost choke on the words-that bicameral is in the Constitution itself, and then we would say for the alternate Z-A, "for replacing bicameral with unicameral." Rather simple-2-B would be for retaining bicameral. Isn't that the way the ballot would look? I mean it wouldn't-this looks so complicated, Mr. Schiltz. I understand why-because you don't know which is what-but wouldn't it be rather simple, actually-I mean, Mrs. Warden brought up a good point. We hate to complicate, you know, the situation.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I yield, Mrs. Reichert. (Laughter) Yes, this was only done in this fashion, very hurriedly, to place before this Convention and this committee what the options are. This is not in final form. We'll arrange it so it's intelligible and very simple, if we once get the expression of the committee.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: As a matter of fact, Mr. Schiltz, your ballot number 1 must be in error, because you can't replace the one that's in with the one that's out, so you've got to say, "for replacing"--on the number 2-A and 2-B, you've got to say, "for replacing bicameral with unicameral" or "for leaving bicameral in". You can't have them both replaced. But that's a minor matter.

Mr. Holland.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Mr. Chairman, I did not advance the proposition that the people who voted No on the Constitution would not be able to vote on the lower-on the side issues. The proposition I advanced the committee was-what we're faced with is, we're faced with the fact that a certain number--we'll say 200,000 people vote on the first proposition, where we would get a split of 51 percent to 49 percent, and a corresponding—say 10 percent less voted on the lower proposition-we might have 48 to 47 percent. My proposition to the committee was that we should put a rule on that that the ballot is void unless they vote on all four propositions. Thus, we wouldn't have the decreasing vote, and if they vote for or against the Constitution but don't vote on the sideissues, then the ballot is void. And if-this would almost guarantee that we would not have this situation, we'd be running-that we're afraid we'll run into, where we'd have less than 50 percent for any one of the side issues. Now, that was my proposition. The idea of the committee was they weren't sure whether this would-how this--whether we could do this or not. No one cited any authority or gave any particular reason. The point was, we're in a bind. We weren't sure we'd be right. I would suggest upon what we're talking about, about forbidding people to vote, almost surely we'd be open to a question on that. We'd run into tremendously bad publicity from the newspapers, which might create a backlash which would-the people thinking they were being forbidden to vote unless they voted in favor of the Constitution would lead them to vote against the Constitution or not come out at all. And the third thing is that if we restrict the voting on the side issues to only those who vote for the Constitution and we lock in one choice up above, there's just no way that the side issues could get 50 percent. And I heartily endorse what Mr. Driscoll has said-that if we're going to come to anything like that, we should get busy. We're the elected representatives-get busy, and let the voters know what we want, and have no side issues at all.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Mansfield.

DELEGATE MANSFIELD: Mr. Chairman, in other states that have failed, having only the two propositions, for or against-in this matter-for instance, Maryland failed on one particular instance where they said that the sheriffs were being deleted from the Constitution, so they had a campaign and voted for the--against the Constitution. And I believe that if they have your plan of "for or against", then they may vote on these other issues. In our-1 know that many of the delegates, while they were campaigning, were asked this by the constituents in their district—what if you were-if we were opposed to some particular thing? And, of course, our answer was that the only way that this could be remedied would be to have it on the side ballot. Thank you, Mr. President.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harbaugh.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Would Mr. Aasheim yield to a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aasheim?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I yield.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: It seems to me that maybe we're getting the cart before the horse, Mags, with your motion; and I wonder if there is a sense of feeling in this body that maybe they do want us to delete some of the alternatives from the ballot-that-if we ought not to deal with that question first and then come back to the issue of how to vote, because it may be that, by the time we're through with it, there won't be any alternatives to vote on. I doubt that that will happen, but it's a possibility, and what I'd like to ask you is if you would consider withdrawing your motion--at least temporarily--until we could work our way through some of these. And I have a motion at the clerk's desk which I would put, if you would put that.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: What would—Mr. Harbaugh, before I answer your question, will you yield to a question?

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Yes.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: What is your motion?

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: My motion is to remove the-one of the items from the ballot; namely, the death penalty issue.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I see. Now, may I answer Mr. Harbaugh?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I think we should determine this now, and if we decide later we have made a poor decision, we can always go back and reconsider--and-that is, if you vote favorably on my motion-because I feel that it's very important to know how we're going to put these propositions on the ballot-whether or not the negative people can vote on the alternates-because if the negative people cannot vote, I think all the alternates are dead because I'm not so sure that we're going to get the Constitution adopted—maybe by, say, a 55 to 45—I mean, let's assume we have 55,000 for and 45,000 against the Constitution. You see, if you eliminate those 45,000 people to vote on the alternates, you would have a very difficult time to get any proposition-to get the majority of the votes, so that's the reason I say we should decide this now and if we make an error we can always reconsider.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Thank you. I assume his answer is No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think it is, Mr. Harbaugh. (Laughter) Mr. Aasheim, will you yield to a question?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I will.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I may join you later, but I think it's important that we discuss this carefully because I think it does condition everybody's mind to think about the real problem and I can see that you don't understand my side of it. For example, Mr. Aasheim, if you adopted ballot number 2-or the ballot-revised ballot number l-then the Constitution itself would have, for instance, bicameral in it, a prohibition against gambling in it, and nothing about the death penalty in it. And if it got 51 percent of the votes, it would have automatically carried those three propositions. Do you follow me?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Yes, I follow you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So there's no possibility that the-that some decision isn't going to be reached on these if, in fact, you adopt the Constitution. Now, don't misunderstand me. I'm not sure that's a good argument for my side, but it might clear up your thinking about my side. Do you understand?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Yes, I understand, and I understand the problems. But if you—if we-may I answer now?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: That if we do this, the alternate is dead. There's no use having it on the ballot. It's a Hobson's choice because there's no chance for the alternate carrying at all, and I do believe that this—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: In otherwords, it's the alternate that you think is dead.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: The alternate is dead if you do that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Eck has been up quite awhile.

DELEGATE ECK: Mr. Chairman, really I was going to say about what Delegate Aasheim just said, and that is, you know, suppose you got as many as 60 percent of the voters who voted for it, and then you would have to have of that 60 percent-you would have to have, you know, almost unanimously-you'd have to have 80 or 90 percent-my math's not that good-in order to get any one of the alternates on the ballot. Now, I can see a possibility-only I think that maybe it's too late to consider now-1 mean, I think that what Delegate Graybill had to-was considering was the fact that we are really either voting for the new Constitution or we're voting for the old Constitution. If we're voting for the old Constitution, then why should you be allowed to amend the new Constitution? Now, we could have considered the possibility of making these alternates down here more as amendments which would apply to either the new Constitution or the old Constitution, which would mean that we would get a good either--a good bicameral or a good unicameral, along with the old Constitution; and they could say something about the death penalty or about gambling. But I think that nooneisexpectingit to come this way, and I wouldn't even really want to consider it, but I think that if we went for-1 really think we'd be misleading people if we put it out and said you have to vote for the proposed Constitution in order to vote for the alternates, because, really, the alternates practically wouldn't have a chance. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Now, the proposition is on Mr. Aasheim's motion that those who oppose the Constitution shall be allowed to vote on other propositions nevertheless. And before you speak, Mrs. Bates, the Chair would like to say that the Chair is persuaded that Mrs. Eck's and Mr. Aasheim's point that alternatives would have a difficult time is probably valid, and the Chair is also persuaded that Mr. Davis' point-and I think he made this point-is perhaps even more valid and that there's a sense in which as many people might vote for the new Constitution-no, let's see-there's a sense in which as many people might-yes-vote for the new Constitution as against it just to have-just to realize that if they don't, none of those propositions are going to be adopted. So the Chair is about to switch his mind and would be glad to support Mr. Aasheim's position; but if there are those who want to come to my defense, we'll hear them.

Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman, as far as having two strikes against it, you could also have two votes for it if you had the bicameral in the body of the article in the Constitution and then again on the proposition. So this goes either way. I had another suggestion, and I don't know if it's possible. They said we were all-powerful. If we wanted to put these alternates-I don't knowifit's possible, but usually doesn't an amendment just take simple majority? A Constitutional amendment? What if these were put on the-the alternates put on in such a form under-on the regular ballot, rather than on the Constitution itself-and this might--and I don't know if it's possible, but if we are as all-powerful as a body as I've heard stated here, it might be possible. Also, I wanted to say that Mr. Holland is ready to go to Australia with me because there they force them to vote. You have to vote-(Laughter) And so, I guess-one more thing while I'm up here, on Proposition 2 here, the example-I think rather than having "For" replacing one system over the other, there should always be an opportunity to vote either Yes or No on any proposition, and that would be my suggestion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, now, the question is on Mr. Aasheim's motion. Does anyone else care to discuss it-Mr. Aasheim's motion?

Mr. Wilson.

DELEGATE WILSON: Thank you, Mr. President. I have to agree with Mr. Aasheim. I don't think you can disenfranchise anyone from the privilege of voting and that if we assumed your proposition, this is just exactly what we're doing. And to further emphasize that, we're destroying the secret ballot, as been brought out here before. I think we have to give everyone a right to exercise this privilege of being able to vote on any question that's on the ballot, either for or against. If we get over this hurdle, I would have a suggestion to make that might clarify this, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Johnson.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, I'd like to make a substitute motion for all motions pending. Am I in order?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I don't know. I don't know what you're going to move. (Laughter)

DELEGATE JOHNSON: I'd like to move for a proposition that would take us completely out of all this trouble, and I move that you-that the delegation consider my proposal as a ballot that's on your desks: "All articles will be presented separately for a Yes or No vote and any alternate proposals will be presented separately for a Yes or No vote."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I'm not against taking that along with Mr. Driscoll's, but I think we're about ready. I haven't heard anyone support me yet; and if you'll all just quit voting, we might-or talking, we might be able to vote this one down and settle this one, in case we go this way. It seems to me if I allow yours, I've got to allow Driscoll's and three or four other propositions, including Harbaugh's; and I don't mind, but let's settle this issue. And Mrs. Payne says she supports me.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Very well.

DELEGATE PAYNE: Mr. Chairman, I rise to support you, because we've been discussing this, and to answer Mr. Joyce, there is a way to do this. When we vote in a primary, we vote-they give us two ballots, a Democrat and a Republican-and thoseofus who areRepublicans take the Republican ballot and dispose of the Democratic ballot. We could do it the same way with this because we could take the-those of us who are for the new Constitution could just take that ballot and then we would have these choices to vote on.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Robinson.

DELEGATE ROBINSON: Mr. Graybill, I support your motion but didn't want to speak on it for fear you might lose it. But another way, in answer to Mr. Joyce's question-another way that it can be done is, you know, if you simply state if you're voting against the Constitution you do not vote on those other issues. The same thing happens when you have other ballots; and when you're supposed to vote for five candidates and you end up voting for six, the ballot is void. There are, you know, all kinds of ways that not following instructions can be handled.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Cate.

DELEGATE CATE: Mr. Chairman, I support the Chair and I'm not exactly sure why, but there's a very practical matter, I think, that deserves some consideration here. Looking at the first official ballot, the person who votes against the proposed Constitution is also going to go down the line-1 mean, if he's permitted to vote on these other alternatives-and he's going to vote, probably, for a bicameral legislature, because that's what he voted for up above; he's probably going to vote against abolishing the death penalty, because that's what he voted for above; and he's probably going to vote against the Legislature authorizing gambling, because that's what he voted for above; and so those people who are for a unicameral legislature wouldn't stand a chance, because the vote of the people for the Constitution is going to be split on that issue. Those people who are for abolishing the death penalty wouldn't stand a chance, because those people who are for the proposed Constitution will be split; and likewise on the gambling issue. So, as a practical matter, what you're going to have is a Constitution with a bicameral legislature, without abolishing the death penalty, and without authorizing gambling, if you let the negatives vote. That's what's going to happen, so we might just as well put in a Constitution that has those propositions in it and forget about alternatives, if that's what we're going to do-if we're going to let the negatives vote.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. James.

DELEGATE JAMES: Mr. Chairman, I'd like to speak in support of Mags Aasheim. I think his motion is in the spirit of the new Bill of Rights, the right of participation: "The public shall have the right to expect governmental agencies to afford every feasible opportunity for citizen participation on the operation of the government prior to the final decision." Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Kamhoot.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Thank you, Mr. Chairman. I am going to have to resist the motion because, as the story of the boy that went up to the wise man and had his hands cupped and he said, "Is what I have in my hand dead or alive?" The wise man said, "I think that lies within your hands." I think we have the answer to this lying right on our desks here; it's been here all the time. This was clearly provided by the Enabling Act that permitted this Constitutional Convention-is that all of these items can be put on the ballot, one at a time, each section. It's in our Enabling Act, and that's the Johnson Amendment, Resolution Number 16. I think that interlocking of one section to another might be much easier to work out, and more fairly. You'd stand a better chanceofgetting all of the things that you do want in the new Constitution that we do not have in our present Constitution. Maybe the answer would lie there—is to put these items-1 think Mrs. Eck came quite close to it, and Mrs. Bates-that with these side items, why not put them all, section by section? We clearly can do this. Thank you. Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the question is on Mr. Aasheim's motion.

Do you want to close, Mr. Aasheim?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Yes, Mr. Chairman. I would like to advise Mr. Kamhoot that if we adopt my amendment, you can still vote for Mr. Johnson's amendment. It wouldn't matter at all. But let me make one thing clear again. Assuming there were 100,000 people voting on the Constitution, for or against it. We're not going to have a very big majority for it, I'm quite certain-suppose 60,000 vote for it. Now, then, to go down on the alternate, you've got to have 51,000 votes for the alternate; and that's going to be pretty hard to get-out of 60,000 voters, to get 51,000 voters for either unicameral or bicameral, either on all these other propositions-you have to have 51,000 out of 60,000 votes-so that's why I'm urging that we get these negative votes down here voting also, in the hopes that they will vote positively on one of these alternate propositions. I think it's a must or the alternate proposals are dead.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr.-We're ready to vote. Do you want a roll call vote?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. So many as shall be in favor of Mr. Aasheim's motion, vote Aye; so many as are opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 80 delegates voting Aye, 11 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 80 delegates having voted Aye and 11 No, Mr. Aasheim's proposition prevails and we're going to let everybody vote on everything.

Now, the Chair would recognize Mr. Harbaugh, who was the first one up here with a proposal.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Maybe it would be-In the interest of saving some time-if I yielded to Mr. Driscoll and we could decide his motion, which-or does he have a motion? Mr. Driscoll-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, I think I could, but I think it might be in the interests of time to do it your way.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: All right, I'll put my motion then, if you would like to read it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harbaugh's motion is that we move to suspend the rules for the purpose of reconsidering the placing of the capital punishment question on the ballot in an alternative form. In other words, we have now directed Style and Drafting to place capital punishment on the ballot. He is moving to suspend the rules. If the suspension of the rules were allowed-and the specific pm-pose of his suspension is to pass a motion to the effect that we not place capital punishment on the ballot. In other words, he wants to reverse that action. If we suspended the rules and if we reconsidered and if we did reverse it, we would take capital punishment off the ballot as an alternative. You understand that there's nothing in the Constitution now prohibiting capital punishment and that the alternative of-is to be on the outside, so that it could be put in, and this would eliminate that possibility of its being put in.

Now, have I correctly stated your motion, Mr. Harbaugh?

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Yes, Mr. Chairman, and if1 might just speak to the motion to suspend the rules for a moment. I think that there has been plenty of discussion and debate here to demonstrate that there are some serious reservations about having a long list of things, as I think we have, on this ballot as side issues and that. it would be very important for us, at this stage, to reconsider--at least this one issue as to whether or not it should be placed on the ballot, And if we could get reconsideration on this, I would speak to it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there other discussion of the motion to suspend the rules?

Mr. Arbanas.

DELEGATE ARBANAS: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates. I would like to enter the issue. Well, I'm sure you know where I stand on it. I'd like to talk about the-just the matter of having an alternate or not. I think I'd have to attest to you that, at least personally, on this issue-the death penalty-there is a tremendous amount of voter interest expressed that has been expressed to me personally and through the press and various other means, and I think that while I can understand the-Mr. Driscoll's motion with regard to just the straight thing-let's take our position, that's it. I think there is an advantage to the voter interest on some issues. I think this is the kind of thing that people-they are not going to discuss most of our issues on the street corner-you know, where people really stand around and fight with each other and get very interested. They are going to fight about these three issues, though. For them it might become more of an issue than the Constitution. I also think there is something to be said about taking away at least the illusion of being manipulated-you know, where you just have this one choice to make and that's it-"all or nothing" type thing. I think that there's something to be said there, that having some minor choices within the Constitution will take away that illusion of "it's all set, and I either take it or lose it". Thank YOU.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there other discussion?

Mr. Holland.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Mr. Chairman, I want to point out to the Convention that what the Committee on Style and Drafting was worried about was on side issue number 1, that is on whether we have a unicameral or a bicameral, What we feared was that we would have less than a majority for either one of these propositions. Thus, we might wind up with a vote for a proposed Constitution without a legislature. Now, if such a thing happened, I don't have the foggiest notion of how the government would proceed. We come down to the death penalty and we come down to the gambling, we don't have the same crucial item. For instance, if neither 3-A or 3-B—for abolishing the death penalty or against abolishing the death penalty-gets less than 51 percent, it doesn't mean a thing to the Constitution; we still have a functioning Constitution. The same way with the, fourth proposition-4-A, 4-B—against gambling or for gambling-if either one gets 51 percent, we don't have any worries at all; we've still got a functioning Constitution. The only way we can get into a jackpot is if the first proposition-that is, the first side issue, the unicameral or the bicameral-fails. That is where this Constitution can get into indescribable trouble. And we get down here to the death penalty, it would seem to me that in-the Reverend's motion to take it out doesn't mean a thing at all, because if the voters don't vote to take it out, then it's going to be automatically eliminated. We're not going to have any abolition of the death penalty anyhow. So if we don't get 51 percent, it doesn't mean a thing in the world. I realize he's made his motion, and I'm not going to make another motion to interfere with it; but I'd like to point out to the body, we've got to get down to proposition number 2 and decide what to do about this legislative thing, because that's where we're in trouble. And whether or not we knock out the death penalty at this spot doesn't mean a thing, because it would leave it in; and whether it got a majority or didn't get a majority, we'd still have the same old Constitution.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there other discussion?

Mr. Wilson.

DELEGATE WILSON: Mr. President, would Mr. Schiltz yield to a question?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I yield.

DELEGATE WILSON: I'm sort of at a loss here, Jack, listening to the discussion. A vote against the Constitution, you say, leaves us without any legislative body. Wouldn't it be your thinking that if the proposed Constitution fails, we revert back to the present Constitution?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: My answer, Mr. Wilson, is that we could cover it in the transition and say that if-and that's what Illinois did that--about the-they submitted not the bicameral-unicameral, but the question of whether there should be single-member districts or the old running-at-large business, and they said that if that issue fails, then they go back to the original Constitution. And we could cover that in the same way, but it's our feeling-it's the feeling of the Style and Drafting Committee that there was a genuine interest in the house-or in the chamber in having a new and revised legislature that met once a year and that had a little more-well, it had different numbers, for one thing, and it had a little more flexibility for extra sessions or special sessions, and that we certainly-the reaction we got from the debate was that they would not want to go back to the 1889 system, that one of these two propositions should go in so we do have an improved Legislature. But we-the short answer is yes. In transition we could cover it so if one of them failed, we'd be back to the '89.

DELEGATE WILSON: Well, then, I submit that, with a little drafting change, this would be possible and we wouldn't be without a legislative body, however desirous we are of the improved one. This is what we're talking about here. We are talking about a new Constitution that has these different changes in it; and it does have the changed Legislative Article and it has several other articles that are changed; but if we don't adopt them, we go back to the old-or the present Constitution.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, Mr. Wilson, the Chair fell asleep up here, but I think we've gotten far from the motion to suspend the rules. So if you have anything further to say about the motion to suspend the rules, we'll hear it.

DELEGATE WILSON: I would be against suspending the rules, Mr. Chairman. We debated at length on this the other day; and if we open it up again, I can see where we'll be debating for many, many hours further. I'm against suspension of the rules.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. The issue is on Mr. Harbaugh's motion to suspend the rules to consider the matter of the capital punishment proposed amendment. Is there other discussion of the suspension of the rules?

Mr. Champoux.

DELEGATE CHAMPOUX: I am also against suspending the rules. I think in this day and age we hear a lot about participatory democracy, and the people have sent us here-yes, and we do represent the people-but here's an opportunity to get the people involved directly in things that we are all quite unsure of. I imagine when we see these votes, they're going to be so close that is it really going to tell? And this is a good opportunity to get the people involved, have them know that they are—we are concerned about them and their views; and therefore I think that we should keep these-find some way of keeping these alternatives on the ballot; and I don't think that there are that many of them, personally. I'm against suspending the rules for that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is on suspension of the rules on Mr. Harbaugh's motion so that we can deal with the issue of whether or not to remove capital punishment.

Do you need to close on the suspension or argument?

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: I'd like to ask for a roll call vote—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: --and I'd like to point out that when we voted on this first, the vote was 48 to 42 on the proposed language that Mr. Arbanas proposed; and it seems to me that if the public splits in anywhere near the same proportion, there is absolutely no possibility of the death penalty issue being decided one way or another on the ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Chair would like to observe it's going to be decided one way or the other, but it might not be decided affirmatively.

Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Yeah, Mr. Chairman. I was just discussing this again, and I was wondering if it would be possible to include the same-like we have in the old Constitution-in the new as far as the death penalty and gambling—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right—

DELEGATE BATES: -is concerned.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -but, Mrs. Bates, you are not on the subject.

DELEGATE BATES: Yes, I am. Just a minute.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, you can make a new motion to suspend the rules for a broader purpose, but Mr. Harbaugh's purpose is to suspend the rules for the purpose of, then, on reconsideration, taking this away from the ballot proposition; and you're now suggesting we add something else to the Constitution.

DELEGATE BATES: No, I realize this. And then if you included the old wording in it, then you could vote in the general election-save these for the general election as an amendment--which would only, then, require a simple majority on both of these issues, which would be a—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bates—

DELEGATE BATES: -possibility.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -you mentioned that possibility a while ago, and the Chair hasn't researched it, but we would either have to follow the present constitutional method of getting a constitutional amendment on, which I think is impossible at this stage of the game, or we'd have to wait till this Constitution was adopted and go with the new ones. But I know that somebody on the General Government-Mr. Etchart, you can't-there's no such thing as a constitutional-is there a constitutional amendment by initiative? Doesn't the Legislature have to propose it first?

DELEGATE ETCHART: At the present time it has to be proposed by the Legislature, but we have-in the new Constitution, we have it by initiative.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right. So, Mrs. Bates, unless you could get to the next Legislature and persuade them to put it on the ballot for the second time around, I don't think it's going to work. Now, the issue is on Mr. Harbaugh's motion to suspend the rules. He's asked for a roll call vote. All those in favor of suspending the rules, vote Aye; all those opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

Mr. Chairman Nay

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 12 delegates voting Aye, 78 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, 12 delegates having-voting Aye and 78 voting NO, we have decided not to suspend the rules for the purpose of removing capital punishment. Now, Mr. Driscoll, I realize your proposition is similar to that, but it is broader. If you want to put it, we'll debate it; or if you want to hold it, we'll wait.

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: No, I wouldlike to put it, Mr. Chairman. I don't think it requires any debate. I would ask for an immediate vote. I would move to suspend the rules for the limited and express purpose of presenting the Constitution to the electorate with no alternatives. I don't think it calls for a great deal of debate. Just pass it, and then we'll get rid of the unicameral. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, the Chair observes that if we adopted it, we'd still have to find out which one went in; but I suppose we could do that. Very well, Mr. Driscoll has proposed to suspend the rules in such a manner that we could remove all three alternatives to the ballot. That involves the Legislative Article, the Bill of Rights Article, and the General Government Article; but we could suspend the rules to so do that. Is there discussion of the motion to suspend the rules?

Mr. Kelleher.

DELEGATE KELLEHER: Speaking only on the motion to suspend, in our committee we debated this entire whole area 6 hours yesterday afternoon and last night, and without going into detail about the fact that those who want to get gambling may get a lot of their proponents to get in there and vote for gambling and get it so-the vote so heavy there that the Constitution itself could fail. And, of course, they might not realize that their gambling fails, too; but they still might vote for gambling and not the Constitution and cause it to fail. And after we visited with our committee again this morning and after listening to many arguments from many wise people-notjust lawyers, but wise people-nonlawyers--I am inclined to go along with Mr. Driscoll-to think that this is probably the only safe way of doing it. I am afraid that playing this numbers game, that anything below the original Constitution is going to fail. It's going to have to have a tremendous majority. In Illinois, over 57,000 people voted on the alternates and did not vote on the Constitution. And on their Legislative Article, 246,000 did not vote on the Legislative Article, and it just barely carried. They just-they gambled-but they had the old Constitution to go back on, and we don't. And our consultant-I'm not going to talk—maybe Mr. Schiltz would like to address himselfto this-but our consultant said it would be a terrific job to try to figure out. if both unicameral and bicameral failed and we went back to the old Constitution--we'd have to decide what articles are affected. You know, we didn't follow the same order in the new Constitution, and this would be a terrific problem.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there other discussion of the motion to suspend?

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I-it isn't directly on that, but a question was more or less directed to me, and I feel I should say that Mr. Cromwell does not take a legal position with our committee in any respect. I think what Mr. Kelleher was talking about was whether or not we put in the constitutional proposal that Mrs. Reichert had that there be several alternatives and we tried to pick what would stay in in the old Constitution and be added to that, and he did address himself to that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Driscoll-Mr. Holland.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Mr. Chairman, may I direct an inquiry to the Chair?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Is the sense of Mr. Driscoll's motion that, if we suspend the rules for the purpose of considering removing all these alternatives from the ballot, that we also can do any of the intermediate steps-that is, if the rules are suspended we can retain some, keep some, and modify some?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Chair would rule that the-that he is proposing to suspend the rules, which does involve the Bill of Rights, simply because that's the one to which we tacked the proposal to put the capital punishment on the ballot, the Legislative and the General Government, but only for the purpose ofputtingin or out those three-that is, only for the purpose of handling the problem of the ballot alternative. Now, I realize that in the General Government and Bill of Rights, that's pretty easy; but I agree with you that in the Legislative, that's pretty tough, because I don't know how you decide that issue without coming to the other proposition; namely, which does go in.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Well, my inquiry is this. If the rules are suspended for this purpose and the body then decides to take one of these alternatives on the Legislative and put it in with the other alternative to the side, would this be in order under the suspension of the rules proposed by the motion of Mr. Driscoll?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I would think what would be in order is-we would then go-let's take the easy one first-to Bill of Rights and we decide all over again what we just decided on Mr. Harbaugh, and we'd decide to do it or not to do it, and then we'd go to General Government and we'd decide whether to put--we've got the language—well, we'd decide whether to put language in-see, we've got the language "there shall be no gambling"-that's in both of them. We'd decide whether to put the language "except by the Legislature and the people" in or to throw it away. And then we'd go back to the other, and I don't think we'd have to debate unicameral and bicameral individually, but I think we would then have to decide whether we're going to put unicameral or bicameral on the ballot, because you can't have a-you can't do away with the alternatives while you've still got both of them in the pot.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: May I make a substitute motion to suspend the rules?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I'll hear it; I don't know whether you can make one.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: All right. I'll make a substitute motion to suspend the rules for the purposes of considering the entire question of the three side issues on the ballot; namely, the unicameral-bicameral question, the death penalty question, and the gambling question-to consider whether we should accept them as they are, modify them in any particular, or to completely remove them from the ballot. In other words, so we can fully discuss all of the various-fully discuss and vote and make motions upon all of the various alternatives that are open to us as a Committee of the Whole.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, Holland's motion--substitute motion-is to suspend the rules regarding these three areas-that is, the three areas that are now the ballot alternatives. But in addition to just removing them, which was the word Mr. Driscoll used, Mr. Holland wants to enlarge the suspension so that we may remove, modify, or otherwise deal with-is that what you said?

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Yes. Otherwise-modify or otherwise rearrange or deal with the three subjects.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think "otherwise deal with" covers it.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: All right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: In other words, we'll be able to do anything we want with those three areas, in addition to remove. We can remove, modify, or otherwise deal with those three areas if we adopt your proposal. Is that what you're proposing?

DELEGATE HOLLAND: That's my proposal, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, that's Mr. Holland's proposal.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Mr. Chairman, I make this motion not to interfere with Mr. Driscoll's motion, but to include that in. It would seem to me the sense of the body, from the addresses made to the body this afternoon, that something must be done. Just what it is, I'm not sure that the body has made up its mind; but1 think at this time we should suspend the rules so we can do what we have to do, whatever the body has in mind; and if we do suspend the rules at this time for this purpose, we can then attack the problem and solve it in the manner that the majority wishes to do so.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, the Chair wishes to caution the body that in the Chair's opinion you can arrange a ballot in some form under Style and Drafting's proposals without doing this. I don't think we're at any impasse, Mr. Holland; and I don't think we should lead them to believe that; but I'm perfectly willing to put the motion.

Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Mr. Chairman, I'd like to resist both these motions for now. I don't think we've discussed all the different things that we could do. For example, I have yet to be convinced that we could not write a Legislative Article that had everything in it. We did this in committee on purpose so that everything was exactly the same on almost-in almost every section. Only the sections that you would vote on would be "shall it be unicameral or bicameral"; and if the unicameral did not pass and the bicameral did not pass, you'd fall back only on that much of the present Constitution, which is bicameral and which could be, I think, as far as I can see, fitted in at every point; but you'd have the big bulk of your Legislative Article and we'd have-we could set up kind of a choice that we want to on the ballot without losing it all. And there may be other suggestions. I don't think we need to throw in the sponge yet. I think we can work out a good ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Babcock.

DELEGATE BABCOCK: Mr. Chairman, this is just a suggestion. Has anyone thought of having three boxes with "Do you prefer", at the top; "vote for one-the old Constitution, the new Constitution with a unicameral, or the old Constitution with the-or the new Constitution with a bicameral"?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Babcock, if none of them got 51 percent, are we out? (Laughter)

Mr. Drum.

DELEGATE DRUM: Mr. Chairman, I

also rise to resist Mr. Holland's motion. It would seem to me that we are going to have to be specific. He said in an earlier statement that the big hangup is on the placement of the unicameral-bicameral; and I think if we're going to suspend the rules, we should suspend it for the purpose of discussing, debating, and deciding upon one issue at a time, because you can see the discussions here-one man is up on the death penalty and the next one's up on the bicameral or the unicameral, and it's a little hard for the Chair to stay abreast of what is happening. Now, about a month ago, I remember discussing with some of the legislative people and at that time they talked with the Chair that at some point this body was going to take a vote on unicameral versus bicameral. I, for one, am not nervous about either way. I think the State of Montana is going to go ahead and we're going to have a good state with either system of government. But I don't see how we can go to the people without ever having taken a vote on either bicameral or unicameral; and I would like to remind the Chair and Mr. Aasheim that at that time we were assured that there would be vote taken by this body; and it would look to me like, at this point, the body should take a vote and the one that gets the most votes would go into the Constitution and the one that gets the least votes would become the alternate and we could move on and then move on to these other two issues that are on the ballot. So, therefore, I oppose Mr. Holland and make a substitute motion that we vote on bicameral-unicameral; the majority that wins the majority—the issue that wins the majority will be the one that is placed on the Constitution.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, wait a minute, Mr. Drum. I liked everything you said till that last. Can't we decide this issue? And I'll come back to you if you want to, but let's vote on these. We don't vote on these things before we make substitute motions, we're in real trouble--we don't know what we think. Pardon?

DELEGATE DRUM: I bow to the wisdom of the Chair and withdraw my motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Mr. Chairman, 1 don't like to delay this thing any longer, but I rise to resist the motion to suspend the rules and the motion to put the various articles on the ballot in the alternative. I think that we're just rehashing the entire thing by suspending the rules, and I think that it is absolutely impossible to follow the-from a practical standpoint and a drafting standpoint, within the limitations of time we've set upon ourselves, to do what Mr. Johnson would like to do. And I submit that the revised ballot number 2, for example only, which is the last one that we have from Style and Drafting, is the most practical alternative and that we should decide bicameral or unicameral is the issue to be placed in the Constitution and proceed with this matter.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, now. The issue, however, is on Mr. Holland's motion to suspend the rules so that we can remove, modify, or otherwise deal with all three ballot alternative issues.

Mr. Holland.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Mr. Chairman, regarding suspending the rules, I didn't want to make any change, but I just wanted to do it—there's no-in my opinion, the-or in the opinion of Style and Drafting, ballots number 2 and number 3 are substantive changes, which would require suspension of the rules and this body reconsidering them. My purpose in moving for suspension of rules was so we could start taking on the issues that Mr. Drum has just raised, one by one. And my reason for rising to suspend the rules for the whole thing was so we wouldn't have to keep suspending the rules every 10 minutes. Now, it's my impression--and you can ask for Mr. Schiltz if there's any difficulty-that we can't consider ballot number 2 without suspending the rules because it amounts to substantive changes, which the Style and Drafting can't recommend to this body without a suspension of the rules and reconsidering the whole item. I made the motion only to save time, to lay the whole thing out on the table so tie can start taking motions to handle the difficulties we're in.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Mr. Holland, maybe I should speak to that. The Chair does not take that same view. The Chair takes the view that Style and Drafting has the substantive right to propose a ballot form, and whether it's the best or the only is another matter. And I'm certainly going to rule that Style and Drafting has a perfect right to suggest either one, two, or three; and I don't think that requires any suspension of the rules. Style and Drafting has a substantive right to propose a ballot alternative. Now, if Style and Drafting had proposed only unicameral-bicameral and gambling and had proposed dropping abolition, that might have required a change because we've already told them these three things; but the Chair is going to rule that we can go on any one of these three or any other ones that Style and Drafting proposes, so long as they give us three ways to, in some fashion, present some kind of an alternative. But I don't mind putting your motion anyway.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: My point, Mr. Chairman, is that ballot number 2 inherently requires that we have to suspend the rules in all three subdivisions in order to comply with ballot number 2.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Are you talking about-let's talk about-you're talking about revised ballot number 2, which is really number 3?

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Let me take a look again. Yes. In order to adopt number 2, we would have to get-we would have to suspend the rules to have the body determine whether or not they want to put unicameral or bicameral up into the body of the proposition.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, all right. The Chair takes an entirely different view of that. I think that you people are a substantive committee for proposing the ballot and you do have to propose some form of alternative; but if you propose number 3, we can debate it and we can amend it without suspending the rules. We don't have to do-we-this body has certainly not in any way indicated to your committee, and the committee made it quite clear we weren't supposed to, the detailed method by which this alternativeis going to be presented. That's up to you to come back with. My only real difficulty with your committee is that you've come back with nothing yet and you've just asked us to help you. But, I mean, once you decide which one you're going to propose, we'll debate it. And if you don't decide pretty soon, we're liable to debate it anyway and decide it.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: (Inaudible)—probably yield to Mr. Schiltz, but it was my-it was the understanding in my sense of the—what I understood happened in thecommittee-while the form could be proposed by the Style and Drafting, picking the unicameral or bicameral, if you put up in the body, would be had--would be a change that this body itself would have to do; and that's why I moved for suspension of the rules.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, but this body wants you-if Style and Drafting will just take the bull by the horns, like the poor Rules Committee does every day, and propose one or the other, this body will make short work of deciding which one they want. They'll either put that one or amend it and put the other one. But you see, at the moment you haven't given us anything except an alternative ballot. But-So, I don't agree with you that we have to wait-or that we have to suspend the rules to do this ballot business, but I'm perfectly willing to suspend the rules for what I think Mr. Driscoll's purpose is; namely, to do away with those ballot alternatives. Isn't thatright, Mr. Driscoll?

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: That's right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Driscoll's proposal is to do away with them, and that's what he said--"remove". Now, you've said "remove, modify, or otherwise deal with", and we can either put yours or you can withdraw it; it doesn't make any difference. And we'll decide it one way or the other. But if we decide for yours, I'm sure Mr. Driscoll's motion is going to be to remove them. Now, is there other discussion about Mr. Holland's motion to remove, modify, or otherwise deal with?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, I'll put that question. All right; all in favor of Mr. Holland's motion to remove-to suspend the rules so that we can remove, modify, or otherwise deal with the three ballot alternatives, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, it's defeated. Now, we're back on Mr. Driscoll's. Is there any more discussion of Mr. Driscoll's, which is to suspend the rules for the pure and only purpose of removing those alternatives, either all together or one-two-three?

Mr. Driscoll.

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: Mr. Chairman, I close and ask for a roll call vote.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. All right. Very well; all in favor of Mr. Driscoll's motion to suspend the rules so that we may remove the three alternatives or one, two or three of them, vote Aye; and those opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 24 delegates voting Aye, 71 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, 24

having voted Aye and 71 voted No, Mr. Driscoll's motion is defeated. Now, Mr. Drum, you're on my list (Laughter) but Mr. Johnson-Mr. Drum, I have two lists; don't worry. (Laughter) Mr. Johnson had a motion and he wanted to make it awhile ago, and I think I should let him have the chance next. We got to get these things either decided or out of the way.

Mr. Johnson.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Mr. President, thank you. Ladies and gentlemen, you all have my proposition on your desk. It was made out in the form of a resolution to start with, but the Chair has agreed to let me present it as an amendment or a motion, and that's what I have done. Now, the sense of this would be the ballot would—presented-on the ballot would be presented all articles separately for a Yes or No vote, and also the alternative proposals would be presented in the same manner for a Yes or No vote. This is-a very simple way to present it. There would be no question what they were voting for or voting on, 'long as they'd read-in which-excuse me—which they'd have to do in any case-familiarize themselves with the content. Now, this is perfectly okay under the Enabling Act. I know that it would take a lot of time and work on the part of the Style and Drafting Committee, and I'm sorry about this. I wish that some of us had discussed this 2 months ago-well, the whole program, for that matter-on how we were going to put it on the ballot and had decided at that time. We would have-not have had this difficulty at this time, but I-unfortunately, that wasn't the case, so now the problem comes up. It would certainly cost a little money, probably, for the Style and Drafting to work this out—and a few days after the rest of us had left here, probably. I don't know just exactly how tough the mechanics would be, but I have it on good advice from several people that are supposed to know these things that this is very possible and legal in all aspects. I'd like to point out, since there are going to be some differences if the-or overlapping conflicts, I should say. In case one of the articles or more should fail in the election, our present Constitution article would have to take over in that department and there would be someoverlapping. This would be the hardest problems to contend with, and-but they're not impossible. I'm sure of this, It would take some time. Now, for instance, on the radio today-there were several people who heard this guy discuss it at noon-that the United States Supreme Court has struck out the l-year residency requirement in Tennessee; and that's going to cover all the rest of the states, apparently; and that makes our own that we just passed last week obsolete; and, so, there's probably going to be some more of this. There seems to be an awful lot of legislation going on in the U.S. Supreme Court and other state Supreme Courts that we're going to have to contend with, so there's going to be quite a number of these changes or overlapping conflicts ofmeaning and intent. Now, you know, we're going to have to live with this new Constitution, if it's accepted, for possibly a long time-70 or 80 years--maybe 50, the way things are traveling so fast now-but it should be a good long time; and I think whatever little extra time it takes or expense, we should be willing to abide by it. We want a good Constitution. There isn't a person here that doesn't, and I'm willing to sacrifice a little more time, if it would fall on me-of course, in this particular point, why, it would be the Style and Drafting, as I see it, that would take the brunt of it; and I'm sorry for that, but I can't help it. Well, I think that's probably all I have to say, Mr. Chairman, and thank you very much. Thank you, ladies and gentlemen, for listening.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, those of you who have Mr. Johnson's Resolution 16 before you, the Chair will take it is the sense of his motion that the material presented on lines 23 through 26 is his motion; namely, that the ballot be drawn in such a manner that all articles will be presented separately for a Yes or No vote and all alternative proposals will be presented separately for a Yes or No vote. Is there discussion of Mr. Johnson's proposal?

Mr. Champoux.

DELEGATE CHAMPOUX: The only thing I'm interested in at this point-it's an intriguing idea-however, somewhere back in my reading, I think I've heard that this method has been used a number of times and it's failed quite frequently. Does anybody have the research on this? Does anyone-can they pull it out of their head or—have we got any research on it?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Mr. Chairman, I don't know where it has failed. I only know where it has succeeded, and that was in Pennsylvania. But Pennsylvania had a limited convention, not an unlimited convention, such as we had; and I understand they only had five propositions in the form of amendments on the ballot; but they were of this nature as he is suggesting. Now, nobody else that I know of has submitted it this way that has been successful.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Blend.

DELEGATE BLEND: Mr. Chairman, as Mr.--or Delegate Johnson spoke, I tried to visualize what would happen in the voting booth. In the first place, each registered voter will receive a complete, detailed copy of this proposed Constitution with explanatory comments beneath it, and this will be in two colors. Now, supposedly, one would read this and digest it and make decisions at home or in the company of friends. Now, if one were to go through the proposed Constitution at the voting places, it would occur to me that each individual could spend possibly up to an hour doing this. I wonder, if they thought that the proposed detail would be at the voting place, if they would ever look at the copy they received at home. I think that it would take us weeks to vote if we were to follow such a proposition. I can't believe that a voter, when they got through the first third or half of it, would be inclined to go on, because of the time that it was taking. It might solve a problem for the delegates here today, but I don't think it would solve a problem for the voters or that it would bring out a better-51 percentage of vote on each section of the proposed Constitution, and I therefore would not be in favor of Mr. Johnson's motion. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Warden.

DELEGATE WARDEN: Mr. President, there is no way that the average voter would go through and take the time that would be necessary on this. I have found many times that when they even had three amendments on the ballot, they will look at them and say, "That's too many"; and I would strongly urge that we defeat the motion of Mr. Johnson.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Romney, you were up.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman, I wanted to answer a question made by Delegate Champoux, but I guess he's left the floor. As I understand it, the State of Hawaii also used this method and had 22 or 23 sections; and they passed most of them, but not all. Argument was that Hawaii being a new state and having adopted a constitution a few years previously was ripe for such a use of the amendment system. Now, there's no question but what our Constitution presently provides for use of the amendment system. It's rather a shame that it is advanced at this time, because of the situation where many items are— would be out of place and, if some of them should be defeated, there might not be any way of handling them, such as the Chairman indicated this morning with respect to the veto of the Governor; and I don't know just how that could be handled, although perhaps the Committee on Style might be able to figure it out. I do think that this would have been a splendid way of handling it, but at the present time, I'm afraid that it won't work.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is on Mr. Johnson's proposal that we present each article and alternative for a Yes-No vote separately.

Mr. Wilson.

DELEGATE WILSON: Mr. President, I think it is the concern of all of us here that we have several articles in our proposed new document that we would like to see passed. We have-some of us have some reservations on some of the other articles. I think this is one method where you can get the desirable features in the new document passed by the people. It may be that they would— could be put on the ballot as committee proposals and cover each-it wouldn't have to be each section-and possibly that these methods could be explored towards a shorter form of putting it on the ballot; but I think this is one of the more desirable features of Mr. Johnson's proposal, that there is several articles in the proposed new document that I'm sure the people want and would like to have, there is some that there's quite a little question on, and that they may turn down the whole document for the same specific reason that these are included in the whole article. I think that Mr. Johnson's motion has a lot of merit, if there's any way of approaching it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is on—

Mr. Kamhoot, do you want to talk?

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Very briefly, Mr. President.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: There's been quite a lot of resistance to this on the-by using the evidence that there would be too much on the ballot. I would question this, because we just decided in this Convention that there would be-an unlimited number amendments would be permitted on the ballot in the future, so what would be the difference-talking about 13 now or 13 or 15 or 20 sometime in the future on our ballot-so I don't think this has much validity. I don't see why that each one of these sections must be printed in its entirety, as has been suggested, when certainly the people that are going to vote for this Constitution or against it are not going to have the whole Constitution printed on their ballot, so they're not going to read it that way, so why would they necessarily have to read all of it article by article? Why couldn't they briefthemselves beforehand, as they must do when they go to the polls to vote on this situation as we have it here. So, it seems like, if it could possibly be correlated between one article and the other, that we really should follow this route. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Ask-Mr. Artz.

DELEGATE ARTZ: Would Mr. Johnson yield to a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Johnson?

DELEGATE JOHNSON: I yield.

DELEGATE ARTZ: This morning, Torrey, there was some discussion that possibly it would be impossible to correlate the new and the old, in case certain sections were voted down if we follow your system. Have you researched that out, and do you have competent legal authority to say that that can be done'?

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Thank you, Bill. Yes, I did-well, I talked to the Attorney General about this, and he said it could be done. It's going to be-it would be a hard job, though, he said. It's hard. Everybody knows here it's hard. I was advised that before I went down and talked to him. Of course, here-there are lawyers in this place, and they've all said the same thing, except that several of them here didn't want to admit that it could be done. They said it was too difficult, and it would be difficult. However, probably the most difficult thing would be just the case that Mr. President brought up here this morning when we were discussing this-is in the field of the veto, which, if the Executive Article were taken out, it would be—it would leave us without a veto power there for a little while until something-which is difficult procedure. But the mechanics of it can be handled. I was assured of this, and I'm convinced and1 still think it's a very good proposition. Thank you. I didn't mean to talk all day on the answer, Bill.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Yes. I assume everybody is aware of this; but it isn't quite that simple, I don't think, Torrey. Let's put the case this way. Let's say the new Legislative Article passes and the new Executive Article fails. The new Legislative Article, to use your point of the veto, says the Governor shall not have a pocket veto and the old Executive Article says he does. Now, the people have just voted at the same instant for both of these. Now, then, what court could possibly say which one the people meant? And this is just-only-this is just one instance of the interlocking of all of these many sections that we've done. I think when we decided that we would write a new Constitution and not follow the exact outline of the old, we set ourselves to the kind of proposition that we have to make on the ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Johnson.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, if I—I think I can answer that, just to ease the tension just a little bit. George, in the-we have statutes, you know, that we are running on most of the time anyway, and those are in effect and would be in effect until you could determine the proper procedure there of taking care of this. And in any case, where there is no overlapping conflict, what the people voted for in the new proposal-the new proposed Constitution--would take precedence over anything said in the present Constitution. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, now, the issue is on Mr. Johnson's motion that the ballot be drawn in such a manner that all articles would be presented separately for a Yes-No vote and all alternative proposals would be presented separately for a Yes-No vote. I trust we're going to have a roll call vote. All in favor of Mr. Johnson's proposal, vote Aye; all opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, we'll take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 22 delegates voting Aye, 66 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 22 having voted Aye, 66 having voted No, Mr. Johnson's proposal is defeated.

Now, Mr. Felt, does the Chair understand that you have a proposal?

DELEGATE FELT: Yes, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Chair would like to hear it. It's got another one, but I think I would like to hear yours.

DELEGATE FELT: Yes. I might be trying to bite off too much, because if this did carry, I think it would settle the entire ballot question, so I'd like to move that the revised ballot be as follows-I'm following the general form ofrevised ballot number 2 but with some variations from it. I move that the Style and Drafting Committee be authorized to choose the exact wording, but thatit include a provision to vote for the proposed Constitution, period, and a provision to vote against the proposed Constitution, period, and that Style and Drafting be instructed to put the unicameral legislative provision in the body of the Constitution and that it put the bicameral legislative body in as an available alternate. Second, that it provide provisions to vote for authorizing gambling or to prohibit the-to continue the prohibition of gambling. And, third, thatitprovideprovisions to vote for authorizing the death penalty or for abolishing the death penalty.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. The Chair understands that Mr. Felt has a motion, the substance of which is that Style and Drafting should make the ballot as follows: An opportunity to vote for or against the Constitution; included in the Consitution would be unicameral; as an alternative to the Constitution's unicameral article would he bicameral. This is like revised ballot number 2. In other words, the For and Against is the top two lines, with unicameral in, and if you put brackets around that-or strike out the word "bicameral", with an alternative, then, for bicameral. Then, secondly, Mr. Felt-if you'll—following number 2, they put prohibiting gambling in up above--and then you could make your alternative authorizing gambling or against authorizing gambling-is that what you mean'?

