

TL;DR – WHAT THE HECK IS GOIN’ ON?

The Governor’s lactose-intolerant and petty about it, so now dairy is illegal. Problem: the village was literally founded by Father Gruyere, Cheese Dad Supreme, and everyone here is emotionally (and spiritually?) lactose-dependent. The streets smell like cheddar rebellion, smugglers are rolling illicit gouda under your feet, and there’s a suspiciously gooey “god” situation in the old factory. Choose your side: enforce the ban, join the cheese cult, or just vibe with the ratfolk mafia.

TWO CHEESY DESTINIES

Team Droolmont?

Ah, so you’re into authoritarian dairy bans and weaponized peppermint oil – bold choice, lactose-hater. You burn the factory to kill Muctopus, purging the cheese plague. The cult weeps, the air smells like funeral fondue, and the governor declares you lactose-free heroes.

Team Cheese?

Ah, a dairy freedom fighter with a taste for chaos – iconic. Start a full-on “ban the Governor” riot. Then – plot twist – someone in your squad was a snitch. Boom. Factory’s gone. The villagers? Kinda salty, kinda hyped. Sure, the heart of their cheese industry is crispy toast now, but they’re already swapping ideas for “Rebuilding Fondue Village (But Like, Hotter).”

WHY YOU’RE IN THIS MESS

- The Tavern Smeltdown – You were just chilling with a pint – then a coughing stranger shoved a WANTED poster of ratfolk at you, muttered something about “curd infestation,” and now you’re somehow on the governor’s payroll.
- Courier of Curd – A sweaty messenger handed you a letter like it was radioactive. Turns out it was – if “radioactive” means “covered in suspicious gouda grease.” Congratulations, you’ve been hired to stop a cheese plague before it becomes self-aware.
- High Steaks & Higher Stinks – Mid-gambling night, the Governor in gloves and a scarf bursts in, yeets a pouch of gold on your table, and screams about cheddar treason. Oh, and a piece of cheese fell out of his pocket. Subtle.

STARRING:

- Governor Droolmont (Lactose-Intolerant Autocrat) – Once biggest cheese stan, now its most dramatic hater. Runs the Ministry of Digestive Order like it’s a holy mission, but still confiscates suspiciously high-quality wedges for “research.”
- Hurd “El Fromagio” (Ratfolk Smuggler Kingpin) – Tavern owner, black-market dairy dealer, and walking cheddar commercial. Will help you if you help him, but somehow you’ll owe him three favors and a cheese wheel by the end.
- Anna of the Milkward Sons (Secret Traitor) – Outwardly, the robed, passionate face of Fondue’s cheese-worshipping resistance. Inwardly, she’s playing her own secret game.
- Cheddrick the Cheese Mimic (Snack-Sized Menace) – A wedge-shaped mimic that talks too much, bites too often, and thinks it’s your emotional support cheese. Mostly wrong about everything, but says it with confidence.
- Crazy Jalk (River Monster Enthusiast) – Smells like fish and cheddar. Might help you catch a giant fish or accidentally get you attacked by a river elk. Could go either way.

SAY
CHEESE!
INTRODUCTION

Instant Adventure for DnD.

Want the whole module?
The entire pdf includes extended descriptions of the adventure plot points, NPCs, monsters, places and so much more!
Get it via DTRPG or our website!

Governor Droolmont shoves a contract in your face and says, “Find where the haunted cheese is coming from before it eats my town.” Suddenly you’re chasing gooey monsters, dodging ratfolk smugglers, and trying not to join a dairy cult by accident.

You came to Fondue Village thinking it’d be a little cheese-town. Instead, you walked into a full-on Dairy Cold War: cultists in yellow robes, government cops with fork badges, and a tentacled brie monster in the basement. Welcome to the lactose apocalypse.

BRIEHMOT RISING
(AKA KNOW YOUR MONSTER)

Cheese Monsters You Might Meet in Fondue Village

- Gouda Golem – A towering golden wheel with stubby arms, molten cheese breath, and zero respect for personal space. Known to roll through roads like a dairy wrecking ball.
- Father Gruyere (Ghost) – The spectral founder of Fondue Village. Mournful, melodic, and ready to smack anyone threatening the cheese legacy.
- Muctopus – The primordial cheese mother, all pale tentacles and briny breath. She dreams in lactose and will judge whether you’re worth saving... or seasoning.
- Singing Camembert Choir – Eight sentient cheese wheels that guard the factory basement with riddles, harmonies, and sass. Pass their tests or get mocked in four-part harmony.