TERMS AND CONDITIONS

The Minoru Medical Education Society was incorporated on February 28, 2001 as a non-profit society under the B. C. Societies Act.

Consent to Use

All users of the Medical Education Society website (“Site”) are presumed to have read and consented to these terms and conditions of use which may be revised and updated at any time without notice. If you do not wish to be bound by these Terms and Conditions you should not use this Site.

Notice to Users

This Site is comprised of a public platform and a private members-only platform. The private platform is intended to provide information to our members about upcoming and past CMEs and a forum for opinion and informational pieces on topics related to the practice of medicine.

The public platform also displays non-exclusive invitations to medical education events and offers general information and content about the MMES which is not intended to be relied upon as medical treatment, diagnosis, or advice.

Ownership and Use

Unless stated otherwise, the MMES owns the copyright to all text, images, graphics, audio or visual recordings or web code (the “Content”) appearing on this website.

Content which is available and authorized by the MMES for viewing or downloading is intended for personal and non-commercial use only and is made available on a non-confidential “as is” basis. No portion of the Content may be transmitted, reproduced, stored, or used in any other manner whatsoever, in whole or in part unless it clearly displays the copyright or proprietary notice appearing at the end of such Content, and:

- 1) the MMES consents in writing to the use of the Content; or
- 2) the Content was created by a third party in which case the prior consent of the third-party creator must be obtained before being used or reproduced.

Functionality and other interactive areas appearing throughout the Site are intended to allow users to post, upload and transmit questions, reviews, comments, images, and other materials (“User Content”) for public viewing. Users acknowledge and agree that the submission of any User Content will not infringe upon any third-party rights and will, at all times, comply with the terms, conditions and policies contained on this Site.

Changes to this Site

By continuing to use this Site you are deemed to accept any and all changes, additions and deletions of any features or the suspension or termination of access or availability of any Content appearing on this Site.