DELEGATE FELT: Yes, just so they give you the choice on the gambling issue and give you a choice on the death penalty issue.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "For", as you said-"For''--and I think you have a good point—''For authorizing the death penalty" and "Against authorizing the death penalty". In other words, you want to put the "For" and the "Against" there in such a manner that it comports with the death penalty. Is that right? Give them a choice on that?

DELEGATE FELT: Yes, a choice. And I would be glad to have Style and Drafting propose particular wording.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, this amounts to revised ballot number 2; and the Chair will entertain Mr. Felt's motion, and then there may be amendments made to it.

And for that purpose I'll recognize Mr. Drum.

DELEGATE DRUM: Mr. Chairman, I would move to amend Mr. Felt's motion to read the bicameral portion of the Legislative Article will be included in the body of the Constitution and the unicameral will be the alternate. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, the Chair will allow that. Now, let's get this down again so we all understand it. You may want to make some notes on this. There's an alternative for Yes or No on the Constitution itself, and the Constitution shall contain, in Felt's amendment, the unicameral. That's the subject of Mr. Drum's amendment. Then, number 2-w then there's a sub. to that. There is an alternative on the ballot for bicameral. Okay. Then, number 2, the Constitution will say-in addition to having the Constitution up there say "unicameral", the Constitution will also say "no gambling"; and the alternative to that will be, allow gambling by the people and the Legislature.

DELEGATE FELT: Mr. Chairman, are you explaining my motion?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's what I'm trying to do.

DELEGATE FELT: No, I had intended to put into the body only the unicameral, leaving, the-on the gambling issue and on the death penalty issue, two alternatives to be voted either for or against—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right.

DELEGATE FELT: --and I thought you had just now said that one of them went into the body.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. I understand that on the death penalty they vote for or against. but I have trouble then with your motion, Mr. Felt. I just want it to make sense. If you put an alternative For or Against—and you can do this, but the body's got to be aware of what you're doing-if you put the gambling matter as a pure alternative, For or Against, then we may have a 47 percent "For" and a 48 percent "Against" and we may, in fact, end up with nothing in the Constitution, which really means you're putting a third proposition. Now, if that's what you mean to do, fine; but then it's got to be clear. The other thing, if you're following form 2, as you told us you were, it, as you notice, puts up at the top that you either have to prohibit or authorize gambling; and that goes in, too; and only the words "except as authorized by the Legislature and the people"- then it becomes the alternative. Now, if you do it the other way, you're really back to Mr. Choate's third proposition of having nothing in the Constitution. Which do you want?

DELEGATE FELT: I wish to run the risk in regard to the gambling issue and the death penalty issue that there be nothing in the Constitution. I felt that this was the decision that the body had made by deciding at various times that these would be put on the ballot as alternate issues. Perhaps that decision was made before they realized that it might result in nothing being in the Constitution. In my point of view, it would mean if nothing got into the Constitution on them, that the Legislature then, not being prohibited from dealing with the gambling question and not being prohibited from dealing with the matter of penalties, would have the discretionary power to deal with those problems.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. That's fine. I was misled when you said you were following number 2, which does it the other way, but we'll put it your way just so the public-so that the body knows. Now, the point is-let's all understand Mr. Felt's motion-his motion is that, number 1, we're going to put one of the two legislative forms in the Constitution and the one we're going to put in is unicameral, and in a minute we're going to let Mr. Drum amend that to bicameral. Just wait till I've finished explaining, and I'll come back to you. Then, number 2, he's going to put the gambling (a) (b), and if neither gets a 51 percent, then we have nothing about gambling in the Constitution. Now, the alternative to that-well, maybe I shouldn't explain that, but eventually I'll make a motion if nobody else does. All right. Third, he is going to do the same with the death penalty, which, of course, isn't in in the first place; and then we'd vote for or against putting something about the death penalty in; and if 51 percent went for it, we'd put it in, but if they went against it, we would leave it out, where it is now. All right. Now, to that, Mr. Drum has an amendment to change bicameral and unicameral around. Okay.

Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. President, I move as a substitute motion to all motions pending, if it's proper, that we put the bicameral in the Constitution and leave theunicameralon the side, period, and then treat these others as separate issues so we don't get them all mixed up together. I think-(Inaudible) Well, you left in the rest of your motion, though-of his, as I understood it. You only made an amendment which would leave the other two articles in.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, I understand what you've done, Mr. Davis, and that's a substitute motion and we'll allow it. Now, Mr. Davis eliminates all the other problems of the Felt amendment and says that-he only deals with point 1 of Mr. Felt's, and he would have us vote Yes or No on the Constitution with the bicameral in. Isn't that what you mean?

DELEGATE DAVIS: And unicameral as a side issue.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And unicameral out.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Yes, sir.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So he's not dealing with points 2 and 3, and so we're going to discuss first Mr. Davis' motion and presumably solve one way or the other what point 1 should be about bicameral-unicameral.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. President, my only point in that is if-let's take these issues one by one as we've done throughout this Convention. We're getting at the end and everyone's, naturally, becoming impatient; but there could be some good arguments different people have or concern on the death penalty or concern on gambling as much as others are concerned about the unicameral or bicameral-and maybe more. So I think if we approach it this way, we'll probably make more progress if we talk about one thing at the time and go on down the line.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Mr. Chairman, may I amend Mr. Davis' substitute motion?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Wait a minute, I can't listen. Okay, shoot.

DELEGATE HARPER: I move to amend Mr. Davis' substitute motion by substituting the word "unicameral" for "bicameral" in the body of the Constitution, "bicameral" for "unicameral" as the alternative.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay, I guess we can do that. Now, we've got all the amendments we can handle until something happens. Mr. Harper amends Mr. Davis' to put unicameral in and bicameral out. Unless someone has a real preference for the colors on those buttons, it doesn't make any difference. All right, we are now debating Mr. Harper's motion to have the first part of the ballot say you may vote Yes or No for the Constitution, but the Constitution will contain the unicameral article and the bicameral as an alternative.

Mr. Choate.

DELEGATE CHOATE: Mr. Chairman, I think it's become perfectly clear that if we put either of these-oh, the death penalty or gambling or both-as strictly side issues, as you pointed out, it ought to be very clear that neither could pass because the vote is going to be divided somewhat, probably pretty evenly on these issues. If it were not going to be pretty evenly divided, we would have had a more top-heavy vote—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, Mr. Choate, I think your point is well taken to 2 and 3, but your point is not well taken as to 1 since neither side has proposed leaving them both out.

DELEGATE CHOATE: Right. So, the point being, that I think that on all three of these issues, we need to decide in this Convention by a majority vote on each of these issues; and those three should be put into the body of the Constitution; and the other would be as an alternate and would be bound to fail-so the three that we would select to go in will be weighted top-heavily in favor of them because they would be part of it. As two separate alternates would neither of them get a 51 percent majority, I don't believe, so I think that—and on this instance, if we put, we'll say, the issue of gambling as a side issue to vote on and it fails, then, in effect, we who originally proposed to delete it from the Constitution will have done so, because the new one won't make any reference to it, and if it fails, then you have no provision, see. That's all. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of Delegate Harper's substitute motion, and I'm wondering if the debate that was scheduled to start at 2:00 might start now at 4:30. May I speak to the question of inserting unicameral in the body of the new Constitution?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: If you speak, you may speak on that, because we've got to decide that now, one way or the other.

DELEGATE REICHERT: All right. I'm not going to speak long, and I want to beseech my fellow delegates, whether they are bicameralists or unicameralists, to please follow suit. I hope that no one speaks more than a few minutes on either side. I want to apologize, first of all, because I'm afraid that during the course of the Convention some of my remarks have been misconstrued, and I'm talking about remarks about past legislative sessions. I want to make it very clear that I have not been critical of legislators themselves. I've had a lot of-oh, quite a few people say to me they thought I had been very unfair to our legislators, and I don't think-and I'm sure that I feel inside that these legislators operated as well as they could under the structure they were given. I feel that it is completely the fault of the bicameral system that they had the problems they had over the past seven sessions, and I hope that by trying the unicameral system-I'm very grateful to Delegate Hahedank for inserting that provision-by trying it till 1980, will give our legislators an opportunity to show what they can do for the State of Montana so that we're not always turning to the federal government, so that we can solve our own problems. I think we're perfectly capable of us solving our problems if we have a system which we can work. Now, I know that there are many reasons I could go into-like the one man-one vote being most important-but I'm not going to do that. I am going to ask my fellow delegates who are as concerned about this issue as I am to speak to the subject.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Erdmann.

DELEGATE ERDMANN: Mr. President, I support the motion for unicameral to be in the main body, and I'll he very brief. I think that it's no longer a matter of check and balances, to have two houses, but I do believe that-and I believe this would eliminate the duplication. I think, actually, that we've been spending all our time talking about form and structure and power and rights of government, hut the average taxpayer is more concerned about what hits his-concerns his pocketbook, and I believe people are very cost-conscious, and I believe that the lower cost of the one house will appeal to most of the voters. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Blaylock.

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Mr. President, I would urge you people, on these motions that are now before the house, to defeat all of them. I would like to have a chance before we vote on this to go for that first ballot. In other words, go for broke. And on that first ballot, they are either for the proposed Constitution or they're against it. And then we have a vote straight-out by the people of the State of Montana for a unicameral or a bicameral, and we're not deciding it here, and I'm willing to take a chance. I think this business of running scared and saying, "Oh, the people aren't going to vote on that second issue, they're not that interested"-we'll have the people out, and I believe that we will have a majority vote on that second issue, and I would like to have you defeat all of these motions so we can at least get to this one and then either up or down on it. If you don't agree with me, fine, but we're asking to be-we're asking-being asked to decide two things right now: the form of the ballot and unicameral-bicameral. And I'd like a clear-cut choice on that first ballot; then go to the second one, you go to the third one, whichever one you want to choosethere, and go ahead with the unicameral-bicameral, if that's what you want to do; but let's have a free choice on this first ballot, whether we want to take a chance on the people. We've talked in here a lot about participatory democracy. Now, we're going to take that away from them, so I ask you to defeat all of these motions and let's get back to this first ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Cross.

DELEGATE CROSS: Mr. Chairman, in line with what Chet Blaylock has just said, though I didn't know he was going to say it, I would like to make these remarks. In the North Dakota Constitution which will go before the body, there is this statement--and I'd like to read it to you if I may; it's very short-"The main proposition calls for a vote on the proposed 1972 Constitution. If a majority of the voters vote Yes, it shall be adopted. If a majority of the voters vote No, the proposed 1972 Constitution shall not be adopted. You may vote on any or all of the alternate propositions. If the main proposition fails, the vote on the alternate propositions shall have no effect." And then, following that, are some very brief statements with four alternate proposals, most of them merely to be marked by Yes or No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Romney.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman, Chet Blaylock is correct. This is not a matter of whether or not we are for unicameral or we are for bicameral. The proposition is to be left to the judgment of the people, the voters of the State of Montana, and the first form here, which nobody seems to be talking about, is the one that should be used. I concur with Delegate Blaylock 100 percent and trust that you'll defeat all of these amendments and authorize issuance of the first one.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Jacobsen.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Mr. President, fellow delegates. I signed my name on both of these proposals for bicameral and unicameral. I hope that we can try unicameral until 1980. The delegation we have here of 100 delegates proves to me that a bicameral [unicameral] Legislature will work, because we've had reconsideration on many things, and it's in the reconsideration of things we've passed and done that I, as just a layman—and I know a lot of others of you-that I found out more about what we're talking about. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Mansfield.

DELEGATE MANSFIELD: Mr. President, this is the premise that I've been working on, too. I think that if we vote here for a unicameral or bicameral, we're infringing on our right of a secret ballot, and I think we should be going back to our community and giving them the right to choose a unicameral or bicameral. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Foster.

DELEGATE FOSTER: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates. I speak in favor of the motion before the house, in favor of including the unicameral proposition in the body of the document and the bicameral at the side of the document. I realize that, in doing this, that this body would be, in fact, stating a preference for the unicameral position, but I submit that this is not all that bad a situation. Delegate Driscoll had a motion before the house which would have settled it once and for all, but at least in this way we are giving the people the chance to vote against the unicameral if they are overwhelmingly in favor of retaining the bicameral, but at the same time we are at least expressing our preference as a body to try the unicameral system. We've allowed for the alternative of them voting against it if they find it unsatisfactory. And I, for one, feel that the unicameral house will provide better representation for the minorities--whether they be rural Montanans, whether they be in the cities of Montana, or whoever they may be-and I feel that the issue of representation is extremely important in this field-and I feel that by placing the unicameral in the body of the Constitution and placing the bicameral as an alternative on the side, that we, in fact, give the people of Montana the preference of this body and we also give them the opportunity, if they feel so inclined, to vote against the preference of this body and retain the bicameral if the majority of the people of Montana would want to vote in that manner. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. President, fellow delegates. I had hoped throughout this and supported throughout putting them both on the ballot. I missed the Style and Drafting report that there's some problem presented that the Enabling Act will still carry through after we adjourn, so a majority will not prevail and that's-is that correct-is what the Chair's understanding is—that a majority will-a simple majority will not write the article in the Constitution?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I don't-that isn't my-1 don't understand your question, Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: In other words, the 51 percent you have to get between bicameral or unicameral if they're both alternatives.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The sense of the Enabling Act, and really of the old Constitution, is that 51 percent of the people—or 50 plus one vote-50 percent plus one vote of the people have to support a proposition before it's adopted.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Well, I'm not any authority and haven't studied on that. I have serious reservations about it, however, since it seems to me that when the people vote on this new Constitution, the majority should prevail. But I won't pursue that because of the matter before us. I had hoped that these both be on the ballot and the person could go ahead and vote and let the people vote how they want. As it now comes that everybody is going to put themselves in this situation, I am going to support the bicameral proposition and go down in flames with them, not because of the finance part. I realize that's going to be more than unicameral. I think in the bicameral-or the bicameral is going to cost more money, which suddenly has become an issue here; after all the many things we've done from education, welfare and on, we're going to be concerned about money at this era. That's not surprising to me. When we went through, I thought I'd observe how a unicameral system works. We are now at the last day. I think we've all had a chance to observe how it works. We talked about revenue and finance-a lot of people were concerned. On the Highway Department—the Highway Department's run by a board, appointed by the Governor, of citizens-very responsible people doing the best job they can, I'm sure. At that time, the big argument was made, "we're going to make them responsive to the people, so we're going to take a three-fifths amend. ment, and that will make them responsive". All right, I voted to let them run the Highway Department. I didn't care any more about the League of Women Voters designing our highways than I did the Farm Bureau running the education system, but when we got to the education system, what we said about being responsive to the people didn't apply. I voted to give the Board of Regents power to run the school systems, too, because I think that's what you have to do; but the people that voted against the highway running their department voted against the Board of Regents running theirs completely; and that's happened in our unicameral system. It's going to go out that way. It's going to be a very bad, grave error we made on this thing. I've sat here and watched votes switch from 77 to 16 on Saturday to 76 to 17 on the following Monday and seen things we put in on Saturday completely changed the following Monday. They say that's the right to reconsider, butifyou're that unsure of yourself, with the lot of work we have to do and the Legislature will have to do, and that-1 think the system of checks and balance that worked throughout our history has worked very well, and I think it has-there's plenty of work for both the Senate and the House to do. With all the work that this Constitutional Convention is going to do, they're going to need all that and a lot of additional help at that. So, I'm going to support putting the bicameral in-that's the system that would normally be expected to be in-and let them vote on the alternate on the side.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Rollins.

DELEGATE ROLLINS: Mr. Chairman, I spoke out strongly against putting alternatives on the ballot and hoped that we could make up our mind here. I supported Mr. Driscoll's amendment to that effect. Since that didn't carry and we are going to have alternatives, then I favor as wide-open an alternative as possible. Therefore, I oppose the motion of Mr. Felt, or whose ever it is now that it's been amended, and I agree with Mr. Blaylock that the people should have a wide-open choice on this. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman. Miles Romney notwithstanding, Mr. Rollins notwithstanding, I am against Chet Blaylock's motion, and I am for the Constitution, and I am very apprehensive of what we are about to do here today because the figures just don't justify the approach we're about to take. Those figures on that board indicate very clearly to me that we may very well adopt a new Constitution and have an 1899 Legislature. It's almost inevitable, because those who vote against the Constitution are not going to take the trouble to vote for either unicameral or bicameral; and the result will be that the vote on bicameral or unicameral will not be sufficient, it will not be a majority, it will not carry, and we will necessarily on our legislative feature revert back to 1899 and lose all of the benefits that this new Legislative Article provides. This is, after all, the real issue that we are discussing here. This is an immensely important vote you're about to undertake.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, the Chair is disturbed; and no one getting up instantly, the Chair is going to enter the debate for a moment, if I may; and I'll sit up here if you'll let me. The Chair is disturbed. I think it's good that we have debated this this afternoon, because I think that the whole body is beginning to see the problems that have caused our excellent Style and Drafting Committee to literally come up with no proposal. It is not an easy problem. However, it need not necessarily be an impossible problem, either. Now, let's get back to the basics here. The Constitution says that the-"and unless so submitted and approved by a majority"--"a majority" is the word you want-"of the electors at the election, no such revision, alteration or amendment shall take effect." So, we know that a majority has to prevail before any revision, alteration or amendment takes effect. Then the Enabling Act came along, and it says: "The Convention may submit the proposals"-in the plural—"to the electorate in any of three forms. As a unit"---now, we've rejected that by rejecting the amendment to take these alternatives out. Number 3, in the form of a series of separate amendments-we've rejected that-that's Mr. Johnson's proposal. And "(b) submitted as a unit with the exception of separate proposals to bevoteduponindividually." Then it says down here: "If a majority"-that's what it is, it isn't 51 percent. We talk about that sometimes, but it's a majority--"of the electors voting at the special election". Now, Mr. Murray has already checked with the Secretary of State's office, and so that everybody understands, the Secretary of State says he is going to count the people that vote for and the people who vote against the Constitution, and whatever that number is, that's the ones he's going to count as voting. Isn't that correct, Mr. Murray? He's not going to count the pollbook, he's not going to count this and that and that and add them, because a lot of times the votes don't all add up. He's going to count the plus and the minus, or the For and Against on the Constitution, and that's the number voting, just like you do when you-the other day when we said the number for a referendum is the total for the office of Governor. Okay, now, "if a majority of the electors voting at the special election vote for the proposals of the Convention, then the Governor shall by proclamation declare the proposals to have been adopted." Now, that has caused the Style and Drafting Committee to come to the conclusion that we have to have not 51 percent, but a majority on each proposal. Now, for awhile there was a possibility and a suggestion, if you'll follow through the way this developed, that we could say that a vote for the Constitution implied a vote for one of the two alternatives on bicameral-unicameral and that a plurality on that issue could decide. Now, we could do that and we could say that that's what we mean and that the only vote that counted was on the 51 percent-or on the majority part-was the top one, but the lawyers on Style and Drafting are afraid this is risky. It does place in the hands of the Supreme Court the issue of whether or not plurality on unicameral-bicameral means anything. Now, ballot proposal that you've got before you, called "official", takes Mr. Blaylock's position and it says, "Let's vote For or Against the Constitution. Now, we either get 51 percent or not. If we don't, why, it doesn't matter; but if we do, then we'll vote for or against the unicameral-bicameral, for or against the other two propositions", and as Chet says, "we'll take our chances on getting 51 percent". And we could do that. And if you have an open ballot like that, it is certainly conceivable that with any little margin up above, you'd have some margin on one of those other two articles, so we could--and it really wouldn't matter too much on the bottom two, but it does matter on the Legislative. So we could run that risk. It's to avoid that risk that the Style and Drafting proposes ballot number 2-not the second one, the third one—ballot number 2—and to avoid that risk, they have decided-or they suggested on this ballot, and that's the motion that Felt has before us now, we'll put one of those right in the Constitution and when you vote Yes on the Constitution, you've automatically voted for one of those. That avoids the risk of losing a Legislative Article and of losing the other two little items on the ballot. It does, however, provide the guy that's left out with a slight disadvantage. None of us, obviously, know how great the disadvantage is, but it does provide us with a disadvantage. So you've got to go on the proposition that Mr. Blaylock says--we'll just take the risk-or you got to go on the proposition that one of us is going to get a slight advantage—one of the two sides. Or, if you'll look at number l--revised ballot number l-here is another strange idea that sort of combines the two, and in this one-it's kind of hard to read because of all the alternatives there, but what it really is saying is that we'll put one in, all right; we'll put-let's say, bicameral in, so we can't lose; but instead of putting unicameral out, we'll put unicameral-bicameral out so that when the people make the choice on vote number 2, they're still making a choice between unicameral-bicameral. If bicameral wins, it substitutes for bicameral and, obviously nothing happens. If unicameral wins, it substitutes for bicameral-if it wins by 51 percent-it substitutes for bicameral and, obviously, something happens. The point being that on this one, when the people see ballot number 2-or choice number 2, they are still choosing between one-house and two-house instead of choosing one-house or nothing or two-house or nothing. Now, that's the three propositions you'vegot before you. And you can go with Mr. Felt's, which is perfectly-it's a safe one. It's got one of them in, and we-if we ever get 51 percent we can't lose. The only disadvantage to it is that one of us, one side, is going to take a licking. Or we can go with Mr. Blaylock's and say, "devil take the hindmost; we're going to go for broke, and we'll take our chances," in which case it's possible that you could piece together something of the old Constitution to take the place of that particular part if it lost. Or you can reserve your votes and go for a number 3—which puts either unicameral or bicameral in, and then it becomes less important-it's still important, but it becomes less important-and give them a clear unicameral-bicameral choice outside. Now, those are your three alternatives. You've got to either support Felt, or you've got to wait and support Blaylock, or somebody's got to make a motion to do the one in the middle.

Mr. Romney.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman, I cannot see the logic in this proposition at all.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: In any of them?

DELEGATE ROMNEY: No, this one—number 2.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Felt's.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: And the same goes for number 1. I can see the logic in the Blaylock proposition, although I admit there's some risk there, but is there not equally the risk in number 2, where you tie either the unicameral or the bicameral, I don't care which, into the Constitution itself-into the main body of the document? When you do that-let us say you put the bicameral in or the unicameral in with the main body of the Constitution, the electorate goes to the polls, they vote. The people who see the unicameral in there, who are against it, they vote against the unicameral and, in the same sweep of the hand, they vote against the Constitution in toto. The same thing would happen if it were the bicameral that were in there. They go to the polls; they're against the bicameral; they vote against the bicameral; and when they do, they're voting against the Constitution.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, that only would apply, Mr. Romney, if, in fact, you wrote it up in such a way that it was crystal clear that they did that. But if you simply wrote the Constitution and put into the-and it's available for their surveillance at the-they can look at it at the polls—but the North Dakota ballot, for example-it's really not possible to tell whether the one-house and two-house legislative alternative is in or out of the Constitution.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman, it's in the same bracket; and when they vote against the Constitution-or bicameral or unicameral, I don't care which it is, they're voting against the Constitution; and when you get the people who are against--say it's the bicameral—you get the people who are against the bicameral voting against the Constitution, plus the people who are against the death penalty or one of the other things or against the 6—Section 6 in the finance section and against this and that and some other section, you're going to build up a majority that will be insurmountable.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. President, I would like to ask you a question. I would like to vote on revised ballot number 1. Is the only way to get to that to defeat all the other ballots and then make a motion, or can we make another substitute motion for all motions pending? Because if we would accept revised ballot number 1, we would have all these things answered.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, the way to get at revised ballot number 1 is to wait till we've defeated at least something or until we've adopted something and then make a proposal to substitute for what we adopted.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Eck.

DELEGATE ECK: It was my understanding someplace along the line, and I'd like to be corrected if I'm wrong, that on revised ballot number 2, the For or Against would just be for the proposed Constitution and against the proposed Constitution. I think that if anything more is added to it, why, the people are starting to make a choice long before they want to make choices down below; and I think maybe the way this is worded up here is confusing people. Would Mr. Schiltz yield to a question here?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I yield.

DELEGATE ECK: Mr. Schiltz, would you intend to put more than "For the proposed Constitution" and "Against the proposed Constitution"?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: As I explained earlier, Mrs. Eck-quite a lot earlier, and I don't blame you for having forgotten-this is only a guide so we can debate this matter. We would still, after we got that answer--would still adopt a ballot and possibly change it. We haven't even acted on that yet.

DELEGATE ECK: Mr. Chairman, I really think that this is where a lot of the misunderstanding is, here. If we do vote on this For and Against, up at the top, and then started adding things, I can't see that there's going to be that much confusion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Mr. Chairman, am I right in that Mr. Felt's amendment, which was the original motion before us, was on revised ballot number 2 and he proposed some amendments to that?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: His-it's the first half of revised ballot number 2, but he did not follow through on 3-A and 4-A.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Yes, but he did make some-just speaking to the legislative part of it, he-his motion spoke at least to the Legislative Article as we are discussing it, is that right?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Felt's is revised ballot number 2, as far as the Legislative Article and the Constitution is concerned, yes.

DELEGATE MURRAY: And he was unicameral in the body of the Constitution and bicameral out?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes.

DELEGATE MURRAY: And Drum then proposed an amendment, bicameral in and unicameral out?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE MURRAY: And then we finally ended up with Harper.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Davis proposed-

DELEGATE MURRAY: Is Davis ahead of Harper then? Right. Davis limited the motion just to the Legislature.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Davis' and Harper's motions do not include the 3 and the 4.

DELEGATE MURRAY: That's right. So now the issue is on Harper's motion that we have the unicameral in the Constitution and the bicameral out, is that right?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's the idea.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Under—generally under revised ballot number 2?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes. Now, when we've decided that, if we decide it-you know, that doesn't-once we've got it in there, we still have to decide what to do with some of these other things.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Right. Well, I realize we have those other issues. Well, then, at this time, since we're all discussing revised ballot number 2, which in principle is where I think we should be, and since I'm a unicameral&, I would support Harper's motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You got it figured out, Mr. Murray.

Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman, I know there is no longer allowed any more amendments, but I was wondering-and I'd like to ask a question of Mr. Schiltz, with your permission-of Delegate Schiltz.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I yield.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Schiltz, did you consider at any time including the-everything but the structure of the bicameral and the unicameral-within the Constitution package itself and leaving just the structure for the people to vote on? Could this be possible?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: You're talking about the ballot or the Constitution?

DELEGATE BATES: I'm talking about the ballot just having the structure of the unicameral and the bicameral as an alternate vote; whereas, 'the body of the Constitution would include all the reforms we have acted on here.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, would Mrs. Bates yield to a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bates, would you yield?

DELEGATE BATES: Yes.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: What do you mean by "the structure"?

DELEGATE BATES: I mean those first three sections of the Legislative Article.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: What she means, Mr. Schiltz, is have you considered putting all of the things that both these people agree on in the Constitution and only having the one-house and the two-house and the numbers of the legislators out?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes, I think we considered that and rejected it.

DELEGATE BATES: Could I speak, then, on the motion before the floor? Delegates, I feel we should realize that it's a fact of life that no future legislature will cost less than they have in the past, regardless of what type, whether it's a "bi" or "uni". It has also been stated that the people want to express themselves, and I feel if we leave the unicameral in the Constitution itself, it will jeopardize the entire Constitution. And in regards to Mr. Harper saying at one time that whether we want a one-hump or a two-hump camel, well, I would feel much safer between two humps than try to straddle one and sliding off one side or the other. (Laughter) Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Mr. Chairman, I think-I feel that Grace was onto a point, and I'm still uneasy about it-not the one hump or the two, because the thing that makes me for unicameral is that the two humps in the last 7 years have been going in opposite directions, and that makes a pretty untenable camel. The idea, though, that she had that she expressed in her question to Mr. Schiltz is exactly the idea under which the Legislative Committee labored in producing a document. We attempted to write a body of a Constitution, a Legislative Article, so that the only question would be in terms of the structure; and then whichever one passed, or actually if neither one passed-if we didn't get a 51 percent--we were aware of this-then it naturally would be bicameral. It would be the old bicameral, but we'd have all the rest of the new article in there; and we thought that could be a compatible kind of a situation. And I understand that the Style and Drafting Committee rejected this idea-because we drew this up in a lot of detail last night and gave it to them-but I'm not sure exactly why. Now, that's one thing. Second, I would be-1 think that some way we are in a bind here now, and I helped get us in a bind by getting that fourth amendment on there. Really, if we could deal with Mr. Blaylock's suggestion, votenumber 1 up or down—if we go for that, we haven't got the other. If we don't go for his suggestion, then we'll know we want 1 in, and then we can come right back to this. And if I knew we could do that, I think I would withdraw my amendment-if he could immediately put number 1 up—and then we'd settle once and for all whether we want to go for broke that way or whether we want to go the safe way with ballot number 2; and then we can come right back to either way we approach it, bicameral or unicameral-it just depends on the button you push. Is that--would that help if I withdrew that?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Mr. Harper, first of all, may I point out to you that under the Felt proposal, where one of the articles goes in, or under the proposal that Mr. Habedank just mentioned and I mentioned, the number-the revised 1, you're going to have all those articles in the Constitution anyway. So it's only under the Blaylock amendment that Mrs. Bates' point and your point makes any difference. Now, if we get to the Blaylock proposal, we might very well want to tell the Style and Drafting to tighten it up as far as possible and get as much into the tent before we decide as possible. But, under the other two, it really doesn't make a whoop of difference whether you shorten it up or not. Do you follow me?

DELEGATE HARPER: Yes, I do follow you. That's the reason I went a roundabout way to get at my question of whether Mr. Blaylock's proposal-and I assume he would make it for us to vote on number l-would be possible if I would withdraw my amendment at this juncture.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, there's one other point, and we could go to Mr. Blaylock's first and decide whether we wanted to go for broke and do as he says. But there's one other real problem that this body is at right now, and we're going to decide it on yours and Davis' amendment, and that is, this body still wants to know-and they're going to force us to decide sooner or later--which one's got the most votes—

DELEGATE HARPER: I don't object to that—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -and until we decide that, it doesn't really make any difference.

DELEGATE HARPER: -but if-but we've got-if we could have that, that's all right. But, see, we're tying in a ballot form along with that at the same time.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, my point is, it doesn't-we don't have to know which one's got the most votes to decide Blaylock's issue.

DELEGATE HARPER: That's my point exactly: and if we decide for his, then we can decide-we can take a straw vote or any other way you want—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: But this—

DELEGATE HARPER: -to do—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: —body—

DELEGATE HARPER: -it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I just want to remind you that for a long time the Chair has resisted making this decision, and I can see written on their faces that they're going to decide this issue--which got the most votes-and if we do that, they're going to defeat Blaylock to find out and then they'll go back and think about Blaylock again. So we might as well find out which one goes in; and then, if Mr. Blaylock can convince us that neither ought to be in, probably we'll take one of them out.

Mr. Dahood.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: Well, Mr. Chairman, first of all, I think we've got to reason together very precisely. We have a basic general premise that we're avoiding at times in our discussion-and I think my dear friend, Chet Blaylock, avoids that premise-and that is simply this: a certain number of the voters are going to vote on whether they want a new Constitution or not. That number becomes binding upon us with respect to the other propositions. If they vote in favor of a new Constitution, that means the old one is gone when the transitional period is over. Then we come down to the question of going for broke, as Mr. Blaylock describes it; and let's assume that we don't have 50 percent plus one vote for either one, which may very well happen, because some people may vote for the top proposition and neglect the rest of the ballot. Then what do we have? Recognizing the major premise that we cannot get away from, that we will have to have 50 plus one votes of those that voted for the primary proposition with respect to the Constitution. We adopt the new Constitution, we don't have the requisite majority for the subsequent or secondary issue, the old Constitution is out. What legislative body do you have then? You don'thave the old one. You don't have anything, and so, as a consequence, we're compelled to take the risk here.

We have to make a choice with respect to bicameral or unicameral. The people sent us here for progressive reform. If they don't like it, they're going to have an alternative proposition to take the bicameral back or the unicameral back, whichever party prevails here; and we have no other solution as I view it. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Ask.

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Chairman, I've changed my mind three or four times this afternoon, but I think-let me suggest one other way out here. Maybe it's a-1 agree with Chet Blaylock and I agree with Mr. Romney that we're putting something in the Constitution, they're going to vote against it even though they are for it for other particulars. Why not on the ballot for the Constitution put-outline it in black-and put four items. Put "For the proposed Constitution, including unicameral"; the next one, "Against the new Constitution, including unicameral". Go on down-and "For the proposed Constitution with a bicameral"; and then, "Against the proposed Constitution with a bicameral". And then you put up in letters, "vote for one". So no matter how they vote, they don't have to make a choice. They're still going to take the new Constitution with whatever house they want; and you're going to give them four things, but they only vote for one. I think this solves the problem. This is where we're getting at, I feel. So, I would think we would turn down these motions and get back to Chet Blaylock's For and Against, but put four propositions rather than two.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Mr. Chairman, will Mr. Schiltz yield to a question, please?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I yield, but I might turn it over to Mr. Garlington or somebody.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Well, as you know, we've been talking about this for months, and my primary concern is giving the people an opportunity to choose, and I would go along with Mr. Blaylock's proposal completely if we had some assurance that we could include these points that we worked so hard to conform unicameral-bicameral, but I understand that. Now, my question to you is, Mr. Ask's point has really captured my imagination. Would it be possible for us to do this?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I think it's possible for you to do anything. I haven't really thought of it all that long, I would suspect, without asking the committee, that we would be opposed to a great many propositions on the ground that the more propositions you have, the more likely one or more of them is to fail, and-but I'd have to take it up with the committee. I can't decide that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz and Mrs. Reichert, Mr. Ask's proposal is indeed intriguing, but I've just worked it out and if a hundred thousand voters voted and twenty-five voted for each of those four propositions, nothing would happen.

Mr. Ask.

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Chairman, I see that point, but I think you're--we're going to-1 think we can do that. We can bracket the first two and bracket-have those two count, I think the— rather than take all four-the For and Against for unicameral and the For and Against as one unit— unitize it, and then you don't run into that problem.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think that's just what we're doing, only we're doing it in a slightly different form. But you can't do it just— the way you had it is beautiful if you didn't have the rule about the majority.

Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman, I am going, if we get an opportunity in the fall, to vote for unicameralism; but I think what we ought to do is, I think we ought to put bicameralism in the body of the Constitution and then on the side put "bi" and "uni" both, so that the people can vote one or the other-they'll-neither will have any particular preference-they'd both be there. You'd check "bi" or you'd check "uni"; and that way, we would solve the problem. We would give the-we would draw the issue clearly between "bi" and "uni" out on the side. They could either vote "bi" or "uni"-and presume, hopefully, there'd be a majority vote for one or the other; but if there weren't, we'd still have "bi" in the Constitution. And it seems to me that that would be the better way to go for this reason: that the traditional thing is to have the bicameralism, and there are a lot of people who are just violently opposed to unicameralism and they would, if the unicameral was in the body of the Constitution, they may be tempted to double-shoot the turn, as my good friend, Dave Holland, says, and simply not take the chance of having a unicameral body by-and therefore vote against the Constitution. And I don't think there are that many unicameralists that are that narrow, if I may say-(Laughter) And so, I think if we put the bicameral in the body of the Constitution and put "bi" and "uni" both where you take your pick out on the side and let that issue be fairly debated in the public forum as to which one would win, I think there will be a majority of the people will vote on that issue and one or the other will win and the people of Montana can live with it either way. But I am afraid that if we put unicameralism in the body of the Constitution, even though I think it's worth the try to go for unicameralism, that we would be jeopardizing the entire document because of, as I say, the tremendous opposition to unicameralism-they would be tempted to vote against the Constitution-so I would propose that that might be a solution to the problem and that would be fair all the way around and would guarantee us that we would at least have a bicameral modern Legislature and would still give the unicameralists and the bicameral&s the chance to fight the battle out in the public forum as to which one of them won, if both of them were listed side by side on the alternate.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. President, I am very much in favor of unicameralism with the amendment which gives the people the opportunity to try it and see if they like it; but to me, if Style and Drafting would spend the time that they've spent on all our other measures, making them make sense, on revised ballot number 1, if we could ever get to it, we could have all this. And I would sure like some suggestions as to how we can get to revised ballot number 1 without voting against unicameralism.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Mr. Habedank, what Mr. Joyce described is revised ballot number 1, except he'd put "bi" in and you'd put "uni" in-or maybe you wouldn't. But what he just described is revised number 1, and you're right, but whether we put "uni" in or "bi" in, we still haven't decided. It would seem to me that if we either adopted or defeated the Harper amendment, we could then take another amendment and try out Mr. Joyce's proposition or Mr. Blaylock's proposition. Let's see, I'd like to let a few newcomers in.

Mr. Etchart.

DELEGATE ETCHART: Mr. Chairman, I would like to support Mr. Joyce's idea, because I believe that it is obvious that the bicameralists will vote for the document with the bicameral article in the body, and our present Constitution has this provision; so the only way the rest of the new Constitution will have a fair chance is to put the new Constitution before the voters as it is in the present, and that's with the bicameral provision in it. So, I support Mr. Joyce's idea.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Swanberg.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Mr. President, I think if we took a poll here at this time, I think probably 100 of us would agree that the single most important thing that we came over here for was to change the Legislature. I don't think there's any question about that; and I think if you went out in the street and started talking to people, everyone would say, "Yes, we need change in the Legislative area." That being the case, it seems to me we have to give the voter every opportunity he can have to vote on this Legislative problem; and I would propose, therefore, that if we submit to them a new Constitution with either a bicameral or a unicameral article in it, that we at the same time and as a separate proposal that can stand or fall on its merits without reference to the rest of the Constitution, give them the right to vote on the other alternatives. In other words, if we put in the Constitution a unicameral article, then as a separate proposition, free and independent of anything else, "Do you favor the legislative bicameral article?" And if that's passed and the rest of it fails, then we have, in effect, passed an old Constitution with a new Legislative Article. I think it's vital to be given this opportunity, regardless of the rest of it. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Burkhardt.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: Mr. Chairman, after several hours with the Style and Drafting discussion of this, I was, for 3 of those 6 or so hours, where Chet Blaylock seems to be now-that is, feeling that we could somehow do this as gamblers and get our-simply assume that we're going to turn up with a majority; but the lawyers on the group convinced me, after at least 3 hours, that we simply had to make a choice and include something in the body. As I've listened to Mr. Swanberg, I think he's in error. We would have nothing. We would not have a new article. We would have no Constitution if we took the route that he's just suggested, but what concerns me is the way in which it's been presented here this afternoon. I think George Harper was on target a moment ago. We get ready to vote on his particular amendment and we're not on a clear issue, because we're worrying, "Well, now, maybe Chet was right; maybe we don't have to vote on this the way we feel. We'll wait and get a chance to do it like the first proposal here", and it's very unclear. I would just say that if you're concerned to get something in the body and if you're a unicameralist and want that in there, you'd better vote Harper's amendment the first time around and see what happens.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harlow.

DELEGATE HARLOW: With the-Mr. Chairman, with the accumulation of the great minds here in this row and all of the various suggestions that have been put forth, we have come up with this suggestion, which I think may be quite palatable to everyone. Instead of having the four proposals, as Mr. Joyce mentioned-oh, Mr. Ask, excuse me-there's too many things around here; I can't keep track--why don't we put on the ballot these three votes-in other words, one square-voting for new Constitution with unicameral, for a new Constitution with bicameral, or against the new Constitution. There you have a person being allowed to choose between bicameral or unicameral and have the Constitution with it in to his liking; or if he doesn't like any of the Constitution, he can vote against it. Sort of gives you a double affirmative vote without the negative situation and gives you just the one single negative vote.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harlow, may the Chair ask a question?

DELEGATE HARLOW: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: What happens if a hundred thousand vote and thirty-three thousand vote for each of your propositions?

DELEGATE HARLOW: We're right back where we started from. We're in trouble. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Babcock.

DELEGATE BABCOCK: Mr. Chairman, what if we broke all our rules and took a secret ballot and gave them all to the Rules Committee or the Style and Drafting tonight and came back in the morning?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I think we're-we can vote on some of these, and we'll get somewhere here in a minute. But Mr. Skari hasn't spoken yet; then I'll come to you, Mr. Felt.

DELEGATE SKARI: Mr. President, as I understand it, then, our problem is really with the language in the Enabling Act-that somehow it wasn't written quite the way it should have been, evidently. Now, I'm not a lawyer, and I'm bothered by the intent of this. I'm sure that they—the people who wrote the act--would have intended that we be allowed to vote on these alternate proposals and that a simple plurality would carry. It seems, right now, under Mr. Blaylock's version here, we can take a chance here. One or other of the alternative proposals here, bicameral or unicameral, may carry by a majority of those who vote on the main body of the Constitution; or, two, the court could rule, possibly, that a simple plurality on the alternatives is all that's necessary. It seems to me that this was the intent of the act. We use our comments here. We say that they will use our comments someday to clarify what we do. I'd like just to pose a question to some of the lawyers that--are there any comments that we can go by?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Mr. Skari, the problem started in 1889 when the amendatory process, which included a provision for a Constitutional Convention, which we are using today, said-"and unless submitted and so approved by a majority of the electors voting at the election, no such revision, alteration or amendment shall take effect". That's why the Enabling Act says-that you've got to have a majority on every proposition, because the founding fathers said that.

DELEGATE SKARI: I see—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And they said it because they felt strongly that a majority should support anything that we do. It's not a mistake. It's just what they said.

DELEGATE SKARI: I see. Well, thank you, Mr. President.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, Mr. Felt, do you want to close?

DELEGATE FELT: Well, my motion—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You can't close. Mr. Harper can, but we'll let you have a shot at it, because you started it.

DELEGATE FELT: Yes. I didn't even speak on my own motion but-or any of the amendments or substitutes. Members of the committee, of course the reason that we are here is because the Constitution of 1889 did not seem to us to be satisfactory, nor did it seem satisfactory to the people of Montana. And we're just seeing another example of that today. Our hands are somewhat tied. I have great sympathy for the position of Delegate Blaylock and particularly Delegate Romney, who said there's no logic to this. And Mr. Skari, pointed it out very well. It isn't a question, though, that we can avoid, because it's with us. The present Constitution simply doesn't give us the opportunity to frame these things the way we might prefer, unless we are, at the same time, willing to take risks that the whole thing can fail; and to many of us, at least, this is an unacceptable risk. I can certainly say I agree with that line of thought, because I am following it, certainly, in regard to the gambling issue and the death penalty issue-to put them both out there on the side, just give people a free choice. And I would have wished that this could have been done with the bicameral-unicameral issue, but I would feel so utterly stupid if we went through this whole process and, because of the risk pointed out by Delegate Berg and others-we get a favorable vote on the Constitution and end up without a legislative body-that I can't possibly stomach thatthought. And so, we've come up in this very convoluted process here of motions, amendments, substitute motions and choices, and we wish we had room for one more, and that would suit me. Frankly, I'm willing to support any of these things-the four that are before us and the one that will come before us-if we get an opportunity-because anything is preferable to this horrible catastrophe that could strike us and that the odds would tend, I think, to indicate that it will strike us if we take that chance. I regret very much that this is the situation, but it's just one of the reasons-one of the defects of our present Constitution, one of the reasons why we are here; and I hope in the one we are producing we are not passing on to some subsequent body the same kind of things. But those people who drew this, they didn't foresee this problem. They didn't have any clear intention about this matter, because they didn't think about it. I'm quite certain of that. I can't prove it, of course; but I agree there's no logic to it, but yet here it is. We have to live with what we've got. We have to make this difficult decision and hope that we're doing it right. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert, do you want to say a few words before we close?

DELEGATE REICHERT: Yes, Mr. Chairman, because I'm afraid that this vote is going to be terribly misconstrued. I know that, as Delegate Joyce said, he's for unicameralism but he's against Delegate Harper's proposal, which seemingly advocates unicameralism because it proposes putting unicameralism in the body, but he feels bicameralism should be in the body. I just hate to see this thing resolved this way, because we're not getting the vote we want. We thought that we should let the people know how the delegates felt about unicameralism. I wish there were some other way to handle this particular issue. Now, we talked just briefly about this other possibility, which I know I've discussed with you and others. We have in our Legislative Committee attempted in every session to make it uniform between unicameral and bicameral, and I just wish the Style and Drafting Committee could do something about incorporating these ideas for reform into the body of the new Constitution and simply asking the question, "Do you want a unicameral or a bicameral'?" We'd have all the reforms regarding bills, organization and procedures. I know it's been explained to me that this can't be done, but some of these other things, as Delegate Felt brought out, are impossible to live with, too. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert, the Chair is concerned that you have this-still are concerned about this. If we adopt Mr. Felt's final motion to put unicameral in the Constitution, we will have all that language in the Constitution. If we adopt Mr. Joyce's proposal to put bicameral in the Constitution, we will have all that language in the Constitution. The only time we need to tighten up and get most of it in and only leave a little of it out is in the event Mr. Blaylock has the final red light. And at that point, ofcourse, we should consider whether or not to do that; but there's no use panicking on getting it all in until we decide which way we're going.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Well, that is the key question, because that is the only way the people will be given a choice, a real choice, without insisting on putting one or the other. That is the choice that I thought we would give them.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: We're about to start on the second go-around, Mr. Wilson. Do you want to speak again?

DELEGATE WILSON: I rise for a point of information, Mr. President.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Good. What is it?

DELEGATE WILSON: I simply cannot understand that, if we don't vote in the proposed Constitution, that we lose the old one. Would somebody clarify that for me? I would think that we lived with the old Constitution for some years, and probably pretty good; and if we don't have this new document, don't we have the old one?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: There's no question that if we don't adopt the new one, we have the old one. The problem and the proposition from which your question springs, I think, is one where it was suggested that we might go, let's say, Mr. Blaylock's proposal, and we vote for or against the Constitution without clearly defining the Legislative Article, and that passes, so we have a new Constitution, but then both (a) and (b) fail-both unicameral and bicameral fail--and at that point, we'd have a new Constitution with no old Constitution, unless you wanted to go back in and start-the court would have to start picking up the pieces and deciding which part of the old one wasn't repealed. That's the only trouble, Mr. Wilson. And I don't know whether we'd have it or whether we wouldn't, and I don't think anyone here knows until the Supreme Court would decide whether we had some legislative left or not.

Mr. Romney.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman, I think that the proposition enunciated by Delegate Ask has-is fertile with possibilities; and I feel the same way as Delegate Felt, that it would be a horrible situation if we should wake up without it-a Legislature; but I think that that Ask proposition can be handled and I think it should be explored before we dive off the bridge.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, may— will you yield for a question? Will you yield for a question, Mr. Romney?

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Yes, sir.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Mr. Ask proposed four alternatives, and he said, "vote for one".

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman, later he amended that statement, after his colloquy with you, and said that you'd bracket the "For" and-he'll speak to you again.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Bracket the "For" and the "Against" on the bicameral, yes.

DELEGATE ASK: I have drawn a picture.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, all right, now. I'm not against doing it, except I really think that's what the other three propositions do. And you can certainly make yours as soon as one is defeated, if you can beat the other guys to the draw, and we can consider it; but we've got three other people that have got propositions ready to go here, too, so—

Mr. Blaylock.

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Well, Mr. President, I'd like to make a suggestion. Now, a few minutes ago, Delegate Harper said he was willing to withdraw his, and I think Mr. Davis was up, willing to withdraw his. If these people would withdraw--agree to-and we get back to number 1 and that either goes up or down, because I'm with Mrs. Reichert-that, really, we're not getting a clear vote on unicameral-bicameral; there's other things mixed up in this vote right now. So, if these people would agree to withdraw and come back to number 1 and either put it up or down-that's up to you guys-you people, sorry-1 think that this would be the fastest way to solve this; and then we could move on and have a clear-cut vote on bicameral and unicameral, whether we want to put it in, whatever may be the case. So I'd like to suggest that, Mr. President.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Drum.

DELEGATE DRUM: Mr. Chairman, would you read that motion that I sent up about an hour-hour and a half ago and that looked like it would give a clear-cut decision. And it appears to me that if we were to take a vote of this body, we would then eliminate the question in people's mind as to what or where their position is going to be. If it is—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, I'll read it—

DELEGATE DRUM: -decided one way or another, then it looks like we could move forward.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I don't think you need to have-you're all too worried. The system is going to tell us what happens here as soon as we start voting, but I'll read it. "The bicameral portion of the Legislative Article be included in the body of the Constitution, with the unicameral portion as an alternative when presented to the electorate." Now, that is nothing but Mr.-that's nothing but your amendment to Mr. Felt's first proposition.

DELEGATE DRUM: Mr. Chairman, my amendment to Mr. Felt's proposition still doesn't clarify the issue that he brought two other issues into the thing—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE DRUM: -and what I'm saying and what Mrs. Reichert is saying—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE DRUM: -if we can get a clear-cut vote on this thing, it's going to get us all home a lot earlier and it will—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, the Chair is—

DELEGATE DRUM: --allow us all to make a better decision—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -the Chair is—

DELEGATE DRUM: -on how it's going to go on the ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Chair is perfectly willing to do whatever they want to do. I've got a Felt motion, I've got your amendment, I've got Davis' substitute motion and Harper's amendment, and we can go right up the line and find out where they stand; or they can all withdraw if they want to, but I can't make them.

Mr. Simon.

DELEGATE SIMON: I'm not sure that I understand all this, but I'm wondering if we are going to get off dead center at all until this body takes the stand that they must vote where they stand first, on bicameral and unicameral, and it seems to me that the simple thing that we should do first is to just take a vote of this body which we put into the-just as simple as that-put it in-the bicameral win, they go in the body; if the unicameral win, they go in the body. Then we don't lose anything.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's Mr. Drum's proposal, Mr. Simon.

DELEGATE SIMON: But we're in a position, right now, that I read about today. There was three fellows. Each went into a liquor store, and each one of them bought a quart of whiskey. They went out under a tree-it was Tom, Dick and Harry-they drank each one of them a quart of whiskey. And then one of them left. The other two sat there, and in a little while, one of them said, "Now, one of us have got up and walked away, but we've got to find out which one." And that's about the position we're in.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Simon, you're absolutely right. That's Mr. Drum's point; but the Chair's point is that we have four motions, and if they want to withdraw them, they can. But we've debated them for an hour, and maybe we can get at them that way. Another way is to vote on them. So, does anybody want to speak any more, or shall we vote?

DELEGATES: Vote.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, let's vote. The issue is on Mr. Harper's amendment. Now, to set the stage, Mr. Felt made a proposition, which is on ballot number--revised ballot number 2; the top part thereof is all that is retained, because Mr. Drum amended it and Mr. Davis limited it to the bicameral-unicameral issue and Mr. Harper reversed it to the unicameral-bicameral issue. And so that everyone understands each other, after we get through voting on this, we're not going to be through. You can still amend it and test your next theory out. and Mr. Blaylock can test his theory, and Mr. Drum can test his theory, and we can all test our theories as soon as we've had a few votes-so there's nothing magic or final about anything until you're all decided. All right, so many as shall be in favor—and we're going to have roll call votes, right?

UNIDENTIFIED DELEGATE: Right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay. So many as shall be in favor of Mr. Harper's amendment, which is to include unicameral in the body and put bicameral out in whatever we end up with on Mr. Felt's motion, say Aye-put unicameral in and put bicameral out. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote? Mr. Joyce, do you wish to explain your vote?

DELEGATE JOYCE: I wish to explain my vote. I'm voting No even though I'm a unicameralist.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Does any other delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, we'll cast the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 44 delegates voting Aye, 51 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 44 having voted Aye and 51 having voted No, Mr. Harper's motion is defeated. We're now on Mr. Davis' motion to put bicameral in and unicameral out. Is there discussion?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, so many as shall be in favor of Mr. Davis' motion to put bicameral in and unicameral out, so many vote Aye; and so many as are opposed to Mr. Davis, vote No.

Mr. Blaylock.

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Mr. President, I'd like to explain my vote. Even though I'm for bicameral, I am voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Has every delegate voted?

Mrs. Blaylock-Mrs. Bugbee.

DELEGATE BUGBEE: Mr. Chairman, even though I'm a unicameralist, I'm voting Yes on this.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Eck.

DELEGATE ECK: Mr. Chairman, I'll say the same.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The same as which'?

DELEGATE ECK: That I'm a unicameralist and am voting for bicameral in the body.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay, have all the delegates voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, we'll cast the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 60 delegates voting Aye, 35 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 60 delegates having voted Aye, 35 voting No, Mr. Davis' substitute motion prevails. Now, Mr. Davis'-let's understand where we stand. Mr. Davis' substitute motion was to use only the top half of revised ballot 2. In other words, he says that we should have a ballot that says: "For the proposed Constitution with the bicameral in" and "Against the proposed Constitution with thebicameral in"; and then, secondly, to replace that by "unicameral" on the outside. He said nothing about the other two things. Now, at this point, I think Mr. Felt and Mr. Drum are out and we now have the basic proposition which can be amended into any fashion that you want to amend it. We can either put the Joyce matter or we can put the Blaylock matter or we can

Mr. Blaylock-Mr. Joyce, he was up first. Let's let him-not this time but a long time ago—let's start with Mr. Blaylock.

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Mr. President, I move as a substitute motion that we put the first ballot-or use the first ballot when this goes to the people in June.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Use what's called the "official"—

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Yes, called the "official ballot".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Called "official ballot" for purposes of identification. Now, what this means-he's proposed that we use a ballot like the official ballot that was handed out to you today. Now, what this means is that neither bicameral nor unicameral would be in, but they would be a coequal alternative; and that's his substitute motion.

Mr. Dahood.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: Will Mr. Blaylock yield to a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Blaylock?

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Yes, Mr. Dahood.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: You know what the question is going to be. Now, Mr. Blaylock, in the event that neither of the propositions or neither of the alternatives receive 50 percent plus one vote, what happens to the legislative body in Montana?

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Well, this is why I used the phrase, Mr. Dahood, "go for broke-take a chance on the people voting for this". Now, I would believe-or my own feeling would be at this point, in order to assuage your fears and the other fears in here, that I would hope that Mrs. Reichert, at this point, would amend this to put in the-both parts of the bicameral and the unicameral, except for the first 1, 2 and 3. That's what I hoped for.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Holland.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: I have a motion to amend the-Mr. Blaylock's motion to amend so that if-in the event that 2-A and 2-B do not receive a majority plus one, that thereupon the Legislative Article would fail and that Article V of the present Constitution would be incorporated into the remainder of the new Constitution. For the information of the delegates, Article V is the old Legislative Article.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, Mr. Holland has a substitute-or has an amendment-

DELEGATE HOLLAND: I make this—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -which says that if-that we're going to use the Blaylock format now-and if neither 2-A or 2-B get a majority, then old Article V is effective.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is that right?

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Yes. Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Holland.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: The State of Illinois had precisely the same problem we had. They had a constitution where it required a majority plus-a majority of the voters had to adopt the new constitution; so therefore, on every side issue, they provided that in the event that a majority did not adopt the particular side issue, that they would adopt-that the old-the portion of the old constitution that would cover the article would be there. I do this precisely so we'll not be branded as the biggest 100 fools in the State of-or in the United States of America. In the event-and I see this as a real possibility-that we would adopt a constitution providing in part for a three-unit body—Legislative, Executive and Judicial-and not have a Legislative branch; and this we cannot allow to happen. We kicked around in committee the possibility of substituting different portions for it. We decided the thing was unrealistic. Suggest that in the-1 suggest to you that in the State of Illinois, all of the side-the constitution itself and all of the side issues each received a majority, so they didn't have to fall back upon it. And I'm inclined to think that unicameral-this is the only way that unicameral and bicameral will ever get a true test from the voters, but I cannot go along with Mr. Blaylock's suggestion that we should just let the thing go. In effect, what I'm saying is, Mr. Blaylock is right. Let's give the voters a clear choice without one or the other being in the body; but in the event of a majority, which I submit the chances are very, very small, we still are not going to be in the foolish position of having a constitution without a legislative body.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bugbee.

DELEGATE BUGBEE: Mr. Chairman, I think I need your help. I'd like to explain something. It seems to me that the Blaylock and the Holland amendment-this is another subject, it's on a basically different kind of a ballot. What I would like to do is to finish up where we've started now. We have now the bicameral in the body of the material, and I would like to suggest that the unicameral--and then, on the second-underneath that, that the unicameral bementioned first and then the bicameral as alternatives to that. You see, I'd like to get back on Mr. Davis' motion and get that thing cleaned up through the voting process and then go into the other so we have absolute alternatives that we eventually vote on.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, then, why don't you oppose the Holland amendment and vote No; and if it's defeated, fine; and if it's voted Yes, then move to amend it after it's in. But to just force me to switch horses now, it merely leaves a dogleg situation here. We now have Mr. Blaylock's substitute motion, which did have the effect of raising his issue, and we have Mr. Holland's amendment to that, which has the effect of putting into effect Article V of the old Constitution if Mr. Blaylock's propositions don't receive 51—a majority.

Mr. Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman, as I said before, I repeat again, I am opposed to Mr. Blaylock's motion. I am equally opposed, or not quite so violently opposed, to Mr. Holland's amendment for this reason-that if you accepted Mr. Blaylock's proposition without Mr. Holland's amendment, you may be sure that you have decimated the Legislative Article and left the whole matter for the courts to eventually do something with; whether they could repair the damage or not is highly problematical. If, on the other hand, you were to adopt Mr. Holland's amendment, at least this-you would know that you were going back to the 1899 Legislature, which would not have any of the reforms that we have today. It would not have annual sessions. It would not have the right to reconvene themselves. It would be limited to 60 calendar days. It would not have the right to reconvene itself. All of these things would go down the drain if that is the risk you take, and I cannot overemphasize how great that risk actually is, because you must realize that those who vote against the Constitution are not going to be materially concerned with whether you have bicameral or unicameral, so that when you come to this second issue on the ballot, you have a very poor chance of ever having a majority for either bicameral or unicameral if you leave it in this state. In my mind, we have here, right now, the stake of this Constitution. All the reforms that are in it are at stake, and we'd better get this issue straightened around so that we do not lose the Constitution, regardless of whether we have unicameral or bicameral. But let us not risk the chance of going back to the 1899 Constitution Legislative Article, either in whole or in part.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Marie, do you need to change the tape? Very well, we'll stand at ease for a moment while we change the tape.

(At ease while tape changed)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: We'll be in order. Members of the body, we'll be in order. We'll continue to debate and vote for awhile, and I think we might solve this.

Mr. Harper, you were up.

DELEGATE HARPER: Yes. Mr. Chairman, let me just ask you to reason one more little time here. We started this Convention the 17th day of January. I don't know when it was we went into the Legislative Committee room to start meeting, but the first thing we decided was that we weren't going to be in there if we didn't try to write the best of both. We came back to the floor of this Convention; everybody said, "that's right". We worked through the unicameral, we worked through the bicameral, we got the best of both. We deliberately wrote it so that, in almost every detail, the same wording can he used for unicameral or can be used for bicameral. We suggested to the committee that something like this-they could-and I'm asking why this couldn't be written into the Constitution like this: "If the unicameral alternative listed as issue number 1 on the ballot prevails, the following shall be sections 1, 2 and 3." That's where we say unicameral structure, give the size, and so forth. "If the bicameral alternative listed as issue number 1 on the ballot prevails, the following shall be Sections 1, 2 and 3." Okay, we've got that. That's the way Illinois did with theirs. That's the way, as I understand, North Dakota and some of the others are doing with theirs. No hassle, it's just right in there. Now, then, beginning with Section 4-Qualifications-I'm almost tempted to ask you to take that article out, and we could go down through it. You go all the way through-only with certain stylistic changes that anybody who didn't know anything could make, about one house or two house-No, I'm not-I'm thinking in terms of anybody being able to read. You come up with the idea that if unicameral passes, Sections 1, 2 or 3; if bicameral passes, then it's structure. Okay, now let's take Dave Holland's suggestion. If neither one passes, the structure applying from the old Constitution, which would be bicameral, would go in. Now, admittedly, it wouldn't have any-it doesn't have a number on it, because there's no limit-bottom or top limit-but it seems to me that no court-no court would say that that entire article is gone because your proposition on Sections 1, 2 and 3 didn't pass. I just can't see it. And it would be easily drawn together in an article that makes sense. So I don't think we've got to pass up Chet's proposition altogether. Now, then, the second thing. You know, all during the discussion of the Executive Article and the several other articles, every time things would come up, we said, "Wait a minute; there's going to he a great section of the public decidedly For or Against." Now, you tell me one other issue where people are more divided in a knowledgeable way than on this issue. So we wanted not to antagonize one whole bloc ofvoters, and so we deliberately went that fashion, and I still think we can go that fashion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper, if Mr. Blaylock's motion prevails, I'll certainly offer you an opportunity to amend or to add to fix it so that 4 through 12 or something are identical, and you can do what you say. Would you yield for one question?

DELEGATE HARPER: Yes-or more.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Assuming we fixed that up and did all of that and then they had the election and neither unicameral or bicameral was adopted—

DELEGATE HARPER: Right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: --would you rather have Holland's old amendment-or some of the language from the old Constitution for Holland, or would you rather have the new bicameral article?

DELEGATE HARPER: For Sections 1, 2 and 3?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE HARPER: I would prefer to have the new.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, that's Mr. Joyce's proposition.

DELEGATE HARPER: Yes, except that we-if we put these two out here in an even battle, it's one thing. To put one in the body of the Constitution is just--well, you, yourself, and several others, have pointed out it practically affords no real alternative. Unless that thing out on the alternative has got about 75 percent of the voters in favor of it, it's not going to carry a majority.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Roeder, you haven't been up for a long time.

DELEGATE ROEDER: Sir, I haven't been up today. What Mr. Harper and what Mrs. Reichert really want is part of the Torrey Johnson resolution. They want it as it applies to the Legislative Article. Now, last night Mrs. Reichert said she's a very persistent woman. I say "Amen" to that. Now, Mr. Harper says that anybody who can read can interpolate the common elements of the bicameral and unicameral proposals where they are not incompatible, whatever that would mean, with the current Article V. And he says anyone who can read can do that. Well, there are some lawyers on the Style and Drafting Committee who are going to get up here in a series now and explain to you why Mr. Harper's assertion that anybody who can read can do that, is wrong. If Mr. Harper's proposal eventually prevails, Mr. Chairman, I wish to be removed as a member of the Style Committee, because we're going to be here a very long time on the Style Committee and we're going to have to take all the machinery downstairs and retape it. So please listen carefully as our lawyers explain to you why what Harper and Mrs. Reich& are after is not very easy to do. Our legal consultant says it's not possible to do. Now, I appreciate the motives behind Mr. Harper and Mrs. Reichert's persistence; that is, they feel this is the only way we are ever going to give the people a fair choice. Maybe that's the case, but it's not a possible one, in my eyes. And I would go back to Mr. Felt's notion that we have to do the best we can within the limitations that were imposed by some amanuensis who copied language and didn't even have any idea what he was doing to us. But we can't do anything like that. There are no political Immaculate Conceptions. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper is not convinced of that. (Laughter)

Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Chairman, I move, as a substitute motion for all motions pending, that this—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, we've got one substitute motion and an amendment to it, and we can't go anywhere till we dispose of them, Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: You mean-1 thought we always got three.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, you have three, but when you get to a substitute--and we really have three now.

DELEGATE JOYCE: No, we don't.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, we do.

DELEGATE JOYCE: We have Blaylock's—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Would you like me to tell you what they are? They're Mr. Davis' bicameral in and unicameral out, Mr. Blaylock's use the official ballot, and Mr. Holland's amendment to Mr. Blaylock's. Any time you get a substitute motion, you only get one amendment.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Well, Mr. Chairman, may I direct a question to Delegate Holland, then?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Holland.

DELEGATE HOLLAND: Mr. Joyce.

DELEGATE JOYCE: Mr. Holland, would you mind withdrawing your motion for the time being and then, if Blaylock's carries, put it in again?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, before you say—

DELEGATE HOLLAND: I certainly would, Mr. Joyce.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Before you say—

DELEGATE JOYCE: You'll withdraw?

DELEGATE HOLLAND: I certainly would mind doing it. (Laughter)

DELEGATE JOYCE: You wouldn't-you won't withdraw, I take it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And, Mr. Joyce, your motion-you see, we've got a substitute motion, and whatever you do would have to be material to the substitute motion. It'd have to be only an amendment, and that may be difficult for you to do at this point.

Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. President, you mentioned you had my motion pending. I think that my motion has already been passed; it's no longer pending. Isn't that correct?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I guess it's-1 guess that's right, except it's incomplete in terms of the-we haven't got a proposition yet. It's only partly complete. We've settled on that part if that's the way it goes. All right, now, all we have to do is decide whether we're going to do what Holland and Blaylock think, and in case they-in case Blaylock prevails, then Davis is out and we're on a new proposition. You may amend Blaylock's back, but you can't use the-the Davis motion uses Mr. Felt's basis and the Blaylock motion uses an entirely different theory. Now, if you don't understand that, I'll explain it to you. Mr. Blaylock's was a substitute motion. Mr. Davis' motion says that we're going-it's on-it's based on what's called here "revised ballot number 2" and it says, "For the proposed Constitution, including bicameral, and Against the proposed Constitution including bicameral"; and then it's got on the outside for replacing unicameral. But Mr. Blaylock's motion says, "For the Constitution; Against the Constitution"; then 2-A, "For unicameral, Against-or For bicameral". So, they're entirely different propositions and one is a substitute motion for the other. And then we have the-Mr. Holland's amendment, which simply is a refinement on Mr. Blaylock's.

Mr. Felt.

DELEGATE FELT: As a point of order, I believe it would be, Mr. Chairman-and certainly conceding that the procedural situation has become somewhat scrambled--I feel that when Mr. Davis' motion carried, those that preceded it, including mine, were out of the picture totally—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE FELT: -but that disposed of the main question, and I think that Mr. Blaylock-while I did notice he said "substitute motion" when he placed it, it was actually a main motion, because it started fresh. If I am correct in that, then it would appear to me that the Joyce amendment would be in order as a substitute motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, but, Mr. Felt, it isn't fresh, because Mr. Davis won and Mr. Davis is still in the picture.

DELEGATE FELT: Well—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: We adopted Mr. Davis'. We can't just throw it away, having adopted it. That's where we are right now. We have the bicameral in and unicameral out on a ballot that we haven't touched the two other problems but which we've solved the top part until it's amended out.

DELEGATE FELT: Well, I would agree that the Blaylock amendment is inconsistent with the—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And therefore-

DELEGATE FELT: -action taken on the Davis motion, but even though it is, as long as the motion is entertained, I think that it is a main motion even though it would have the effect of negating what had been previously done. Negating.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, all right. You know, I'm trying to keep us on one or two theories at the same time instead of three or four; and we're on a theory that Mr. Blaylock has enunciated, and we ought to find out whether it prevails or whether it doesn't.

Mr. Swanberg.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: I would like to ask the Chair a question. If we have the bicameral provision in the body of the Constitution, with the unicameral provision as an alternate, will the voter get allowed-be allowed to vote twice?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Certainly. He'll be allowed to vote on the body of the thing and he'll be allowed to vote whether or not he wants-he'll be allowed to vote for theunicameral.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Yes. Thank you very much.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman, I want some clarification here. Just exactly what was Blaylock's amendment? Isn't it—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, I'll restate it before we put it. Are you ready to vote? I'll restate it. Now, the situation is this. Mr. Davis proposed that we have a constitutional ballot which says: "Vote For the Constitution with the bicameral article in or vote Against it with the bicameral article in-vote For or Against the Constitution with the bicameral article in". As a-and, then, as an outside subproposition, you may vote for the unicameral article, to substitute it in. That's the proposition that's up. But Mr. Blaylock made a substitute motion that, instead of that, we use a ballot which is now called the "official ballot", before you, and it doesn't have the bicameral in it at all. It has neither the bicameral nor the unicameral in the Constitution. It has "For the proposed Constitution, Against the proposed Constitution"; and then it has "For aunicameral or For a bicameral" as its second proposition; and, in fact, it has the same on 3 and 4, as you can see if you look at it. Now, that's whatwe're voting on, except that Mr. Holland said if 2-A and 2-B don't get a majority, then we will automatically assume and write it on the ballot that the old Constitution Article V becomes the law-or remains the law.

DELEGATE BATES: If we vote for Mr. Blaylock's motion, we are then, again, taking out the bicameral--out of the body?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You certainly are.

DELEGATE BATES: Okay.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I'll have to rise again to a point of order.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Mr. Davis' was a main motion, and it carried. If Mr. Blaylock-and I hesitate to do this, Chet-you will have to have a vote on the prevailing side to reconsider this proposition.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, I don't think you will, because it's a substitute motion and it-and Mr. Davis'-you may call it a main motion if you want to, and I haven't said whether it is or not-but Mr. Davis does not have a total ballot before him. He's only got a piece of the ballot.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Will you state Mr. Felt's motion-original motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Sure. Mr. Felt's motion has four-has three parts to it: one, an alternative with the unicameral in and an alternative with the bicameral out; then it's got the gambling alternative; and then it's got the death alternative. Mr. Drum amended that and said he wanted the bicameral in and the unicameral out, plus 2 and 3. Mr. Davis came along and said, "I move that we drop 2 and 3 and just decide 1."

DELEGATE AASHEIM: In other words, Mr. Davis' motion carried and negated Mr. Drum's and Mr.—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And Mr. Felt's.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: —Felt's. So, this is a major motion, and we-the Convention has decided that the ballot should contain the bicameral as a major issue with the unicameral as a side issue. Consequently, Mr. Blaylock's motion is out of order, and I have to challenge the motion of the Chair if you—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, you may challenge it if you want to, but the Chair is going to rule that it isn't finished and the Chair-let's put your challenge, and we'll find out where we stand. All right, Mr. Aasheim challenges the Chair on my ruling that Mr. Blaylock's motion is in order. Is that correct?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: That's right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Now, the Chair has an opportunity to explain his position, so the Chair is going to explain that we have several possibilities before us, and it has always been the Chair's desire to allow all of you to test your theories in this marketplace that we call this Convention, and until we have finally moved the final adoption of any article, we have allowed freely amendments. We don't have to reconsider until we've moved that when this committee does arise and report after da-da-da-da-da, we don't have to even reconsider within that time. I have always, throughout this Convention, allowed anybody to put any motion, because I want your ideas tested and this body has to finally be brought to the point where it honestly and fairly arrives at something by a majority. Now, there are several untested ideas yet floating around in the marketplace. Mr. Blaylock has one, Mr. Joyce has one, and Mr. Harper possibly has one-he's got a part of a one. Secondly, the motion that we have, which is to put bicameral in and leave unicameral out, does not, in fact, solve the whole ballot problem, which is the issue before this body. Now, if you want to let the bicameralists steal the march here and say that they get in on this thing, then sustain Mr. Aasheim; but if you want to hear the rest of them out—

(Interruption from the floor--Inaudible)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, wait a minute. The Chair is going to finish. If you want to hear the rest of them out before you decide what this ballot is going to look like, then you sustain the Chair. Now, if you want to speak, Mr. Drum, you may; but when you finish speaking, I will reserve the right to again state the Chair's position because the Chair has an absolute right to be last on this.

YOU may speak, Mr. Drum.

DELEGATE DRUM: Mr. Chairman, I rise to a point of, I believe, personal privilege. The Chair is expressing—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: State your point.

DELEGATE DRUM: —an opinion. I think you should leave the Chair if you are going to say the bicameralists are stealing the march. You're showing an opinion. You're persuading the people to follow your line of thinking, and I don't think it's right for the Chair to do that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I-your point of privilege has been made, so there's no use of ruling on it, but the rules do provide that the presiding officer may cast his vote and that I have a right to explain my decision. Now, I haven't libeled or slandered anybody, but I think-my point is that if the bicameralists are able to now shut off debate so that we don't consider the others, they will have then got theirs in. I'm unwilling to do that until everyone's had his say. So if you want to vote that way-for the bicameralists, you do it. I don't think I'm slandering anybody. I'm probably-in fact, I voted bicameral twice so far this afternoon. But I will certainly state my position, and if you don't like it, I'm sorry. And you can raise another point of privilege if you like.

Mr. Drum, for what purpose do you rise?

DELEGATE DRUM: I rise to inquire about that amendment that I put in about an hour and 45 minutes ago that has never been brought before this body, and there have been about four or five different motions that have come up, and it has not received due consideration—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's right, Mr. Drum—

DELEGATE DRUM: -and it would have solved the problem.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -and your motion and your amendment is after the rest of these, and if I ever get a chance, you're going to have a chance to make it. But if you prevail in supporting him, you're not going to have a chance to make it and neither is Mrs. Bates and neither are four or five other people. I'm against cutting off debate. If you want to cut off debate on the bicameral going in, vote with Mr. Aasheim.

For what purpose do you rise, Mr. Davis?

DELEGATE DAVIS: A question. From some of your conversation, is it your understanding, Mr. President, that we're trying to attempt, by my motion, not to further consider the death penalty or gambling?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, I don't think that's your motion, and I don't even think that's Mr. Aasheim's. Mr. Aasheim is trying to freeze into the situation that bicameral must be in, when I don't think we have closed off debate on that issue. That's the point. And if he prevails, it will be on your halfmotion-which only half deals with the ballot.

Mr. Aasheim, for what purpose do you rise?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I want to talk, too, on the motion to challenge-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Pardon? I can't hear you.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I want to express my feeling here. I'm not trying to freeze—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, now, Mr. Aasheim, you expressed your opinion; and the Chair has the right to express his; and I don't think you need to express it after me, because then I only have to express it over.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Mr. Chairman, you said that I am trying to freeze something into this thing, and I'm not trying to do that, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, all right, you may speak then, Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I am trying-we have pretty much decided now, by a vote, that the bicameral is supposed to be on the proposition with the Constitution, and I feel this: that Mr. Blaylock, if he wants to amend this, that he should move to amend this-Mr. Davis' motion--rather than bring in another major substantive motion here. That's my contention, because I'm certainly not-I'm not happy, I'm not gloating over the fact that we got the bicameral in the main issue at all, because I would like to have-like Mrs. Reichert said--would like to have a choice, but it's apparent we can't have that. And now, then, if we can, through amendment of Mr. Davis' proposition, fine. And I think that's the course we should take; and Mr. Blaylock's motion, I think, is out of order.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I understand you think it's out of order, and now so that I'll clarify it again, I'd like to point out that the Chair has never in this Convention ruled that no one could amend or change something. In other words, you don't have to move to reconsider until after we put the proposition that when this committee does rise and report and finally adopt something. Now, we have not done that about the ballot yet, so your proposition that it takes a motion to reconsider is wrong, in view of what the Chair has done all along up till today, and I asked the body to let me continue to do what I've always done. Secondly, it's always been the Chair's proposition that any time anybody had a proposal, we wanted to let it be aired. There are still proposals before the body which cannot be aired ifyour-if you prevail. Now, the issue is on the challenge of the Chair. The vote will be by roll call. If you sustain the challenge, you sustain Mr. Aasheim; if you sustain the Chair, you vote No. So vote Yes to sustain the challenge and vote No to sustain the Chair.

For what purpose do you rise, Mr. Studer?

DELEGATE STUDER: Mr. President, before you put that question, I rise for personal privilege. I want to get this straight before I vote. I don't remember Mr. Blaylock even making a motion. As I understood it, Mr. Harper had a sub-motion-sub. to Davis and it was voted down. Blaylock said before that that if we would vote those two down, he would suggest-he suggested that if we voted those two down, as I understood it, that then he would come in with his motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE STUDER: We voted down Harper's—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE STUDER: -but we accepted Davis'—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE STUDER: —so now we have it in.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And then, after that—

DELEGATE STUDER: I don't remember Blaylock making a motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right. Well, after that, Mr. Studer, Mr. Blaylock did arise, and I did recognize Mr. Blaylock and he did make his motion, and then Mr. Holland amended it.

DELEGATE STUDER: Okay.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay, the ballot's open. So many delegates as want to sustain Mr. Aasheim in his challenge, vote Aye; so many as want to sustain the Chair, vote No. Have all the delegates voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate want to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay, take the ballot.

Woodmansey ..... Nay
Mr. President ..... Nay

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 17 delegates voting Aye, 63 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 63 having voted No and 17 Aye, the challenge to the Chair is not sustained. Now, we're debating Mr. Holland's amendment, which is that if the Blaylock amendment happened to prevail and neither the bicameral nor the unicameral got a majority, that Article V of the old Constitution should then be substituted-or should then be considered back in effect. Is there further discussion of Mr. Holland's amendment?

Mr. Dahood.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: Mr. Chairman, I take it I'm correct that we're still sitting as a Committee of the Whole?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: I move that this Committee rise and report progress and beg leave to sit again.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the motion is that this committee rise and report progress. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and so ordered. We'll write it up.

(Proceedings reverted to Convention with President Graybill presiding)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Murray— Will the clerk please read the Committee of the Whole report.

CLERK HANSON: "March 21, 1972. Mr. President. We, your Committee of the Whole, having had under consideration business on General Orders, recommend as follows: that the Committee rise and report progress and beg leave to sit again. Signed: Graybill, Chairman."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move the adoption of the Committee of the Whole report.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to adopt the Committee of the Whole report that we rise and beg leave to sit again. All in favor, say Are.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed? (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered. Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move we stand adjourned until Wednesday, March 22nd, 1972, at 9 o'clock, a.m.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to adjourn until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning. Mr. Schiltz, I understand you want a meeting, at 8 o'clock in the morning, of Style and Drafting.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Right.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well; all in favor of the motion to adjourn until 9:00, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Convention adjourned at 6:15 p.m.)

March 22, 1972 Fifty-Second Day Convention Hall
9:25 a.m. Helena, Montana

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Let us pray. God, our Father, in these weeks together we have each become aware of our individual strengths and weaknesses. We confess that from time to time we have each yielded to our pet prejudices without thinking of the common good, but we thank You, our Father, that in Your wisdom You have called us together as a collective body and that it is the will of that body which prevails, rather than the will of any one individual. As we finalize our work this week, give us grace and humility to speak not of what we have done as individuals but what we have done as a Convention, and as we reflect on the mechanics of this process which is greater than any one of us, may we be made aware of the movement of Your spirit, which is greater and above and among all of the processes of men. Amen.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: We'll take attendance this morning by voting Aye on the voting machines.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, may Delegate Campbell be excused this day?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Yes.

CLERK HANSON: Delegate Cate, Delegate Dahood, Delegate Studer, Delegate Rygg, Delegate Robinson.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Will you read the absences again.

CLERK HANSON: Delegate Rygg.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 98 delegates present, 1 excused and 1 absent.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the journal may so show. Reports of Standing Committees.

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. President. We, your Committee on Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission, herewith transmits its final report for consideration of the Convention. Sincerely, John M. Schiltz, Chairman."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Final Report of Style and Drafting is placed on General Orders. Reports of Select Committees.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Communications.

CLERK HANSON: "Helena, Montana; March 22, 1972. Honorable Leo Graybill, Jr., President, Montana Constitutional Convention, Capitol, Helena, Montana. Dear Mr. President: In accordance with the provisions of Section 15(2), Extraordinary Senate Bill No. 6, Chapter EX-1, Laws of Montana 1971, the license of Henry E. Lohr, license number 3-72, has been reinstated as of March 21, 1972. Sincerely yours, Frank Murray, secretary of State."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, I would like to explain briefly under Communications where the Chair thinks we are this morning, because some of you may not understand yet. We are going down the Order of Business and when we get to the Committee on Style and Drafting's Final Report, we are going to take it under General Orders first today. In the meantime, the Style and Drafting Committee has met and is working up a ballot proposal; and when that's finished, either late this morning or right after lunch, we will consider their ballot proposal and we will continue the debate that we had yesterday on the ballot; but while that matter is being ironed out in terms of the Style and Drafting coming up with their final ballot proposal, we will go ahead and adopt on Style and Drafting, article by article, the minor changes they have made in theconstitutional document. And when we have finished-so you'll understand-when we have finished adopting it article by article in Committee of the Whole, we will move it all to Adoption, Order of Business Number 6; and we will adopt it article by article in Number 6, finally, except that when we finish adopting it all article by article and when we have finished the ballot and moved it and the other articles, we're going to have to skip up into Adoption, then we will adopt it finally in Order of Business Number 6 as a whole. And the present plan is to adopt it today or tomorrow and then sign it on Friday morning, as you know, at 10:OO. But we will finish the adoption whenever we are able to, as soon as we arrive at the ballot and settle the Style and Drafting. So, that's what we're doing. We're going to start on this and go to the ballot later. Very well, Order of Business Number 4, Introduction.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 5, Final Consideration.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 6, Adoption.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: There's none there till we put it there today. Order of Business Number 7, Motions and Resolutions.

CLERK HANSON: None, sir.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 8, Unfinished Business.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 9, Special Orders of the Day.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 10, General Orders of the Day.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move the Convention resolve itself into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of handling business under General Orders.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to resolve the Convention into a Committee of the Whole. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Committee of the Whole; Graybill, Chairman)

CLERK HANSON: "March 22, 1972. The following committee report is now on General Orders: Final Report." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Eskildsen, will you move that we pass consideration of the partial Final Report we were working on yesterday and go to Style and Drafting's Final Report?

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: I so move, Mr. President-MT. Chairman, that we go to the Final Report.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. If you'll turn to that report, and Mr. Schiltz will explain it-but if you'll turn to the first page after the signatures. This report, I think I can say, is somewhat different than the other in that we printed the Constitution clean and explained the differences or the Style and Drafting changes on one sheet, since there were only a few and since it would have required us to print the Constitution, 60 pages, twice to do it the other way.

Mr. Schiltz, have I correctly characterized your proposal?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes, Mr. Chairman. As you-I'd like to make a few remarks first.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, sir; please do.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: As you and possibly the rest of the Convention knows, I haven't had-we got this late last night and I haven't had any time to do my usual well-referenced job of explaining all this to you, so I'll welcome any comments as I go, because I'm going to be feeling my way a little bit. I would also like to say, Mr. Chairman, that we owe a great debt to the staff of the Style and Drafting Committee, Gardner Cromwell and our two lawyers, Sandy Muckelston and Diana Dowling, and especially to Betty Nelson, who has been the secretary and who knows everything there is to know in this capitol about printing. If any other state ever has a Constitutional Convention, I would recommend that staff to it. I would also like to commend the committee. It's been an excellent committee. Never once have I had any trouble getting a quorum. They've worked while this organization has been in session, they've come upstairs to pass on things so that the Convention wouldn't be delayed in any way, and all in all it's been an excellent committee and a good experience. Now, Mr. Chairman, I would like to say also, we'll take only the first 64 pages. The material in the back of the book is the material we were working on yesterday, and it will need some revision when we get to the point of recommending a ballot to the Convention. Yesterday, we purposely-and at the committee's insistence-I explained the dilemma the committee was in. We wanted to get the sense of this body before we attempted to draft a ballot, and we think we did get that sense yesterday, so this afternoon we'll take up the back of the book, which is the adoption schedule, the transition schedule, and the proposed ballot. Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had-Oh, I'm sorry, go ahead.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Chairman-Mr. Schiltz, first of all, I'd like a motion from you to suspend Rule 23, the 48-hour rule on this—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes, Mr. Chairman. I move to suspend Rule 23, the 24-hour rule, this not having lain on the desks for 24 hours.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 48 hours; that's all right.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: For 48 hours.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All those in favor of suspending Rule 23, the 48-hour rule, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's suspended. Now, Mr. Schiltz, we'll start. Will the clerk please read the title of the report and the Preamble-just the title of the Preamble. Let's take it that way.

CLERK HANSON: "Montana Constitutional Convention, 1971-72. Report of Committee on Style and Drafting, Transition and Submission, Final Report. Reported March 22, 1972, John M. Schiltz, Chairman; William Burkhardt, Vice chairman." Mr. Chairman, Preamble.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Preamble is on page 1.
Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Style and Drafting Committee's Final Report, the Preamble thereof, I recommend it adopt the same. Mr. Chairman, there are no changes in the Preamble.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion of the Preamble?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of adopting the Preamble, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Article I.

CLERK HANSON: "Article I, Compact with the United States", page 2. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article Number I, Style and Drafting Final Report, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, there are no changes in the compact.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion of Article I?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Article I, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Article II.

CLERK HANSON: "Article II, Declaration of Rights," page 3. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article II, Final Report, Style and Drafting Committee, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, we have no changes in the Bill of Rights in Article II.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Article II contains 35 sections. Is there any discussion of Article II? It has no changes.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Article II, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Article III.

CLERK HANSON: "Article III, General Government"; containing 9 subsections, beginning on page 11. Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz, I think we're going to have to pass Article III because we have the two Section 9s on gambling in Article III. Am I correct?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: You're correct in that, Mr. Chairman. I was going to suggest that we could possibly approve the drafting, with the understanding that as the proposed ballot will be-and it could be revised by any of several proposed ballots that might come up today-that we-with the understanding that only one of those gambling sections might be in the Constitution—and then, depending on how that vote goes, we will have approved the style.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, we'll certainly find out. Is there any objection to the style of Article III, with the understanding that there are two Section 9s shown there and that one or the other will probably be left in the Constitution, depending on how the ballot is drafted? We can't finally adopt Article III because we cannot say until you have passed on your ballot recommendation exactly what the form of Article IX will be. Is there any objection or any discussion of the style? There seem to be no changes.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Article III as to style, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's okay as to style.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I don't think I moved it, did I?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I don't think you can move it, because I think we do have to come back and—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -adopt it either with one or the other or neither or both in, after we get through with the ballot. So I've only made a note that it's adopted as to style. Article IV.

CLERK HANSON: "Article IV, Suffrage and Elections"; containing 6 subsections. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article IV of the final report of Style and Drafting Committee, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, there are no changes in Article IV.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of Article IV?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well; all in favor of Article IV, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All opposed.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Now, again, let's-the clerk could read Article V, but it's fouled up. Let's discuss Article V. There are two Article Vs-one begins on page 15, one begins on page 23. The one on 15 is unicameral and the one on 23 is bicameral. Now, in addition, there are some style changes in it that I think we could go through and explain and adopt. Do you want to—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, yes, Mr. Chairman. First of all, if you'll refer to the title page, Final Report, you'll see that we made some changes. We changed the-from "department" to "branch" throughout, and you'll find that in Section 5, Article XI, both unicameral and bicameral. And then-let me see—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Section 11?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Section 11 of Article V, both unicameral and bicameral, we changed to "branch". I don't have it marked, so I can't—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, it's in subsection 4 where it talks about—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: On page 17, the first time.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: (Inaudible)—on page 17, line 27, for one. I think—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: And on page 26, line 5.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Page 26, line 5. I think the point for the body is that, as WC discussed the other day, we changed the word "department"-or the Style and Drafting has changed the word "department" to the word "branch", the purpose being that they felt that department was--might be confusing with the 20 departments of the state government but the word "branch" was used, then, to indicate Legislative,

Executive, Judicial branches. Let's get the sense of the body on that. All those in favor of allowing the Style and Drafting to change the word "department" to the word "branch" wherever it appears in the Legislative Article, please indicate so by saying Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, I think we have adopted that style.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Then, Mr. Chairman, we removed one entire section-the Code of Ethics-and you'll find that on page 59 as Section 4 under General Provisions, and you'll find the note under—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Page 54?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes, but I'm-or, no, I'm sorry, it's Article—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -59. Yes, the Code of Ethics is now on-in the General Provisions, Article XIII on page 59.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's another one. Oh, and then, the Salary Commission which was in the Legislative Article, has been moved to Section 5, subsection 3.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Salary Commission has been moved—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: And that's on page 59, too.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -to page 59, also. All right, now, those are items-on that first page—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Then, Mr. Chairman-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: —that's item 2-A and Z-C, isn't that right? And you also have moved 2-B?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's right. Section 16, unicameral, we moved it from Article V; and Section 15 of the bicameral, to Revenue and Finance as Section 14.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And that's on page 43, at the bottom, if you want to see it. Now, let's take these up one at a time as they appear on that second page of the document here. The first one, 2-A, is moving the Salary Commission from the Legislature to the General Provisions; and as I recall the discussion on that, the reason for that is that the Salary Commission does relate to more than just the Legislature. It says on page 59: "For the"-"The Legislature shall create a Salary Commission to recommend compensation for the Judiciary and elected members of the Legislative and Executive branches." So, since it covers all branches, we-the Style and Drafting has moved the Salary Commission from Legislative to General Provisions.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, may I make an observation? That's where I got thrown there. On the first page there, that should say "subsection 3".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Oh, I see-No, I see where I got confused. It was Section 5, subsection 2, of the Legislature. I see. So there's no need to make a change. That's all right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now -what we need to know, then, is whether the body approves moving the Salary Commission from the Legislature to General Provisions. Is there discussion?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: We don't need to put this finally because we'll put the articles finally, but all in favor of moving the Salary Commission from Legislature to General Provisions, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And it's approved as to style. All right, now, the second one is the Prohibited Payments section, and it's been moved from the Legislative section to Revenue and Finance on page 43, and it pertains to: "Except for interest on the public debt, no money shall be paid out of the treasury unless upon an appropriation made by law and a warrant drawn by the proper officer in pursuit thereof." Now, it was originally in Legislature because it was a limitation-or concerned appropriations, but it's been put in Revenue and Finance as the sort of payments that are prohibited under that title, Prohibited Payments. Is there any discussion of moving that from the Legislative Article to the Revenue and Finance Article?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: If not, all in favor of moving that Prohibited Payments Article, please say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's adopted as to style.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I've now got this straight. We apparently got one number off somewhere here, so on that first page, under Salary Commission, the last word should be "Section 3" instead of "Section 4".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay, we'll make that amendment on our books.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: And then, under Code of Ethics, instead of "Section 5" it should be "Section 4". And under Exemption Laws, it should be "Section 6-or Section 5" instead of "6" on the last word-"5" instead of "6". And then under Perpetuities, it should be "6" instead of "7".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, I hate to argue with you, but I think you've just--I've just checked the Code of Ethics, Mr. Schiltz, but it moved from the Legislature, and I haven't checked that, to Article XIII, General Provisions, and in General Provisions, it's-you're right, it's section—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's Salary Commission.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Section 4. I see. Okay. So, are you saying, then, that the changes are on the Salary Commission-we changed to section-the last section number under General Provisions-to Section 3—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And under Code of Ethics we changed it to Section 4 under General Provisions.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is that all?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No. Exemption Laws, the last word should be-the last numeral should be "5" instead of "6".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: How about Perpetuities?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: And Perpetuities should be "6" instead of "7".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Somebody ran the wrong series there. All right. Now, we're down to the Code of Ethics. The Code of Ethics was originally the Legislative Article, and it's been moved to the General Provisions Article, as Section 4. Is there any discussion about that?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "The Legislature shall provide a Code of Ethics prohibiting conflict between public duty and private interest for members of the Legislature and all state and local officers and employees." And since it was broadened to include all and since it is a Code of Ethics, it was put in General Provisions instead of in the Legislative Article. Any discussion?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of moving the Code of Ethics to the General Provisions Article, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted as to style. Now, except for those changes, the two Legislative Articles-the one beginning on page 1.5 and the one beginning on page 23-have no other style changes in them, do they, Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No other changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Is there any discussion of them?

Mr. Mahoney.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Mr. Chairman, I notice this heading is "nonmunicipal corporations", and I happened to be on the committee that worked down through Section 2, but I was not on the committee that worked over here, and I just want to get in the record that I had no part of a Salary Commission nor Code of Ethics at all, as far as the committee I was on. I'm just trying to get that into the record so that it will get out here and come out-and think that I had been on that and it was not on my committee.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I think the major headnotes may have confused Mr. Mahoney. This is Article XIII, which is General Provisions, and then it has various subsections.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Only Section 1 is Nonmunicipal Corporations, Mr. Mahoney.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Section 1 and 2 both came out of the Committee on Public Health and Welfare-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Both of those did, and I-the others were not.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right-that's right.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: 1 just wanted the record to show.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right, it shows it. Very well, is there other discussion of the Legislative Articles on page 15 and 23 as to style?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, we are going to pass Article V as to final form, because this will depend perhaps-could depend perhaps-on the form of the ballot; but is there any discussion of them otherwise?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: If not, all in favor of the two Legislative Articles as to style, please say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: They're adopted as to style. Now, Mr. Clerk, read Section 6.

CLERK HANSON: "Article VI, The Executive"; containing 15 subsections. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article VI, Style and Drafting Final Report, itrecommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, there are no changes in the Executive.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Unfortunately, I have to argue with you. Your thing says we changed "branch"-"department" to "branch"—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Oh-Oh, that's right—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: —on Sections 1, 4, 5 and 15.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's right. I'm sorry; I was already down to 2.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You can see at the beginning of the article where it says "the Executive Branch includes the Governor", and so forth. So, throughout the Executive Article, the Style and Drafting Committee has changed the word "department" to "branch" to distinguish it from the 20 departments. Is there any discussion of that change?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of changing "department" to "branch" in Sections 1, 4, 5 and 15 of Article VI, which is the Executive Article, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, we've adopted that change as to style. Now, I think we can adopt the whole thing, if you want to put your motion again, Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes, Mr. Chairman. I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration section-or, Article VI, Style and Drafting Final Report, it recommend the same be adopted.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of Article VI?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Article VI, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Article VII.

CLERK HANSON: "Article VII, The Judiciary"; containing 11 subsections, beginning on page 36. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article VII, Style and Drafting Final Report, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, you'll note the change from this article. Section 12 was transferred to Section 13, General Provisions, as Section 5.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, we moved out of Judiciary and into that same General Provisions Article the small section on exemption laws-"The Legislature shall enact liberal homestead and exemption laws." We moved that out of Judiciary-Style and Drafting did-and into General Provisions.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: And the same is true, Mr. Chairman, as to subsection 6-w Section 6 of General Provisions.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right. We moved Perpetuities out of Judiciary and into General Provisions, and it says: "No perpetuities shall be allowed to exist except forcharitablepurposes." Is there any discussion of moving the exemption laws from Judiciary to General Provisions?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted as to style. Is there any objection--or is there any discussion of moving Perpetuities from Judiciary to General Provisions?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of that, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted as to style. Now, we've adopted as to style (A), (B), (C), (D) and (E) of Number 2. Now, Mr. Schiltz, I think we can adopt-or at least we can decide whether to adopt Judiciary itself, beginning on page 36.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 7— or Article VII, Style and Drafting report number— or Final Report, it recommend the same be adopted.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Except for the two deletions we just made, there are no other changes in section—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No other changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of Article VI?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well; all in favor of Article VI of Style and Drafting, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, that was Article VII.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I'm sorry— Article VII, on the Judiciary. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Mr. Clerk.

CLERK HANSON: "Article VIII, Revenue and Finance"; containing 14 subsections, beginning on page 41. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article VIII, Style and Drafting Final Report, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, there are no changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The only change is that we added a section, which you all approved a few—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Which has already been approved, yeah.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right. Is there any discussion?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Wait a minute. We've got one here. On page 43, we took out what is subsection 2 of 13—the first sentence, which reads: "The public school fund and the permanent funds of the Montana University System"-because it has already been-No, no, that isn't the one. Wait a minute. We're working on this one, Mr. Chairman. Well, that's our third comment, Mr. Chairman. In order to avoid repeating a sentence identical to that appearing as Section 3 of Article X, Education, the first sentence of subsection 2, Section 13, under Revenue and Finance, was deleted.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Now, if you look on page--where is that?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You've got to go to Article X to find out what it was.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes-page 48—it says-Section 3 says "The public school fund shall remain forever inviolate, guaranteed by the state against loss or diversion." Oh, I see. On page 43, we left that one in, I guess--now, let me see, that's Article-oh, we didn't change that at all, did we? Yes, we took that sentence out so it wouldn't appear in both sections. I'm sorry, Mr. Chairman and members of the committee, but I didn't get all that much time to work on this this morning.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Which one did you take out and which one did you put in?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: On page 48, Revenue and Finance, we took out section-we took a sentence out from somewhere else and put it in here, I guess, is the—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Rygg.

DELEGATE RYGG: First, may my presence be noted in the journal?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Your presence may be noted in the journal, Mr. Rygg.

DELEGATE RYGG: Well, I came in late. Now, it looks to me like the subsection 2 of Section 13 has been deleted. Is that correct? Is that now in the Public-in Education and Public Lands?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I think I have it straight now. On page 43 there had been that same sentence that you will now find over on page 48 as Section 3. It occurred in two places in the Constitution, so we left it in on page 48 and deleted it-and it appeared as subsection 2 but is no longer there.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. The Chair thinks he understands. On page 48, you'll find a Section 3 on line 5, and it says-it's in Education-it says: "The public school fund shall forever remain inviolate, guaranteed by the state against loss or diversion." Now, that used to be the first sentence of 13, sub. 2—and then it used to say: "The public school fund and permanent funds of the Montana University System shall be safely invested." Is that right?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's correct.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, so the sentence which is still in as the public school fund inviolate on page 48 used to be the beginning of Section 13, sub. 2; it's now been deleted.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Because they appeared in both places, then, sir.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That is comment number 3 on the first page that we're working on there. Is there any discussion of it by anyone?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's still in. It's just in a different place. All right; all in favor of allowing the Style and Drafting change which moved from the Revenue and Finance to the Education Article that sentence-or left it only in the Education Article-all in favor of that change—it's number 3 there-say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, it's adopted as to style. Now, with that change, would you move—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article VIII, final Style and Drafting report, it recommend the same be adopted.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And Article VIII is the Revenue and Finance Article, right?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Beginning on page 41. Is there any discussion?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Article VIII, Revenue and Finance, as Style and Drafting has amended it, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, it's adopted. Now, would the clerk read Article IX.

CLERK HANSON: "Article IX, Environment and Natural Resources"; containing four subsections, page 45 and 46. Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article IX, Environment and Natural Resources Article, Style and Drafting Final Report, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, there are no changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Article IX, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Clerk, read Article X.

CLERK HANSON: "Article X, Education and Public Lands"; containing 11 subsections, pages 47 through 52. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article X, Education and Public Lands, Style and Drafting Final Report, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, there are no changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of Article X?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Article X, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Article XI.

CLERK HANSON: "Article XI, Local Government"; containing nine subsections, pages 53 through 56. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article XI, Local Government, Style and Drafting Final Report, that it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, there are no changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Local Government Article XI, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Article XII.

CLERK HANSON: "Article XII, Departments and Institutions"; containing 3 sections, page 57 and 58. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article XII, Departments and Institutions, Style and Drafting Final Report, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, this is a gathering of three or four items that didn't fall-three items-that didn't fall in any other particular place, and we called it-we took-we called it "Departments and Institutions", being three sections-the Department of Agriculture, Department of Labor, and then a general provision having to do with institutions and assistance.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of Article XII?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Article XII, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Article XIII. Now, Mr. Schiltz, on Article XIII, on the first page, you have a change from "branch" to "department", but it's in Article XIII, Section 3 instead of Section 4.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's right. It should be 3.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there any discussion of the change—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Which would be line 25.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -from the word "department" to the word "branch"?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of changing the-"department" to "branch", say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Now, other than that, we have all the additions that we've discussed already. We've put Perpetuities in there, Exemption Laws in there, Code of Ethics in there, and Salary Commission in there. But, other than that, there are no style changes.

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I don't think he's read the title.

CLERK HANSON: "Article XIII, General Provisions"; containing 6 sections, page 59 and 60. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article XIII, Style and Drafting's Final Report, General Provisions, that it recommend the same be adopted. As you have noted, the changes-and there are no other changes from the material that we gathered this from-it hasn't been changed otherwise.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion of Article XIII?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Article XIII, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted.

CLERK HANSON: Article XIV—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Article XIV.

CLERK HANSON: "-containing 11 sections, Constitutional Revision", pages 61 through 64. Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article XIV, Constitutional Revision, Final Report, Style and Drafting Committee, it recommend the same be adopted. Mr. Chairman, there are no changes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion of Article XIV?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Article XIV, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. Very well. We've adopted, as to style, Articles I to XIV, except for Articles III and V, which we have passed because of the ballot problem.

Mr. Eskildsen, I think the committee should rise and finally report on all articles except III and V.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. Chairman, I move that the committee rise and finally report on all articles except Section III and Section V.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You have heard the motion. Is there any objection?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: We'll rise and finally report on the articles except III and V, including the Preamble.

(Proceedings moved to Convention, with President Graybill presiding)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Will the clerk please read the committee report.

CLERK HANSON: "March 22, 1972. Mr. President. We, your Committee of the Whole, having had under consideration business on General Orders, recommend as follows: thatthecommittee rise and finally report on Preamble and all articles except Articles III and V. Signed: Graybill, Chairman."

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Just a moment. Is there anyone that wants the report read in full?
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well.
Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move for the adoption of the Committee of the Whole report and refer the report Committee on Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission, Final Report, to Order of Business Number 6.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to adopt the Committee of the Whole report and refer it to Order of Business Number 6. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered. Without objection, we'll revert to Order of Business Number 6. Is there objection?
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, we're on Order of Business Number 6. Now, ladies and gentlemen, on Order of Business Number 6, we will today finally adopt, article by article, including the Preamble, the sections we have just approved, except for III and V. And, of course, when we have adopted III and V and the ballot and other appurtenances, we will then adopt the Constitution as a whole. We're not going to adopt it as a whole now, but we're going to adopt-or at least we're going to put the question on I through XIV, except for III and V, including the Preamble. This is on final adoption. It's roll call vote. No debate. Will the clerk please read the title of the Preamble and the article.

CLERK HANSON: "Montana Constitutional Convention, 1971. Report of Committee on Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission, Final Report. Schiltz, Chairman."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 6.

CLERK HANSON: "Order of Business Number 6. Preamble". Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: For final consideration. So many as shall be in favor of the Preamble, vote Aye on the voting machines; so many as shall be opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Preamble. Vote Aye if you're in favor of the Preamble; No if you're opposed to the Preamble. Has every delegate voted?
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Please cast the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 93 delegates voting Aye, 3 voting No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: 93 delegates having voted Aye and 3 voting No, Section XIV is adopted. Ladies and gentlemen, you've adopted the Preamble and Sections I through XIV, except III and V, which have been retained. We will retain these sections and the Preamble—

CLERK HANSON: Articles.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Article—article-these articles and the Preamble in Order of Business Number 6 pending the arrival, hopefully, of the ballot and the other articles. Very well, without objections, I'd like to be on Order of Business Number 11 for a minute. Order of Business Number 11 is Announcements. We are having a dinner tomorrow night at the Montana Club, the usual $5 rate, including two drink tickets. The drinks will be on the third floor this time and dinner will be set up on the fifth-on the sixth floor, as usual. It'll be a-1 think Mrs. Payne has styled it an "awards dinner", and your wives and out-of-town guests are invited. We do need some reservations. We don't have everyone's reservations, I hope, that's coming, and we do need your reservations. This will be Thursday night, before the final signing on Friday morning. The signing on Friday morning is at 10 o'clock. If you have friends from out of town, you'd better let them know, because the newspapers did carry a 1 o'clock or 1:30 notice, which was wrong. Ten o'clock in the morning, barring unforeseen difficulties. Are there other announcements?

Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: I don't wish to make an announcement, I wish to ask a question. Someone called me the other day and said that they read in the papers where passes would be necessary to be here for the signing of the Convention. Is this correct?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: It's my understanding, from Mr. Garlington, that that is not correct. There'll be some seats saved in the front for our dignitaries. Other than that, we're going to set up as many extra chairs as we can in the aisles. We thought we would avoid the problem of trying to assign seats and let those first-come, first-served. I might just remind you, it amuses me, when I think back to the first discussion and debate that this group had, which was how many seats to give ourselves in the balcony-that took us an hour and a half and didn't make any difference. (Laughter) So, based on that, we decided not to bother assigning seats, so just tell them to come and we'll hope for the best.

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Style and Drafting Committee will meet immediately upon recess.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Now, we're planning to recess until 11 o'clock. And at 11 o'clock, we'll come back into session and Style and Drafting will be ready on the ballot. I would like to point out that we will recess reasonably promptly at 12 o'clock, regardless of the status of the debate, since there is a luncheon today for some of the wives and so forth, and the President gets to talk at that luncheon, so he's got to go.

Mr. Martin.

DELEGATE MARTIN: Mr. President, yesterday we ran out of people in the audience because of all the committee meetings elsewhere, and there are three committee chairmen who didn't have a chance to report-Delegate-Chairman Heliker and Chairman Etchart and the Judiciary. If we could have some time today in which they might have an opportunity to participate, I think it would be helpful.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: I think it would be, too. I think that-we've got-Style and Drafting needs to go now-let's plan to do that if we can adjourn before 5 o'clock tonight, but we will plan to let those three have 5 minutes at the end of the day.

DELEGATE MARTIN: One other-or two other things, if I may. I would appreciate if the chairmen of the substantive committees would get their letters to me sometime today, and I appreciate the support and recognize the difficulties that they're having, but if they could get-if I could have those, I would appreciate it very much. And, then, I might report that in response to my questionnaire, I have at the moment 52 responses. I would like to have a little-a few more, and I'm sure that the other delegates will bring them to my desk, I'll appreciate it.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: They have 25 minutes to work on them, haven't they?

DELEGATE MARTIN: Thank you.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Eskildsen, let's have a 25-minute recess.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, let's recess—I move we recess until 11:00 a.m. this day.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to recess till 11:00. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: We're in recess.

(Convention recessed at 10:35 a.m.—reconvened at 11:00 a.m.)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Convention will be in session. The Convention will be in session. Mrs. Reichert, will you please go out in the hall and tell the delegates we're in session? The Convention will be in order. Ladies and gentlemen of the Convention, Style and Drafting has completed its work but not its printing, and so it's useless to try to do anything before lunch on their proposal. We're going to recess in a moment or two until 2:00 p.m., at which time they will have their printing ready and we will have our debate on the ballot. Before we recess until 2:00 p.m., I'd like to mention that we would like those of you who would, to remain for about 20 minutes, and we will listen to the three committee chairmen we didn't hear yesterday, and I would like to discuss with you, very briefly, candidates for-people-persons that are delegates who might be candidates for office and what-how that might affect us. Other than that, we can stand in recess until 2:00 p.m., if Mr. Eskildsen will make a motion. And if those of you who will be good enough to remain and let those three delegates take over. Mr. Martin, will you come forward and take care of that meeting.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move the Convention stand in recess until 2:00 pm. this day.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The motion is to recess until 2:00 pm. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Convention recessed at 11:14 a.m.—reconvened at 2:10 p.m.)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Convention will be in order. Ladies and gentlemen, we ended up with Order of Business Number 11. Without objection, we will start again on Order of Business Number 1. Will the clerk please read any committee reports.

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. President. We, your Committee on Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission herewith submit a revised adoption schedule, to substitute for the one distributed yesterday, for consideration by the Convention. Signed: Schiltz, Chairman."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: And it includes—in addition to adoption schedule, it includes a new ballot. And I think we should probably make clear for the record that it's a revised adoption schedule, it's a revised ballot; but that the transition schedule that we got yesterday still applies and the adoption schedule and the ballot substitute for what we did yesterday-what we had handed us yesterday. In other words, yesterday we had an adoption schedule, transition schedule, and three ballots supplied us. The three ballots are now being substituted for by the one new ballot. The adoption schedule is being substituted for by the old-or by the new adoption schedule, Now, the Chair will refer these substituted matters to Order of Business Number 10. Now, without objection, we will be on Order of Business Number 10. Is there objection?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: I move the Convention resolve itself into Committee of the Whole for the purpose of handling business under General Orders.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the motion is to resolve this Convention into Committee of the Whole for taking up these matters on Order of Business Number 10. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Committee of the Whole; Graybill, Chairman)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, Mr. Schiltz will discuss this. Do you want to explain the order that you're going in to them, or would you like me to explain it?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I think it'd be fine if you explained it, Mr. Chairman; but first, I would like to move that Rule 23 be dispensed with for the consideration of the revised adoption schedule and attached ballot, this material not having lain on the desks for 48 hours.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, then, as a matter of fact, it should also include the transition schedule.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: We did not waive Rule 24 yesterday.

DELEGATE SCHULTZ: That's right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: —23? Very well, Rule 23. Mr. Schiltz has made a motion to waive Rule 23 on the revised adoption schedule, the new revised or new ballot form, and on the transition schedule that we had laid on our desks yesterday. All in favor of waiving Rule 23, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So ordered. Now, I might explain that Mr. Schiltz has asked, and the Chair intends to follow this procedure. We'll discuss the ballot first. If we can arrive at a ballot, then we will go back and-we are on Order of Business 10—we will then take Article III and Article V up, because until we have cleaned up Article III and Article V, the adoption and transition schedules do not make sense. And then, having cleaned up Article III and Article V, based on the ballot work, we would then come back and take up the adoption schedule and the transition schedule. So that's why we're skipping around here-certain ones depend on certain other ones. Will the clerk please read the title of the new material and the word "ballot", I guess, and we'll start-the word "official ballot"-and we'll start there. I just want you to read the title of the report, which is Style and Drafting report, and then the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: "Revised-Style and Drafting report and revised adoption schedule and official ballot. The official ballot." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz,

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration the proposed official ballot, that it recommend the same be adopted.

Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: The-As you all know, we spent four and a half hours yesterday working on this ballot. The main purpose was to get some sense of the Committee of the Whole attitude on unicameral-bicameral and some of the other issues that are placed thereon, As a result of that, which we in our committee, at least, felt was very helpful, we have unanimity or near unanimity-there may have been one dissenting vote at one point or another-on this proposed ballot, and we submit it for your consideration.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, members of the committee, the Chair would like to point out that when we concluded yesterday afternoon, we were on Mr. Davis' motion, based on what was then called "official"-or called "ballot number 2", with an amendment proposed by Mr. Blaylock and an amendment proposed by Mr. Holland. Now, since we rose and reported and asked leave to sit again, the pending matters-namely, Mr. Holland's and Mr. Blaylock's motions, on which no action had been taken-are considered by the Chair to have been wiped out. That leaves us with Mr. Davis' motion, which was to have the bicameral form of the Legislative Article placed in the Constitution and have a ballot that would say that you could vote for the Constitution with bicameral in it, et cetera-the first half of the so-called "ballot". Now, the Chair wishes to point out that the official ballot which Mr. Schiltz has just moved is, for all practical purposes, Mr. Davis' motion down through number 1 and number 2. In other words, it is a ballot including the bicameral house, two houses, in the first vote and including unicameral on the outside in the second vote. Now, Mr. Davis, you spoke with me and we can either consider your motion incorporated into the committee's report or you could withdraw. As far as I'm concerned, I'd like to consider it incorporated into the committee's position. Is that agreeable with you?

DELEGATE DAVIS: That's agreeable, Mr. President.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Does everyone understand, the work we've done yesterday has been incorporated into 1 and 2 on the ballot here, and the work-the other motions that were made yesterday are now wiped out.

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I should have explained, and you reminded me of it as you went through that, that when you get to the gambling proposition, which is number 3, that it was the committee's vote that the first Section 9, on page 13—and this is contemplated by the transition and adoption schedule-that the first Section 9, on page 13, would be the one that goes into the Constitution, so that if the vote went the other way, in the transition, that one would come out and the second Section 9 would go in.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. President, could we go ahead and finish with 1 and 2 before we get into gambling? Isn't that your thought, or are we going to open up 3 and 4 at this time?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, the whole ballot is proposed by Mr. Schiltz and there are explanations for 3 and 4, if he cares to make them now-how they appear there. It seems to me that their whole proposal is before us and we-1 have some amendments here which we can take or—let's see—

DELEGATE DAVIS: It was my thought yesterday and my motion that we would settle on 1 and 2, the form and style and so forth, before we get-and then take 3 and settle on it and 4, maybe; and we could knock them out better than intermingling them. It's just a suggestion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Chair is just looking here. I have three proposed amendments to the Transition Article. I have no proposed amendments to the official ballot. We can-the Chair will do whatever anybody moves here.

Mr. Ask.

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Chairman, do you have my proposed ballot?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I have your proposed ballot. Is it to be placed as a motion?

DELEGATE ASK: Could I place that as a motion before the body at this time?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You may.

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Chairman, could I explain it?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Just a moment. Mr. Ask, has your ballot form been placed before the body on all the desks?

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Chairman, we had a few made. They're on every aisle. I don't think everybody has a copy of it. There's some extra ones here; but if I could, for a few minutes, I'll explain it, and I think there will be no problem.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the Chair will allow as a-just a minute, let me read it here a minute-is it an amendment or a substitute motion, Mr. Ask?

DELEGATE ASK: It would be a substitute motion to the ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, the Chair will allow, as a substitute motion to the motion of the Style and Drafting Committee, Mr. Ask's proposed ballot.

Mr. Ask.

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Chairman and delegates. I feel that-I'm holding my ballot here now, and if you'll notice, it's put in two different blocks. The top blocks is block 1, "For the proposed Constitution". Then you have For and Against all the alternates-all three alternates. Down below, it's block l-block 2, "Against the Constitution", but they still have the right to vote For and Against all the alternates. At the top I have-of course, this could be explained differently, but-"If you are for the proposed Constitw tion, vote in block one below. If you are against the proposed Constitution, vote in block 2 below. You may vote on the three alternate propositions in whichever block you vote. Do not vote in block 1 and 2. If you vote in both blocks, your ballot will be void. If the main proposition fails, all alternatives fail." Now, I feel that this ballot is a true balloting of this Convention of what we have done up to this time-we have adopted a proposed Constitution with three alternates and we're submitting it to the people. You can vote for it or against it, but even though you vote against it or for it, you still have the right to vote on all three alternates, either for or against. And this is what we have done, and I submit that the majority report has put the bicameral in there-of course, I'm bicameral-but to me this isn't necessarily fair and it isn't what we have done up to this time. You put these alternates in there, and then if you're against them, you vote for or against them down below and to me, this is not a true and accurate ballot. Now, the only thing about this ballot is that if perchance you wouldn't get a majority voting for one of the alternates, such as the unicameral or bicameral-but the reason I put them in two blocks is that, no matter where you vote, you're voing to vote for the unicameral or the bicameral; so it's very, very, very unlikely that someone would vote in one of those blocks and not vote for either-for the unicameral or for the bicameral, so it's inconceivable to me that you wouldn't get a majority. And to me, this is the only way you can submit it to the people that's fair and accurate of what we have done up to this time, and that's the only thing that-in other words, if you're for the Constitution, you stay in block 1, you don't even fool around with block 2 but you get to vote on all the alternates. If you're against the Constitution, you can still-you can vote against the Constitution, but you still have the right to vote on—For or Against all the alternates. And to me, this is the democratic way to do it. And, to me, the Style and Drafting Committee, I don't think, is really too clear on that point. Bicameral is in there, but then you have, down below, For a unicameral or Against a bicameral; and to me, I don't know-1 can't really predict what's going to happen on that, We-the bicameralists may get clobbered, and maybe they won't-1 don't know. But the ballot that I have proposed, you're clearly going to know where they stand; and I'm submitting it to the body here so they can discuss it, and if they don't like it, of course, you can vote against it. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Roeder.

DELEGATE ROEDER: Mr. Chairman, I rise in opposition to Mr. Ask's proposal. The Style and Drafting Committee has submitted a very clear, simple ballot. I, defy anyone to make it clearer or simpler. Mr. Ask's ballot, by contrast, is extremely complex. It's a complicated version of Mr. Blaylock's go-for-broke ballot, which is a Russian roulette with five shells in the chamber. (Laughter) I might point out, in addition, that Mr. Ask's ballot points out that if you accidentally or intentionally go from one block to another, you void your ballot. A void ballot is a vote against the Constitution, because the total number of voters is determined by the number of people that pick up the ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Swanberg.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: I must rise to agree with the remarks made here by Mr. Roeder a moment ago, and what we're all grappling with here is a three-way vote, and it seems to me that Mr. Ask's proposal almost guarantees the defeat of the Constitution. Take, for example, 200,000 people going to the polls to vote for the Constitution or against it, and let's say 100,000 plus 1 vote

It would be possible then to have a no Legislature, is that right?

DELEGATE ASK: That is conceivable-it could happen, but I submit it's unlikely.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Then we'd be in the position of having to depend on something like Mr. Holland's amendment yesterday to get the old Constitution back in.

DELEGATE ASK: I haven't gone on from there, but this could happen, all right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Kelleher.

DELEGATE KELLEHER: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates. As a member of the Style and Drafting Committee-I was one of two members of that committee that voted in favor of Mr. Ask's proposal-and we spent 6 hours—what's today, Wednesday?-6 hours Monday afternoon and evening on this and all the time we spent here yesterday. And I've been thinking long and hard about these-this numbers game that we've been playing, and I am-strongly suspect that on June the sixth, there may be some unicameralists around the state who just might urge their people to vote for a unicameral Legislature and leave that first box blank. Now, this is a possibility that we have to consider, so I don't think that this fear that there will not be enough votes—they did gamble to a certain extent in Illinois and a large number of people, as I said yesterday, did not vote on the question of multidistrict, rather single districts-and yet it passed. Now, it's true that Illinois had the old constitution to fall back on, but I suspect that there's going to be a rather heavy vote on this question of bicameral and unicameralism. In fact, at least in my own county of Yellowstone, it's been the only real issue-big issue-in this entire-during the time of this entire Convention, and Mr. Ask's proposal is a very simple proposal. It's very easy to understand. It's true that if you vote on both boxes, you void the ballot, but you can void a paper ballot-the other ballot—just as easily as you can void Mr. Ask's. And I submit that this proposal of Mr. Ask's gives the people a real fair choice on the one overriding and the biggest-not overriding, but the largest and perhaps the gravest issue that has faced this Convention, which we have decided to pass on to the voters, whether we should have one-house or two-home Legislature.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Could I close on my motion, Mr. President, or someone else wish to speak? Oh, it's your motion, Tom; excuse me.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Ask, are you ready to close?
Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. Chairman, delegates. I've been on both sides of this for the last 2 days now, and I've sat and listened patiently. I listened all afternoon yesterday, and I was finally real pleased when one gentleman had the courage to rise and report progress and move along, because I could see we were all tired and wasn't getting anyplace. But the one thing that has finally come to me that I think is wrong with this particular ballot that is put out by the Style and Draft is the fact that it only has the unicameral before the people. I want both of them there so that they either have a choice, unicameral-bicameral—and I think we're making a mistake if we don't. As far as being hard to understand, even I can understand Tom Ask's; so if I can understand it, I know the people in my community can understand it. I don't think it's anything that would be real difficult to explain to the people. I just got to get off the idea that we can only have one thing down there for them to vote on—unicameral For, unicameral Against. If you'd asked me this morning, I might have felt different, but after studying this over the noon hour and thinking about it, I just think we're making a mistake if we don't put both names on there. I support Mr. Ask's on his.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Gysler.

DELEGATE GYSLER: Mr. Chairman, after contemplating this over nine holes in the golf course just a little while ago, where the weather was beautiful, I suggest we support the majority report.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Ask, do you want to close?
Mr. Jacobsen, do you want to speak?

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: I like Tom's proposal, It does give both parties-or both bicameral and unicameral a fair shake there. I still believe that possibly for the death penalty and for the authorized gambling, we should have separate ballots for those and possibly put these out-and possibly a light red, possibly, for the death penalty and a blue for the authorized gambling and a white for the other part-and have these separate ones, because I know that any others that have worked in the polling places as judges will know that when we've had special elections or elections for bond issues and so on, that that is a good way to get the vote and call attention to these things, especially for those people that have come to vote because of either one of these articles; and we hope that this will bring a lot of people out to vote; and I think then it wouldn't be as confusing to have all of these squares on the one ballot. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Erdmann.

DELEGATE ERDMANN: Mr. President, I rise in complete support of Tom Ask's proposal, I think that when we campaigned, at least in our county, we assured the people they'd have a clear-cut decision between the unicameral and bicameral. I do not believe that this is too difficult a proposal if they use very large print in the top of the ballot, which assures the people that they vote either in block 1 or block 2. I do not believe it is too difficult, and it gives a clear-cut decision. Thank you, Mr. President.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman, I approve of the committee's report, and I would oppose Mr. Ask's report for the simple reason that I think it's too complicated. I would like a point of information here. Isn't it possible to change number 2 on this ballot, if we get back to it, for unicameral or for bicameral'?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It is.

DELEGATE BATES: Okay, that's all.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Garlington.

DELEGATE GARLINGTON: Mr. Chairman, I just want to comment on one subject here. I've heard again and again, yesterday and today, the thought that we must have a clear-cut decision between unicameral and bicameral. The facts of the matter are that this is utterly and totally impossible, because there is a third group to be reckoned with, just like Mr. Swanberg said, and that is the group that doesn't want to have any new Constitution at all; and if nobody were going to vote except those who were choosing the new Constitution, then you would have-we could easily frame the issue that would deal between the choice of "uni" or "bi". But in the nature of things, we have a third group in here; and that is what creates the hazard and that's why we dare not set it up so that we are in this position of voting on "uni" or "bi", in our idealism, and forgetting about the fact that those that are opposed to the whole project may succeed in defeating it with a very small minority of the actual numbers of people wanting progress in constitutional reform.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Romney.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman, I support the Ask proposal. I do it because it does give a choice, and the same arguments that were made by the delegate from Missoula apply to the majority report-or plan which is before us, because the same people who would vote against the Constitution for any reason, being against it and not for either bicameral or unicameral, would also vote against the majority report. There's not so much opportunity for that in the Z-block system of Mr. Ask's, and so I support the Ask proposal.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. James.

DELEGATE JAMES: Mr. Chairman, will Mr. Ask yield?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Ask?

DELEGATE ASK: Yes, I'll yield.

DELEGATE JAMES: Tom, there's something bothers me. If you vote against the proposed Constitution and you vote for a unicameral Legislature, you're actually amending the old Constitution, aren't you?

DELEGATE ASK: Oh, I suppose-indirectly.

DELEGATE JAMES: Yes, but can you amend it-is this legal to amend it this way? This is something that's bothering me.

DELEGATE ASK: Well, if the alternates pass and the main proposition fails, all alternates fail, so-but, I mean, even though they vote against, you're still giving the right to vote For a unicameral-bicameral. or Against-For/Against the death penalty and For or Against gambling. And—

DELEGATE JAMES: But, actually, you're just voting For or Against the Constitution, and if the "For" carries, then the other things apply; otherwise, the top item doesn't-the "uni" or "bi"-if you're Against.

DELEGATE ASK: If the top item doesn't carry, why, the entire thing is defeated.

DELEGATE JAMES: Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Ask, you may close.

DELEGATE ASK: On Tuesdays we trust the Legislature. On-this is Wednesday-we trust the voters. And I think they're intelligent enough to go through this, and I think my ballot gives them a clear choice of what they want to do. And it is possible, but it is inconceivable to me, that you wouldn't receive a majority for either a bicameral or a unicameral Legislature; and even though they vote against, I still think they have the right and will want the right to vote on these three alternatives; and I think this is the only one that gives us a clear choice. The majority report of the Style and Drafting-I can't predict how that's going to come out, because the bicameral is in there and just the unicameral mentioned separately, What's the effect of this? I don't know. But I think-my ballot, you have a clear choice. You either go one way or the other. And with that I close, Mr. Chairman, CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, we'll have a roll call vote. So many as shall be in favor of the Ask proposal, vote Aye; so many as shall be opposed, vote No. Has everybody voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 21 delegates voting Aye, 70 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 21 having voted Aye and 70 having voted No, Mr. Ask's proposal is defeated. Now, the Chair considers the issue now to be the Style and Drafting Committee's majority proposal, which, in fact, is the same as Davis' through 1 and 2.

Mr. Harbaugh.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: I'd like to take up the challenge that Mr. Roeder offered a moment ago about simplifying this. I am wondering why, in the second part on the unicameral option, that there are two choices—For unicameral and Against unicameral? It seems to me that those persons who are—who want a bicameral Legislature get two votes. They vote for the Constitution, thereby they vote for bicameral. Then they come down to Section 2 and they vote against unicameral, thereby they get another vote. And it would seem to me to simplify this ballot very much if we simply eliminated 2-B and allowed the people to either cast a Yes or No vote for unicameral, or vote for unicameral.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Swanberg.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: I am in complete agreement, Mr. President, with Mr. Harbaugh's comments, and I would move at this time that line marked 2-B be deleted from the proposed ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Mr. Swanberg has an amendment which would eliminate line 2-B—2-B—from the ballot, so it would—so the sense of it would be that if you wanted to vote for unicameral, you could check it; but you didn't need to check against unicameral, you already having voted, presumably, up above. That's the sense of his motion.

Mr. Driscoll.

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: Mr. Chairman, I propose a substitute motion for the motion now pending—that the words "Against the unicameral" be stricken and that the words "For a bicameral, two-house Legislature" be inserted.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Mr. Driscoll has a substitute motion, the effect of which is to change, in line 2-B, the "Against" to "For" and the "unicameral" to "bicameral" so it would read: "For a bicameral". In other words, in the second vote, you would have "For a unicameral" or "For a bicameral". I might point out this has the effect of being ballot number 1 yesterday and, in my view, is the Joyce amendment of yesterday and is another alternative way of presenting this issue. Mr. Driscoll, have I fairly stated your motion?

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, we'll discuss Mr. Driscoll's motion.

Mr. Hanson—Rod.

DELEGATE ROD HANSON: Mr. President, this seems to be a question of 2-B or not 2-B—(Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: We'll let that pass, Mr. Hanson.

DELEGATE ROD HANSON: Okay, it's a point of interest then. The way this is set up, do you need a majority or do you need 50 percent plus one vote in item 2 for a bicameral Legislature, if we put it in, or would the vote above take precedence over the bottom vote?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The vote above—it's the Chair's understanding, and I'll just try and answer that—it's the Chair's understanding that the word "majority" in the box up there says that when you voted up there, assuming a majority vote for the Constitution and you have the bicameral, then it takes a majority under 2 to prevail, so unicameral would have to get a majority there. Now, bicameral, if it got a majority there—it would have already been in above, so it wouldn't matter whether it got it or not—but if it got it, it wouldn't harm anything.

Mr. Harper, I think you were up next.

DELEGATE HARPER: Yes. I like the way this is worded, and I'd just as soon take it to court after the election, because it says: "The proposed Constitution includes a bicameral Legislature unless replaced by a majority vote for a unicameral in issue 2 immediately below." Now, I submit to you that the average person, when he is voting in the issue below, issue 2—if he saw that one got more than the other, he would call that a majority vote. But what we know we mean—we're not telling the voter this—but we know we mean that a majority of all of those who vote in this election, whether they vote in issue 2 or not—you could get a majority on one of those down there. Actually, of course, the bicameral doesn't have to get any votes. That's not really the issue. I'm glad to see the bicameral in it. I'm going to go for these words. The unicameral has to get 51 percent of the total electors voting in the election or it has no chance. It's quite conceivable that a unicameral could get a majority in number 2 and still not become the law; and I think a lot of people, if not confused, would be downright mad about that. So if we keep this wording the way it is, then I hope we'll go to court and go to bat for the majority vote; and if we don't mean that, then I think we ought to rephrase the language in this box and make it perfectly plain that you have to have a majority of all the people voting in this election before 2-A has a chance of carrying. You see the point?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper, I see the point, and if we happen to adopt Mr. Driscoll's motion, it's conceivable that the language in the box would have to be changed. Actually, the way the committee drew it up, it is technically correct—that a majority still is a majority and unicameral would have to have a majority of—a majority is defined by the Constitution in the Enabling Act—before anything could happen, no matter what we told them.

DELEGATE HARPER: Mr. Chairman, let me read you again—"replaced by a majority vote in issue 2 immediately below." I submit to you that when people vote in issue 2, they will think a majority is the one that gets the most votes. Now, I don't believe I'm that dumb. I think the average citizen reading that will know that. Unless he knows—We spoke to a couple of members of the Supreme Court yesterday morning. We raised this issue, and they did not understand that this was in there.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You're not implying that the Supreme Court actually discussed this with you, are you? Because that would seem to me to be—

DELEGATE HARPER: I discussed it with them.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You just tell us which ones those are. You won't use those when you take it to court, because that—

DELEGATE HARPER: (Inaudible)—all discussed—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: —would not be proper for a judge to do, Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: We were not discussing the ballot. They said they were not aware of this complication in the Enabling Act.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, well—they should not be discussing our ballot. They might be sitting on it, so I trust that nobody will put the Supreme Court in that terrible position again. I am very serious about that. You should not discuss constitutional issues with Supreme Court judges until they get there, so let's all stay away from them on this issue. You can go there afterwards, but we shouldn't prejudge them. I just point that out to the whole body. We really ought to stay away from the Supreme Court and let them have a fair chance to decide it, Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: I didn't discuss a constitutional issue with them, Mr. Chairman, but I won't go into a long speech to refute your reputation of what you assume we talked about when you didn't know.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You said it; I didn't, Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: I'm still up on this point and I think it's valid. I think the average citizen would read that and say that it means a majority vote in issue 2, since that's what it says, and I'd like to see that wording changed.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is on Mr. Driscoll's substitute motion to put the words "for a bicameral" in the second section.

Mr. Anderson.

DELEGATE OSCAR ANDERSON: Mr. President, a point of clarification. If someone voted for the Constitution and then later on, say in Section 2-A and 2-B, marked both of them, would that void the whole ballot or just that portion of the ballot that they voted for both—say 2-A and 2-B, or if they done this on 3 and 4?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It says in 2, "Vote for one". It says in 1, "Vote for one". It says in each of them, "Vote for one"; if you vote for two, you've—in my judgment, you have voided your ballot.

DELEGATE OSCAR ANDERSON: The entire ballot?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I don't know the answer to that. Maybe some other attorneys would like to judge that, but I don't know.

DELEGATE OSCAR ANDERSON: Does anyone else want to answer that question? I think that's an—important for us to consider.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. McDonough.

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: Mr. Chairman, I don't think you would void the ballot. I had an occasion to look that up one time in an election. You only void the position that you vote for if you don't properly mark the "X" in the right box, and not the whole ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Heliker.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Mr. Chairman, I support Mr. Driscoll's amendment because I think it will give a clearer choice and perhaps attract more votes to the issue and give us a better poll—and that's all it's going to be is a poll. I have prepared some arithmetic on this question of the chance of the unicameral prevailing as a side issue, and I conclude that there's about a 95 percent probability that has no chance whatsoever. This would be true, of course, if we put the bicameral as a side issue, too. In other words, the one we put in the Constitution is almost certain to be adopted. Now, I had that printed and I would have had it on your desks by now, but steno pool made an error, so it had to go back through the process. You will get it a little later. But I think that on any reasonable assumptions that you make that the statement the Chair made yesterday that there would be a slight disadvantage to the one that's on the side ballot is quite wide of the mark, and that, as a matter of fact, the ones on the side ballot has no chance at all of being adopted except in very, very unusual circumstances.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is on Mr. Driscoll's substitute motion that we substitute the words on line 2-B, "For a bicameral, two-house, Legislature" in place of "Against a unicameral, one-house, Legislature". Mr. Ask, do you want to discuss it further?

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Chairman, would Mr. Schiltz yield to a question, please?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I yield.

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Schiltz, if on the Driscoll amendment, that'll be for a bicameral—that'd be 2-B—say there is more votes for the unicameral than the bicameral yet it's not a majority equal to the ones voted for the Constitution, what would be the result?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: You're saying what Mr. Harper was inquiring?

DELEGATE ASK: Was that his inquiry?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, you're saying that perhaps unicameral prevailed or bicameral prevailed—or whatever—by, say, 46 percent of the total vote cast?

DELEGATE ASK: Yes.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I would say that it would lose, and I say it would lose because the law is what the law is, no matter whether we add that language or don't add that language up in the box.

DELEGATE ASK: I see. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. President, I support the Driscoll amendment, and I will offer, when we get through with that, an amendment to the wording in the box to clarify it so the people will know exactly what they're doing.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Gysler.

DELEGATE GYSLER: Mr. Chairman, I speak in opposition to the Driscoll amendment and for the majority report, because it just seems as though this eliminates all of the confusion and all of the things that might happen in case of these minority votes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Swanberg.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Mr. President, I also rise in opposition to the Driscoll amendment, because it puts us right back where we were, where we have a fractured vote divided into three components, where perhaps nothing might pass. We've got to allow—I should say we have to provide a ballot here that will allow the Constitution to pass, and if we, down in item 2-B and 2-A, give them a choice between unicameral and bicameral, those in favor of the Constitution—this has been said about a hundred times now, but I'll say it again—those in favor of the Constitution divide themselves up into two camps, neither of which will constitute a majority of those voting, and we wind up again with a Constitution without a Legislature.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Mr. Chairman, I rise in support of the Driscoll amendment because I think it will be the only true picture we get of how the voters feel about unicameral or bicameral. Otherwise, we will never know by those who voted Yes for the Constitution, because I am sure that most of those who favor unicameral will vote Yes. They will not refrain from voting or vote No, for that reason, but we'll have no conception of the feeling about unicameral. And if some of us want to mount an initiative campaign or do something along this line, we'll have no way of knowing what the true picture is unless we adopt something similar—or—I would like to see the Driscoll amendment adopted.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harbaugh.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Mr. Chairman, I wonder if there isn't another problem. I wonder if the language in the box might not imply to some voters that the bicameral we're thinking of is the-in fact, the bicameral Legislature of the old Constitution and that if they thought that, they might feel that they were voting, then, for the Legislative Article as it exists in the old Constitution and that when they came down to the second part, they might then feel that they were voting for the new proposals. And I think this would be seriously misleading the public, and I would have to vote against the Driscoll amendment on that basis.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Warden.

DELEGATE WARDEN: Mr. President, I have a question, and maybe I'm stupid-I guess maybe I am on this-but I would like to know what would happen on 2-A and 2-B under the Driscoll plan if the bicameral didn't get 51 percent and the unicameral didn't get 51 percent and the proposed Constitution in box 1 had enough votes. Well, that has the bicameral in it. Where would we be?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Then the bicameral would be the Constitution, Mrs. Warden. That's the purpose of putting the bicameral in the Constitution.

DELEGATE WARDEN: Yes, but if you didn't vote on it down below to get a 51 percent, wouldn't that count?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It wouldn't matter if it didn't get 51 below if it got 51 above.

DELEGATE WARDEN: Okay, thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, Mr. Driscoll, you may close.

Well, Mr. Aasheim, do you want to speak?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Yes, Mr. President. I support the Driscoll amendment. I think it's a clear ballot and there would be no question in the minds of the people, when they're voting, how they stand. As Mrs. Reichert said, we would then have a poll on how the populace stood on the two issues.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Driscoll, you may close.

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: Mr. Chairman, I close. Everything has been said, and we'll do our business now.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, we'll have a roll call vote; and the sense of what you're voting on now is whether to—Mr. Driscoll proposes making the second vote there, one between unicameral and bicameral; whereas, the committee proposal makes the second vote one between being for and against the unicameral. And, assuming the bicameral's in, you're now choosing the manner in which the one that's outside will appear. It will either appear as unicameral only or it will appear as unicameral and bicameral; and under either circumstance, there may be changes we need to make in the box above. Very well; so many as may be in favor of Mr. Driscoll's amendment, which puts the words "For a bicameral house" in as 2-B, vote Aye; and so many as are opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, cast the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 68 delegates voting Aye, 27 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, since 68 have voted Aye and 27 No, Mr. Driscoll's motion passes and the second ballot now reads: "2-A, For a unicameral, one-house; 2-B, For a bicameral, two-house, Legislature."

Mr. Swanberg, this has, in my opinion, the effect of deleting your motion, which was to delete 2-B, but if you want to put it again, we'll test it.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: I think it would be futile, Mr. President. Nevertheless, I think the matter is important enough and I would ask for a roll call vote on my motion to delete.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Swanberg has again put the issue of whether to delete line 2-B, the point being that we'd now be deleting the line that says, "For a bicameral, two-house, Legislature." He wants a roll call vote. Is there any discussion?

Mrs. Bugbee.

DELEGATE BUGBEE: Mr. Chairman, could Mr. Schiltz discuss this? What are the implications-what would be the implications of this? It sounds like a good idea to me.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: You're talking about deleting 2-B altogether?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I have no brief for it, one way or another. I think that the people ought to be given a choice, and that's what the committee decided, and so we, I think unanimously on that proposition, decided that we would give the people a choice in that connection. I don't-as to effect, I have no idea what the effect would be. I think the people could adopt the unicameral by voting for it there and overcome the bicameral that's in the first proposition by so doing, but I think they could also do it with two boxes-or two choices.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the—

Mrs. Bates, do you want to discuss his motion to delete line Z-B?

DELEGATE BATES: Yes. Mr. Chairman, if you did this and you left your first statement up above, that vote on all four issues, there really isn't a choice then. Either you would have to put "For a unicameral, Yes or No", or leave it as it is or change that again, because you have to provide the voters with a choice.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think you're right. We might have to say, "you may vote on all four", but you couldn't say they should.

Very well, Mr. Swanberg, do you want to close?

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Just a few brief comments, Mr. President. We want to make this ballot as simple as possible and as easy to understand as possible, and we want to prepare a ballot whereby the Constitution can pass. It's pointless to stay here for 60 days working on a proposed Constitution and then submit a ballotthat's so complicated that it cannot possibly pass the voter or one which, by the laws of probability and the rules of arithmetic, could not possibly pass the voters. Now, I submit for your consideration that the voter, when he goes to the polls, has three choices. He can vote for the Constitution or he can vote against the Constitution, and then he has one third choice wherein--whereby he puts in a unicameral alternate if he wants it. Those are the three choices he has, and those are-those should be all that he has. To put a fourth one in simply muddies the water. Poll-taking is, I suppose, a nice thing to do; but when we're trying to get a Constitution passed, let's forget about taking polls; let's concentrate on trying to pass the Constitution. I would further submit for your consideration that those who favor the unicameral article would themselves be taking a poll by voting on that issue, so all we need here is three items-for the Constitution, against the Constitution, and for the unicameral alternate--and that's all we should submit to the people.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Wilson, for what purpose do you rise? Do you want to discuss it?

DELEGATE WILSON: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well.

DELEGATE WILSON: I hesitate to get up here, but I think that by the act of our last vote, we have caused a legal question on our ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, we're not quite through with it yet, Mr. Wilson. Very well, I guess that we're ready to vote. It'll be a roll call vote. All those in favor of Mr. Swanberg's proposal to strike 2-B entirely, vote Aye; and all those opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, cast the ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank is on the aisle where you are. Will you take that to him, please, quickly.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 21 delegates voting Aye, 71 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 21 having voted Aye and 71 having voted No, Mr. Swanberg's motion is defeated.

Now, Mr. Mahoney, Mr. Habedank has a motion before the Chair, but I'm asking him about a word, and I think I want him to be next. Now, if you want to—

DELEGATE MAHONEY: (Inaudible)-point of information.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, that would be a fine thing to take the time.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Could we have the Chairman of the Style and Drafting Committee tell me just where we are in Section 2 now, in relation to the majority?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I assume, Mr. Mahoney, that you're asking about whether the law that I explained and went through yesterday still obtains? Certainly, it does. We still need, down in Section 2, to get 50 percent of the vote, plus one, to overturn a bicameral Legislature. Is that your question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Mahoney.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Well, this-we go back to the board-say that the Constitution passes, then we go down here in the unicameral and we get 40 percent unicameral and we get 35 percent bicameral. Where are we at?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Then we still have the Constitution with the bicameral in it on the vote for the Constitution up above.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And, Mr. Mahoney, the point of Mr. Habedank's motion is to clean up the language in the box a little there, because we've changed the word down below.

Mr. Habedank, do you wish to make your amendment?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Yes, Mr. President.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Allright. Have you got a copy of it?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: I have it. Would you read it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, Mr. Habedank proposes an amendment which says: "I move to amend the words in the box to read as follows: The proposed Constitution includes a bicameral, two-house Legislature unless replaced by a majority vote"-then he would add this language—"of those voting at this election, voting for a unicameral, one-house Legislature in issue 2 immediately below." Is that right? Do you want that second voting in?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Strike the voting. I agree with you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Strike the voting. All right, then it would say "a majority vote of those voting at this election for a unicameral, one-house Legislature on issue number 2 immediately below." In other words, he's added the words, "of those voting at this election", so it says, "a majority vote of those voting at this election, for a unicameral Legislature on issue number 2 below." And it has the effect, Mr. Mahoney, of clearing up Mr. Harper's point that the word "majority vote" is then defined as a certain majority vote; namely, a majority vote of those voting at this election. Is that right, Mr. Habedank?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: That's my intent, Mr. President. I feel that, with this, we are telling the people exactly what's going to happen. There's no question about it, even though the law may be otherwise, and I don't think that words are that-or a shortage of words is that important.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, on the contrary, I submit that Mr. Habedank has compounded the felony and made it possible to read that if the-what Mr. Mahoney was just asking-if down below there's a 35 and a 38 percent vote, one of those is going to carry. Now, if you read that carefully, that's what happens. It reads just like this: "The proposed Constitution includes a bicameral, two-house Legislature unless replaced by a majority vote of those voting at this election for a unicameral."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, he's got "at this election comma".

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I don't-1 submit that that comma is not all that effective. I think it's more misleading than it was.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, all right, but he does have it there. May the Chair inquire of Mr. Schiltz—would you prefer if it said a majority vote of the total cast on ballot number 1?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I heard Mr. Murray say yesterday that ballot number 1 is what the Secretary of State is going to adopt, and I don't trust the Secretary of State all that much. I have the feeling that if, down there on item number 4, we got 210,000 votes and on item number 1 we got 200,000 votes that he, by golly, ought to say that the total number of votes cast at this election was 210,000 votes. What Frank Murray says has never impressed me all that much, and it impresses me less on this subject. My point, Mr. Chairman, so far as the box is concerned--and I said it just a minute ago, and I think that any lawyer in the place would probably-or most of them, at least--would probably agree with me, that we don't need to delineate the law. The law is what the law is; and if it turns out that an odd voter misunderstands that and turns out to be disappointed, that's too bad, because the law is what the law is; and I don't think we need to play with that language at all.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Eck, I think you were up before.

DELEGATE ECK: Mr. Chairman, would Mr. Schiltz yield for a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I yield.

DELEGATE ECK: Mr. Schiltz, would it clarify it at all-you know, thinking that some of us would like it clarified-if we say, "unless a majority of all those voting on this ballot-or in this election, vote for a unicameral Legislature in issue 2 immediately below"?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That would be infinitely better than what Mr. Habedank proposed. It would probably only clarify it if we printed the entire debate thattookplaceyesterday on the question of 50 percent plus one. I don't think we need to do any of that.

DELEGATE ECK: Mr. Chairman, I would like to submit this as a substitute amendment. Would you like to get me to take it up in writing?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, just a minute. If you'll make-If you'll read it to me slowly.

DELEGATE ECK: Okay.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "Unless"-after "unless".

DELEGATE ECK: "--unless a majority of all those voting in this election-or on this ballot"-whichever you think would be better— "on this ballot vote for a unicameral", et cetera.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank, have you heard that language?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Unless a majority of those voting on this ballot vote what?

DELEGATE ECK: For a unicameral—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "-for a unicameral Legislature in issue number 2 immediately below."

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. Chairman, I don't think that takes away the effect of what I'm trying to do, and as far as Mr. Schiltz's position is concerned, I can agree with him. What we say probably won't affect the law, and that applies to what we say here as well as what he says, and I think what we're trying to say is a lot more coherent than what he's trying to say.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: How about what Mrs. Eck is trying to say? (Laughter)

DELEGATE HABEDANK: I like what Mrs. Eck is trying to say.

DELEGATE ECK: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Brown just made another suggestion here and— which might clarify it a little better. He said that it might be better to have "also vote for a unicameral". In other words, at the end of the amendment, add an "also".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "-unless a majority of all those voting on this ballot also vote for a unicameral, one-house Legislature in issue number 2 immediately below."

DELEGATE ECK: That's right. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Now, just a minute so I keep straight up here. Mrs.-I'll allow Mrs. Eck's substitute amendment, and then we can defeat it or pass it. All right, now, the Chair will reset the stage, and then we'll discuss it. The box you have before you--now, Mr. Habedank moved that after the word "majority vote", we add "a majority vote of those voting at this election, for a unicameral, one-house, Legislature." Mrs. Eck has now made a substitute motion that we start up a little higher, at the word "unless", and it would say: "The proposed Constitution includes a bicameral, two-house, Legislature unless a majority of all those voting on this ballot also vote for a unicameral, one-house, Legislature in issue Number 2 below." That's the issue. Now, who'd like to discuss it?

Mr. Harbaugh.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Mr. Chairman, I'd like to direct a question to Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: I yield.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Mr. Habedank, was the intent of-would the intent of what you meant in your original motion be clarified if we said, "of those voting for or against the Constitution"?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: No, I don't feel it would. I think "voting on this ballot", as Mrs. Eck has it, would cover the situation--or "voting on this proposition"--or any one of a number of words can be used.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: Mr. Chairman, it seems to me that we're still somewhat confused by "voting on this ballot", that phrase, whether that applies to all of the subsections or whether it applies just to the first section of this ballot, and if the intention is to count as-for the purpose of determining majority-just those who vote for or against the Constitution, then I think that's what we ought to say.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, that might be, Mr. Harbaugh. The Chair would just observe that Mr. Schiltz's point is still well taken. It doesn't matter what we say. Unless they get an absolute majority, nobody can allow unicameral in, so it really doesn't matter as long as you're not-it doesn't matter how you count it. It doesn't matter if you count 1, 2, 3, or 4—until an absolute majority of what the court will hold eventually is the number 1 issue, it doesn't matter; but if you want to make another one after we've amended or voted on these two, we can have another go at it.

Mrs. Eck.

DELEGATE ECK: Mr. Chairman, I really think that Mr. Schiltz is right here, that probably the more words we add, the more confusing it's going to be. We're not following our exact words down below, and I would like to withdraw my amendment.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Eck's is withdrawn. All right, Mr. Habedank's is not, yet, so we're voting on whether or not to add, after the words "a majority vote"-the phrase "a majority vote of those voting at this election, for a unicameral, one-house, election-one-house Legislature".

Mr. Choate.

DELEGATE CHOATE: Mr. Chairman, I think the further we go with this, the more confused we do become. And I wonder if it is necessary to put this information on the ballot, at all, that's contained in this box; and as a substitute motion, I would move that we delete it. It's certainly going to confuse the voters.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, Mr. Choate, I'm going to let you put that motion if you want to, but seven lawyers on Style and Drafting and the President and several other lawyers I've talked to all agree that you must have some language like this, otherwise Mr. Aasheim's point yesterday, that everybody that votes in the first box must be counted for bicameral, makes it impossible for unicameral ever to win if the Constitution wins. Do you follow us?

DELEGATE CHOATE: Well, I don't understand why that is so. Perhaps it is. For what reason would it be necessary that—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Because the Constitution would necessarily include bicameral, and when you vote it up there, if you don't have this caveat in there, then the court is going to hold that a vote up at the top is a vote for bicameral.

DELEGATE CHOATE: Well, I think it would anyway. Of course it would anyway, if it's in the document; but if we tell-why do we need to say that bicameral is contained in it? The fact that it is in the document-it appears to me that to state it again here is not necessary and would only add to the confusion of it. That's the point I make. We have a clear-cut choice for unicameral or bicameral down here in item 2, and it looks to me as though this is just superfluous to-and confusing. That's the point of it. I thinkit'll just add to the confusion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, are you making your motion as a substitute motion? I've got one substitute motion, so I don't see how you can make another substitute motion. Oh, no, Mrs. Eck withdrew.

DELEGATE CHOATE: She withdrew, and hers was a substitute amendment to Mr. Habedank's motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, so you want to make a substitute motion anyway?

DELEGATE CHOATE: Well, yes, I do want to, Mr. Chairman, unless it is going to pose a legal problem if the—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, in the Chair's view, it's going to make the ballot illegal. Now, the Chair can come down on the floor and explain that if necessary, or maybe some of the other lawyers can, but—

DELEGATE CHOATE: No, that's all right. I'll take the Chair's word for it. If it is going to pose a legal problem, I'll withdraw the motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's going to cause the court to hold that the first votes up there must necessarily be counted for bicameral, and then any votes in 2 are going to be added to that and it's going to be impossible for unicameral ever to get more than 51 percent-51 percent having been necessary at the first line-to ever get the thing adopted anyway. So you have effectively stopped any possibility of unicameral winning if you do that. Now, do you want to not make your motion?

DELEGATE CHOATE: I'll withdraw the motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, the issue is on Mr. Habedank's motion to add the words "of those voting at this election" into the box.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I have another proposal here that I'd like to make as a substitute motion to Mr. Habedank's, and I think maybe it'll clarify it. It would read like this: "The proposed Constitution includes a bicameral, two-house, Legislature which becomes law unless the majority of those voting at this election vote for a unicameral Legislature in issue number 2 immediately below."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "—which becomes law unless-"

DELEGATE AASHEIM: "-which becomes law unless the majority of those voting at this election vote for a unicameral Legislature in issue 2 immediately below."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "--unless a majority of those voting at this election vote for"-just-1 can't write faster—

DELEGATE AASHEIM: "-vote for a unicameral Legislature in issue 2 immediately below." Mr. Chairman, Mr. Schiltz—would Mr. Schiltz yield to a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Nobody's got the floor yet. Just a minute. I have to get it down or else I lose it and it never gets taken care of. All right, Mr. Aasheim has a substitute motion which would say: "The proposed Constitution includes a bicameral, two-houses, Legislature"-he takes that much, and then he adds-"which becomes law unless a majority of those voting at this election vote for a unicameral, two-house, Legislature in issue 2 below"-immediately below, if you want to put it in there. I don't know.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Mr. Chairman, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Will Mr. Schiltz yield to a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: (Inaudible)

DELEGATE AASHEIM: How does that sound for size?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, at first-my first impression was-it was all right, but it assumes that it's going to be law if number 1 is adopted, and, of course, number 1 might not be adopted. Now, the same might be said-it might be relieved by the word "proposed Constitution includes a bicameral". As we have it, I don't think we have the disability that you put in there by saying "which becomes law", because it won't become law unless number 1 is adopted.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I'll leave it for the assembly to decide.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You'll what?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: I'll leave it for the assembly. I won't withdraw at this time.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You won't withdraw it?

DELEGATE AASHEIM: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay. It's not withdrawn, it's up for discussion.

Mr. Roeder.

DELEGATE ROEDER: Will Mr. Habedank lead-or yield to a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Yes, I will.

DELEGATE ROEDER: Now, your proposal was, after the words "majority vote", to include "of those voting in this election".

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Yes, to correspond with our present Constitution.

DELEGATE ROEDER: I'm not sure I understood Mr. Schiltz's demurrer when he said the law is the law, but I think I see one problem that the addition of your words might bring about. Now, it is possible, I think, Mr. Habedank, that the provision that we're trying to surmount, that is in Section 8 of Article XIX of the present Constitution, does not really necessarily go into effect for 2, 3 and 4. Now, I was not one of the lawyers in the Style Committee that the Chair referred to, but I have a notion that you could interpret Section 8, Article XIX, in such a way that it would not apply, so that if you had a simple majority on 2, 3 and 4 that was not, an absolute majority of the total vote in number 1, that they would still be valid. If my interpretation is right, would not the inclusion of your language change that and remove that possibility?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Are you asking me a question?

DELEGATE ROEDER: Uh-huh.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Yes, Mr. Roeder, I feel sure it would; and originally when I approached this proposition, I approached it from the standpoint that if the Constitution started out-or the vote started out for the proposed Constitution, including the alternate proposals receiving the majority votes cast for each alternate below, that would meet the test ofobjections in the Supreme Court, but I really don't feel that it's fair to run that risk here, much as I would like to have it that way. I think it's better to clarify it the way I have it clarified and eliminate that possibility. It says straight-out what it is, and ifthe body doesn't want to go for it, then I think it's something else; but as I look at it, as the Style and Drafting Committee has proposed this ballot, your construction is possible and we can have the lawsuit that George Harper said we could have; and I think we should clarify it at this stage.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Burkhardt.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: Mr. Chairman and fellow delegates, I would rise as a member of the Style and Drafting Committee and salute the legal work of the seven minds that have been wrestling with this and our Chairman and Gardner Cromwell and two other legal assistants in the group. They've come up with terse, lean language which does not spell out everything but which does make the issue crystal-clear for the voter. If he's going to make it on the unicameral, he's got to have a majority of voters coming in on 2-A, and the main purpose for its being there is for his information as he moves through the ballot, and there is no question. The legal suit may be filed, but it will lose. There is no question, I have been convinced by these many good legal minds. It's clear as the Style and Drafting has presented it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: Mr. Chairman, I thought I might indicate, for the consideration of the body, the problem that was confronting Style. The suggestion that Mr. Roeder makes is that the language "approved by a majority of electors voting at this election" may only apply to an amendment of the 1889 Constitution and may not necessarily be applicable to the proposed Constitution. This has been the problem that Style lawyers have wrestled with during the last week, and we all, I think, are in agreement that we ought not to risk that possible interpretation. In other words, we felt that there was sufficient doubt as to whetherit did or did not apply to the new Constitution that we ought to adopt it so that there was no question. I believe that accepting Mr. Habedank's amendment does, in a measure, also clarify and sustain this position that these amendments--or these alterations as to unicameral or bicameral, particularly as to unicameral, ought to be carried only if a majority of those voting at the election approve it. Therefore, I prefer Mr. Habedank's language because it is consistent with Section 8 of Article XIX and does resolve any possible conflict that the Style lawyers were confronted with. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Mr. Chairman, I am going to withdraw my amendment in favor of the wording in the box as proposed by the Style and Drafting Committee.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, Mr. Aasheim's is withdrawn. Now, I wish you'd all listen. The Chair has a proposed amendment from Mr. Brown. I wish Mr. Schiltz and all of you experts would listen-see if it's any better. "The proposed Constitution will include a bicameral, two-house, Legislature unless a majority of those voting in this election choose a unicameral, one-house, Legislature in issue 2 immediately below." Now, it's very similar to the Committee's except it says the proposed Constitution will include a bicameral unless a majority of those voting, which is Mr. Aasheim's language, in this election— unless a majority of those voting in this election choose a unicameral, one-house, Legislature in issue 2 immediately below. It seems to change it from a slightly legalistic to a more personable statement, but I don't know whether it's any better.

What do you think, Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's satisfactory with me. It gets away from that trouble I had with Mr. Habedank's, as though you were saying if you vote for one of these things below and get a majority, that it carries.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: What do you think, Mr. Habedank?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: I like it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: What do you think, Mr. Berg?

DELEGATE BERG: I would prefer that it use the language "replaced by" instead of "choose".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "--unless a majority of those voting in this election replaced by"-it can't. It's got to say "choose". It's the people who choose.

DELEGATE BERG: "-is replaced by."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Oh-bicameral unless a majority of those voting in this election choose a unicameral Legislature''—I don't see where you can put in "replaced by".

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: Do you mean ''vote for", rather than "choose"-to vote for, rather than choose?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I'll read mine and then you can read it back: "The proposed"--or I'll read Brown's: "The proposed committee--or the proposed Constitution will include a bicameral, two-house, Legislature unless a majority of those voting in the election choose a unicameral, one-house, Legislature in issue 2 immediately below." Now, we could say "unless a majority of those voting in the Legislature vote for a unicameral", but choose is-probably has the advantage of being one letter shorter.

Mr. Berg.

DELEGATE BERG: I yield.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown, you'd better get this in. Do you want to make a motion?

DELEGATE BROWN: Yes, I'll move, Mr. President, but I think maybe instead of "choose", "vote for" would be better, because we do say "For" in issue 2.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right.

DELEGATE BROWN: So, with that amendment, I will move that as-1 don't know what I'm moving-a substitute motion? Or a motion? Or amendment?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, just a minute and I'll find out. Mr. Habedank, are you going to withdraw or are you going to stay in?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: No, I'll withdraw mine in favor of Mr. Brown's, with that change.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank's is withdrawn. You're just making a motion, Mr. Brown. You're making a motion that the language in the box be as follows-right? "The proposed Constitution will include a bicameral, two-house, Legislature unless a majority of those voting in this election vote for a unicameral, one-house, Legislature in issue 2 immediately below."

DELEGATE BROWN: I will so move.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, is there discussion of Mr. Brown's language?

Mr. Martin.

DELEGATE MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, I support the amendment. We're right back to what we adopted yesterday in Mr. Davis' motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Heliker.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Mr. Chairman, all these lawyers and political scientists have got me thoroughly confused. Would Mr. Schiltz yield to a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes, I yield.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Just exactly what is the issue? What is it you're trying—what is the problem that you're trying to solve here?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: With the box?

DELEGATE HELIKER: With this amendment of Mr. Brown's,

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I think you should ask Mr. Brown to yield. I can tell you what—

DELEGATE HELIKER: You all seem to be agreeing on it.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I asked if you meant the box. I'll start with the box. The purpose of the box is to warn people that there's an opportunity to replace the bicameral Legislature by voting in Number 2 below. Now, so far as I'm concerned, this language was all right. I sense that somebody has some disturbance about whether or not we have to put a further warning in there that they must carry the thing below by 50 percent of the vote plus one vote, so I don't have any trouble with this language if they want to do it. It's much better than what we had up till now, and so that's why I waved my hand and said it was all right.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Heliker.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Will Mr. Brown yield?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown?

DELEGATE BROWN: I will yield.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Would you answer my-the question which Mr. Schiltz didn't answer?

DELEGATE BROWN: Well, I don't know if I can. It seemed to be the sense of the people here that if you had 50 plus one vote for the Constitution but below there you had 48 percent for unicameral and 32 percent for bicameral, then the unicameral would not carry; but the people of Montana would be then thoroughly confused and say, "We voted for unicameral, why didn't we get it?" So we want to put right on the ballot-we can show them the ballot and say, "Here, it said 'a majority of those voting"'-so the people won't misunderstand. In other words, I'm afraid if you just say if a majority vote for unicameral, they will think they have carried unicameral when, in fact, they haven't.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Now, there was something else involved in this discussion somewhere along the line to the effect that, if I understood it correctly, that if we did not include Mr. Brown's or Mr. Habedank's language, then that there might be an interpretation that the vote on part 2 of the ballot was an amendment to the new Constitution and thus not subject to the requirement of the old Constitution in Article XIX. Now, may I ask the Chair to give us his explanation?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, the issue you raise was partly discussed by me and partly discussed by Mrs. Eck or Mrs. Bugbee or someone-Mr. Berg-but the point is that if you put nothing, if you put no box there-you see, we have now put the bicameral article in the Constitution. You're with us there? That's what we did yesterday.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now; having put it in there, if you put no box at all there, I think you force any court to say that when people vote for that Constitution, all those votes must really be counted for bicameral. And then if unicameral-you know, we can't even pass the Constitution unless we've got 51 percent, so automatically bicameral wins, because it had to have 51 percent or we have no Constitution anyway, and the vote on 2 becomes meaningless. In order to make the vote on 2 meaningful, you have to warn the public that it's possible to replace the one you put in with the one you are going to vote on below, so that's the purpose of the box. Now,-

DELEGATE HELIKER: Doesn't the box, as originally written, do that?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The box, as originally written, does that except-it does that in Mr. Schiltz's and my view, because it doesn't make any difference what we say, as long as we warn them the court is not going to let unicameral replace bicameral unless it has an absolute majority because of the Constitution and the Enabling Act.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Well, if we're all agreed on that, then I—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: But--wait a minute-wait a minute--I get to answer. But the question was raised by Mr. Harper, and I think legitimately, that when you say "unless replaced by a majority vote", without describing the majority vote, you could have a different majority vote on 2 than you had on 1; and as Mr. Brown just answered to you, we'd be in a funny position with the public if a majority-that is, more than half of those voting on only number 2 supported unicameral, but less than a majority of all the people voting on the ballot did, because then the people would think-since unicameral got a few more than bicameral, they'd think that unicameral won, but in fact it hadn't won because of the rule, so you have to state thatrule. Now, Mr. Brown has stated the rule-in the opinion of most of us here now, somewhat more skillfully than we originally stated it-by saying that the proposed Constitution will include this bicameral Legislature-so now they're all aware of that--unless a majority of those voting in the election-that's of all the people voting and not just on number 2—a majority of those voting in the election vote for a unicameral Legislature in issue 2 below. He's clearly pointed out that you got to have a majority, on number 2, of all of those in the election, not just on issue number 2, and in that sense his language is somewhat better than the original language in the box, in the opinion of those who have spoken so far.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, sir.

DELEGATE HELIKER: The problem is to-is one of informing the people, not of clearing up a legal question, is that right?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think that's right, but it never hurts to inform-to do them both at the same time.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Well, we were told first that the law would be the law, regardless of whether—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: What you're told is that if unicameral gets 50 percent less one, there is no way that any court or anybody else can put it into effect; so it doesn't matter how many votes it got-if it got all the votes in number 2 and nobody voted for bicameral, it wouldn't do unicameral any good unless it got 50 percent plus one.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Yes, and there is no question about that, regardless of what the wording is in the box?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, there's no question about that in the minds of the lawyers, because of the wording of the Enabling Act; but there is in Mr. Roeder's mind, and he may be entirely right; but the Enabling Act, which I read to you yesterday, does say, "must receive a majority"-the proposals-in the plural--must receive a majority of those voting at the election. Now, whatever that means. If that means all, it means all of it; if it means only the first, it means only the first. But since "proposals" is plural in the Enabling Act and since the Constitution, which I also read to you yesterday, says "a majority of those voting for the amendment, change, ratification"-there's about four words there and it's—and they're all modified by majority. Does that help you, Mr. Heliker?

DELEGATE HELIKER: Well, I'd like to ask Mr. Berg a question if I may.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay. Mr. Berg, you're up.

DELEGATE HELIKER: I want to get several legal opinions on this. I think it's a good policy in this Convention. Mr. Berg—

DELEGATE BERG: I yield.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Do I now understand correctly that there is no legal question to be cleared up here, that the law will be the same regardless of how you word this, whether you adopt Mr. Brown's amendment or not?

DELEGATE BERG: That would be my opinion, yes.

DELEGATE HELIKER: So, all we're doing is to inform the people.

DELEGATE BERG: We are informing the people by the ballot that it requires a majority of those voting at the election to carry unicameral.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Mr. Roeder's remarks, in your opinion, have no validity?

DELEGATE BERG: In my opinion, the—yes, I would agree with that.

DELEGATE HELIKER: All right. I'm more or less satisfied.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, the issue is on Mr. Brown's amendatory language for the box, and we'll vote on that after discussion, if anyone wants to discuss Mr. Brown's language further.

Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman, I would like to make a suggestion here because I think we are discussing the unicameral-bicameral only in this box, whereas, we also have two other alternate issues. I would like to suggest to this group something on-like this: "The alternate issues below, 2, 3 and 4, will only be adopted if the prevailing vote is passed by a majority vote of all voters voting in this election."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, now, Mrs.—

DELEGATE BATES: Would that be possible?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It would be possible to say that, but that isn't necessarily a true statement. Now, the problem is-and I'm sure Mr. Schiltz and some of us can clear you up-the problem does not arise in the gambling issue or in the death penalty issue because the language does not have to be changed in the Constitution if you fail to get a 50 plus one percent vote.

DELEGATE BATES: Well, then, it's agreed that these two issues will be in the Constitution as they are now, then, and that it-that really—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, now, we have to decide yet, and I've got three amendments up here on how the gambling wants to appear in there; but the point is that some language will appear in the Constitution on gambling and it doesn't have to be changed, no matter whether the one outside wins or loses, because it's a matter of just tacking on another phrase or taking out a phrase. But in the bicameral-unicameral, you really have to substitute one for the other. That's why we have to have the box and the language.

DELEGATE BATES: Okay.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Jacobsen.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Mr. President, Mr. Brown's move seems to me to be a good one, but now, what is the need for having box 2-B, then, when we have already explained this and where we know that if the-we vote for the proposed Constitution, it already includes the bicameral, why do we have to have any more than just one box below there, for a unicameral, one-house, Legislature?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, you don't-you really don't, Mr. Jacobsen, to get a vote, but you-but this body has decided a few minutes ago that they preferred putting bicameral-unicameral next to each other, rather than putting unicameral, Yes-No. They just felt the other form was fairer and more clear to the voter, and we've made that decision.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Then they would be voting, if they voted for the Constitution, it--already voting for bicameral. If they placed a vote in box 2 below, they'd be voting for bicameral again. Now, would that be the same as two votes for that bicameral?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, no. And it wouldn't matter whether bicameral got a majority or not below, it's already-if it-if we get a Constitution above; but unicameral, as the box clearly explains, cannot win unless it gets a majority.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Then this is an unfair advantage for the bicameral, because we're-got them in the box up there and we've got them in the Constitution, we've got them down there a third time.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, you're right to this extent, that when we decided to put bicameral in instead of unicameral, there is a sense in which it gets an advantage. Now whether that's a great advantage or not, I don't know. If we'd turned around and put unicameral in, the reverse would have been the case. And if we put neither in, then we're up against the Blaylock problem yesterday, that if we don't get 51 percent on one or the other, we have no Legislative Article; so you just can't have your cake and eat it, too. You've got to take some problem in one way or the other, but we just decided that it would be fairer to put unicameral and bicameral side by side, and the public gets a clear shot at which one they want, rather than just putting unicameral, Yes-No. Now, that's what we did when we voted for Mr.-well, when we voted for Mr. Driscoll, right. When we voted for Mr. Davis, we put bicameral in. That's the first major decision. The second major decision is to put bicameral and unicameral together on the outside instead of just unicameral.

DELEGATE JACOBSEN: Then we could reconsider and take 2-B out after we voted on the box language, couldn't we?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I'm sure we could. We could do it by suspending the rules tomorrow. (Laughter) Right; we could, though. You're right.

Now, Mr. Foster.

DELEGATE FOSTER: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates. One point I think we've made beyond a reasonable doubt is that no matter what we put in the box, the voters are not going to understand the situation-because after 2 days, we can't understand the situation clearly. And, secondly, I think that the original language of the committee was very concise, it did the job that was necessary, they discussed it adequately at length, and I support the original wording in the box of the majority of the committee. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Now, the issue is on Mr. Brown's language.

Mr. Hanson.

DELEGATE ROD HANSON: Mr. Chairman, I wonder if Delegate Sparks would yield to a question, please? (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Sparks, will you yield?

DELEGATE SPARKS: (Indicating no. No audible response)

DELEGATE ROD HANSON: Thank you, Mr. President. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Sparks says she will not yield on this particular question.

Mr. Swanberg.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Mr. President, there's a related problem here. It's not precisely on the point, but now that we have items 2-A and 2-B, where they have a choice between unicameral and bicameral, I'm wondering if that can stand alone in case the Constitution, up above, is defeated. That gets back to the philosophy of our approach here, whether we're going to submit the Constitution as a whole or whether we're going to allow bits and pieces of it to pass; and as it stands there, it would be possible for a voter to look at the ballot and say, "Well, I'm against the Constitution but I sure am in favor of a unicameral Legislature, so I'm going to vote for the unicameral Legislature and leave the upper part blank." I think we have to take this into account somewhere in that box, if we want to do it that way. Now, there's two schools of thought here. One is that we were sent here to write a Constitution and nothing else, and we're going to submit a Constitution and nothing else, with a couple of alternates. The other school of thought is, no, we can amend the Constitution at-that we now have with a Legislative Article. If you want to do the latter, then I would suggest that items 2-A and 2-B--the wording be changed; instead of saying, "For a unicameral, one-house, Legislature", it read, "For a unicameral, one-house, Legislative Article", so that if it does pass, why, we have the article to go on.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think, Mr. Swanberg, you raise a good point, and I think we should take it up, but I don't think it's material to the issue.

Mr. Johnson, do you want to discuss Mr. Brown's language?

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, I would like to discuss his language to this extent. I have a-I'd like to dress it up a little bit in an amendment to his language. May I do that? Am I in order?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I suppose you are. Do you want to shoot, and we'll see what you say.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: In the box, put a period after "Legislature" in the second line. Then the following language: "If you wish to vote for a unicameral Legislature, mark "X" in 2-A below."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, now, the Chair will allow that if you insist, but you haven't explained the problem to them and you haven't solved the problem by saying that.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: I think that this is very, very simple. Anybody can understand this language. It says that there-the proposed Constitution includes a bicameral Legislature and if you wish-but if you wish to vote for a unicameral Legislature, mark "X" in 2-A below.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, then does that mean that we get both a bicameral and a unicameral if they both pass'? (Laughter)

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Well, it looked awful simple to me. I guess-(Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's ex post facto. (Laughter) Now, Torrey, I think you've really got a problem, unless you go with Mr. Brown here, on your language. But if you want me to put it, I will.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, I'll withdraw, and let's go after Mr. Brown's. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Yes. I'm afraid I helped to start this by saying that that wasn't clear to the voters, and I think Mr. Brown's does make it much clearer. On the other hand, it says that we are now, as a Constitutional Convention, playing Supreme Court and making the decision on this thing that we have said wasreally, maybe, up in the air, some time ago. I wish you or some lawyer here would say whether or not you are absolutely sure, following up what Mr. Heliker said, that there is no possibility that the Supreme Court could decide on a different interpretation of that old language in the 1889 Constitution. Someway, I hope we could leave that open. What we have done is we have moved from an assumption on which we started, that we could have an alternate on the ballot and get a fair vote from the people, we came-that we moved all through the Convention on that assumption, most of us. We could easily have declared our intent as a Constitutional Convention that this is what we meant—that a majority of the voters in the election approve the Constitution and that a majority of those voting on each issue would therefore carry the one article or the other into the Constitution. I think we could have written that into our Constitution, taken that as our stand, declared that as our intent, and had a pretty good chance of interpreting that on a real close vote, let's say, in the Supreme Court. Now, then, the lawyers have told us that they're sure that is not the interpretation. All I want to do is to put in the record that all of us are not sure that that is the only-that their interpretation is the only possible interpretation of this law. They have not asked for an attorney general's ruling. They have not asked for a Supreme Court declaratory judgment of any kind, though when the council that was preparing for the Constitutional Convention came to nub issues like this, they were all in agreement-asked the Supreme Court on three major issues and got a contrary view on every one of the three. We have a record of that in the material that was put out to us ahead of time. And I just simply wanted to leave-ifthereis any way to leave a little opening wedge for a contest, I'd like for this little speech in the record to be it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, the Chair would like to observe that we do have to print this Constitution before we can sign it, and we have a lot more work to do. Now, I'm going to let you talk, but we'll stay here tonight and finish this, regardless, or we'll stay here tonight and fail to finish it. So you really ought to decide whether or not you're going to go along with the group—except on major issues-pretty soon, and then you ought to stick with them.

Mr. Kelleher, do you feel that Mr. Harper needs an answer?

DELEGATE KELLEHER: There is one thing that-and I go to-that has been bothering me from the beginning of this week, and that is Section 9 of that article-of Article XIX-and that's why I'm wondering about this language that Bruce has proposed. Let us assume that the Supreme Court decides that we have been called under Article VIII-and I ask the lawyers to seriously consider this-the last few sentences of Article VIII-and our revision. Our new Constitution, I assume, is a revision or an alteration that must be approved at an election--"and unless so submitted and approved by a majority of the electors voting at the election". Now, let us assume, going down to Section 9, the fifth line from the bottom of the present Constitution, that Proposal Number 2 for a unicameral Legislature or for a bicameral Legislature is interpreted by the Supreme Court as being an amendment, then we clearly fall into Section 9 of Article XIX, which says: "Said amendment or amendments shall be"-and this would include the gambling and the death penalty-"shall be submitted to the qualified voters"--electors-"of the state for their approval or rejection and such as are approved by a majority of those voting thereon"-now, that's similar to the North Dakota Constitution and the way they're working-operating under-"shall become part of the Constitution". Therefore, if proposals 2, 3 and 4 are considered as being under Section 9, then all they need is a majority of those voting on those propositions; but if we put this language in, then we are locking ourselves out of having those three proposals be deemed as amendments.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, the Chair feels it necessary to comment on what Mr. Kelleher has just said, for the record and for everybody's edification. The Section 9 to which Mr. Kelleher refers talks about amendments to this Constitution that have been proposed in either house of the Legislative Assembly, and it has nothing-it does have the language he says in it; and as Mr. McDonough said yesterday, the-or someone-I think it was McDonough, maybe Holland-that the fellows that wrote this Constitution surely didn't help us very much because they weren't very careful, but they did say that Section 9 applies to amendments which may be prepared-proposed in either house of the Legislative Assembly; and I don't see how there's any way that the court can construe what we've done here as that. Now, they might construe it that way, but the Legislature is generally construed as not having the right to delegate its authority to make laws, and that's the only way you could ever get through Section 9 down to that language. On the other hand, there's a whole section-Section 8—right above it in the Constitution, which sets up this Constitutional Convention business; and it says: "and unless so submitted and approved by a majority of electors voting at the election"-it's a tougher test--"no such revision, alteration or amendment"-and when it says "no such"—which, of course, we know is a bad word—"revision, alteration or amendment", it seems to most of us lawyers that it is very difficult to argue to the Supreme Court Mr. Harper's position that if we have a majority on one thing, then we only have to have a plurality on the other. Now, I would have liked to suggest that-and I did suggest it to the Style and Drafting Committee-but it's a bootstraps operation wherein you have to say that we changed the Constitution to a plurality by putting it into one of our articles, and most of the lawyers believe that we are not safe in doing that. But, it's-it could be done, and then it would go to the Supreme Court for definition and they might then void our election. Now, to-it's possible to do it those ways and it's possible to do it without a majority voting on it, but you're courting a Supreme Court case. The point of the majority proposal here is, and especially with Mr. Brown's amendment, that we have a way of doing it that doesn't court a Supreme Court case nearly as clearly, so what we're trying to do is find the best way to do it and most likely avoid a Supreme Court case.

Mr. Aronow.

DELEGATE ARONOW: Mr. Chairman, may I also offer this suggestion, both to Mr. Harper and to Mr. Kelleher. I see no way that these side proposals can be considered amendments, because they're not amendments to the present Constitution. We have not adopted the new Constitution, so you can't amend that which does not exist. The vote of this body was to make them alternate proposals for portions of the submitted Constitution, so I see no way-well, I shouldn't say quite no way, because the Supreme Court can do anything-and I've seen in the past where they've done most anything-but it would seem most unlikely and unreasonable to believe that they would say that either proposal 2, 3 or 4 is an amendment. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, the issue is on Mr. Brown's language for the box, which is: "The proposed Constitution will include a bicameral, two-house, Legislature unless a majority of those voting in the election vote for a unicameral, one-house, Legislature in issue number 2 immediately below." The Chair will rule from now on that Mr. Swanberg's point, which is an interesting one and might be taken up, is immaterial to this particular little vote; and, so, stay on Mr. Brown's language if you're going to discuss it.

Mr. Burkhardt.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: Mr. Chairman, I wonder if Mr. Schiltz would yield to a question.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I yield.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: Jack, I'm wondering whether you were interpreting our Secretary of State's statement about what votes were going to count as the total number in this election. Is that endangered by the language of this box as now amended? In other words, he was going to say that the total number cast would be those in Section 1, issue 1, for and against the Constitution.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I don't think that is involved here. It says "in this election", which, so far as I'm concerned, means this election for the whole ballot.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: Well, who's going to interpret that eventually?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, that's—on the side, this language would be apropos whether--whatever number were chosen.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: Fine

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is on Mr. Brown's language. We'll have a roll call vote. So many as in favor of Brown's language, vote Aye; so many as are opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Cast the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 73 delegates voting Aye, 13 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 73 voting Aye and 13 voting No, Mr. Brown's language has been adopted.

Now, Mr. Habedank, do you want this other amendment put? Or do you care about that?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Yes, Mr. President. I feel that when we're talking about a unicameral, it should be called to the attention of the public that they are not voting for unicameral permanently but only until 1980. However, I would be willing to have that dressed up any way Style and Drafting does it. I don't feel this committee needs to sit here all afternoon and do it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz and members of the body, Mr. Habedank has an amendment: "I move that the ballot be amended by Style and Drafting so as to show that the unicameral Legislature will be in effect only until 1980, when the question of continuing of the unicameral Legislature or reverting to a bicameral Legislature will be referred to the electors." This is a matter of explaining to the voters what's in the Constitution in terms of unicameral. I'll allow Mr. Habedank's amendment, and we can discuss it.

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, Mr. Chairman, the avowed object of the Style and Drafting Committee is apparent from the one-page ballot on 8½ x 11 paper that you have before you-is to make the ballot as simple as possible. Now, I assume that we could put half of the debates in here, as I indicated a little while ago. We could put everything I said yesterday up in front of the chamber in here, so that there could be no question in anyone's mind why it was necessary to put this caveat in here. We could do all that. Now, in addition, though, to what we have provided, the Convention, prior to April 6th, will send a complete Constitution to every living soul in Montana who's registered to vote, and if they aren't intelligent enough to read that and if they don't read the newspapers, I can see no reason in the world why we must put in everything that everybody can possibly think of that a voter might have some disability on or some question on or need some information on. The list is endless, absolutely endless, and I resist the motion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Chair would point out that the official ballot contains a sentence at the top: "The full text of the proposed Constitution and separate propositions is available for inspection at your polling place." Is there discussion'?

Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: In principle, I agree with what Delegate Schiltz has said. I think the less complicated the ballot is, the better; but in this particular case, I think this issue is critical, because we are not only voting for a unicameral—if we vote for it, we're also voting for reverting back to a bicameral in 1980; and I think that's the single most important feature of this unicameral proposition; and I would hope that somehow the Style and Drafting Committee, through the genius of its members, could find some way to inform the people that this is for a trial period and that automatically we could revert back to a bicameral.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, the issue is on Mr. Habedank's amendment. Does anyone want a roll call vote? Mr. Habedank wants a roll call vote. So many as shall be in favor of Mr. Habedank's amendment that we put the fact that it-that the unicameral will be subject to a vote in 1980 on the ballot, vote Aye; and so many as shall be opposed to that, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Take the ballot.

Mr. Chairman Nay

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 21 delegates voting Aye, 58 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 21 having voted Aye and 58 No, the motion fails. Now, members of the body, I have before me an amendment to proposed-to Section 3 by Mr. Harper.

Mr. Harper, do you want me to read your amendment or not?

DELEGATE HARPER: Yes, please.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Clerk, do you want to read it.

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. Chairman, I move to amend Section 3 of the ballot by reversing the order of Section 9 of the General Government number 3 and putting the prohibition against allowing the Legislature into the body of the Constitution. Signed: Harper."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now perhaps the Chair can explain this. Mr. Harper has proposed an amendment which would have the effect of putting a different section into the Constitution; and, Mrs. Bates, this explains why on this issue it's different than the bicameral-unicameral. At the present time, the Style and Drafting Committee has proposed putting into the Constitution the phrase--I don't know the whole words, but the substance of it is there shall be no gambling, and then you vote on 3, the exception—except if 51 percent vote for 3-A, for allowing the people or the Legislature to authorize it, then we put "except as allowed by the people and the Legislature" back in. If, of course, more vote on-if not more than 50 percent vote on 3-A, why, then nothing happens and the Constitution continues to state-continues to say there shall be no gambling. Now, Mr. Harper proposes to say in the Constitution, "There shall be no gambling except as authorized by the Legislature and the people under referendum", and then he proposes to change 3 so that it says: For taking away the Legislature and the people's right to do this or Against taking it away. That's the only sense-is that right, Mr. Harper?

DELEGATE HARPER: Mr. Chairman, if-No, I understood exactly opposite. I understood what they have here to mean that what is written into the Constitution would be the allowance of the--authorizing the Legislature to change the prohibition on gambling and that I was moving to reverse-to put it the same way it is now in the Constitution.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Well, then, what you-now that I've explained it, I am right, am I not, Mr. Schiltz, that the Constitution would say For--would say there shall be no gambling, and then the exception would write on the addition? Is that right?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No, the way the committee voted on it is as Mr. Harper says, that the longer Section 9, which you'll find on page 13 of the Final Report, would have the first one in it; and then the vote would be for continuing that allowance or against continuing that allowance.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see. So, in other words, the Constitution will now say there shall be no gambling except if allowed by the Legislature and the people.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes. And Mr. Harper is asking that that be reversed.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see. So, Mr. Harper's amendment is to say what I said first—namely, that the Constitution should simply say there shall be no gambling-and then the vote on 3 would add "except as authorized by the people" if a majority voted for it and would fail to add that if a majority didn't vote for it. Is that right, Mr. Harper?

DELEGATE HARPER: Yes, it is. I had a moment of hope there that I had misinterpreted this or misread it. Let me tell the body why I think this ought to be done. Several unicameral&s rose during the vote yesterday to say, "We are unicameralists, but we think the bicameral is the traditional." It has been in the Constitution that way, and the people who want to make the radical change should be forced on the ballot to come in with enough people to change it; and on the basis of tradition, that sounded like sense to some people, even who said they were unicameralists, and they went along with it. My assumption was that the Style and Drafting Committee would do the same thing with this Section 9, that it would continue what was in the present Constitution and then the people who wanted to change that now to authorize the Legislature or by initiative or referendum of the people to do it would, in a sense, have the burden of proof put on them as to why we should make the change. On that basis and on the basis of the reason for our choosing to have an alternative in the first place, I think we ought now to support this motion I have made to just turn the Style and Drafting Committee's proposal right around. Let me go over this one more time, because I think this is an essential point. In fact, this would be a point that I, personally, would have to ponder quite a bit. Many people in this state—though we may not have heard from all of them—many people in this state believe that the prohibition against gambling that our state has enjoyed is one of the most important things they could have. Everything else being equal, many of them would prefer to keep the old Constitution if that is the only way they can be assured that they can vote against gambling. Now, they will be aware of the kind of figuring that was done, and I think correctly so, by Mr. Heliker. They will be aware of our discussion of this first issue of how much chance an alternate has, and they will-there will be many among them who will say to these groups, "The only possible way you can be sure—you can be safe on the gambling issue is now to vote against the new Constitution." This is what I hoped and prayed would not come to the body of the Constitution this way. For this reason and for the reason that I think this traditional part should be maintained and those who want now to change it should have to carry on the alternate, I've made this amendment; and I hope it will be sustained by the body.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Choate.

DELEGATE CHOATE: I rise to resist the amendment by Delegate Harper. I think the vote was pretty clear the other day on this issue, and I would, as a substitute motion, move that we adopt the majority-or the committee proposal from Style and Drafting, for the obvious reasons that the vote on the issue is fairly clear-cut. I wouldn't object to seeing both propositions put as side issues on the ballot to be voted on freely by the majority of the people and let the will ofthepeople decide the issue. I would prefer that the proposal to only authorize gambling by legislation be placed in the Constitution with a side issue to retain the present prohibition; but in either event, we should either allow a complete free choice by placing both issues on the side for selection for and against or else leave it as Style and Drafting has recommended. Thank you.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, Mr. Choate, I can't allow you to make a substitute motion back to the motion that's just been amended, because the way to do that is to defeat Mr. Harper's amendment. We already have the Style and Drafting moved, so your substitute motion was what was amended.

DELEGATE CHOATE: Okay.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Do you follow me? But, in other words, you can defeat the Harper motion. There's no use saying--reversing it. He's already reversed it once.

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I think everyone will recall that yesterday we had a vote on Mr. Davis' motion that unicameral or bicameral—in that case, bicameral-be put in the body of the Constitution. Now, when I first began to explain the ballot, I said it was implicit in the ballot we were proposing that we would have this one section of the gambling in the Constitution, but I don't think there's been a motion and a vote. I was just suggesting to Mr. Harper that he move—rather than reverse this on the ballot, that he move that one of them belong-be put in the Constitution and the other be placed-or a vote on the other be placed as an alternate.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Mr. Schiltz, you lost me. He has moved that the other one be placed in instead of the one that's in there. Is there anything wrong with that?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I guess not. I just understood him to say that he moved that this Section 3 be reversed, and what I was concerned about is that-if he made that motion, that's fine.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Chair understands the sense of the motion to be that he would put the language in the Constitution to say there shall be no gambling, and then Style and Drafting would have to restyle 3 so that the exception was placed outside.

Now, Mr. Kamhoot, I'm aware you have another amendment here, and it doesn't seem to me that it reaches the same point as this. It's a matter of explanation, isn't it? I don't see that it reaches the point that Mr. Harper and Mr. Choate are talking about.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Kamhoot.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: I, I believe, like the language of mine a little better—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, we'll put yours-

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: -1 think Delegate Harper's—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -we'll put yours—

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: -is going for the same thing.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: --we'll put yours as a substitute motion, but the language—Well, we'll put it. Mr. Clerk, do you want to read Mr. Kamhoot's. This will be a substitute motion to yours, Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Kamhoot.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Mr. Chairman, I'd like one change. I would like to use the language that Delegate Brown put in and was accepted by this body. I think it's better than what I had in mine, if he can do that in that box up above. It might save some time and arguing here on the floor.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Kamhoot, the Chair is confused, then, because the nature of the ballot and the form that's suggested by Style and Drafting, in either Mr. Harper's form or in the form that's offered here, does not require a box of that nature, and so it's only adding another matter to the ballot that's confusing. Now, maybe I don't understand you; but if you do it either way, you don't need a box because nothing is changed.

It's either added-nothing has to be substituted for-it's either added in or taken out.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Well, perhaps I am confused on this. The way I understand it is that there is nothing going to be included in the Constitution unless by a majority vote-50 percent plus one, something could be put in.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, that's not the situation. The situation on the majority report is that the Constitution as written up and finished here, when we go back on section-on General Orders on the Constitution, will say there shall be no gambling except as authorized by the Legislature and the people. And then, if they-if that's in the Constitution, their Section 3 here, 3-B, must get 51 percent in order to take the last half of that idea-namely, except allowed by the Legislature and so forth--out. Now, Mr. Harper has proposed reversing that in this sense, that he would put into the Constitution only the first half of that sentence-namely, there shall be no gambling— and then he would make 3-A and -B say-for say ing "except as authorized by the people and the Legislature". And 51 percent would have to vote on that to put it in, so there's no explanation needed.

DELEGATE KAMHOOT: Very well, that is the point that I wanted to make. Then I will withdraw my amendment, but I would like to speak to Mr. Harper's amendment.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, we'll withdraw your amendment, and you may speak on Mr. Harper's, DELEGATE KAMHOOT: I think, to be consistent here, that this is a provision that we have had in our Constitution for, probably, I think, 82 years. It was in there from the start. It would seem that, in this case, as in all cases, the challenger must be the challenger. He has to prove his point if he wants to change something, so it would seem that this would only be proper, at this time, that, in our new document, that we would have the provision, as we had in our present Constitution, that there shall be no gambling. Now, if the people that want gambling in Montana in any manner, whether the Legislature provides for it or not, I think they should have to prove this point. Therefore, to be, as I said before, consistent with it, I would support Mr. Harper's amendment that we leave the section in the Constitution-before we vote on it even-that says gambling-all forms of gambling, lotteries and gift enterprises are prohibited. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. Chairman, I don't wish to cover this whole section. Everyone talked-we spent about a day on it the other day as to whether we were going to be-have the gambling prohibition in the Constitution or not, and we decided to leave it on the ballot, but we did not decide to remove the present prohibition that's in the Constitution from the Constitution. We decided, as my understanding, to leave the alternate choice on the ballot. I support Mr. Harper's amendment; and I think it's very, very important, now that we're down to the last day and the last hour and we're all kind of tired, to not let something slip through and say the Constitutional Convention has removed the prohibition against gambling. If we want to put it on a side issue and the people vote on it, remove it. But I think it's extremely important--unless it's the will of this gathering, this group to do so-to be sure that that present prohibition remains in, which is Section 9 on page 13, the second one, and put the-and the other issue would be the contender, then; and I think we should go ahead and vote on it and see what the will of the body is; and it's either a For or Against proposition, it seems like. We've discussed it, and it's been discussed in Montana since time began.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harrington.

DELEGATE HARRINGTON: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates. Commenting on Mr. Kamhoot's statement that we have to challenge here, I don't think this is a challenge. I think this is a new Constitution we're writing, and I don't think we should forget this, and whether-1 would go along with the fact that the two of them be on the side ballot and neither one in, but the other day I think we were very explicit in voting down Mr. Harper's amendment, and I don't think we should put it back in right now. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. President, fellow delegates. I support Harper's amendment, and I do it for this reason. Even though I would concede that gambling can be legislative and it can be left up to the Legislature, I would call to your attention that every person who feels the opposite, who feels that gambling should be-an antigambling clause should be in this Constitution-would be forced to vote against the Constitution, Now, those who want the first Section 9 in this Constitution cannot take the same position. If they want to defeat the Constitution, they can do so. There is nothing we can do about it; but if they do defeat the Constitution, they will then have the antigambling clause in it; and the only way that we can assure having this Constitution accepted universally by the people is to let those who have the present Constitution, the anti-gambling clause in it, have that in the Constitution as it is and those who want to take it out run the risk of coming in and voting it out. If enough people in the State of Montana want to do this, where both those who are in favor of the Constitution and those who are against the Constitution can vote, they can do it. I agree with Dr. Heliker, the odds are bad; but I don't think they're as bad as if they-only those who were for the Constitution could vote on it; and I would urge you most strongly to leave the Constitution as it is, keep Section 9, the second clause-"all forms of gambling, lotteries and gift enterprises are prohibited"-in the Constitution that will be adopted unless the other obtains a majority of all those voting on the question.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Choate.

DELEGATE CHOATE: Mr. Chairman, I see a lot of places in our old Constitution that we have completely kicked out the door and made radical changes in many areas without the concern of maintaining what was there before because it had been there so long. I think that the proper perspective on this issue would be to place it as a free choice item as a side issue, with both 3-A and 3-B placed as side issues with no reference to either one in the Constitution. I don't think there's anything that would cause a lot of alarm. If we offered it as free choice and made sure that—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, Mr. Choate, I'm perfectly happy that you've put this proposition, but this is the third time you've spoken on it, and what you're proposing is the deletion you proposed the other day that this Convention voted down. If we put both of them as a side issue, and you may make a motion to do that, then if they get 47 and 49 percent, nothing's in the Constitution. Now, if you want to do that, you make a motion to that; but you're not speaking to Harper's amendment, and it confuses the body not to understand. If you want to make that motion, do so; and we'll take your vote again; but that's a different issue than we're arguing on right now. Do you follow me?

DELEGATE CHOATE: Yes, I follow. All right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay, now; if you want to make a motion, fine. If you don't, then let somebody else discuss the Harper amendment or else you discuss the Harper amendment.

DELEGATE CHOATE: All right, I move, then, that 3-A and 3-B be placed as side issues on the ballot for the choice of the voters.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, Mr. Choate has made an-proposes an amendment to-a substitute motion to section-to the third section of the ballot to place 3-A and -B-to make 3-A and -B say-one of them-3-A would say: "There shall be no gambling", and 3-B would say: "There shall be no gambling unless authorized by the Legislature and the public". In other words, place both gambling issues on the side and put nothing in the Constitution. That's Mr. Choate's proposal now, and that's what we're debating.

Mr. Hanson.

DELEGATE ROD HANSON: Mr. President, I oppose Delegate Choate's motion and support Delegate Harper's motion; and without going into a lot of talk, I think that Delegate Habedank has made a real good point here. I think that the people that are opposed to gambling will vote for the new Constitution if we have that language in there. I think that the people that want gambling or want the Legislature to authorize gambling will come out and vote on the thing. I think that Mr. Choate's proposal will negate this typeofthing, so I would say that if we really want to pass this Constitution, if this is the main thing that we want to do, then we should vote for Mr. Harper's amendment.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. McNeil.

DELEGATE MCNEIL: Mr. Chairman, I oppose the Choate amendment. I support George Harper's amendment, wholeheartedly. And I disagree with Lyman Choate when he said we voted the other day for the majority proposal, which would permit the Legislature to authorize gambling. I voted for that because the motion was put to have that issue as an alternative on the ballot. The Style and Drafting report now is to not have that as an alternative on the ballot but to have it in the body of the Constitution, so for that reason, I submit George Harper is 100 percent correct. In addition, I think there's a very practical reason to support George Harper's position, and that is the voter psychology. If we have this permission of gambling by the Legislature in the body of the Constitution, as submitted by the Style and Drafting Committee, those who oppose gambling in this state-and there's lots of them, including myself—will be tempted to vote against the Constitution, period, because it's in there. On the other hand, those who favor gambling, if gambling is out at the side-the permissiveness by the Legislature—rather than in the body, they won't vote against the Constitution, because the only way they can get gambling is to vote for the Constitution and vote for the side amendment. So, for that reason, I submit that the voter psychology-the best approach to getting this document passed is not to have gambling in the body-the permissiveness by the Legislature-but, rather, to have it as I voted for it the other day, to have the gambling authorized by the Legislature as the alternative and have in the body of the Constitution our present prohibition.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Arbanas.

DELEGATE ARBANAS: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates. I can't help noticing that those who are speaking for the Harper amendment are those who voted against the gambling yesterday, and it just seems to me they're trying to reverse the decision of this house. When we voted on which of the propositions, unicameral or bicameral, were going into the body of the Constitution, it was by the will of this house. It was-Now we have an appeal that we should go by tradition. I wouldlike to say to the-1 understand what's going on here, but I think that the attempt really is to have us to reverse ourselves and that what should go into the Constitution-I kind of oppose both of these measures-I-should go in the Constitution what came out with the number 1 vote yesterday, or the other day, and that is the-that the Legislature could permit. I think that would reflect this group much more.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Burkhardt.

DELEGATE BURKHARDT: I rise as a member of Style and Drafting who voted against the recommendation of the committee to put the alternate in which allows the Legislature and the people to authorize the gambling, and I feel that some of the statements that have been made here this afternoon are misleading. We did not take a preference of this body in terms of what would definitely go in the Constitution. I voted on the prevailing side the other day because I wanted it as a side issue on the ballot and not because I wanted it in the body of the Constitution as a first choice. What complicates this now is the fact that Mr. Heliker is probably right in his statement about how things are going to happen on this election, and I feel that we create a tremendous backspin on this whole number 1 issue, For or Against the Constitution. We won't get a clear indication of the readiness of our people, in most areas, for reform; we'll simply get a vote up there on gambling or nongambling; and that's very discouraging. I would much rather have the alternate be something that is a new departure, rather than to assume that we can guess the voters of this state are going to take that much backspin in issue number 1. I would support George Harper's amendment.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harrington.

DELEGATE HARRINGTON: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates. I think somewhere along the line we're getting off. Mr. McNeil made a statement-we are now supporting Mr. Choate. I will support Mr. Choate's motion, which does not put this in the body of the Constitution-which leaves them both out-and I think this is the thing we should be talking on now, not the fact that this is still in the body of the Constitution. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Heliker.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Mr. Chairman, I oppose Mr. Choate's motion and support Mr. Harper's, I observe that we have, for the first time today, had two lawyers get up and make a very persuasive argument. I observe, also, however, the argument they made was psychological and not legal; and you can draw what conclusions you like from that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, the issue is on Mr. Choate's motion to put-to take all the language out of the Constitution and put both of them as alternatives on the side. And we'll have a roll call vote. So many as shall be in favor of Mr. Choate's motion, vote Aye; so many as shall be opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, cast the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 16 delegates voting Aye, 67 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 16 delegates having voted Aye and 67 having voted No, Mr. Choate's motion is defeated. We're now back on Mr. Harper's motion, which is to amend the Style and Drafting report so that we would put in the Constitution the simple language "There shall be no gambling" and put the exception "except as authorized by the people and the Legislature" as the one that has to get 51 percent, on the side.

Mr. Johnson.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman, I've not had but just a few opportunities to support Mr. Harper. In this, I do wholeheartedly. The cowboys down there in the Powder River country have said quite a number of times when they get into arguments with a group, quot homines, tot sententiae. That means "many men, too many minds". (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, the issue is on Mr. Harper's motion, which would have the effect of reversing the nature of the ballot here and would put the language "There shall be no gambling" in the Constitution and put the exception "except as authorized by the Legislature and the people" on the outside, so that you had to get51 percent to change the Constitution. All in favor of that motion, vote Aye; all opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 63 delegates voting Aye, 23 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 63 delegates having voted Aye and 23 delegates having voted No, Mr. Harper's motion prevails and Style and Drafting will put the other words in the Constitution and change the nature of 3 so that it's clear how it works.

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I think the language in-for the ballot on 3 obtains for either situation.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think you're right. I think line 3-A now has to have 50 percent plus one and it will allow the exception going into the Constitution. All right.

Mr. Harlow.

DELEGATE HARLOW: I am a little bit disturbed at the wording on that voting part down there. I haven't thought up any real good wording now, but 3-B says "Against allowing the people or the Legislature to authorize gambling." Are you stating in there that you are making it impossible for the people to initiate an amendment to the Constitution? That's what it sound like.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes, we talked about that in the committee, and the people can initiate a constitutional amendment. We can't stop them from doing that, but they can't have an initiative measure that would say we have gambling if-or under any circumstances if the prohibition's in there, any more than the Legislature could pass an act having gambling while Mr. Harper's provision is in there.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Mr. Chairman, I'm still-feel that we can word that better, because reading that off and taking it just as it says there, it means that the people cannot initiate an amendment to the Constitution authorizing gambling.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Mr. Harlow, surely you're not talking about the people's basic right to amend the Constitution, which they have for anything? The point is, whether to put into the Constitution language authorizing the people-you know, the language is specific that— that we passed the other day, and it says "or the people may by initiative"-isn't that what you're talking about?

DELEGATE HARLOW: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You see, the people by initiative--unless we authorize the people to do it by initiative on the gambling issue, then the people are forced to amend the Constitution; and as we had when Mr. Etchart discussed this, there's a different measure of initiative for amending the Constitution than there is for the other thing.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Yes, very true.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So it seems to me that this certainly sets the sense of what we're putting in in the exception, if we ever put it in.

DELEGATE HARLOW: Well, okay. I brought the point out, and that's the thing that I had in mind. I haven't any better solution right now. I may think up one a little later, so I-see how—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Mr. President, I would like to make a motion-1 move to amend the wording of 3-A and 3-B to agree with the wording of Section 9, the sense of which would be, "For allowing the Legislature or the people through initiative or referendum to authorize gambling," and then it would be just the reverse in 3-B. In other words, in the one section they allow the Legislature or the people through initiative or referendum to authorize it, and in the other we didn't.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Habedank proposes an amendment to 3-A and -B, which would make them say, "For allowing the Legislature or the people throughinitiativeorreferendum to authorize gambling", and then "Against allowing the Legislature or the people through initiative or referendum to authorize gambling". In other words, he changes the order of it so that he can get the Legislature in front and the people through initiative or referendum-he adds people through initiative or referendum in order to cover Mr. Harlow's problem. That amendment is allowed. We'll discuss that.

Mr. Harrington.

DELEGATE HARRINGTON: Mr. Chairman, I'd just like to speak against this. We've already cut the heart out of the so-called issue right here. We've made-we've put the prohibition against gambling into the Constitution. Now we want to muddle the words, which is basically this. This basically states, are you for or against this? Now, we want to muddle the words so there is a little bit of conflict there; and I say if we go along with this, we will have a problem. I think that the words that are put in by Mr. Habedank would make it a little harder for the people to understand exactly what they're voting for; and as everybody knows here, this is one of the most important things when people are voting-they vote very quickly sometimes, and this could hurt. Thank YOU.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz was up first.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, now that we only have two more to go, let's keep battling it out, shall we? You have an unerring instinct of going to the point that the committee started with and retreated from. We started with putting all those words in there, and the committee was unanimous that it was unnecessary to have them in in any respect and that this was much plainer to the normal voter-the average voter-just exactly what it was--amounted to. Just as Mr. Harrington said, you throw in a couple of words like "initiative" and "referendum", and down there in Powder River County, they probably know what they mean, but there may be other places where they don't. We resist the amendment-or I resist the amendment.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Swanberg.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Mr. President, I think this is the time, now, to start asking ourselves whether gambling and the death penalty could be considered as separate items to be voted on by the people or whether it has to be part of the Constitution. And just as a beginner, I would suggest that our easiest solution to our wording problem is to cite our gambling alternate at length in our ballot. It's very short and simply says: "All forms of gambling, lotteries and gift enterprises are prohibited unless authorized by the acts of the Legislature or by the people through initiative and referendum". We could cite thatin—at length in the ballot and, underneath, simply say, "For inclusion in the proposed Constitution; Against inclusion in the proposed Constitution" and do the same thing with the death penalty, which is likewise short and simply says: "Death shall not be prescribed as a penalty for any crime against the state"-there is the sentenceverbatim which they vote upon and beneath that which—simply state, "For inclusion in the proposed Constitution; or Against inclusion in the proposed Constitution". Now, do we say "For inclusion in the proposed Constitution", or do we say "For the proposed amendment"? This gets at the heart of our problem here. This would allow, you see, on both of these points, for the public to be voting upon the gambling and the death penalty issue as a separate item; and whether the Constitution above won or lost, then the gambling and the death penalty thing would go through if they were approved, if that's what we want.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Swanberg, I understand your point as far as putting-there's a different way to put it on the ballot. I understand that; but on this issue of somehow creating an amendment, we're not authorized to create amendments, are we? We're authorized to create--or am I wrong?

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Well, I'm not quite sure, but I have here an analysis of the Enabling Act, and it says the Convention may submit proposals to the electorate for ratification in any of the following forms: first, submitted as a unit in the form of a new Constitution; (b) submitted as a unit with the exception of separate proposals to be voted upon individually; or (c) submitted in the form of a series of separate amendments. Now, it doesn't say that we can combine-it's silent on whether we can use all three approaches, but it looks to me like we could.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see what you mean. You've got two ideas there.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Maybe we can straighten them out here.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: The question seems to me to be one of tactics, primarily.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "Said constitution shall meet within 3 months after each election and prepare such revisions, alterations or amendments to the Constitution as maybe deemed necessary, which shall be submitted to the electors for their ratification or rejection at an election appointed for that purpose not more than 2"-and so forth. Now, I see your point, and perhaps we should cross it. I don't know whether you want to cross it yet or whether we want to clear up the Habedank amendment.

Mr. Dahood.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: Mr. Chairman, I am opposed to the Habedank amendment, but I wonder how many delegates here appreciate the fact that there are a number of delegates on this floor and a number of observers that are beginning to think that we'regettingmuch too talkative and too verbose over the work of the committee. There are 11 members on the Style and Drafting Committee. They had no particular difficulty, apparently, in coming up with an official ballot. I'm willing to concede that the work that we've done so far was perhaps necessary. We're not going to an illiterate citizenry. We're going to an intelligent citizenry, and they're going to be able to look at this ballot and they're going to know now what they should do and what they should not do. And they've got language that's very simple and very understandable, and I anticipate we're going to have some argument, too, as to whether or not we can improve upon "For the death penalty or Against the death penalty". And sometimes there's a great deal of virtue in simplicity, and I think it's time that we finish our consideration of the official ballot; the two issues that remain are just as clear as they're ever going to be and there is no way to attain perfection-there is no way to satisfy everyone; and I think it's about time we paid some consideration and some tribute to the committee that spent hours and hours thinking about this problem and that have now presented to us, with the work we've already done. the best type of ballot that we're going to get. And I oppose the Habedank amendment.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Wilson.

DELEGATE WILSON: Mr. President, my cowboys might not be too smart, but I think they can understand the ballot in the way it's presented, and I'm against cluttering it up with any more language and making it harder to understand.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Siderius.

DELEGATE SIDERIUS: Mr. Chairman, I think I'm aboutthesimplest-minded person here, and I can understand it very well. I think we can go ahead with it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, the issue is on the Habedank amendment; and if you want to discuss the Habedank amendment, Mr. Swanberg, fine; after we handle that, I'll discuss your other problem. All right, Mr. Habedank proposes an amendment which would say, in 3-A and 3-B, "allowing the Legislature"-"For allowing the Legislature and the people through initiative and referendum to authorize gambling and Against authorizing the Legislature and the people through initiative and referendum". Roll call vote. So many in favor of the Habedank amendment to change that language, vote Aye; so many against, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, every delegate clearly hasn't voted or else there are a lot ot them-and there are a lot not voting, but that's fine. We'll close the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 9 delegates voting Aye, 73 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 9 delegates having voted Aye, 73 voting No, the motion of Mr. Habedank is defeated. Now, the Chair is going to take a very dim view of people discussing issues, who are not here, so I'm asking that the delegates that are not here and if they're in the hearing of my voice, that they come in. You--we're going to get in the position of people discussing things that have been discussed. We're nearly through. I think we ought to sit through and finish this up; and we have 18 members absent; and if they don't want to vote, that's fine; but then they'd better not come in and try to discuss, because I'm not going to recognize them. Now, the Chair also has another observation to make that I would hope that everyone will listen to so we understand it, because you may want to take action on it. Mr. Swanberg hasraised the interesting point that this Convention could propose both a Constitution and some amendments to the old Constitution, and he's three times mentioned this and he just finished mentioning it, and it is-it would be possible to propose amendments on these issues or, for that matter, on any of the other issues that we've put in the Constitution. The language of the Enabling Act and, for that matter, the language of the old Constitution is broad enough, since it uses the words "may propose amendments"-is broad enough to authorize us to do that. We have not proceeded on that basis till now, and we're on the ballot. The Chair is going to rule that the proposals that we are considering, these three different proposals, were proposals made for inclusion in the new Constitution, which is clearly the way we adopted them when we made them proposals. The Chair is going to rule that we have not, as a body, considered them as possible amendments to the old Constitution except as they are inclusions in the new Constitution, which, of course, replaces the old if it passes. Therefore, the Chair is going to rule out of order any proposal that these be considered amendments, and if you don't like that, then you may stand and make a motion to suspend the rules, and if you can suspend the rules, we'll go back and consider these matters as amendments to the old Constitution, but until we've done that, we won't take any more time discussing the possibility of amendments other than the new Constitution we're considering.

Now, Mr. Swanberg, that's how I think I have to solve your problem, and you may make a motion to suspend the rules if you want to.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Mr. President, I'm in total agreement with the Chair. I've been giving this a lot of thought; and I, too, agree that we're submitting a complete new ball game here to the public and that these three proposals that we have here-the unicameral-bicameral, the gambling issue and the death penalty-are being submitted to the electorate for a vote as possible alternates; but I submit the ballot itself is not quite clear on that point. I submit that the voter could look at that and say, "Well, I'm against the Constitution so I'll vote No, but, by golly, I'm for the death penalty, so I'm going to vote Yes down here", and there may be some confusion and a good deal of hard feelings if it turns out that they were in error, so perhaps some kind of language ought to be in here to state clearly and explicitly that these proposals are to be voted on and will be a part of our-the body of our law only in the event the new Constitution is passed. Whatever that language is, I don't know. I have a suggestion, that the Chair has, that has a sentence in it; but whether that's adequate or not is questionable. The sentence simply says: "If you voted for the proposed Constitution, you may also vote on whether the following proposals should be included within it," and then there's the death penalty and the gambling issue. That would clarify it, in my opinion.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, the Chair has before it some language from Mrs. Bates. Mrs. Bates, I don't know whether this should be made an amendment or not; but with your permission, the Chair will inquire of Mr. Schiltz and of some of the others and at least probe the possibility. The official ballot has instructions at the top-place an "X" in the box, express your preference. The full text is in-is available for inspection. Now, it might be that we would be well advised to add language to the instructions which might say something like this-this is Mrs. Bates' question: "The Constitution will be ratified only if a majority of those voting in this election vote for the Constitution. If the Constitution receives a majority, each alternative below-Sections--or 2, 3 and 4—must also receive the same majority." This would, of course, clear up Mr. Swanberg's point, the second sentence, saying that if the Constitution receives a majority, each of the alternatives below must also receive a majority--would clear up Mr. Swanberg's point that these are considered as an amendment. They'd have-they would--as an amendment to the old one. I don't know whether it's necessary to say that the Constitution will be ratified only if a majority of the voters vote, but it doesn't say that yet, and the query that Mr. Berg has placed on Mrs. Bates' thing is, is this covered in transition? In the Transition Article? Now, I asked Mr. Schiltz to yield after thinking about that, or about whether we should add that to the instructions. In other words, should the instructions say the Constitution will be ratified only if a majority of those voting in this election vote for it and, secondly, if it is ratified, then each alternative must also receive a majority.

Mr. Schiltz, do you have any thoughts?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, Mr. Chairman, I'd have to go through the Transition Schedule; I don't think that's covered in the transition, though. There's no reason why it would be.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Or in the Adoption Schedule?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No, it wouldn't be in there either.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Section 1 of the Adoption Schedule says "if approved by a majority of those voting".

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's right. There it is.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Would it be useful to add-you know, it isn't going to make much difference what's at the top of the ballot. It's -there's going to be a little box of something there, and would it be helpful to add sentences to the effect that a majority must vote before this Constitution is adopted and that if that happens, then the other three propositions must receive a majority? Would it be helpful to add thatlanguage at the top?

Mr. Brown-oh, you're just sitting down.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, Mr. Chairman, I don't know. If it didn't-what we have striven for is to stay away from too much language, as you can see. We thought we had the box pretty well tidied up and we had the top pretty limited. I wouldn't object, I guess, if it didn't add more stuff. One of the problems I had with Mr. Ask's proposal was that the instructions were so lengthy that I was afraid nobody'd get to the vote. I don't know, I would have to think about it more than I've thought about it now, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman, I sent that up just for information up there and wondered what you thought of it, but I feel that if we could put something like this-and maybe the Style and Drafting would want to work it over a little bit-on the top of the ballot, it would explain to the people a little better exactly what has to take place. And I'd like to so move that for their consideration.

'CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, I'll consider it moved or something like it moved. Now, the Chair has another question of the Style and Drafting Committee. I have been of the opinion that the material in the box was necessary to-because of the replacement of bicameral by unicameral, and I'm still of that opinion, but one of the things we did with Mr. Brown's language was say that unless a majority of those voting in this election voted for it, unicameral couldn't win. Have we ever said that unless a majority of those voting for 3 and 4 vote for it, they can't win, Mr. Schiltz? Or are we in the position of getting a plurality for 3-A? That-we all agree, I think, that that won't do it.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, if that's a problem,-am I on? If that's a problem we ought to put something up there like Mrs. Bates' material. We took the position that-as you can see from the other ballots we proposed, that we didn't think it was necessary to put any of this in; but then when the question wasraised, wedecided that it was essential that we have it in insofar as the Legislature was concerned, because we couldn't do without a Legislature; and we thought if we put something similar in each of the other ones, we were going to clutter the whole thing up so badly that it would be almost unintelligible. You can almost say by inference that 3 and 4 must have the same kind of vote on them; but maybe if there's a problem there, we could slip a couple of words in to satisfy Mrs. Bates' thoughts. I would like to have about 2 minutes to style that and get it into about seven or eight words, though, if I could.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: What if it said, "The Constitution and any of the alternatives listed below will be ratified only if a majority of those voting in this election vote for them." Well, it seems to me we may need some such language, Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I think you could say, "A majority of those voting in this election is necessary to carry all issues."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, let's write that down and see where that takes us. "A majority of those voting in this election is necessary to carry"-is that what you want to say?- "carry the Constitution or other issues"-"to approve the Constitution or"-all right, "adopt the Constitution or any of the alternatives listed below."

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I'm more satisfied with what I said. When we get up there in that room with no windows, we would have crossed out most of what you added to what I said.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I don't think I had it. "A majority of those voting in this election is necessary to carry the Constitution or any of the alternatives listed below."

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I just said, "all issues", which is about 14—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see, "to carry all issues"-but that, to me, Mr. Schiltz, implies that a majority of those voting is necessary-but a majority on one might-certainly doesn't carry all issues. I think you've got to say "any issues".

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: How about "all four issues"?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Or how about "any issue".

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: All right, "or any issue".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: How about "is necessary to adopt any issue".

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, now, I'd have to go back in and see what the wording is on adoption, whether the vote constitutes an adoption-and I'd just—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, all right, do you want to use "carry"?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I would-1 think it's plain enough and clear enough.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: A majority of those voting in this election is necessary to carry any issue.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That would satisfy me and, I think, inform the voters.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now, Mrs. Bates, that does precisely-Mrs. Bates would withdraw hers and allow Mr. Schiltz to move that. Do you want to move that as part of the instructions, Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I would move that that be placed on the top as a new sentence on the instructions we have now.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there-all right, Mr. Schiltz moves that we add, as a sentence in the instructions, the following: "A majority of those voting in this election is necessary to carry any issue". Is there discussion?

Mrs. Eck.

DELEGATE ECK: Mr. Chairman, I can see this as being misleading, because if a majority vote for one of the alternates down below and don't vote for the Constitution, it is not enough to carry them. I think, almost, you'd have to add that—something like "alternates 2 and 3 and 4 cannot carry unless the Constitution is ratified". I don't think that's the way it wants to be said.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: How about "to carry the Constitution or any subissue"? Does the word "sub" help?

DELEGATE ECK: No, I don't think it does, because the subissues can only carry if the Constitution does.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right, but doesn't "sub" imply that? Mr. Loendorf, have you got a little help?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: Would you read the language, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The last one or Mr.--

DELEGATE LOENDORF: The whole sentence.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "A majority of those voting in this election is necessary to carry any issue".

DELEGATE LOENDORF: I think you've solved Mrs. Eck's problem, then, because you have used the words "in this election", which indicate the majority has to be a majority voting in the election, not on any separate issue.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, but her point is that a majority might vote for the death penalty part and not for the Constitution, and it doesn't carry the issue.

DELEGATE LOENDORF: That's right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "A majority of those voting in this election is necessary to carry the Constitution and also"-or, let's see-"and each alternative must"-let's see. All right, I think I've got it. What do we call them? It's a little long for Mr. Schiltz. Now, you might be able to work with this, Mr. Schiltz. "A majority of those voting in this election is necessary to carry the Constitution. In addition, each alternative must receive such a majority to carry." Where is Mr. Brown? He's our expert on this.

Mr. Berg. I'm sorry; I haven't been looking.

DELEGATE BERG: I only wanted to suggest that, instead of the word "carry", you use the word "approve", because that's the word that's used in Section 8 of Article XIX. And I was going to—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's easy. But solve this other—

DELEGATE BERG: -then I was going to suggest, on the other one, "or any issue listed below".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: But Mrs. Eck's point is that an issue can receive a majority and not be carried unless the majority of the-carries the Constitution, too. Well, maybe you should say "and".

Mr. Loendorf.

DELEGATE LOENDORF: Yes, Mr. Chairman, we can't make law in that sentence. It constitutes instructions to the voters. Therefore, I'd just leave it as you first proposed it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "A majority of those voting in this election is necessary to carry any issue"?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Which implies that something else may be necessary, too, but at least a majority is.

Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Mr. Chairman, I think that all of us are going to have to go home and do just what every trial lawyer does when he presents his case to a jury. When he has a written verdict in his hand and he asks that jury to go in and reach a decision, he's going to have to explain this ballot, and I don't see any reason to carry on this debate in an attempt to do all of these things, or we'll be here forever. I think those instructions are clear and that they're plain, and I think we ought to end with them just where they are.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The instructions-the only thing that's concerning us, Mr. Murray, there is nothing in the ballot now that says that 3 and 4 have to have this majority; and what's going to happen is that-or what could happen is that 49 percent could vote for the gamblers and 47 against; and the gamblers are going to think they won; and they're not going to win. And we're not going to have told them that. But I'm sure that that isn't going to change the law; but maybe to be fair, we ought to tell them they got to have a majority.

Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: What I'm trying to say to you is that we are going to advise the gamblers about that before they ever get into the poll booth.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Swanberg.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Mr. President, I think we're overlooking a good opportunity here to do a little free advertising on the ballot, and I think we'd better take advantage of every opportunity we have to do this. And instead ofputtingit up at the top in instructions to voters, I think this, too, should be in a box; and I think it should be said loud and clear in that box that the following two proposals shall be ineffective-or words to this effect--unless the proposed Constitution is passed, so that those who want this gambling or whatever it is that they want will make darned sure that they vote for the Constitution in the first instance; otherwise, their activity is idle. Let's put it down there where they can be readily seen by all those who vote, and I think we'll get a lot of votes that way.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: In other words, you'd put a box in after 1 and say: "If the Constitution receives a majority of the votes, the following propositions can be adopted by a majority."

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Even stronger than that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: How's that, Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SWANBERG: I mean, it's just a good-it's a sort of a neon sign there, it seems to me, to get a little advertising.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Mr. Swanberg has suggested that after the first ballot, we put in a box that says: "If the Constitution receives a majority of the votes in this election, the following propositions may be adopted by a majority of the votes in this election."

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I'll do whatever this committee votes to do. I have stated my feelings. I'm in accord with Mr. Murray; I don't think it's necessary. We are doing all sorts of brochures and one thing and another, and we've got the newspapers full of this 50 percent plus one business. If they don't know now, they're never going to know. I don't see any reason to add another comma or period or anything else to this ballot as we have it right at this minute, but I'll do whatever-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And you—well, I'll hear Mrs. Eck.

DELEGATE ECK: Mr. Chairman, I'm inclined to agree with Mr. Schiltz, but I do have another wording here which might do what we want and also give us a little free advertising on the ballot. It would say: "Each issue listed below"--or how you want to define them—"requires a majority vote of those voting in this election, as well as a majority vote approving the proposed Constitution".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "Each issue below requires a majority vote-"

DELEGATE ECK: "-of those voting in this election, as well as a majority vote-"

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "—in this election-"

DELEGATE ECK: Un-huh.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "--as well as a majority--"

DELEGATE ECK: "-vote approving proposed Constitution."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "-majority vote for the proposed Constitution"?

DELEGATE ECK: "For the proposed Constitution" would do just as well.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Eck, will you move that?

DELEGATE ECK: Mr. Chairman, I move that this be added to the instructions at the top of the ballot.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz, do you want to withdraw yours?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No, I don't.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You don't want to withdraw the one that says: "A majority of those voting in this election is necessary to carry any issue"?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, all right, leave it in there. But Mrs. Eck will amend it; and if she fails, you're up. All right. I feel like a Keno man making book. (Laughter) All right, the issue now is Mrs. Eck's motion that we add to the instructions a sentence saying: "Each issue below requires a majority vote of those voting in this election, as well as a majority vote for the proposed Constitution." Is there discussion?

Mr. Anderson.

DELEGATE OSCAR ANDERSON: Well, I understand there's three issues in here that don't require a majority vote in order to be placed in the Constitution.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, you're not right about that, Oscar. There's not even two. There's none that don't require a majority vote.

Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman, since we've been discussing this, I think that we have the sense of the group and that Style and Drafting could handle this sentence, the structure of this sentence, and that maybe we just decide whether we want a short explanation of this type and let them really handle the wording.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: The time has rapidly come and has now arrived when Style and Drafting can no longer do anything, because we go to the printers tomorrow morning.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, Mr. Schiltz, we don't go to the printers until this is done.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, that's true enough.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So don't worry about the printer. I mean, we're going to write the Constitution; don't worry about the printer.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's true enough, except that we can't have a committee meeting tomorrow morning and redo all this and still get it to the printers.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right. Right.

Mr. Mahoney.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Mr. Chairman, I've listened to a great deal of interest here this afternoon, and I think there that we're indicting the educators around here. We have spent millions and millions of dollars in this state to educate these people to understand, and to me this is very plain, and I don't know as we got to get it down here so plain that-1 think we could stop. I like this original proposition. It looks good, and we talk about it, and let's don't indict the educators.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Blaylock.

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Mr. President, I agree with Mr. Mahoney. And being an educator, let's get on and vote with this thing. And I'm happy with the language that's in here.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, the Chair does have Mr. Schiltz and Mrs. Eck up. Do you want to vote on that, Mrs. Eck? All right, the issue is on Mrs. Eck's language to add, into the instructions, a sentence saying: "Each issue below requires a majority vote of those voting in this election, as well as a majority vote of the proposed Constitution." All in favor, vote Aye; opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, take the ballot.

Mr. Berg, for what purpose do you rise?

DELEGATE BERG: Berg votes No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Berg votes No.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 16 delegates voting Aye, 66 voting No.

(The official roll call shows 15 Aye, 67 Nay, 1 Excused, 17 absent and is correctly reported in the preceding roll call tabulation)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 66 having voted No, Mrs. Eck's motion is defeated.

Mr. Schiltz, do you want yours withdrawn, or do you want to put?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I will withdraw mine.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, it's withdrawn.

Mr. Swanberg.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Mr. President, as the ballot stands now, it's still not clear, in my opinion, under items 2 or 3, that a person who votes, for example, for allowing the Legislature to authorize gambling-it's not going to be clear to him, if he votes for it, what the situation is. I submit that we have a golden opportunity to pick up a lot of votes here simply by putting in, after item 2, a box-another box, and in that box something like this should be stated: "If you voted for the proposed Constitution above, you may also vote on whether the following proposals should be included within it." And that would be a clear and distinct statement to all those who vote on the gambling issue that they'd better vote for the Constitution up above if they want to change the gambling picture in Montana. I submit we'd pick up an awful lot of votes just by that simple tactic. All those who had strong feelings about the death penalty likewise would look at that box and say, "Well, I'd better vote for the Constitution if I want to abolish the death penalty in Montana", and in that way, I think we would strengthen our hand immeasurably. Whether you're For or Against gambling or the death penalty is beside the point here; so I would move, then, that after paragraph 2, the language which I just read to you and which you have on your desks beincluded in a box within it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Now, Mr. Swanberg, I didn't get your exact language, but I got this: "If the Constitution receives a"-for a box after 2—"If the Constitution receives a majority of those voting, the following proposals may be approved by a majority of those voting at this election." Now, the Chair is aware of how impatient you all are, but the Chair has some sympathy for this because there is nothing on this ballot that explains that it takes a majority vote on 3 and 4. Now, you can go without it, but it does not now explain that and it is, in fact, necessary. And Mr. Anderson just pointed out he wasn't clear on that himself, so we have nothing there yet; and you can vote this down, but until-but it won't then be explained. Mr. Swanberg, is that language sufficient for you? "If the Constitution receives a majority of those voting, following proposals may be approved by a majority of those voting at this election."

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Mr. President, I'm not an ad writer. What we are writing here is a good ad. The language you have put in is okay. I would suggest we put something in and then we go over this ballot again and we can correct it again if we-need be. But it just seems to me that there's a golden opportunity here to pick up a lot of votes, and I'd like to take advantage of it, as well as clarify the situation. Those who vote No down here and-well, strike that. Let it go. It's too complicated.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Well, I've got some language here that will do it. I don't know if it's good enough, and it can be amended.

Mr. Ask.

DELEGATE ASK: Mr. Chairman, could I move a substitute motion? In the instructions-I think all we have to say in instructions is just one line to say: "If the proposed"-"If the vote on the proposed Constitution fails, all alternative issues also fail," period; and that should explain it. That would be just in the instructions.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, members of the committee. I think Mr. Ask, is-in about one-half of a sentence, has taken care of the whole thing. I-That'd be fine, I think.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Ask, are you saying, if the proposed Constitution fails to receive a majority of the votes cast, the alternative proposals also fail?
Mr. Swanberg.

DELEGATE SWANBERG: Let's think positively here. Let's not use the word "fail" anywhere in this ballot. And here we have the word "fail" used twice, and I submit that the language which the Chair just read puts it in positive terms and is far to be preferred.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bates.

DELEGATE BATES: Mr. Chairman, that sounded very good to start out with, but actually all these things don't fail because we are going to have one or the other, a bicameral or a unicameral.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No.

DELEGATE BATES: We've got in the old Constitution gambling.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mrs. Bates, the propositions here fail if the first one doesn't pass.

DELEGATE BATES: (Inaudible)—propositions. But we have two votes—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Well, we've got a clear-cut issue here between Mr. Ask's and Mr. Swanberg's, and Mr. Ask's has got the substitute motion and the issue is-Mr. Ask says in the instructions: "If the proposed Constitution fails to receive a majority of the votes cast, the alternative proposals also fail." And Mr. Swanberg, if you want to put it positively, has a box after the second paragraph-second ballot that says: "If the Constitution receives a majority of those voting at this election, the following proposals 3 and 4 may be approved by a majority of those voting." Now, the issue is on Mr. Ask's. I take it you're ready for the vote. All in favor-a roll call vote-say-vote Aye if you're in favor of Mr. Ask's, and vote No if you're not. Has every delegate voted?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does any delegate want to change his vote?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, cast the ballot.

Mr. President Aye

CLERK HANSON: Mr. Chairman, 60 delegates voting Aye, 27 voting No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 60 having voted Aye and 27 having voted No, Mr. Ask's motion is presumed by the Chair to have passed and will be added to the instructions. Mr. Swanberg, since it does essentially the same thing in a negative manner as yours, the Chair rules that yours is lost by that.

Now, Mr. Schiltz, do you want to move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration the ballot proposed by the Style and Drafting Committee, that we recommend the same be adopted?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I make that motion, Mr. Chairman, as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: As amended. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted as amended. Now, members of the body, we have before us on-we'll set that aside on General Orders before reporting, and on General Orders in the Committee of the Whole, if you'll turn to Article III on General Government, in the proposal given you by the Style and Drafting Committee this morning-the final report of the Style and Drafting Committee-turn to Article III on page 11 and-in fact, turn to Article III on page 13, and it will now be necessary to fit our ballot that Mr. Schiltz moved, that the first Section 9 be deleted and the section-second Section 9 be left in. Isn't that correct, Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's correct, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, the issue, then, is on--would you make a motion that the first Section 9 be deleted, Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does rise and report, after having had under consideration Article III, General Government, Style and Drafting Committee Final Report, that the section-the first Section 9, being lines 12 through 15 be deleted and that the article be adopted as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, the Chair will strike the last part of your thing. I'm going to make two motions out of it. I want to adopt it after it's deleted. So we're just voting an the deletion. Does anyone want a roll call vote?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. All in favor of deleting the first Section 9, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's approved. Now, will you put the—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Now Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article III, General Government, Style and Drafting Final Report, that it recommend the same be adopted as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The motion is to adopt as for style and drafting, Article III as amended. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And it's so ordered. Now, if you'll turn to Article V on page 15—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: 15 to 22.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -to 22, the ballot will require that the language on page 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21 and 22 be deleted and the language in the second Legislative Article, which is the bicameral article, remain in the Constitution.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I make that motion, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The motion has been made that we delete the unicameral section of the Legislative Article V, being pages 15 to 22 in the Final Report of Style and Drafting. All in favor of that motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All opposed?

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and it's deleted.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Article V, the Legislature, Style and Drafting Committee's Final Report, it recommend the same be adopted as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, you're now voting that pages 23 through 28, being the bicameral form of the Legislature-Legislative Article-be left in the Constitution. So many as are in favor of Article V for style and drafting, bicameral, pages 23 to 28, vote Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and it's adopted.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, did you want to do third reading on those now?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, we want to move to Section 5-to 5, yes-I'm not sure we want to do that before we go to-well, let's see-I think we need to go to your adoption schedule. Is it revised, or is it good anymore?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: The revised adoption schedule works, yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well. Members of the body, if you'll turn to the revised adoption schedule-it's page-two pages long. I think the clerk had better read it and we'd better read along. Will the clerk please read the revised adoption schedule on General Orders, Committee of the Whole. Don't read the word "revised"; just start with the word "adoption".

CLERK HANSON: "Adoption schedule. These schedule provisions are part of this Constitution only for the limited purposes of determining whether this Constitution has been adopted, determining what changes result from the vote on each of the separately submitted issues, and establishing the general effective date of this Constitution. No provision of this schedule shall be published unless it becomes part of the Constitution as the result of the adoption of a separately submitted provision. Section 1. This Constitution, if approved by a majority of those voting at the election as provided by the Constitution of 1889, shall take effect on July lst, 1973, except as otherwise provided in Sections 1 and 2 of the Transition Schedule. The Constitution of 1889, as amended, shall thereafter be of no effect. Section 2, subsection 1. If separate issue 2-A concerning the unicameral form of the Legislature is approved by a majority of those voting at the election and if proposed Constitution is approved by the electors, then: sub sub. (a) Article V, The Legislature, shall bedeleted and the following substituted therefore: Insert unicameral article in full here. Subsubsection (b). The words "of each house" are deleted from subsection 2 of Section 6 and from Section 8, Article VIII, Revenue and Finance. Subsubsection (c). The word "Legislature" is substituted for "Senate" in subsections 1, 2 and 4 of Section 8, Article VI, The Executive, and in subsections 1 and 2 of Section 8, Article VII, the Judiciary. Subsection 2. If separate issue 2-B concerning the bicameral form of the Legislature is approved by the electors and if the proposed Constitution is approved by the electors, then Article V, The Legislature, shall be retained. Section 3, subsection 1. If separate issue 3-A is approved by a majority of those voting at the election and if the proposed Constitution is approved by the electors, then Section 9 of Article III, General Government, shall be retained. Subsection 2. If separate issue 3-B is approved by the electors and if the proposed Constitution is approved by the electors, then Section 9 shall be deleted from Article III, General Government, and the following substituted therefor: 'Section 9, Gambling. All forms of gambling, lotteries, and gift enterprises are prohibited."'

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That will have to be changed.

CLERK HANSON: "Section 4. If separate issue 4-B is approved by a majority of those voting at the election and if the proposed Constitution is approved by the electors, then there shall be added to Section 28, Article II, Declaration of Rights, the following sentence: 'Death shall not be prescribed as a penalty for any crime against the state' and there shall be deleted from Section 21 of the same article the following: 'except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or the presumption great."' Mr. Chairman, adoption schedule.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I move to amend-we don't have numbered paper here, so—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Section 3 on page 2.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Section 3, sub. 2, on page 2, by deleting the words "9. Gambling. All forms of gambling, lotteries, and gift enterprises are prohibited" and inserting in lieu thereof the words on page 13 of Style and Drafting report, which are lines 16 and-No-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: What's—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Section 9—Well, it would be lines 12 through 15 on page 13 of Style and Drafting's report.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: What does it say? Except as what?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: It says: "Section 9. Gambling. All forms of gambling, lotteries, and gift enterprises are prohibited unless authorized by acts of the Legislature or by the people through initiative or referendum."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "--unless authorized by acts of the Legislature or the people"— by what-?--"initiative or referendum". Or "the people" by what?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, it-let me see-"unless prohibited"-"unless authorized by acts of the Legislature or by the people through initiative or referendum".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, this change is necessary because of what we did in voting for Mr. Harper's amendment.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And I'd like you also to move-you see, it's now going to be separate item 3-A that they must vote for, so up on line-the top line there, sub. 2--"If separate issue 3-A is approved"-because 3-A will be for allowing the people, right?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, now, I'll have to think about that a minute.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: 3-B is against.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes, that's right, that's right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So the line has to be: "If separate issue 3-A is approved by the electors", then you put in this larger language that you have just read.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Now, does everyone understand the change?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I would like to make another amendment. At the top of that page, under-after the words "The Judiciary" and we have a subsection 2—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: --we say: "If separate issue 2-B concerning the bicameral form of the Legislature is approved by the electors"-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, wait a minute, Mr. Schiltz. I'm going to take these one at a time. People have to know what they're doing here.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Oh, I'm sorry.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Now, we are on sub. Z-Section 3, sub. 2, in the middle of the second page, and it will read: "If separate issue 3-A is approved"--and then it will go on-and instead of the quoted language it will have the longer quoted language, which is "all forms of gambling," and so forth "are prohibited unless authorized by the Legislature or by the people by initiative"--or "through initiative or referendum" -the longer language. Now, does everyone understand that we have to change that because of the Harper amendment? All right, are you ready to vote on that? Do we need to discuss that, Mr. Harper?

DELEGATE HARPER: No. Do you want also, at this time-are you going to put subsection 1 of Section 3 separately? Doesn't the 3-A need to be changed to 3-B? Just-in other words you change—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Where? Where are you?

DELEGATE HARPER: In the one you just read, subsection 2 of Section 3—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's right.

DELEGATE HARPER: —you changed 3-B to 3-A. Now, you need to change 3-A to 3-B in the paragraph just above it, if you want to do that now or-1 just called it to your attention.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see it. Yes, that's got to be 3-B. So, on line-up there where it says Section 3, number 1, it will say: "If separate issue 3-B."

Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: I'm-Mr. President, I'm wondering about that. It seems like the way the Constitution now reads, if you don't get a majority for or against gambling-in other words, if you don't get your 50 percent plus one, then separate 3-A still stays in, regardless of whether it's approved by a majority. So wouldn't the language be all right if you put in Section 3: "1. If separate issue 3-A is not approved by a majority of those voting at the election, if the proposed Constitution is approved, then Section 9, Article III, shall be retained"? Similarly up under your Judiciary.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think, Mr. Davis that's-you see, what you're doing is, you have to cover 3-B somewhere and you're not going to cover 3-B at all, and if 3-B is approved by a majority, then the Section 9 that we just put in stays.

DELEGATE DAVIS: But if 3-B isn't approved by a majority—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Then it stays anyway.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Yes, it stays anyway.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Right. If the other one doesn't. All right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yeah. All right. Now, these amendments changing 3-A to 3-B and changing 3-B to 3-A and adding the extra language onto the Section 9 that would substitute are all that's necessary to effectuate Mr. Harper's amendment.

Mr. McDonough

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: Mr. President, I don't think we really need Section 3, subsection 1, under these circumstances.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well—

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: Because then you're saying if 3-B is approved by a majority of the vote, it's retained. Well, it's retained anyway, whether or not-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, that's right, but it also is true if it's in there and it explains what happens to 3-B, and the same is true on the page before on this other one, so—

Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I would agree with Mr. McDonough. I was going to make a motion-You see, they're both in the Constitution, and if the Constitution is approved—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Do you want to strike Section 3, sub. 1, and restyle 2, sub. 1?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No, not at all-not altogether. I would strike the first line and three-fourths, so that we make a capital "I" on the "if', so that it reads, then: "If the proposed Constitution is approved by the electors, then Section 9 of Article III, General Government, shall be retained."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Now, this still has the effect of effectuating the Harper amendment, right?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, we'll allow that amendment, so that 1 now becomes: "If the proposed Constitution is approved, then Section 9"-and so forth-"shall be retained." 2 will read: "If section-separate issue 3-A", with this other language. Now, with all of those amendments in there, is everybody happy?

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I'd like a motion approving section-the--approving this part for style-Section 3.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move that when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration Section 3 of the adoption schedule, it recommend the same be adopted as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of approving Section 3 for style, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So ordered. All right.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Now, Mr. Chairman, for the same reason, on the first line and three-fourths of the-of this same page: "If separate issues 2-B concerning the bicameral form of the Legislature is approved by the electors and"—I would ask that that be struck and that a capital "I" "If' be inserted-and then we continue on with a capital "I" "If '.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. All in favor of amending the top of page 2, sub. 2, so that it says: "Sub. 2. If the proposed Constitution is approved by the electors"-then Article IV, Legislature, shall be retained. All in favor of that, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Just a minute-

Mr. Driscoll.

DELEGATE DRISCOLL: Mr. Chairman, I'm confused--a little more confused than I usually am. It seems to me that what we've just done in Section 3, when we state: "If the proposed Constitution is approved by the electors, then Section 9 of Article III, General Government, shall be retained-"

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes, that's wrong, isn't it? That's wrong. You're right, that's wrong. We finally got Mr. McDonough (Laughter) because, Mr. McDonough-

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: No, you haven't; I moved to delete the whole section.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Oh, I guess we've got Mr. Schiltz again.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: You got me again, but—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Well, it still seems to me that if you put-if separate issue 3-B is not approved by a majority of the voting and if the Constitution is approved, then 9 stays in.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, that's what I think, Mr. Chairman.

DELEGATE DAVIS: And I think you do the same thing on the Judiciary. Iftheunicameral is not approved, then the other stays in. In other words, just change the top of the page under Judiciary to: "If separate issue 2-A concerning the unicameral form of Legislature is not approved by the electors and if the proposed Constitution is approved by the electors, then Article V, The Legislature, shall be retained." And under Section 3: "1. If separate issue 3-B is not approved by the majority of those voting at election and if the proposed Constitution is approved by the electors, then Section 9 stays in."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, Mr. Davis, do you agree with me that we should have just changed it to 3-B in Section 3?

DELEGATE DAVIS: To 3-B, and then after "is" add a "not"-"if 3-B is not approved".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Oh.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Well, where are we now? Which is that-? All right, on Section 2, now, it's a separate issue-is 3-A—is that the separate issue? All right, then, if you leave the first part-If separate issue 3-A is not approved, then you leave it in; and if it is approved in number 2, then you take it out and make the substitution. Does that make sense or not?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think you can do it either way-3-A is not approved or 3-B is approved.

Mr. Schiltz, which do you want?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, Mr. Chair. man, I would like to say thatperhaps we're having a misunderstanding here, and I'm sure we are, but it seems to me that if the proposed Constitution is approved by the electors, then the Article V, as we have amended it, shall be retained.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, then you're not giving the other guy a chance.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No. That's right, you're not-you aren't giving it to that other one. I agree.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: You're back with Mr. Choate. All right, now, how do you want it, Mr. Schiltz? Do you want it "If separate issue 3-A is not approved", or do you want it "If separate issue 3-B is approved"?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Oh, I don't think it matters too much.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Probably it's better "If separate issue 3-A is not approved".

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Now you're in Section 3, sub. 1?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: All right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: And then we have to leave that language in. Now, I take it that we may reconsider Section 3 of this second page. All in favor of reconsidering, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay. Now, Mr. Davis, you will move that Section 3, sub. 1, read: "If separate issue 3-A is not approved by a majority of those voting at the election and if the proposed Constitution is approved by the electors, then Section 9 of Article III, General Government, shall be retained." Is that your motion?

DELEGATE DAVIS: I so move.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right; all in favor of Mr. Davis' motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, that's all in again, with "3-A" and "not". All right. That's approved for style. Now we're back up on the words after "The Judiciary", sub. 2. And that should read what, Mr. Davis?

DELEGATE DAVIS: "If separate issue 2-A concerning the unicameral form of Legislature is not approved"-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "-2-A is not approved"—

DELEGATE DAVIS: "-and the Constitution passes", then 2-B is automatically in, whether it passes or not.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, Mr. Davis, we did never adopt the other one, so we're back on it. If separate issue-Mr. Davis moves that it say: "Sub. 2. If separate issue 2-A concerning the bicameral form of the Legislature is not approved by the electors and if the proposed Constitution is approved by the electors, then Article V, The Legislature, shall be retained." Is that your motion?

DELEGATE DAVIS: It's my motion, except Mr. President should substitute "unicameral" for "bicameral" there.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Concerning the unicameral.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, I'll restate it for the transcript: "If separate issue 2-A concerning the unicameral form of the Legislature is not approved by the electors and if the proposed Constitution is approved by theelectors, then Article V, The Legislature, shall be retained." All in favor of Mr. Davis' motion, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, that's taken care of. Now, the Chair would like to raise the question of-I'd like you to read Section 4 again, gentlemen. Down here where it says: "and there shall be deleted from Section 21"—Mr. Dahood, have we got in there all-at the present time, that language "except for capital offenses, when the proof is evident or the presumption is great"?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, he isn't here, but I know about that. It's on pages 6 and 7 under Section 21, and we ran across that in our work.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: What's that, Bill of Rights?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's Bill of Rights, and its Bail, and it's over on page 7. It says: "All persons shall be bailable by sufficient sureties, except for capital offenses." Now, if capital punishment is abolished, why, that wouldn't obtain, and I have a flag on that to remind the committee of it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harbaugh.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: I'd like to ask a question, Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes, I yield.

DELEGATE HARBAUGH: I fail to understand why it's necessary to delete that. It seems to me it has no relationship to the capital punishment issue. We're talking about bail here, not capital punishment.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: What we're talking about, though, is if-Mr. Dahood, do you understand what we're talking about?

DELEGATE DAHOOD: No, I understand what you're talking about, and your position is correct.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: You see, if capital offenses-there won't be capital offenses anymore. Capital punishment and capital offenses are coequal. You can only execute a person for a capital offense, so then capital offenses are—would no longer obtain in Section 21.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Harbaugh, a felony is different than a capital offense, is what they're saying, and a capital offense is an offense punishable by death. There being no offenses punishable by death anymore, we don't need that language. Very well, the Chair stands corrected, and I think Section 4 is okay.

Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Mr. Chairman, I don't want to hold up the works, but will we now be saying under Section 21, Bail, that all offenses are bailable, that there are no-for example, heinous crimes--murders, anything else-that aren't bailable?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's what we'll be saying.

DELEGATE HARPER: I can see being-I can see Mr. Harbaugh's point, I think. I can see us being against capital punishment, but I don't necessarily want to lower my estimation of our—how heinous a capital offense might be. Now, if you used the word "capital"-again, the wrong way-but I mean the same kind of crime.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Well, Mr. President-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: It seems like, to be consistent, you just about have to adopt this. When we adopted the Bill of Rights, we've already adopted the fact that all offenses are bailable except capital offenses, so we either have to go back-if the death penalty passes and they delete the death penalty, then you'd have to go back and try to work some wording in saying what sort of offenses. So I think we're at the stage now where you just about have to go with it and every offense is bailable, but the court then can adjust that as to amount. But, as a matter of fact, the federal government has pretty near held that anyway, haven't they? They let Angela out.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Hanson.

DELEGATE ROD HANSON: Mr. President, would Mr. Davis yield to a question?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Davis?

DELEGATE ROD HANSON: Carl, is there any statutes on this thing-say that this is deleted from the Constitution, is there any statutes that may apply, and if not-let me make it a two-part question--and if not, then wouldn't the Legislature be free to pass such statutes?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Davis, do you want to answer?

DELEGATE DAVIS: I'm unable to answer that right at the moment. I was going to look to see what's in our present Constitution, but I think this is identical to the present Constitution, isn't it?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think Mr. Brown is going to tell you that if you change the Constitution, you've changed the statute. Isn't that right, Mr. Brown?

DELEGATE BROWN: No, what I was going to say, Mr. President, we're out of order. We are on Style and Drafting, and we can't go back to the Bill of Rights. If the United States Supreme Court says the death penalty is unconstitutional, we'd be back to the old one. I think this discussion is out of order.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I think you're right, and I think if it's out of order, the last sentence of Section 4 has to be deleted. Now, maybe "capital offenses" should be "former capital offenses", but, Mr. Dahood, we'd be making a substantive change in Bill of Rights.

DELEGATE DAHOOD: Perhaps I can explain to the delegates. We considered this proposition in drafting the Bill of Rights. We saw no problem. We appreciated the fact death penalty might be a separate issue. Once it becomes a separate issue and it's voted upon-if it's-if abolition of the death penalty is voted upon, that particular phrase will then become inoperative. It's really no problem. California just had the problem. When they abolished the death penalty, they merely ruled that that particular portion in their constitution was not operative, and they granted bail to Angela Davis. We see no real problem at all.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, don't you agree, then, that we ought to delete this business about deleting it in the Bill of Rights, because it seems to me—

DELEGATE DAHOOD: If we're going to follow the strict rule with respect to substantive matters, yes. I was not going to stand and object to it, because it's going to bring about the result that I think we're going to have automatically anyway.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Brown.

DELEGATE BROWN: I didn't mean that we couldn't put this in Section 4. And it probably should be in there; it would make a clearer Constitution. What I was trying to stop was a discussion about getting back and start amending the Bill of Rights, but I don't have any objection to Section 4 staying in. It will clarify the Constitution.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, later on in the Transition Schedule you'll see a section that authorizes the attorney general, once a year, to review the Constitution and delete anything that then must be deleted, and that's the reason for this having been in there.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, so it's okay to leave it in there, right?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Very well, I think we've amended the adoption schedule sufficiently. Do you want to move the entire adoption schedule, Mr.—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Just a minute.

Mr. Heliker.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Mr. Chairman, I move to amend Section 2, subsection 1, subsub. (c), at the top of unnumbered page 2-following the word "The Judiciary", change the period to a comma and add the following words: "and in subsection 1 of Section 2, Article XII, Departments and Institutions".

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Could you do that a little slower, please?

DELEGATE HELIKER: Yes. Add, after inserting a comma, "and in subsection 1 of Section 2, Article XII, Departments and Institutions", where you have provision for a Commissioner of Labor confirmed by the Senate.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Can you give— could I ask for the page where that is, please.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Does this-is this after the period, where it says "Judiciary", or is this in the next paragraph, Mr.—

DELEGATE HELIKER: After the period.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: After the word "Judiciary, period"?

DELEGATE HELIKER: Right. It's just adding one more section where you have to change "Senate" to "Legislature".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: In other words, there's another place that you change "Senate" to "Legislature".

DELEGATE HELIKER: Mr. Chairman, on page 57.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: -57, George?

DELEGATE HELIKER: Line 16.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes. Are you with us, Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I have now found you. Now, I've got to get back to—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The computer must have goofed.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yeah, this is tough work.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is it all right to say "the Judiciary, and in subsection 1 of Section 2 of the article on Departments and Institutions"?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I think we ought to be uniform and say the section numbers that he mentioned, and I think maybe he did, but I'll make sure-the subsections he numbered of— Section 2, Article XII, Departments and Institutions.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay, and that goes in right after the word "Judiciary comma".

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Delaney.

DELEGATE DELANEY: Mr. Chairman, I believe we have a Senate regardless of whether we have a bicameral or a unicameral, and this was, I think, the intention for these commissioners to be appointed by the Governor, then approved by the Senate-regardless of whether it was a unicameral or a bicameral-and I don't believe it need-should be changed.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yeah, I think you may be right. What do you think of that, Mr. Heliker?

DELEGATE HELIKER: Well, isn't this the same thing in all cases?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, that's what I'm now checking out.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: In other words, there's a—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Line 13, page 42—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: -in other words, what's wrong with having the commissioner confirmed by the Senate? There's going to be a Senate, whether it's a unicameral or a bicameral Senate.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Well, I say again, aren't these all the same?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, that's what Mr. Schiltz is checking.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, no, this is— just applies to the unicameral situation, you see. No, wait-I've got to work on this.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Let's see, Section 8, 1, 2 and 4. They are confirmations. I don't see why you need them-looks to me like subsection (c) is wrong, Mr. Schiltz, because at least the one on the Executive Article, subsections 1, 2 and 4, are concerning confirmation of appointments, and there's no reason why that can't still stay "Senate".

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I guess that's right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, now, let's look at Judiciary.

DELEGATE HELIKER: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Let's just check it out here-Judiciary-VIII, 1 and 2. Yeah, that's still to be-for the courts are to be confirmed by the Senate, too, so I think that the problem is that subsection (c) on page 1 is unnecessary, Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I think that's right.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Garlington, do you have an opinion?

DELEGATE GARLINGTON: I want to point out, Mr. Chairman, that in Section 1 of Article V of the unicameral on page 15, line 4, it is said of the unicameral body thatitis "a Legislature". It doesn't call it "a Senate", it calls it "a Legislature".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's a Legislature with members called "senators". All right, we either got to take it out or we got to put Mr. Heliker's in.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No, I think Mr. Garlington is right. We should put-1 got on that a minute ago-and we should put Mr. Heliker's in.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, the motion is to add to the top of the second page, after the word "Judiciary", a comma and "subsection 1 of Section 2, Article XII, Departments and Institutions period". All in favor of doing that, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted.
Now, Mr. Schiltz, do you think you're ready to move the adoption schedule as a whole?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I do. Mr. Chairman, I move when this Committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration the Adoption Schedule, Style and Drafting Final Report, it recommend the same be adopted.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So many as are in favor of adopting the Adoption Schedule as a whole, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So ordered. Now, we'll look at the Transition Schedule, which was in those papers you had yesterday and you probably should take apart-Transition Schedule.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: It's the last page of the book, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It is also in the book. If you have stricken-in your book you should have stricken the official ballot and you should have stricken the Adoption Schedule. It's the third from the last page in the book, and the Transition Schedule is identical there and on the pages that we had yesterday. Will the clerk please read the Transition Schedule so we can all become acquainted with it.

CLERK HANSON: "The report of the Committee on Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission, Final Report. Transition Schedule. The following provisions shall remain part of this Constitution until their terms have been exhausted"--"been executed".

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Executed.
(Laughter)

CLERK HANSON: "Once each year, the Attorney General shall review the following provisions and certify to the Secretary of State which, if any, have been executed. Any provisions so certified shall thereafter be removed from this schedule and no longer published as part of this Constitution. Section 1. Accelerated effective date; Section 2. Delayed effective date; Section 3. Prospective operation of declaration of rights; Section 4. Terms of Judiciary; Section 5. Terms of Legislators; Section 6. General transition. Section 1. Accelerated effective date. Section 14. Districting and apportionment, of Article V, The Legislature, shall be effective January 1, 1973. Section 2. Delayed effective date. The provisions of these—of Sections 1, 2 and 3 of Article V. Legislature, shall not become effective until the date the first redistricting and reapportionment plan becomes law. Section 3. Prospective operation of declaration of rights. Any rights, procedural or substantive, created for the first time by Article II shall be prospective and not retroactive. Section 4. Terms of the Judiciary. Supreme Court justices, District Court judges, and justices of the peace holding office when this Constitution becomes effective shall serve the terms for which they were elected or appointed. Section 5. Terms of Legislators. Subsection 1. The terms of all legislators elected before the effective date of this Constitution shall end on December 31 of the year in which the first redistricting and reapportionment plan becomes law. Subsection 2. The senators first elected under this Constitution shall draw lots to establish a term of 2 years for one-half of their number. Section 6. General transition. Subsection 1. The rights and duties of all public bodies shall remain as if this Constitution had not been adopted, with the exception of such changes as are contained in this Constitution. All laws, ordinances, regulations, and rules of court not contrary to or inconsistent with the provisions of this Constitution shall remain in force until they shall expire by their own limitation or shall be altered or repealed pursuant to this Constitution. Subsection 2. The validity of all public and private bonds, debts, and contracts and of all suits, actions, and rights of action shall continue as if no change had taken place. Subsection 3. All officers filing for any office by election or appointment shall continue the duties thereof until their offices shall have been abolished or their successors selected and qualified in accordance with this Constitution or laws enacted pursuant thereto." Mr. Chairman, Transition Schedule.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right. Now, there are some amendments to this, but they are all written and they can probably be taken care of easily.

Do you want to make a statement before you take up your first amendment, Mr. Schiltz?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, Mr. Chairman, the Transition Schedule, as you can tell from the reading we just had, is in order to have some continuity between the old Constitution and the new one and for an orderly transfer from that old Constitution to a new one, and I don't think I need to say any more than that.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, Mr. Schiltz, you have an amendment up here. May we read it?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Please.

CLERK HANSON: "Transition Schedule. Mr. Chairman. I move to amend Section 6, subsection 3, of the Transition Schedule by deleting the word 'there', after the word 'until', and adding, between 'until' and 'offices', the following: 'the end of the terms to which they were appointed or elected, and until their'. Signed: Schiltz."

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: This is in the last subsection, subsection 3, and the amendment deletes the word "their", after the word "until"—that's in the second line-and adds the following phrase: "the end of the terms to which they have been appointed or elected, and until their". Okay,

Now, Mr. Schiltz, do you want to discuss that?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Briefly, Mr. Chairman. This-there was some question in the minds of the committee and other people whether the secretary--or the treasurer and the clerk of the Supreme Court might be terminated prior to the time when their elected terms ran. In other words, without this language it was possible the Legislature could abolish their job and they would be out of business, so that language was put in there for that purpose.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It merely allows them to serve out the terms for which they're now elected, is that right?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: That's correct.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, is there any discussion?

Mr. Mahoney.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: In this case and the case of the treasurer--and if he was elected this year-he would be out at the end of this year under this, wouldn't he?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. McDonough.

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: I would like to ask Mr. Schiltz a question. Would he yield, please?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I yield.

DELEGATE McDONOUGH: Does this affect the appointed boards that might be abolished by this Constitution-or changed? Would those appointed boards that are public office still remain until their term expires?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, I assume it would, Mr. McDonough. I don't know if there are any, but it's appointments that are appointed for a definite term and that's-but, of course, what we already had in there affected those same people to the same extent. This language just makes sure that they can serve to the end of their elected or appointed term.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Is there further discussion?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Mr. Schiltz's amendment, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. All right, Mr. Loendorf has an amendment. Do you want to read it-do you want us to read it, Mr. Loendorf?

(Chairman Graybill had pronounced Delegate Loendorf s name as Low-en-dorf-whereas it is correctly pronounced as Lynndorf)

DELEGATE LOENDORF: Yes, Mr. Redbill. (Laughter)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Loendorf.

DELEGATE LOENDORF: Yes, Mr. Chairman, please.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: We'll read it wrong if you aren't careful. (Laughter) Okay. Excuse me, Mr. Loendorf. It would have been easier, though, if they'd spelled it differently, wouldn't it? (Laughter)

DELEGATE LOENDORF: Yes.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Okay, Mr. Loendorfs amendment.

CLERK HANSON: "Transition schedule. Mr. Chairman. I move to amend Section 1 of the Transition Schedule by deleting, on the first line of Section 1, the word 'Section' and inserting in lieu thereof the following: 'Section 6 (session) and'. Signed: Loendorf."

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: That's on Section 1, and you want to delete the word "Section"?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: What it does, Mr. Chairman, it simply-1 don't really delete the word "Section"; I delete it and replace it with the word "Sections"-the plural.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Oh, 6 and 14, is that what you wanted to say?

DELEGATE LOENDORF: Yes, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "-Sections 6 and 14", instead of just Section 14. All right, you may explain it.

DELEGATE LOENDORF: Okay. Very briefly, Mr. Chairman, this was an amendment approved by Style and Drafting this morning. However, we did not have time to have it typed and included as a part of the Transition Schedule here. Therefore, it's necessary to make this amendment from the floor. The purpose is-as you know, our Legislature now has more work than it can handle in 60 days. We're about to drop on it, if this Constitution passes, much more work. In other words, at this next session they'll have to take care of implementing legislation. By adopting this amendment, you merely allow Section 6 to become effective next January 1, rather than on July 1, 1973. In other words, it becomes effective 6 months earlier, and how this will help the Legislature is this: they can meet 60 legislative days, rather than 60 continuous days. You will relieve them from that pressure-cooker process they're in now, and you'll give them more time to consider not only their regular work but the additional work we're creating for them. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Any discussion?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor of Mr. Loendorf s amendment, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed?
(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted. All right, we have another one up here. Mr. Kelleher, do you want us to read yours? Pardon? May we read yours?

DELEGATE KELLEHER: (Inaudible)

CLERK HANSON: "Transition Schedule. Mr. Chairman. I move to amend Section 4, the Transition Schedule, by deleting the words 'become effective' and inserting in lieu thereof the following new words: 'is ratified'-so that the section reads as follows: 'Section 4-Terms of Judiciary. Supreme Court justices, District Courtjudges, and judges of the peace holding office when this Constitution is ratified shall serve the terms for which they were elected or appointed.' Signed: Heliker—Kelleher." Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Kelleher, do you want to explain that.

DELEGATE KELLEHER: All 28 district judges are up for reelection this year, and this would mean that they would get the 6-year terms instead of the 4-year terms.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz, do you have any comment?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, the only thing is, we've used the words "become effective" all throughout the Transition Schedule and the Adoption Schedule; we've got an effective date which uses that sort of terminology. Up in Section 1, we talk about "shall be effective January 1, 1973". That's-it's our terminology. I don't see either-how "is ratified" gives them any longer term than "becomes effective". I don't know-I'd like to have it explained.

DELEGATE KELLEHER: Mr. Chairman.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Kelleher.

DELEGATE KELLEHER: I assume that if it's ratified, that would be June the 6th. That would be the date of ratification, and they'll be running in November for terms beginning next January.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I guess-the Constitution doesn't become effective, Mr. Schiltz, until January 1, 1973. Is that before—

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Do their terms come before that?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: The effective date of the Constitution will be July 1, 1973.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: I see.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: And I see now what Mr. Kelleher is getting at. I'm not—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Would you rather change it to-"and justices of the peace holding office-shall serve the terms for which they were elected"-or do you want to make it January Ist? Do you want to add that section up above under accelerated effective date?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: No, I want to stay with what we have, which is "becomes effective", This matter came up in the committee, and we rejected the thought-I see now what it is-and decided that everybody would start after the effective date-and there's just as much reason to apply an accelerated effective date to every officer we have-1 don't--and I wouldn't want to fool with it.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: In other words, if you vote for Mr. Kelleher, the judges that run this fall will get a 6-year term; but if you vote for the Style and Drafting Committee, the judges that run this fall get a 4-year term and the next ones will get a 6-year term. That's correct. All right; so many as are in favor of Mr. Kelleher's amendment, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The Noes have it, and Mr. Kelleher's is defeated. Very well, are there other amendments? I have no more up here.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: If not, Mr. Kelleher- Mr. Schiltz, do you want to move the Transition Schedule as a whole?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Mr. Chairman, I move when this committee does arise and report, after having had under consideration the Transition Schedule, Style and Drafting Committee's Final Report, it recommend the same be adopted as amended.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: It's adopted.

Now, Mr. Eskildsen, I'd move that this committee rise and report fully-or whatever you want to do.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. Chairman-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Just a moment.

Mr. Habedank.

DELEGATE HABEDANK: I may be wrong, but according to my schedule, we never did adopt the Legislative Article, Number III, that we amended. Did that ever get adopted completely?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Legislative on what?

DELEGATE HABEDANK: Article III, I think it is, by-a roll call vote is required.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Well, I-we're going to move now to Order of Business Number 6. We have just completed the style and drafting on Sections 5 and-or Article V and Article III, and we're going to VI.

Now, Mr. Romney, for what purpose do you rise?

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. Chairman, I rise to inquire if the sections in the ballot-l, 2, 3 and 4—were individually moved and approved, and if the record shows that?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: No, they were not individually moved, they were-but I'm not sure they're sections. They're divisions. We moved the ballot as a whole on style and drafting.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Is that all the record needs to show?

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Do you--well, Mr. Schiltz and Mr. Murray, the official ballot is not really sectionalized. Do I have to have a separate motion on each ballot? We did approve each part and then we adopted it, but we didn't-any reason we can't rise and report the ballot as a whole?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well, Mr. Chairman-

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: I don't think the ballot or the adoption schedule will be part of the Constitution, and so I think they are each adopted as a whole, although they're sectionalized. The ballot isn't, but the adoption schedule is.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Now well, Mr. Schiltz, I didn't get the sense of your message.

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Well-Well, may be I was wrong, but I-I didn't—

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All right, let's put it this way. We have now voted, Mr. Romney, on the style and drafting of the ballot and we've adopted it for style and drafting. Now, Mr. Murray, should we move the ballot? We certainly can move III and V to Order of Business 6. Should we move the ballot and this other material to 6 or to 5? Mr. Hanson tells me that there's a rule that says the ballot and this transitional material all goes directly to 6. Is that correct?

DELEGATE MURRAY: Mr. Chairman, Rule 51, I think, requires that all of this material go to Order of Business Number 6.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: "Committee of the Whole consideration of proposed constitutional ballot. The proposal of the Committee on Style shall be considered only as to the form of the proposed Constitution and the form and style of ballot. The report of the Committee of the Whole shall be referred to Order of Business Number 6. The vote on Order of Business Number 6 shall be without debate and be a recorded roll call vote of the delegates." So the rules-that's Rule 51—requires that the Style and Drafting Committee proposal on the Constitution as a whole and the ballot and this other material go directly to Order of Business Number 6. Now, in Order of Business Number 6, we will adopt the two articles individually and we will adopt this other material individually. We can take it separately, but I don't know that we'd take it singly. Is there—

Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: I think that we should move the Adoption Schedule, the Transition Schedule, the Ballot and III and V and take a vote on each one just to cover this.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Yes. Well, we'll do that, but Mr. Romney's question is, "Do we want to vote separately on parts 1, 2, 3 and 4 of the ballot?"

DELEGATE MURRAY: No, the ballot is considered in its entirety under these rules.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: The ballot is proposed by Style and Drafting as a unit and it's to be considered as a unit. In other words, Mr. Romney, the ruling of-the rules--or the opinion of Mr. Murray and the ruling of the Chair would be that those numbers are not subsections of a ballot, they are distinguishing issues on a ballot, and that the ballot is a unit.

Mr. Romney.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: I do not object to it, but I thought that it not having been done, it was well to discuss it now.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Right, I think it is a good thing you mentioned it, and we will vote on each of those parts individually when we get to Order of Business Number 6, if that's all right with everybody.

All right, we need to move to rise and report finally, Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. Chairman, I move the Committee of the Whole rise and finally report. (Cheers from the delegates)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

CHAIRMAN GRAYBILL: So ordered. And we'll do that promptly for you.

(Proceedings resolved into Convention with President Graybill presiding)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the clerk will please read the Committee of the Whole report and the signature.

CLERK HANSON: "March 22, 1972. Mr. President. We, your Committee of the Whole, having had under consideration business on General Orders, recommend as follows: thatthecommittee rise and finally report. Signed: Graybill, Chairman."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Is there anyone that would like the Committee of the Whole report read in its entirety?

DELEGATES: No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well.

Mr. Eskildsen, will you move that the Committee of the Whole report be referred to Order of Business Number 6.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move the Committee of the Whole be adopted and that Proposal Number 3-Proposal Number 5, the Ballot, the Transition Schedule and the Adoption Schedule be placed on Order of Business Number 6.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: You have heard the motion. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. We're on Order of Business Number 6.

Mr. Eskildsen, do you want to move us to Order of Business Number 6?

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Without objection, may we be on Order of Business Number 6?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Is there objection?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, we're on Order of Business Number 6. On Order of Business Number 6, the Chair would like to take the balance of the Constitution first, and this morning we passed section--or, I mean, Article III, which is the General Government Article, beginning on page 11 and going through page 13, with the first Section 9 on gambling deleted. So many as shall be in favor of Article III, vote Aye on the voting machines; so many as are opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Please take the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 87 delegates voting Aye, 2 delegates voting No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: 87 delegates having voted Aye and 2 No, the Transition Schedule is adopted. Now, ladies and gentlemen, you have adopted on Order of Business Number 6, Final Adoption, the Preamble, the fourteen sections of the Constitution, the ballot, the adoption schedule, the transition schedule. The Chair now puts the question to you to adopt the whole Constitution package, including the Preamble, the fourteen sections, the ballot, the adoption schedule, the transition schedule. So many as are in favor of that total package, vote Aye; so many as are opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Simon.

DELEGATE SIMON: (Inaudible)-could Chairman of the Drafting Committee get back so he could vote? He left just a moment ago.

(Delegate Schiltz returned to the floor—laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Schiltz, we're voting on the Preamble, the fourteen sections, the ballot, the adoption schedule and the transition schedule as a lump. Do you want to vote?

DELEGATE SCHILTZ: Yes, I do, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 90 delegates voting Aye, no delegates voting No.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, 90 delegates having voted Aye and none voting No, we've adopted the Constitution. Now, we will-the Chair, under Rule 51, hereby orders the Constitution enrolled, and the enrolling will be done and, as you know, Mr. Garlington will have it ready for us to sign on Friday morning. Now, the Chair—Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Now, without objection, the Chair would like to be on Order of Business Number 11, Announcements. Any objection? Mr. Harper, have you got an objection?

DELEGATE HARPER: No. There's a song out of World War II we should have sung—"Praise the Lord, We've Passed the Constitution". (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Well, I think that's what we have to do on June 6th, Mr. Harper, and then we'll sing. The Chair would like to announce that we will meet at 9 o'clock tomorrow. There are some matters-there's a report from Mr. Garlington's committee telling us how to act on Friday, there's a resolution, there are one or two other minor matters; however, the Chair will attempt to avoid any lengthy debates tomorrow morning and we may be able to get out of there pretty soon, but I would like to have attendance tomorrow morning, since you're going to be paid for that day.

Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Just one thing, Mr. President. I think maybe some of the delegates would like to know that the pages have taken an estimate of the number of words in the newly proposed Constitution, and we estimate approximately 12,000 words, and that's as opposed to 28,000 in the present Constitution-some 43 percent smaller.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Now, there's one other thing. In order that you might be aware of the Friday affairs as fast as possible and before you read it in the newspapers, the Chair would like Mr. Hanson to read this news release which the select committee has put out this afternoon. It'll only take a minute.

CLERK HANSON: "News Release. Ceremonial Proceedings, Montana Constitutional Convention. The final signing and sealing of the proposed new Constitution will take place in Convention Hall at 10 o'clock a.m., Friday, March 24, 1972. The original document is to be signed by the President, attested by the Secretary, and then signed in alphabetical order by the delegates. This will be the last official session of the Convention. It will open in the usual manner with the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag and the Invocation, which will be given by Reverend H. R. Anderson, Jr., First Presbyterian Church of Great Falls, Montana. First Vice President John Toole will preside as master of ceremonies. This is of special interest, since his grandfather, John R. Toole, served as a delegate to the 1889 Convention and its original document bears his signature. As a matter of general interest, the 1889 Constitution will be displayed at the signature table in the care of its official custodian, the Secretary of State. A number of guests have been invited to participate in the proceedings. These include the chief executive, Governor Anderson; the chief justice, Justice Harrison; and the senior legislators of Montana, Senator Dave Manning of Hysham and Representative Thomas Haines of Missoula. Chief Old Person, who has just completed his term of service as President of the National Congress of American Indians, will also be present. Since youth groups of Montana have taken such marked interest in the Convention proceedings, the Governor of Boys' State and Girls' State, the President of YMCA Youth Constitutional Convention of 1972, and the Chairman of the University Student Presidents Association also will participate. The Constitutional Revision Commission and the Constitutional Convention Commission, as originators and sponsors of the Convention, will be represented by Mrs. Firman (Marge) Brown of Missoula, who served in both commissions. Following a closing address by President Graybill, the original document will be signed by the officers and delegates, after which the adjournment of the Convention sine die will occur. This date corresponds precisely to the projected last day on which the full Convention process was budgeted for. Payment out of the legislative appropriation provided for it. The proceedings will close with a benediction given by the Most Reverend Raymond G. Hutchinson, [sic] Bishop of the Diocese of Helena. J. C. Garlington, Chairman, Ceremonial Committee."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Thank you, Mr. Hanson. The Chair would also like to announce that tomorrow the much-postponed meeting of the Voter Education Committee will take place-after our adjournment in the morning, tomorrow. And-are there other announcements for tomorrow or for tonight? Oh-Yeah, I guess that's all.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Just a moment, Mr. Eskildsen. Mrs. Pemberton is on her feet.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: The women delegates who are still free are still expected in Room 127 at the Colonial.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Is that a discriminatory note that's creeping in here at the last minute? (Laughter)

Are you on your feet, Mrs. Sullivan?

DELEGATE SULLIVAN: I am, Mr. President. For the record, may I say that it's Bishop Raymond G. Hunthausen, and not Hutchinson. John, only for the record.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well,

All right, now, I guess, Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, at times when we was working here I thought, maybe, that our alligator mouths was going to get away with our hummingbird brains, but I think we've done pretty well. And with that, I'd move that we stand adjourned until March 23, 9:00 a.m., 1972.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the motion is to adjourn until 9:00 a.m. tomorrow. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Convention adjourned at 6:40 p.m.)

March 23, 1972 Fifty-Third Day Convention Hall
9:20 a.m. Helena, Montana

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Convention will come to order. If you'll all stand, Reverend Harper will lead us in an invocation.

DELEGATE HARPER: You know, last night as I stood in the yard of our home and looked across this town to the beautiful lighted capitol dome, thrusting itself up into the darkness with its new-found brilliance, I know it may sound corny to say, but I had a moment of overwhelming pride that we had been privileged to be now a real part of what this lighted dome symbolizes, and I found myself wishing that the first man and woman who lit that first tallow candle in the first sod hut on the Montana prairie could have stood here with us, and maybe, as St. Paul said, they do, seeing as we are surrounded by so great a cloud of witnesses. Let's bow our heads to pray. Lord, we really do thank You that we have been privileged to share this once-in-a-lifetime privilege and opportunity together. And now remind us that our work is never done, that freedom is never free, that we must be willing to make payment on it every day for the rest of our lives. Assure us that brotherhood and peace is not so wild a dream as those who profit by postponing it pretend, and keep us working for others as long as You work. Amen.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: We will take attendance by voting Aye on the voting machines.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, may Delegates Bowman, Campbell and Lore110 be excused this day?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Bowman, Campbell and Lore110 are excused.

CLERK HANSON: Delegate Blaylock, Delegate Bugbee, Delegate Dahood, Delegate Eck, Delegate Holland, Delegate Monroe, Delegate Wagner.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Delegate Wagner is excused.

CLERK HANSON: Delegate Wagner excused. Delegate Holland.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, take the attendance.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 95 delegates present, 4 excused, 1 absent.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the journal may so show. Order of Business Number 1, Reports of Standing Committees.

CLERK HANSON: "Mr. President, the Committee on Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission transmits the official ballot adopted by the Convention March 22, 1972. Sincerely, John M. Schiltz, Chairman, Committee on Style, Drafting, Transition and Submission."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the Style and Drafting Committee having presented the Chair with the ballot-having submitted the ballot, the Chair will submit the ballot to the Rules Committee with the instructions that it be passed on to the Secretary of State for inclusion in the preparation of the ballots for the election. The Chair understands that the ballot will be printed and placed at the back of the Constitutions that we're getting ready for you in printing today so you'll have a ballot form to show people. The ballot is now accepted and transmitted. Very well, Order of Business Number 2, Select Committees.

Mr. Garlington, do you want to, at this time, discuss the proceedings tomorrow, so that everyone knows what we're doing?

DELEGATE GARLINGTON: Be very glad to, Mr. President. The Convention will convene tomorrow, not at 9 o'clock but at 10 o'clock, and will convene in the usual manner at that time; first, with the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag, the invocation, and the roll call, after which Vice President Toole will take the Chair to conduct the further proceedings. I want to inform you all that we will be invaded this afternoon by the commercial television people, who are going to establish themselves in the left-hand area here in order to make their records of these final closing proceedings. After Mr. Toole takes the Chair, there will be a matter of resolutions to be handled by the body, certain telegrams and other communications to be received, and then we will get to the introduction of the guests at the signing ceremonies. These guests will include the Governor, as the chief representative of the Executive Branch of government; the acting Chief Justice-it appearing to me last night that the chief himself is obligated to leave town today to be in Great Falls; and we'll have as a representative of the Legislative Branch the oldest, in point of service, legislator, Mr. Tom Haines of Missoula. Senator Manning, who I think is the dean of the legislative body, told me last night about 7 o'clock that he felt he would not be able to be here, and so we have concluded simply to have one representative of the Legislative Branch. Beyond that, we're going to have the Lieutenant Governor of Boys' State, the Governor of Girls' State, the President of the YMCA Constitutional Convention which met here in Helena in January and did a very creditable job of composing a convention-in fact, I thought of putting it in as a delegate proposal at one time, because I thought it was really extremely well done. We will have a representative of the University Student Presidents Association-this is not quite the correct term, but you know who I mean. The Chairman of that group is our clerk, John Hanson, so we will be devoting him to professional service as our clerk, since this is a regular meeting of the group, so he is bringing in one of his co-chairmen for the purposes of this occasion. We will also have Chief Old Person, who is probably the highest-ranking member of the Indian culture that we have in Montana. Now, we have asked these people whom I have named to just give us, in effect, a word of greeting or a minute or two, because we recognize that the limitations of time in presenting any commercial television news coverage of these proceedings just can't drag out, drag out, drag out. So this will all proceed very rapidly. At the conclusion of the introduction of these guests--and I must mention that Mrs. Firman Brown of Missoula happens to have served on both the Constitutional Revision Commission and the Constitutional Convention Commission, so she is going to represent both of those groups from our antecedents and forebears. Senator MacDonald was Chairman of the Revision Commission, and he can't come. The other people who were the chairmen and vice chairmen of those groups are away somewhere, but Mrs. Brown will be here for both of them. Following the introduction of these guests and their brief comments, there will be an address to us by our President, and then we will proceed to the actual signing. The signing is going to be strictly in accordance with the rules. We're going to have that old table up in the corner right up here in front of the rostrum. It will have on it the old original Constitution of 1889, in the custody of Secretary of State. He will be here with the Great Seal. The rule calls for the final document, which is or the typewriters now, being readied for tomorrow, to be executed by the President and attested by the Secretary. So, at this table here, the President will come and sign, the Secretary will attest and affix the seal, after which the delegates are to sign the document in alphabetical order. So, without a lot of details, since we're accustomed to alphabetical order, we will begin here with Mr. Aasheim going right up to the table there and following with Mr. Anderson and right on through the list here, without any formality other than our own cooperation, so that one-by-one we go to the table and we sign the original document, which Mrs. Bowman will have there to see that we sign in the right place, and so on. We want also to have the original journal signed, so there will be a second document for each of us to sign on the table there, and Mrs. Bowman will be skippering that as well. While the rest of us are at our seats, we are going to get a few more copies of just the signature page of duplicate originals of the Constitution signed by all the delegates. We've had such practice autographing here in the last 3 or 4 weeks, and I am sure that won't be any additional problem. And just as a matter of historical record, we would like to have a duplicate original in the historical society or the state library, wherever it belongs, and perhaps one that can be in the Governor's office-that sort of thing. So we'll get some duplicate originals prepared, only in the signature pages, because we can't do the rest of it until there is more time for the machines to work at it. The Highway Department will be here to-be in the hall and take a little individual photograph of each of us as we sign the document, and we are hoping to arrange that the negative of the shot of each of us can be sent to each of us afterward so that we can then do whatever we want in the way of prints or enlargements or preservation of the thing as we may prefer. We have obtained a color print of this magnificent painting up here to give to each of you as a kind of a reminder of the ordeal through which you have now successfully passed, and we kind of think that that painting, plus the little photograph, will make a pretty good reminder for you of your participation in this Convention. We're working on another thought, which is to be able to obtain a full-sized duplicated copy of the original Constitution to give each of you for enough of a price to reimburse the state for the cost of the duplication. We don't know just what that is, but tomorrow morning on your desk, we hope to have a little kind of order form so that you can tell what the facts are about it and either have it or not as you may wish. I think, Mr.-then following the completion of the signing ceremonies, there will be the matter of formal adjournment, sine die, which Mr. Eskildsen will conduct, and then we will be having a final benediction by Bishop Hunthausen, and that will conclude the whole proceeding. As a guess as to time, we think that this will all certainly be accomplished by noon and then we'll be free to be on our way home. I guess I don't have any additional information to pass on at this time. Oh, the matter of signature of the document--we're going to use the sharp-pointed black felt pens for uniformity and ease of reproduction, so our thought is that all of us will do it in the same manner and the secretary will be provided with a supply of those so that the signatures can be in proper form on the original document. I believe that's all I have to say, Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. Now, there may be some of you who have questions, and you may want to yield, Mr. Garlington. I have a question, so that everyone understands. Do we contemplate using signature pages with lines with the names typed under them so people can easily see who the signatures are.

DELEGATE GARLINGTON: That is our plan, yes, your honor. We are going to have them numbered and lined.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Numbered and lined, so that you shouldn't have too much difficulty finding where to sign. Are there other questions about tomorrow's operations that you want to ask Mr. Garlington before we go on?

Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Mr. Garlington, would it be possible for people to take individual pictures of each one signing? Would the aisle be open for that purpose?

DELEGATE GARLINGTON: I think the aisle will be open. I will learn this afternoon from Mr. Tallon of the Highway Department how he wants to set it up here so that he can take, really, a pretty good picture of each of us as we sign the document at the table. Our hope is to not have too many of the TV lights spoil the photography. This is quite a problem, because of the glare of the lights on the lens, and he will kind of be here (illustrating). We'll have the table far enough over there so that it will be easy to pass up and down the center aisle here, and I think, beyond that, it's just a matter of individual skill at the photographing.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Aasheim.

DELEGATE AASHEIM: Question. I don't suppose there'll be a hundred pens so we could take the pen with us that we signed the document with.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Please don't take the pen, Mags-(Laughter) That would make it pretty narrow signing if you're the only one that got-(Laughter) Maybe Woodmansey might get the pen. I'm not-(Laughter) I suppose-the Highway is going to try and get individual pictures as we sign?

DELEGATE GARLINGTON: That's right.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Right. And, if necessary, I imagine that either Cedor or Mrs. Bowman or maybe Mrs. Blend or Mr. Arness might trade chairs with the photographer or something. I would like to keep the aisle fairly clear so that people may use it to get to and from, but they might-I'm sure these people down here would be glad to share or put an extra chair in at that point. I am asking, tomorrow-we will have as many chairs set up as possible in the foyers on each side and perhaps other places in here to get more audience in, but I'm asking, tomorrow, that the delegates on the floor simply sit in their seats and not bring extra chairs into their area, for the simple reason that people will be looking at you and trying to identify you and I don't want to get the rows too badly out of line. We might make an exception to that in the case of a photographer at the front here, but let's try to keep the hundred chairs together, and then we'll fill up as much as we can without too much crowding the aisles on the edge. Are there other questions?

Mr. Hanson.

DELEGATE ROBERT HANSON: Mr. President, is there any provision made for the wives of the delegates? Any particular area?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: No, it's first come, first served, but we want here-we're certainly happy if they can come in and sit on the floor; and you know, I don't mind you saving one, but we haven't put out passes. Other questions?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, I think that takes care of the situation. We will start tomorrow morning as promptly as possible at 10:00, and we'll hope that everything goes well on the program. Order of Business Number 3, Communications.

CLERK HANSON: None, sir.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 4, Introduction.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 5, Final Consideration.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 6, Adoption.

CLERK HANSON: None.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Order of Business Number 7, Resolutions. Mr. Murray, where are you? Good morning, Mr. Murray. All right, Mr. Murray, we're going to start on 17. Have you got Resolution Number 17-m may the clerk read it? Clerk will read Resolution Number 17.

CLERK HANSON: "Montana Constitutional Convention, 1971-1972. Resolution Number 17. Date introduced, March 22, 1972. Whereas, the Montana Constitutional Convention wishes to avoid challenges to its substantive and procedural work for violations of its rules or other technicalities. Now, therefore, it is hereby resolved: That the substantive work of the Montana Constitutional Convention shall not be subject to challenge on the basis of violations of Convention rules or other procedural technicalities, and for that purpose the delegates hereby ratify and affirm each and every substantive and procedural act taken by the Convention and its officers. Introduced by Committee on Rules and Resolutions, Marshall Murray, Chairman."

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Mr. President, I move the adoption of Resolution Number 17. By way of explanation, let me say that it's been suggested to the Rules Committee that we come forth with such a resolution. Because of the turmoil in the last few days of the Convention, particularly with respect to the waiver of our rules-the suspension of our rules, and particularly the matter of time, the advancement over the 48-hour rule, we felt that we might be exposing ourself to the possibility of some type of legal attack, either as to those particular measures which might have been affected by the suspension of the rules or the handling of those matters, perhaps, under the wrong order of business or, perhaps, even the entire Constitution itself, and we felt that it is something that should not happen and that we should not expose ourself to that possibility. I think that the resolution is ratherself-explanatory. It is the same type of action that stockholders take relative to the action of directors of a corporation in almost every instance, and I see nothing difficult about it. We are simply saying that it is our intention that we should not be subject to challenge on the basis of violations of Convention rules or other procedural technicalities, and for that purpose we ratify and affirm each and every substantive and procedural act taken by the Convention and its officers, and so we relate that to our procedures under our rules. The rules are our means of operation. And we do not think that any of the public should be able to take advantage of one of our rule problems, because-that certainly as far as anybody and—that I have discussed this problem with have been able to tell me, we have not had a substantive problem because of our rules, so I urge the adoption of the resolution.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the resolution has the effect of ratifying the acts of the Convention and its officers and indicating that we don't wish technical procedural violations to stand in the way of the Constitution. Is there discussion of the resolution?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well; all in favor of the resolution, please say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and so ordered. Would you-Mr. Clerk, would you now read Resolution Number 18—Mrs. Reichert's.

CLERK HANSON: "Montana Constitutional Convention, 1971-1972. Resolution Number 18. Date introduced: March 23, 1972. A resolution of the Montana Constitutional Convention to determine the delegates' preference for a unicameral or bicameral Legislature. Whereas, it is imperative that the people of Montana know the preference of the delegates regarding the legislative structure; Whereas, the record has not clearly shown the feelings of the body. Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Constitutional Convention of the State of Montana: There shall be a vote on this issue. Introduced by Arlyne Reichert, Mae Nan Robinson, and George Harper." Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, this resolution, Number 18-may I have a copy, Mr. Clerk?-has been placed before the Chair for the purpose of raising this issue about the unicameral-bicameral vote. Mrs. Reichert and others are anxious to get a-at least the sense of the body here. If you adopt the resolution, which calls for a clear feeling-showing of the feelings, then the Chair would-if you adopt the resolution, then the Chair would put a motion that those favoring, lets say. unicameral vote Aye and those favoring bi-camera1 vote No, and we could find out how many-what the numerical difference is, if you want to. Secondly, if you want to, I'll take it by roll call, but I don't care which way-which we do. But in any event, Mrs. Reichert's resolution has the effect of putting before this body a request that we take a vote, either a nonrecorded vote or a roll call vote--either one.

Mrs. Reichert.

DELEGATE REICHERT: Mr. President, fellow delegates, friends. When I discussed this resolution with others, I learned that my bicameral friend, Dick Nutting, had intended to submit a similar resolution. He deferred to me, and therefore I am presenting this. I am very pleased to have been a part of this Constitutional Convention. The fact that in 53 days we have produced a document, I think is a remarkable one, and I think we have a fine document as a result of our efforts. True, we've had our disappointments-some small, some big-but nevertheless, we conceived a Constitution and we're still friends. I believe that if there had been another body of 50 delegates down the hall in the senate chambers, going through the exact process simultaneously, it would have required at least 106 working days taken by the last Legislature to come up with any document at all. Now, I'm not going to talk any longer-maybe one more minute. I'm just going to say that the ballot is drawn up; now is the time for the people to know how each one of us feels about this significant issue. Now, several of you have told me that you were interested in unicameral, but your constituents are not. If unicameral is to have any chance at all on the ballot, we must let the people know how we feel. I am asking those of you who would personally be willing to try the unicameral Legislature at least until 1980 to please vote Aye on this resolution. Thank you. Mr. President, I would like a roll call vote.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mrs. Reichert, your request for a roll call vote stuns me for the moment. It seems to me that the sense of the resolution is that if we adopt the resolution, then the body will allow a vote to be taken; and I don't think I ought to take a roll call vote on adopting it, because then they would have accomplished your purpose--or at least they would have to follow themselves up on that-so the Chair would like to say that the vote will, at least initially, be oral on whether to adopt or not this resolution; and if it's adopted, then the Chair would be glad to take up the problem of what you want to know, whether you want the names or whether you just want the numbers or whether you want the buttons.

Now, Mr. Mahoney, do you want to discuss the motion-or the resolution?

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Well, I'm wondering, Mr. Chairman, what we going to accomplish here?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: We're really accomplishing a-what's the word I'm looking for?--a poll on unicameral-bicameral. She wants to know, and they want to know, what proportion of this hundred delegates would like unicameral. That's what we're really accomplishing.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: Would there be-in this question here, can anybody vote just about as they pleased? Or not vote? I-if the thing were accomplishing something, Mr. Chairman, I would certainly not object, but if you're just going out here to poll the delegates, maybe you could walk around with a petition or something and arrive at the same thing. To me, I just wonder, are you just trying to put a bunch of delegates on the spot, and it don't worry me-I'm bicameral-but I'm just wondering if we're doing-if this is what we're trying? I hope not, but I wonder.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Scanlin.

DELEGATE SCANLIN: Mr. Chairman, I would be forced not to vote on a roll call vote, but I would vote on a nonrecorded vote. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, is there other discussion of the resolution?

Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: Mr. President, I hate to ask this, but could you have the clerk read it again.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Right, I'll read it again. "Whereas, it's imperative that the people of Montana know the preference of the delegates regarding the legislative structure; and Whereas, the record has not clearly shown the feelings of the body. Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Constitutional Convention of the State of Montana: that there shall be a vote on this issue." Now, whether it's recorded or not, we'd be glad to cross that bridge.

Mrs. Reichert, you asked the Chair-you asked the clerk to strike the word "recorded"—would you be-and you heard Mr. Scanlin-would you be satisfied with a vote where you knew the numbers rather than the names?

DELEGATE REICHERT: Not nearly as satisfied. I would really like a roll call vote-but if it's the wishes of the body not to express themselves, if they prefer not to have the people know how they feel, it's all right with me.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: All right, I think the people want to know that before they vote for this resolution, so—

Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Yes, Mr. Chairman. I think maybe most of you know that Delegate Dave Holland got married last night, and I'd like to ask on his behalf that nobody have a call of the house. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, we'll note that. All right, the Chair has-is there other discussion of this matter?

Mr. Wagner.

DELEGATE WAGNER: I'd like to announce my presence, Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Wagner's presence may be announced-shown on the journal. Very well, the Chair-seeing no one up to discuss the matter, the Chair has a way that I'd like to approach this. First of all, if you'll just all use your normal voices, all those that would be in favor of a recorded roll call vote, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: All those that would be against a recorded roll callvote, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: All right. Well, the sense of the body is that if we do this, it's going to be a recorded roll call-and, of course, you don't have to vote if you don't want to—now—because overwhelmingly you've suggested that. Now, the Chair will now put Mrs. Reichert's resolution. All those in favor of her resolution that there be a recorded roll call vote on this issue, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

DELEGATES: No.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and we'll have a recorded roll call vote. All those in favor of unicameral Legislature, vote Aye on the voting machines; and all opposed, vote No. Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Has every delegate voted?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Does any delegate wish to change his vote?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Take the ballot. Now, before the clerk announces the vote, the greens are for unicameral and the reds are for bicameral. Does anyone wish to stand and change his vote?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, announce the vote.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 47 delegates voting green, 39 voting red.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, Mrs. Reichert, I think your purpose is accomplished.

Mr. Scanlin.

DELEGATE SCANLIN: Mr. Chairman, could I have the figure on how many abstained—or not voting?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Well, you've got to add 47 and 39-that's 88, less 4—88—that's 12 less 4-8 abstained, roughly-8 abstained. Well, there's 4 absences; 88—isn't that right? Or is it 86?—86. All right. Well, then, 10 abstained-10 abstained.

Very well, will the clerk read Resolution Number 19.

CLERK HANSON: "Montana Constitutional Convention, 1971.1972. Resolution Number 19, introduced March 23, 1972. Whereas, the Montana Constitutional Convention has met in Helena and through Convention hearings, debates and sessions adopted a proposed Constitution which must be explained and presented to the voting public for its ratification on June 6, 1972; and Whereas, the Telecommunications, Inc., on behalf of the Montana Cable Television Association, has provided over 25 hours of Convention coverage for presentation on local and statewide cable television and has maintained personnel and equipment necessary to videotape portions of the Convention and numerous interviews with delegates and others, and has informed the voting public. Now, therefore, be it resolved that the Montana Constitutional Convention hereby thank Telecommunications, Inc., for the assistance it has given the Convention in presenting the work of the Convention to the viewing audiences in Montana and hereby extends the Convention's sincere appreciation and thanks to Telecommunications, Inc., for the work it has done. Introduced by Committee on Rules and Resolutions, Marshall Murray, Chairman." Mr. President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Mr. President, I move the adoption of Resolution Number 19, which is self-explanatory and is merely for the purpose of thanking Telecommunications, Inc., for the assistance that they've given in the cable television field.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Chair would like to say that Telecommunications, Inc., did ask us that we do this, and I see nothing, personally, wrong with it; but you must vote on it. They have provided us with a great deal of coverage and more than normal and at some-at great expense to themselves. And if you feel so inclined to express your thanks for the coverage they have given this Convention, here's a method of doing it; and if you don't, then vote against it. Is there discussion?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, all in favor of the resolution, please say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Ayes have it, and so ordered-it's adopted. Now, Order of Business Number-there are no other resolutions or motions are there?

Mr. Kelleher.

DELEGATE KELLEHER: Mr. Chairman, in packing my boxes of papers, I came across some 32 delegate proposals that I forgot to put in, and I wonder if the Chair has any suggestion on what I might do with them? (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Chair has-Mr. Kelleher, the Chair has two suggestions. I'm not going to mention the first one, but the second one is you might have a little bonfire and cook some wienies this afternoon. (Laughter) Very well, if there are no more motions or resolutions, the Chair wants to move to Order of Business Number 8, Unfinished Business. Now, one or two of you have asked for an opportunity to say something to this Convention, and at this time I would like to start by calling on Mr. Garlington.

DELEGATE GARLINGTON: Mr. Chairman, before I give a few thoughts that have been occurring to me, I want to announce that we have now-have it confirmed that the Highway photographer who will be here tomorrow will make the negatives available to each of us. They will be mailed to us by the office out here whenever they're finally prepared. And, now, Mr. Chairman, as we prepare to close the journal of this Convention, I think we should pause a moment to reflect upon what has happened, to reflect upon who we were at the beginning and what we have now become, where we started and where we now are. In one sense, we have finished our labors, but in a larger sense we have just begun. Ahead, I see not only the imminent task of ratification, but beyond that the more important task of leading our fellow Montanans into the reality of better government for a better society. Consider this Convention; conceived and born in partisan political strife, it has matured into thoughtful and objective concern for the rightness ofthings. Composed of people from every walk of life, amateurs one and all in basic constitutional doctrine, it has become soundly expert in applying proper principles with perceptive judgment. We, asindividuals, have been transformed from willing volunteers to dedicated and competent students of government on a statewide basis. The endless hours of study, research, and mutual consultation, culminating in these weeks of exacting debate and decision, have developed in us all a new value which I am concerned that we neither lose nor underrate. In fact, I think it has fastened upon us a new commitment to go the next mile and make sure that our labors bear fruit. This has not come easily. This Convention bears the unmistakable imprint of expert and committed leadership, utterly devoted to the successful achievement of its goals. Where we were partisan, we are nonpartisan. Where we were inflexible, we are flexible. Where we were hesitant, we are confident. Where we were skeptical of each other, we enjoy mutual respect and confidence. Our debates and discussions have never been marred by angry exchange or sarcastic derision. For these good fortunes, we owe a debt of great gratitude to our President, whose constant daily example in the performance of his most difficult and uncharted tasks has led us this far. The thoughtful prayers each morning for Divine guidance in our work have been answered before our very eyes. And where does this leave us now?

What have we really accomplished? What shall we say to the people who sent us here and paid us for this effort? Is it in our hearts to urge them one and all to approve our document? Have we been truly fair to all the varied people, groups, and interests whom we were charged to safeguard and to serve? These are sobering questions, and they rise in all our minds when the pressures of listening, deciding, and voting occasionally lessen. Being a firm believer in the wisdom of abiding by my principles, I tried to establish them early and adhere to them faithfully. I think I have done this, and it is time to test the result. I thought a Constitution should assure the citizen his personal freedoms. We have clearly done this by a Bill of Rights which not only has all the freedoms of the last 80 years, but includes a broad band of additionalrights that will serve well in our ever more complex society. A Constitution, I thought, should assure the citizen his political freedom, his right to vote, to be a candidate, to express his opinions, and to know what his government is doing to him and with him. Our personal example of totally public proceedings, and our consistent opening of all the doors and desks of government to the eyes and ears of the governed, makes this a reality in Montana. If it has been done, it can be done again, and only good can flow from that process. As a cross-check, I have searched our document for a provision that sets one person or interest above another, and I find none. A good Constitution has only those fundamental structures and guidelines within which all the competing interests and pressures of society may freely move, winning or losing as their merits are tested. Our document meets this high standard. It grants no special privilege to anyone, neither does it impose any special burden. Suspicious of none, it expects the best of us all. Finally, I thought a Constitution should assure a person's future freedoms, meaning his right to try a new system, expel a bad system, devise a new solution to a new problem, and explore constantly the way to live better with government. This we have achieved. We have unshackled and energized our Legislature. We have coupled authority with responsibility in our Executive. We have set the stage for equality in the burden of taxation. We have launched a strong citizen force charged with finding better solutions to the almost infinite problems of education. We have provided maximum opportunity for the varied communities of Montana to govern themselves in their own way. These are only a few examples, but they are ample to prove the case. The press has described our work as middle-of-the-road. which I suppose is to imply shortsighted timidity in our judgments. This is a vague value judgment. The truth is that most of the people are in themiddle of the road, and the Constitution has to be for the most of the people. It therefore should be where they are, and that it appears to be so is a sign to me that it has been well done. So, I shall be happy to face the waiting voters, and I have no apologies for our document. Derived as it is from the imperfect workings of imperfect people, it certainly has its faults. No one can be completely satisfied with it. I surely am not. Like all the rest of you, my ideas have sensed the green glow of victory, and the red burn of defeat. However, I believe in the collective wisdom and decisions of this group, even above my own convictions, however deep. I think our Constitution is the finest gift to the young people of Montana that it is within our power to give. We are giving them the gift of participation in their present and the management of their future, on a ship of state that is far more manageable and sensitive than the old one which we have had. I shall therefore be intensely proud to sign our document tomorrow. My act of signing will also be my act of commitment to do all I can to procure its ratification and, beyond that, to help whenever I can in its transition to full power and effectiveness. On a personal note, I am happy to have been numbered among you and to have you as my friends. Our land of the shining mountains and rolling plains will ever be more dear to me from this day on. Thank you.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Thank you, Mr. Garlington, and I'm sure you've summed up the feelings of many of us in your statement.

Mr. James.

DELEGATE JAMES: Mr. Chairman, I think I echo the thoughts of all of us right now. I think we'd all like a copy of Jim's fine work. Is the printing press still operating?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Well, it's jammed, but eventually we may be able to get it out, and I'm sure that we should have Mr. Garlington's remarks printed whenever it's possible.

Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, from time to time we had the pleasure of hearing that nationally known, and particularly Helena-known, barbershop quartet; and at this time I would like to call on that bullwhacker from Powder River, Torrey Johnson, to gather his group about him and give us the joys that they have for us.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Well, that's certainly unfinished business. (Laughter) Torrey, do you want to go ahead?

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Mr. Chairman and delegates. Thank you very much, Joe, for this opportunity. I was hoping that we wouldn't lose out on one last crescendo from the Back-Bench Barbershoppers. Would they start to get together, please, here, while I'm spieling, because when I get through, I want the timing to be just right. Now, you know, there's an old saying down in Powder River country-Fama contata semper vivat-(Laughter)-

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Johnson, would you repeat that for the record. (Laughter)

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Fama cantata semper vivat-

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Okay.

DELEGATE JOHNSON: That means, "may their musical fame last forever". (Laughter) I give you the Back-Bench Barbershoppers.

(Whereupon, Delegates Conover, Harper, Ward, Champoux, Scanlin and Johnson delivered vocal renditions of "Springtime in the Rockies" and a Happy Birthday salute to Delegate Bob Vermillion)

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Back-Benchers, would you sing a verse of that for Eskildsen. He's over the hump today, too.

(Whereupon, a chorus of Happy Birthday to Delegate Eskildsen was rendered)

(Applause)

DELEGATE HARPER: Mr. Chairman, it's great--after all of these days, day by day, with Joe getting up and saying, that we beg leave to rise and sit again, this is what we've hatched. (Laughter)

(The Back-Bench Barbershoppers concluded with their rendition of "Old Mill Stream" and parody thereon)

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Well, we want to thank you, Back-Benchers. And you know, they say that no constitutional document should be perfect, and you fit right in. (Laughter)

Mrs. Cross.

DELEGATE CROSS: Mr. Chairman, for point of information, would Mr. Johnson yield to a question?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Johnson, will you yield?

DELEGATE JOHNSON: It scares me to death, but I will.

DELEGATE CROSS: Mr. Johnson, where did you learn your Latin? (Laughter)

DELEGATE JOHNSON: Well, now, Louise, I'm glad you asked me that. (Laughter) Actually, you know, I was born up in the Wolf Mountains in a little log cabin I helped my Daddy build-(Laughter)-and before I was 10 years old, there was an old fellow there that had escaped from the Jesuits and he was-he lived as a recluse, way back in the hills there, and he taught me everything I know. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Davis.

DELEGATE DAVIS: In view of the test that was made on the unicameral, I want to make one more effort. Will Miss Sparks yield? (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Just for the record, Mr. President, the journal should show that Miss Sparks shook her head and responded "No"-silently. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mrs. Pemberton.

DELEGATE PEMBERTON: Just for the record, Mr. President, we'd like you to know that women don't talk too much.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Harper.

DELEGATE HARPER: Just for the record, I think we probably all will agree that it is not only she who has said no words who hasn't said anything on this floor. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Mahoney would like to follow that.

DELEGATE MAHONEY: I'm going back to the more serious side of this, and I don't blame you for not speaking. I think it's marvelous. First, I want to congratulate these women on this floor. I think you have done a marvelous job, and there's never been any better in the Legislature-and a lot of them, I don't think, as good as you women have done here on this floor. It's been a great pleasure to see this many women, and I know in our future Legislatures we're going to have a lot more like you, and I want to say "Congratulations to a job well done" on you ladies. I think you've done a marvelous job. You've asked no odds, you've asked no edge. You have taken it right on this floor, and I certainly admire it. Number 2—You know, we got in here one day and we had two motions to move the previous question and we discussed it, and that motion hasn't been made during this whole Convention since. I think this is marvelous, that you didn't, at these times of debate, stand out here and then immediately try to shut off debate. You listened to everybody. You've set here--and I have watched the Legislature a good many times. So, I want to congratulate the body on that. Mr. Chairman, you've done a marvelous job of presiding. I think you've had a lot of patience. I don't think I would have had patience at all the time you've had. I haven't agreed with all your rulings, but they have been fair, and I want you to know that. I think it's been marvelous. I'll never-there will never be a hundred people get together and take their differences and stand up and fight toe-to-toe any better than this hundred people have done here; and you have no comparison in any legislatures that I have known. There's less bitterness—there's been less of that. Maybe this is caused by the seating. Maybe-I think maybe this wasn't a bad idea. You get all the groups on one side and that-and then they don't get to talking on the other side. I'm in hopes the next session the Legislatures will go to a alphabetical type of seating. I think it gives you much more independence-and especially a person like me who has always been independent anyway, even including this Convention. I'll tell you this. I'm signing the Constitution tomorrow, even if I did vote five times No yesterday. Mr. Monroe got away from me yesterday afternoon-he's got six. I've only got five votes against the Constitution. I am-1 don't agree with everything that Delegate Garlington has said. I'm going out, and I'm going to tell you, I'm going to explain the Constitution. I want that understood. I am going to explain it and give both sides of it, and I'm not going to tell them how to vote. This I'm going to do. But thanks again for treating me as nice as you have, and I certainly appreciate it. Thank you.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Monroe.

DELEGATE MONROE: I just want to follow Mr. Mahoney and say that-I'm going to sign the Constitution, too; I'm going to work hard for its adoption.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Rollins.

DELEGATE ROLLINS: Mr. Chairman, I have been accused of being fond of quoting Shakespeare, and I am. I have thought at times that what we have done here has been "Much Ado about Nothing". Sometimes I've felt that it was a "Comedy of Errors". I've even worried sometimes that it was "Twelfth Night", but now, Mr. Chairman, I'm proud to conclude that it all-"All's Well That Ends Well".

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Lucile Spew.

DELEGATE SPEER: Thank you, Mr. Chairman-Mr. President, now. This is a serious matter. I just wish to make clear for the record that I am single. I tried to correct both the Chair and the delegates for the first 2 weeks, and then I thought, when we got into substantive issues, perhaps this was not something that I should quibble about. But I feel that it has been a matter of discrimination, that I should have taken it to the Bill of Rights, and I hope the journal will show that my name-1 am Miss Speer. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The journal may show it as "Ms".

(Laughter-Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mrs. Mansfield.

DELEGATE MANSFIELD: Mr. President. Next to God, my country, family and friends, this has been the greatest experience of my life, and I know we've been one family and will look to the future with fondness on these members. Thank you, Mr. Chairman.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Champoux.

DELEGATE CHAMPOUX: First of all, I want to take this opportunity to thank you all for putting up with me. Now, we heard a lot about Studer's eagles, Lorello's pigeons, Harper's piccolos, but Champoux has been the only lonely duck in this Convention. (Laughter) Now, here I stand, Chief Little Duck. My feathers are fringed, my rear end is full of buckshot. I have damned few eagle feathers, but I'm still flying.

(Laughter-Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Scanlin.

DELEGATE SCANLIN: Mr. President, being probably the only native-born maniac, having a birth certificate from Bangor, Maine, I am sure I have a voting record to prove the point.

(Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Now, the Chair wishes the journal to show, in a little more formal manner than Mr. Harper made the announcement, that apparently Dave Holland did get married yesterday; and we're going to try and get him back for the signing; and I think that we all want to wish Dave well. And, if this is-if this report is correct, which I understand it is, I'm certain that we're all happy for Dave and would want the record to so show.

Very well. Mr. Rebal, where is your Lincoln Continental parked now? (Laughter)

DELEGATE REBAL: The Governor was more gracious than you. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Don, he just hasn't been here as much. (Laughter)

DELEGATE REBAL: Well, I'd like the record to show that Dave Handball-or Dave Holland missed his handball match yesterday. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, unless there's other unfinished business, we'll move on to announcements. We'll move on, without objection, to Order of Business Number 11, Announcements, and Mr. Toole has an announcement.

DELEGATE TOOLE: Mr. Chairman, a meeting of Administrative Committee, 8:15 in the Rules Committee room tomorrow morning.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: That's 8:15 tomorrow morning, for the Administrative Committee, in the Rules Committee room here. That's an important but short meeting.

Mrs. Warden.

DELEGATE WARDEN: I would just like to thank everybody that has helped the Public Information Committee. I think this has been great. And I would also like to say that sometime today on your desk will be a report. I hope some of the ideas that are in this report can be used by the delegates when they go home, because they're kind of a compilation of all the different things we've done here. And, again, thank you so very much for your support.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Rygg.

DELEGATE RYGG: I'd like to announce the last rendezvous of the Mitchell Gang in Room 437, immediately on recess.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Mitchell Gang, eh? Okay.

Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Before I call the last Rules Committee meeting, I would like to discuss a little communication I received from the Laurel bard. It reads: "The silver-haired barrister, he sat and he smiled. His laugh wasinfectious, his temper was mild. He checked all the chicks with a practiced eye, but because of the rules, he refrained with a sigh." (Laughter) Then, I received another. This one is significant: "Leo, the lion, he pulled and he pushed. Hehammered and gaveled until he was bushed. But he got us to finish-the compact's complete. Graybill has triumphed, there will be no retreat."

(Laughter-Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Where were all those authors when we needed language on the ballot yesterday? (Laughter)

Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Mr. President, he was on Style and he has practiced a little and gotten better as we've gone along. Rules Committee, immediately on adjournment, in the rules Committee room.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, other committee meetings?

Mr. Martin.

DELEGATE MARTIN: Mr. Chairman, the other day Rod Hanson read a statement from Benjamin Franklin--and we have it-which will be distributed to the desks some time by the pages today. And one other thing: I've been trying to gather up some opinions from the delegates, and I have, I think, all but eight. Will thoseeight-and I wish I could be a shepherd, like George here, and ask-but would those eight kind of-let me have their answers?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Is that the unanswered eight, huh? All right.

Mr. Romney.

DELEGATE ROMNEY: Mr. President, delegates who have been participating in this "project brown envelope", I wish that whoever has it would get it back to desk 81 upon adjournment. I also, Mr. Chairman, wish to point out one thing that has perhaps escaped many of you as you looked and signed theselittle booklets. Never in all my born days did I ever see so many young people. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mrs. Van Buskirk.

DELEGATE VAN BUSKIRK: Now that we have worked together for the past 2 months, I was wondering if the group here would be in favor of having any group reunion?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mrs. Van Buskirk, this subject has come up and we'll be taking care of it later, but not before the election. I might say, in reference to Mr. Romney's remarks, that if we haven't learned anything else at this Convention, we've learned how to write our names. (Laughter)

Very well. Mr. Brown, you had an announcement?

DELEGATE BROWN: Well, I'm rising on behalf of Delegate Sparks. She would like to correct the President-and in spite of what happened to Dave Holland, she is still Miss Sparks-and she didn't say No yesterday, she just shook her head—unless she wants to yield and speak for herself. She's still shaking. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well.

Mrs. Warden.

DELEGATE WARDEN: Mr. President, are you going to make the announcement about the Voter Education Committee?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Yes, I've got that down here yet.

Mrs. Babcock.

DELEGATE BABCOCK: Mr. President, I would like to on behalf of the city of Helena and on behalf of the Colonial Club, thank all of you for being in Helena and for the wonderful things that you've done for the Colonial; and it's just been great to have you all here.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: All right, Mr. Siderius.

DELEGATE SIDERIUS: Mr. Chairman, I'd like to make one announcement. Being that this is all through now, why, I guess I can make it. No more pencils, no more books, no more delegates' cross-eyed looks. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. James.

DELEGATE JAMES: Mr. Chairman, fellow delegates, and the people of Helena. I'd really like to-Betty made me think of this-thank all the people of Helena and especially the tolerant police force for their attitude toward the delegates and their hospitality. And it's been a great experience.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. Now, we have a-1 have an announcement from Ray Loman, the Sergeant-at-Arms. The delegates can turn in their desk and locker keys at the sergeant's office, and also the black ring-binders belonging to the House can be returned to the sergeant's office. If you have envelopes for your keys-if you still have them in your desk drawers, he'd like the keys in the envelope; if not, I guess you can put them in one of the regular envelopes. He also has some cardboard boxes available to help you out. Mr. Hanson informs me that the post office keys should be returned to the post office. The printing clerk, Jean Fallan, has asked me to announce that, really, there isn't any printing available today. The presses are running as fast as possible, trying to get out 5,000 copies of the Constitution, 5,000 copies of the information sheet that will help you delegates discuss the Constitution intelligently; and when that's through, the leadership has three or four matters piled up, such as the copy of the official Constitution that Mr. Garlington referred to, and two or three other things; so we'd rather that you did not expect or ask the printing department to print for you today.

Mr. Blaylock.

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: Mr. President, I've already had a request about these Constitutions. How much will they cost?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: I don't think we know, and if we can get them printed-which we'll find out today-we'll try and get a little order blank on your desk tomorrow that you could fill out. We may have to send them to you later.

DELEGATE BLAYLOCK: I have a request, Mr. President, for as many as a thousand copies. So I just—

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Well, now, you understand that we are going to supply every delegate, tomorrow, with 50 copies of the Constitution, and we will continue to print and have available in the Constitutional Convention office here a lot of copies of the Constitution; as long as they're not being wasted, we don't mind printing them. We're going to print, I think, 10,000 copies and have 5,000 that we're going to give you tomorrow, but we just can't get that many through the print shop. As I told you the other day, a hundred is nothing but a hundred and sixty thousand sheets is a lot, and it takes some time. So, they-both the-the one that we are going to give you to take home is going to be single-spaced, but the one that Mr. Garlington is talking about would be a printed copy, with the signatures on it, of the copy that we are signing tomorrow of the official Constitution; and if we can work it out, we're going to try and print that, too; and if you want that, we may want you to defer the cost of that, which I would think would not be great. Let's see-now, let's see-the next announcement I have is that the Voter Education Committee will meet at 11 o'clock. I think probably we'd better meet in the Legislative Committee room on the fourth floor behind the Convention Hall. The Voter Education Committee, at 11 o'clock. Now, some of what you've seen this afternoon is but a mild prelude to the frivolity that it-will take place at the delegates' dinner tonight, so please get your reservations in for the delegates' dinner if they aren't already in. And I don't even know what time it starts—6:30, I believe—6:30 the drinking begins and dinner will be afterwards—(Laughter) Well, now, wait a minute. I guess I don't want to put that restriction on this body this afternoon. (Laughter)

Mr. Davis, you'd like to move to start earlier? (Laughter)

DELEGATE DAVIS: At least I'd like to get a roll call vote on it. (Laughter) Mr. President, on the side, it occurs to me we may not have an opportunity tomorrow, but I think that it might be appropriate to give a round of applause and express for the record our appreciation for our chief clerks, our journal clerk, and Marie, and our Sergeant-at-Arms, and all the people here in Helena at the Capitol for all the courtesies they have extended us in their research. We are about, now, at the end of the thing, really evaluating and realizing what a tremendous job a lot of people have done towards making this Commission a success--or this Convention a success-for the last 2 or 3 years in research and everything else; but I would like to give a big hand to all these folks up here-John and the ladies and Marie and the Sergeant-at-Arms for-and all the rest of the people here at the Capitol for all their help.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Now, Mr. Davis, for your information, we will include in the record tomorrow, in the formal ceremony, a resolution which will formally memorialize them; but I think your personal expression of opinion is echoed by all the delegates. And I'm sure that we all deeply appreciate the work that our crew has done here; and I, personally, want to thank each of them. We've had a marvelous group and a marvelous working relationship, and I appreciate it.

Mr. Hanson.

DELEGATE ROBERT HANSON: Mr. President, I'd like to add to what Carl just said; and many of us in this chamber have worked with Frank Morgan in the printing department; but there are many, many that haven't; and I think that Frank and his crew should be included in that, because I feel that he has done a real good job and gotten the work of the Convention out in very good shape.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well.

Mr. Brown.

DELEGATE BROWN: Mr. Chairman, Marie gets paid by the page, and she's asked me to thank Carl Davis for his past services. (Laughter)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Eskildsen.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I assume we're all through, so I'll—

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Well, let's see, is there anyone else who would like to make an announcement?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, Mr. Eskildsen, it's all yours.

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, I move we stand adjourned until March 24th, 10:00 a.m., 1972.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Before the Chair puts that motion, the office has just phoned in the last announcement. If there are any address changes from the directory-from the blue directory, please notify Mel McGuinn before you leave here, because we're going to have a lot of mailing to do to you; so if there are any address changes, Mel wants to know that before you leave. Very well, all in favor of adjourning until 10:00 a.m. tomorrow morning, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No. (No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So ordered.

(Convention adjourned at 10:40 a.m.)

March 24, 1972 Fifty-Fourth Day Convention Hall
lo:oo a.m. Helena, Montana

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: The Convention will be in order. First of all, I'd like to welcome all of our friends who are here this morning for this final session of the Montana Constitutional Convention. I want to get started. I'm sure it's going to get hot in here before we get finished, and we'd like to get going. So if we'll all-if we're all ready, I'd like to first call upon the Reverend H. R. Anderson, Jr., of the First Presbyterian Church in Great Falls, Montana, who will lead us in an invocation. Will you please stand.

REVEREND ANDERSON: Let us pray. 0 God, by whose good purpose and will men have been granted authority and power in human affairs, we begin this ceremony by expressing our gratitude to You for all that has brought us to this significant hour. We thank You for the privileges and responsibilities given these delegates in their election; for their ability to discuss, debate and decide the issues brought before them; for the humility to listen and the courage to rethink; and above all, for the mutual accord that has brought this new document into being. Grant, 0 God, that the citizens of this state may give this document their highest and wisest consideration, that the future of this state may be enriched and enhanced to Your glory and the welfare and benefit of us all. Through Jesus Christ, our Lord, we pray. Amen.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, if you'll remain standing, I would like to ask Delegate Cedor Aronow to lead us in the Pledge of Allegiance.

Mr. Aronow.

(Delegate Aronow led the Convention and guests in the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. As usual, we will take roll by voting Aye on the voting machines. Will the delegates please vote Aye on the voting machines. Very well, cast the ballot.

CLERK HANSON: Mr. President, 100 delegates present.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well, the journal may so show. At this time, without objection, the Chair would like this Convention to be on Order of Business Number 7, Motions and Resolutions. Is there objection?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. At this time I'd like to call on Vice President Toole to take the Chair.

Mr. Toole.

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Thank you, Mr. President. Order of Business Number 7, Motions and Resolutions. The clerk has a resolution to read, I believe.

CLERK HANSON: "Montana Constitutional Convention, 1971-1972. Resolution Number 20, introduced March 24, 1972. A resolution paying tribute to the employees and interns of the Convention. Whereas, as the Montana Constitutional Convention concludes, it is fitting for the membership to review the weeks of deliberations and assess accomplishments; Whereas, we find the fruits of our labor good and commend the proposed Constitution to all Montanans; Whereas, no summary of the Convention's accomplishments would be adequate without an accolade acknowledging the staffs dedicated work; Whereas, in recognition of the contributions to this nonpareil staff, it is hereby resolved that a lasting tribute to the following Convention employees be spread upon the Convention journal: Research Coordinator, Dale A. Rupp, Edwin Shannon, Robert Skaggs, Kathleen Sullivan, Don Walchuk." Mr. Vice President, Resolution Number 20.

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Mr. Murray.

DELEGATE MURRAY: Mr. Vice President, I move that Resolution Number 20 be adopted.

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Members of the Convention, you've heard the resolution that the-the motion that theresolution be adopted. All in favor, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Opposed, NO.

(No response)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Motion carried. There being no objection, we will now move to Order of Business Number 3, Communications.

CLERK HANSON: "March 23rd. Constitutional Convention, State Capitol, Helena, Montana. My compliments to delegates at the Constitutional Convention, staff and advisers, in completing the arduous and difficult task of reviewing and recommending revisions in Montana's Constitution. The people of Montana have demonstrated an interest in updating their state governmental process, and the work you have done at the Convention will be a major step forward in enabling the State of Montana to meet its responsibilities in a time of complex and difficult issues. While I have not seen the final document, I'm impressed with the spirit of unity and nonpartisan nature of your deliberations. Congratulations and my personal regards to all on this momentous occasion. Regards, Mike Mansfield, Majority Leader, US. Senate."

(Applause)

CLERK HANSON: "March 23rd. Leo Graybill, Jr., President, Montana Constitutional Convention, Helena, Montana. As you conclude your efforts, please relay my personal regards and congratulations to the delegates to the Montana Constitutional Convention for a difficult job well done. Generations to come will benefit from your diligence and devotion to the best interests of the public we serve. Sincerely, Lee Metcalf."

(Applause)

CLERK HANSON: "March 22nd. Leo Graybill, Jr., Montana Constitutional Convention, Helena, Montana. On the occasion of the closing of the Montana Constitutional Convention, I would like to take this opportunity to commend each of the delegates on their efforts on behalf of the people of Montana. Their initiative and responsive attitude for the laws of our state is greatly appreciated. Sincerely, Richard Shoup."

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: If there is no objection, we'll move now to Order of Business Number 9, Special Orders. And members of the Convention, distinguished guests, we have a gentleman with us who's come a long way to attend these ceremonies, and we appreciateit, and it gives me great pleasure to introduce to you at this time the Chief Executive of the State of Montana, His Excellency, Forrest Anderson.

(Applause)

GOVERNOR ANDERSON: Thank you very much. Mr. Chairman, distinguished members of the Constitutional Convention. This historic Convention was a session of only 2 months, and in this abbreviated space of time, you have attempted to decide the great issues of Montana, now and for the future. You have thought, you have argued, and you have compromised; and now the result of your efforts, this new Constitution, belongs to the people of Montana. If you had the courage to make the changes that were necessary and the wisdom to avoid those that were not, Montanans will approve this Constitution. If the public interest was faithfully represented in your deliberations, Montana will approve this Constitution. And if you have provided for the protection of the rights of individuals, without placing unnecessary restrictions on government, Montana will approve the Constitution. I have not had an opportunity to study your work in its total and, thus, I don't want to comment at this time; but I know, having been in the Capitol and having watched you, you have worked hard; and I want to compliment every member of this august body, because you have done, in my judgment, that job which you were sent here to do. Your work, however, is not over. If I am correct, my judgment directs that you and all of us must, between now and June the 6th, sell this document to the people of Montana. You must sell this document the same way that I sold to the people of Montana the Montana Executive Reorganization Act. It was a tough job, but it was a good result; and I know you've had a tough job; and I think that you've done a good job; and I hope that you will go out and sell the efforts that you have used so extensively here-namely, a new Constitution-so that we can start a new era in this great state. During this Convention, you have received intense coverage from the news media, and I imagine that there are many delegates who now consider them politicians-consider themselves politicians. I assure you that if you, as delegates, attempt to use this Convention to further your immediate political ambitions, the efforts that you have made here will, in my judgment, be destroyed and chances for public approval of this document, a major document, will diminish in relation to the number who place personal considerations ahead of the sale of this Constitution. I ask you to go out and sell it, I think you've done a good job-and forget the politics for now. Let's get Montana moving forward, That was what you were sent down here to do, and I think up till now you have done a good job, and I hope-1 truly hope you continue to do a good job. In any place, any time, anywhere where you find it necessary or even advisable to call upon the Chief Executive to help you in the sale of this instrument to the people of Montana, please feel free to call on me. I will do everything I can on your behalf and on the behalf of the people of the state. Thank you very much, and God bless you.

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Members of the Convention and guests, it gives me great pleasure at this time to introduce to you an old friend and one known to all of you, the acting Chief Justice of the State of Montana, the Honorable John C. Harrison.

(Applause)

ACTING CHIEF JUSTICE HARRISON: Mr. Chairman, members of this historic Constitutional Convention. I want to tell you how delighted I am to be here to represent the Supreme Court on this occasion. I must admit that it's with some surprise, in view of what I have read in the papers for the past several months, and particularly this morning's paper-and a temptation to use these few minutes in rebuttal is great, inasmuch as I have you all here-but that we will not do. I am sure that if this document is approved by the State of Montana-the people of the State of Montana—there will be much occasion to use the Supreme Court in the years ahead. God bless you, and have a safe trip home.

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Thank you, Justice Harrison. We have with us this morning, members of the Convention and guests, a gentleman who drove 200-plus miles to be with us, the senior senator of the State Senate of Montana. He's been in these halls frequently during the past few weeks, not lobbying-observing and taking a profound interest in our proceedings. It gives me a great pleasure to introduce to you Senator James of Joplin.

(Applause)

SENATOR JAMES: Mr. Chairman, distinguished guests, ladies and gentlemen, delegates. It is my pleasure, in behalf of my colleagues in the Senate, to extend congratulations to the Convention, to your officers, in this auspicious event marking the completion of the drafting and the signing of the document that probably henceforth will be known as the Constitution of-the Montana Constitution of 1972. It is my hope and my wish, desire, and my prayer that after sufficient time has passed and after sufficient time has been taken by the public, including myself, to thoroughly read, study, analyze and digest this document, that it will be said that it is found to be adequate for our needs, sufficient for our liking and our desires, and that we may then be inspired to say, "The Constitution is well-written." You have done a good job, good and faithful delegates-a very, very good job. Thank you.

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Thank you, Senator James. The Honorable Thomas Haines, the Dean of the House of Representatives, is not with us, apparently. We had hoped that he would be able to make it; unless he's hiding in the back of the Hall someplace, we regretfully have to announce that Tom couldn't make it. The Honorable Earl Old Person, Chairman of the Blackfeet Tribal Council, was scheduled to be with us but, likewise, had to cancel out atthelastminute; butit gives me a great deal of pleasure to introduce to you the next lady, Mrs. Firman Brown. She has been in this proceeding since the beginning. She was a member of the Constitutional Revision Commission, the Constitutional Convention Commission. She has studied constitutional history and is writing a dissertation on that now at the University of Montana, and there probably is no one who has exhibited more profound interest and continuing interest in this process than Marge Brown. It gives me a great deal of pleasure to call on her at this time.

(Applause)

MRS. BROWN: Mr. Chairman and members of the Convention, it's a tremendous privilege to be here. I am sure I speak for hundreds of Montanans who, in official and unofficial ways, in their cities and towns and counties and at the state level, have hoped for many, many years that Montana, in our time, might rewrite a Constitution. From an historical view, I think no one can ever accuse you of borrowing piecemeal from anywhere. This is a Montana Constitution, the product of your labors. I think it's a fine Constitution. I have high hopes for the new beginning in public affairs in Montana-that you have laid the basis for us all. And many thanks to you and congratulations on finishing your endeavors with all the energy and dedication that you have evidenced. Thank you.

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Thank you, Marge. Miss Elaine Koyama has been with us before. She's the Governor of Girls' State, and we're very pleased to have her again. Elaine.

(Applause)

MISS KOYAMA: When I first heard that I was coming-or that I had the opportunity to come, my family and I sat down and my father said, "When I was your age, I wasn't even out of the county yet." He never had the opportunity to even come to the Capitol. And here I am: 17 years old, I have been working at the Capitol for 2 weeks previously, I am the Governor of Girls' State—which is a feat in itself-and I'm just filled with awe that Elaine Koyama is standing before you speaking on-at the Constitutional Convention, a document that you've put together that will be presented to the people. I will be able to vote for or against the Constitution-hopefully for. I know all the people that are here will be voting, and that means that the people who elected all the delegates and the people who are the delegates, and even myself, will be able to vote for what's going to be ruling us-the thing that is going to tell us what we can or cannot do, the thing that gives us our freedom and also restricts our freedom. That means, you know, that our United States is one of the few countries, the very few, that let the people decide. All I can say is "thank you", and thank you for working for all the people of Montana and, in turn, for the United States. It's a fantastic time to be here, and all I can say is "thank you".

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Mr. Chris Milodragovich is the Lieutenant Governor of Boys' State, and it gives me a lot of pleasure to call on him at this time.

(Applause)

MR. MILODRAGOVICH: Mr. President, honored guests, ladies and gentlemen. I'm certainly proud and pleased that I was asked to speak to you today. Very few young people have the opportunity to address this historic assembly. I feel particularly honored as the present Governor of Montana Boys' State--excuse me, Lieutenant Governor--and also as a new voter in Montana. Boys' State was one of the great experiences of my life, not merely because I was elected to a public office, but because I saw the workings of government really in action. As a result of Boys' State, I feel I am better prepared to meet the challenges of a young citizen in our great democracy. On behalf of all Boys' Staters and young people in general, I wish you well in your closing deliberations. We're all watching for your finished article and hope it will be one which we can accept for several generations. We realize your task is not an easy one. We applaud your hard work, your dedication; and so I shall close with a mere "thank you".

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: The delegates will recall that, earlier in January, before we convened, the YMCA Youth Constitutional Convention met in this room and drew a Constitution which we considered to be a model and which was a credit to these young people. We have the President of that Constitutional Convention with us, Mr. John Elliott. John.

(Applause)

MR. ELLIOTT: I'd first of all like to thank everyone for inviting me to represent the Youth Constitutional Convention. It's certainly an honor for me, and I'm sure the delegates will thank you for me also. It's kind of interesting that the constitution that we drew up was quite a bit different from yours. It's quite a bit different in a number of ways, mostly because it involves a lot of change. Good examples are that we almost completely appoint the major executive offices, and for the Judicial system we adopted a plan similar to the Missouri proposal, that I believe was introduced here. But there's a reason for this. That's because we weren't answerable to anyone but ourselves; and when you're in a situation like that, you can do just about anything you want; and we did, But you-you, in turn, are in quite a different situation. I always felt that when people criticized the Convention, they had to realize one thing—that you were walking a kind of tightrope-in between pleasing the voters of Montana who are, well, pretty conservative in nature, but at the same time wanting to change the Constitution to something more workable and viable. I think you've done that. You've changed it in many respects. You've done a lot of work, and I'd like to commend you for that work. And thank you again for inviting me to speak.

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Thank you, John. Our last young person--and you have-you see we have them well-represented here because they are the people who will be living under the document that we have written, if it is ratified-is Mr. Joe Holland, President of the Montana Student Association.

(Applause)

MR. HOLLAND: Thank you, Mr. Vice President. Mr. President, members of the Constitutional Convention, ladies and gentlemen. I'm going to make this real short, and I hope it will express my feelings toward this gathering of delegates. I come to you representing the Montana Student Presidents Association. These are the presidents of all the colleges and universities in the State of Montana, and as their representative, I hope I can speak as a representative of some 30,000.plus college and university students in this state. As a student body president from one of our units, I have been given a lot of feedback from various articles-news articles, TV articles, TV programs--on the work that the Con Con has done, and I must say that student reaction has been good. We are a group of very appreciative people in the work that has been set forth in the Constitutional Convention, and hopefully the students in the universities and colleges in Montana will be satisfied with your work and will accept it as their guidelines to proceed with another leg in Montana's history, this being the kickoff point in that important leg. For your work, your time, your effort, I thank you very much, on behalf of the-all the students in the state. Thank you.

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Thank you, Joe. Fellow delegates and distinguished guests, the brief remarks that I am about to make I consider to be the most significant and meaningful of anything I have said on this floor during this Convention. In the lifetime of all of us, we encounter a few rare individuals whose personal qualities elevate him far above those surrounding him. Since last November, I have been privileged to be closely associated with such a man. This Convention has completed its work within its allotted time and within the amount appropriated by the Legislative Assembly. I would like to remind the delegates, at this time, that this was accomplished without once resorting to the gag rule. The man to whom I refer cajoled us, but he never commanded us. When toughness was required, he exhibited toughness. In an enterprise where fairness was vital, he was invariably fair. When physical endurance was required, it was he who set the standard for others to follow. When patient explanation of complex issues was demanded, he never failed us. He was effectively stern, but inexorably patient. His anger never flared, and his sense of humor never failed. And, ladies and gentlemen, long after the rest of us were sleeping snug in our beds, this man labored over financial and administrative details. No item of unnecessary cost escaped his attention. Ladies and gentlemen, we meet here today to sign a great and progressive document which holds great promise for future generations of Montanans. In large measure, our accomplishment was made possible by the labors and the talents of this one man. Ladies and gentlemen, I give you your President, Leo Graybill, Jr.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Mr. Vice President and ladies and gentlemen of the Montana

Constitutional Convention. First of all, John, I want to thank you for what were, obviously, marvelously pleasant remarks from you. I hope I have done some things to justify them, and I want to say now that if this Convention has been able to operate well and in a bipartisan spirit, which we all talked about in November, it is largely due to the services of John Toole, who has done a great deal to help make the thing work in that vein, and I think we all appreciate the partisanship, I guess, ended with my election.

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: And for that we have John Toole to thank. I've also been interested in listening to the remarks of the administration and of the legislative representatives, and I agree with them that they should carefully read the document before deciding whether or not they are for or against this Constitution. I was most interested in listening to the remarks of these young people who have spoken to us, because they do represent-if we are successful here and if this is ratified, they do represent the people most concerned and the people for whom this Constitution will be long the basic law. But, actually, I come here today to talk with my friends, the delegates, and it's to you that I wish to address my remarks. We are about to complete our work here by signing the document we propose as the Constitution of the State of Montana. The part you have played in the drafting of it will be written in the history of Montana. As the one privileged to have acted as your chairman during these proceedings, I want to seize this opportunity to record some observations about this body and to praise you. Our weeks together here have been a courageous and a meaningful encounter. You know, when we first met in November, we were skeptical. We were novices, and we were unsure. You were, however, men and women of deep conviction and dedication to the cause of writing our new Constitution for Montana. You were dedicated to solving some of the pressing problems of our times, but also preserving the best of our present Constitution. We were a diverse group, eager to investigate, to draft proposals, and to take part in debate. Now, by your efforts and your knowledge, we have enlightened and educated each other and also others who have listened to our proceedings. Sometimes your proposals, individually, were accepted by the body or amended and adopted, and you have shown no undue pride or vanity. Sometimes your ideas were not fully accepted to the-by the body, and when the Convention rejected the ideas you advanced, you showed neither disappointment nor resentment. You simply perservered, and I commend you for it. Rarely has a group of men and women has it-had a task so pressing, so difficult and so monotonous; but that task was welcomed by you as a challenge and an opportunity to devise, revise and reshape the government of Montana. You have always gone ahead with the worthy goal of making Montana's government more responsible and more responsive to the people, both now and in the future. And so, I wish to offer you my sincere praise and congratulations for a job well done. I wish to commend you for your deep conviction and common sense, your clear judgment and heroic endurance, and above all, for your lofty and serene sense of duty, always with an eye to the future. The job of thinking, reasoning and writing this Convention is done. Now, I can only urge that you start working for its ratification on June 6th. We must personally reach everyone everywhere with the truths that are embodied in this document. It will not be easy, for the Constitution is not yet really understood. There are many who are skeptical of it and some who are hostile toward it, even without reason. George Washington said to the drafters of the federal Constitution before it was written-"If, to please the people, we offer what we ourselves disapprove, how can we defend our work? Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair. The event is in the hand of God." This body has raised the standard to which the wise and honest can repair. Benjamin Franklin, who also participated in that Convention, said of the work of the federal convention: "When a carpenter is making a table and wants to fit the boards together, he has to plane a little off from each edge." So, in this Constitution, each side would have to give way a little in order to fit together all the pieces of the new government. Here in the Montana Convention, this wisdom has been clearly shown. In the general spirit of compromise, our work has been completed. The Constitutional Convention has not been the work of any one man, nor has it been the work of the leading nine or ten men. It has truly been the work of all. Your ideas, your defense of your ideas have contributed, but so has your opposition to and your compromise with the ideas of others. And in the end, your acceptance of the counsel and thought of your fellow delegates has allowed us to generally agree on the principles we have included in our Constitution. And even though we hope we will walk out of this hall as a body agreed on this document, there may be some of us yet who will not sign, who cannot sign, having yielded more than they can reckon with. To any of those, I can only recommend your own conscience as a guide in your final decision; but those will be only a few; and I will respect their decision. To the others who happily signed and who worked toward this moment, I urge also your pledge to work for ratification. The document we have made is worthy of that effort, and I would like to repeat that the event is in the hands of God. My heartfelt good wishes for your continued interest and involvement in state government. Montana is worthy of that and of our efforts. Thank you.

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: I was about to ask Mrs. Warden and Mr. Murray to come to the rostrum, but they're already enroute. And, Mr. President, will you please come up here?

DELEGATE WARDEN: This is always the time of the goodies, and it gives me great pleasure on behalf of all the 99 delegates to present to the one delegate who has been our Chairman and our President and who has guided us through this, two gifts from the body. Would you open this first?

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: You sure I can open it? I don't know. Should I save the paper? Did the Convention buy it? (Laughter)

DELEGATE WARDEN: They threw that in for good measure.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: My goodness. My, it's a marvelous plaque. It says: "Leo Graybill, Jr., President of the 1971-72 Montana Constitutional Convention. In recognition of your fairness, dedication, and outstanding leadership. From the other 99 delegates." Thank you so much.

(Applause)

DELEGATE WARDEN: Leo, that was to hang on the wall of our office. This is to take home and enjoy.

(Mrs. Warden presented Mr. Graybill with a second gift)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Do I open it? Wow! The West of William H. Ashely, 1822-1838. I'm sure it's a historically significant document about the history of the West, and it's beautifully printed and engraved and bound in leather. I guess we'll have to build a library. (Laughter) It's marvelous. Thank you very much.

DELEGATE MURRAY: And now, Mr. President, on behalf of the other 99 delegates, may I read this letter to you: "The Honorable Leo Graybill, Jr., President, Montana Constitutional Convention, Helena, Montana. Dear Mr. President: We, the delegates to the 1971-72 Montana Constitutional Convention, hereby express to you our sincere gratitude for the excellent manner in which you have conducted the affairs of this Convention. We stand in awe at your physical stamina, mental ability, infinite patience and total fairness. Regardless of the ultimate outcome of our labors, we want you to know that, in our unanimous opinion, you have left a giant imprint on Montana's history. We wish you well and invoke Divine blessings on you all the days of your life. Sincerely."

(Applause)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Well, I must say that that's almost overwhelming, and I just want to thank you very much, and I want to say that there's never been a time nor a delegate that's ever had-done anything to make it hard, and I appreciate your sincere feelings here. Thank you very much.

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Members of the Convention, we will now proceed to sign our new Constitution; and at this time, I want to introduce someone to you, well-known to all of you, who is involved in the process of getting this document signed and recorded-Mr. Frank Murray, the Secretary of State. Frank, would you stand up and take a bow, please.

(Mr. Murray stood to receive the applause of the assembly)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Will the President now go down and sign the new Constitution and have his signature attested by Mrs. Bowman, the Secretary?

(President Graybill affixed his signature)

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Now, fellow delegates, as the clerk calls your name, so many delegates as wish to sign the new Constitution will please do so. The clerk will call the name of the delegates in alphabetical order, and I think you've been instructed on how to come up and what route to take getting back to your seats.

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Mr. Murray will now affix the official Seal to the Constitution.

(Secretary of State Murray affixed the Great Seal of the State of Montana to the Constitution)

MR. MURRAY: Your order has been obeyed.

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: Thank you, Mr. Murray. All-

(Applause)

VICE PRESIDENT TOOLE: All of the speculation about who would and who would not sign has now officially terminated. (Laughter) And with that, I will turn the Chair back to our President.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Without objection, we'll be on Order of Business Number 11, Announcements. The Chair has been asked to announce that, on adjournment, the four procedural committees who did not have pictures taken—we'll take some pictures right here in front as quickly as possible of the four procedural committees and the officers, as soon as we adjourn. The Chair has also been asked to announce that the printing presses have been rolling while we've been sitting here; and if you will all allow, the pages will, within about 20 minutes to a half an hour, put upon your desks 50 copies of the explanation of the Constitution and, for those who are from out of town, at least 25 copies of the Constitution. We're still stapling and we're not quite up, so those of you from Helena may have to pick up your copies of the Constitution a little later. We want those who are leaving town to be able to take as many as possible back with them. We've had-for the benefit of the audience-quite a difficult time stapling 10,000 copies of the Constitution. And if you will just be a little patient, within 15 or 20 minutes after adjournment, the pages will have put on your desks this material which you can take home with you so that you'll have it available. Are there other announcements?

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Very well. Mr. Eskildsen, have you a motion?

DELEGATE ESKILDSEN: Mr. President, many words have been spoken-many hours of deliberation, working from morning till night. Our job is now coming to a close. But from this hour on, we should dedicate ourselves to being available to our constituents so that they may find answers to the many questions that will be in their minds. Mr. President, there being no further business concerning the drafting of the proposed Constitution to come before us and our draft being completed and signed, I move that the Constitutional Convention at this hour, 12 o'clock noon, this day, March 24, 1972, be adjourned sine die.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: So many as shall be in favor of the motion to adjourn sine die, say Aye.

DELEGATES: Aye.

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: Opposed, No.

(No response)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: It's so ordered.

(Applause)

(Convention adjourned sine die at 12:00 noon, March 24, 1972)

PRESIDENT GRAYBILL: May I have your attention? Will you please remain standing. I, not looking at my green sheet, overlooked the benediction. At this time, the Most Reverend Raymond Hunthausen, the Bishop of Helena, will give us his invocation. Excuse me, Bishop.

BISHOP HUNTHAUSEN: Let us pray. Almighty God, our Father, in Your love You direct us to strive constantly for understanding, justice and love among ourselves. Mindful of this, we pray today that the sincere efforts made by this Constitutional Convention to improve the order and condition of our lives may effectively bring us closer to Your promised time, that time when true hospitality and peace will reign, when we shall beat our spears into pruning hooks and brother will not raise his hand against brother. We thank You, Father, for Your goodness toward us, shown in so many ways; for the freedom we possess in our beautiful and bountiful land. We thank You for the friendships that were forged here among our people, and especially we thank You for these dedicated men and women of the Constitutional Convention, struggling to bring more of goodness and peace, respect and dignity into our lives. Finally, we pray that You continue to give all of us, Your people, the strength necessary to persevere in our dedication, our love for You and for one another. We ask this in the name of Christ, our Lord, Amen.

INDEX

PREFACE

When the new constitution for the state of Montana was published after its ratification in 1972, it included an index compiled by the Allen Smith Company, publisher, which referenced topics to the article and section numbers. The index for the proceedings is based upon that constitution index, with additional and expanded headings to cover operation and proceedings of the convention, the biographies and committee assignments of delegates, and a broader topic index.

Action on the Style and Drafting Committee proposals, final consideration, and adoption are not included in the individual designations in most cases (except for the individual articles). Discussion at these stages covered an entire article or section by number, rather than referring to topics within the article or section. In cases where amendments were made, a reference is included.

Volumes I and II, containing delegate and committee proposals and information about the delegates and the operation of the convention, were prepared by the Legal Services Division of the Legislative Council and printed in typewritten form. Later the transcript of the proceedings was compiled and edited by the Legislative Council and typeset by Color World of Bozeman, Montana, with the transcript beginning with page 1. Because pages 1 through 1113 appear in both the preliminary Volumes I and II and the transcript, Volumes III through VII, the index identifies pages as Vol. I, pages 1 through 544; Vol. II, pages 545 through 1113; or Trans. (for Transcript), pages 1 through 3047. Numbers of the transcript pages in each volume are listed on the volume spine.

Article and section numbers cited within the transcript are the numbers which appear in the committee proposals and are not always in agreement with the numbers as they finally appear in the adopted constitution. When referred to in the index, the adopted constitution number is used.

I wish to thank Diana Dowling, Executive Director of the Legislative Council, and the members of the Constitutional Convention Publishing Committee for their patience when progress of the index was slow indeed; Jacqueline Terrell, Legislative Council Code Indexer, for advice and encouragement; Valeri Hanson, of the Legislative Council Staff, for setting up the format and typing the copy for printing; and Phyllis Cote and Marie Fuhrmann, Legislative Council Proofreaders, for proofreading.
